The Farm Front is a Fighting Front.....Too!

Teamwork WINS!

Teamwork in a Flying Fort . . . teamwork among land, sea and air forces . . . teamwork among the United Nations. "Combined Operations" they call it -- but that's only part of the story . . .
There's another kind of teamwork -- a team YOU can be on -- a team that's spelling defeat for the Axis. It's the Yank on the Fighting Front backed up by the all-out food production on the Farm Front. THAT'S the kind of teamwork the enemy can't match. With teamwork among our armed forces breaking enemy morale . . . and teamwork on the Farm Front BOOSTING United Nations morale . . . our boys on the Fighting Fronts have a reserve that guarantees victory. But the Farm Front is weaker this year. The farmer's own reserve - Manpower - has been hit hard.
He needs YOU on the team.
The farmer has planted his war quota crop. It's up to you townspeople to help harvest them. Get on the Farm Front team!
Help Win The War!

Every fighter needs a ton of food a year!

How many fighters will you help feed?

THE OLD JUDGE SAYS...

"The men overseas don't mince any words about the way they want to find this country when they come marching home... do they, Judge?"

"They certainly don't, Herb...and they shouldn't. They're doing a masterful job fighting over there to protect our rights and they have good license to expect us to protect theirs back here at home. One thing they're mighty clear on is their stand on prohibition."

"Their position on that subject was stated very emphatically in a poll taken recently among American service men in England by the British Institute of Public Opinion. When hundreds of men were asked point blank how they would vote on prohibition, 85% of them stated, in unmistakable terms, that they would vote against it. There's no doubt about it, Herb...the men overseas don't want any action taken on that subject while they're away."

"And they're 100% right, Judge, because I know how I felt when I came home after the last war—only to learn that we had been over there fighting for so impractical a thing as Prohibition."

You'll Get Pre-War Quality In The TWINE You Buy From Us This Year

Before the war binder twine was made from hard fibers such as manilla, sisal and henequen, but the Japanese conquests limited our sources of these materials. At the present time all binder twine processors are making such twine using approximately 12½% jute fiber and 87½% henequen.

However, this firm was fortunate in securing a stock of twine made from sisal before the WPB issued its general preference order prohibiting the use of sisal and manilla fibers in the manufacture of binder twine.

We will be glad to take your order for immediate delivery of binder twine as long as our stock lasts.

Will Sell This Prime Quality Twine As Long As It Lasts For

$6.45 per bale

Guaranteed for Length, Strength and Weight.
Will Give Satisfactory Service.
Runs Freely Through the Knotter without Tangling.
Treated Against Destruction by Insects.

Carefully Inspected in Manufacture to Assure Quality.
Put up in 8-pound Balls—6 Balls to the Bale.
Bales are Firmly Tied—Convenient to Handle.

It Pays To Buy Binder Twine On A Quality Basis - Not Price Alone

The tag day receipts are to be used in supporting various projects which aid, comfort and cheer service men and women.

QUICK WORK

Four hours after she lost her purse near Glenwood, an army major's wife on her way to Kentucky again had the article in her possession. The purse was picked up by two boys just as a motorist came along. The motorist took the purse to Red Oak and turned it over to Sheriff Zeph Morgan who wired the recovery to the Major. Later, the woman still in Red Oak reported the loss to the sheriff, who immediately gave her the bag with cash, travelers cheques, ration books, gasoline stamps and personal belongings.

KITTENS NOT ALOWED

Judy and Donna Devore of Des Moines visited recently in Indianola on their way to Lacona. When the two young girls started from their home they had planned to take their kitten with them. The bus officials, however, vetoed this idea. The kitten was left in the custody of a boy in the bus station who promised to be good to it.

THREE GOLDEN WEDDINGS

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Rossbach of Akron celebrated their golden wedding anniversary on June 18. Mr. Rossbach has two sisters also celebrating their golden weddings this year. Mr. and Mrs. Noah Schoonover of Boise, Idaho, on June 12th; Mr. and Mrs. Alley Hamilton of Alcester on August 4.

JAP CARD

A post card taken from a Jap soldier was sent to Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Nelson of Sheldon by Mrs. Nelson's brother, Corp. Jay Farnsworth formerly of Chatsworth. The Japanese stamp on the card showed a soldier's helmet with what appeared to be a dove of peace perching on it.

Growing Mash Efficiency

Many scientific investigations in recent months have demonstrated clearly and conclusively by feeding chickens rations containing the purified known vitamins, that there are unknown or unnamed vitamins, without which chickens will not reach their maximum rate of growth or retain their normal health.

BIG GAIN DEVELOPING MASH is fortified and standardized with an abundance of such natural ingredients as fish liver and glandular meal, dried milk by-product and dried whey solubles which have been found to be generous fountains for both known and unknown vitamins. It is accurately balanced with a variety of high quality proteins and essential minerals. It is complete, it is efficient, it is dependable, it gives results that satisfy.

Increase your poultry profits with BIG GAIN DEVELOPING MASH.

Need 300 Detasselers For Thompson Fields

Begin Detasseling Early Fields Today

The Thompson Hybrid Seed Corn Co. is still in need of detasselers for the 1500 acres of seed corn they have under cultivation this year. Approximately 300 detasselers will be needed by this company for the work which will take from two to three weeks.

The first crew begins work this morning on early fields, but many more detasselers are still needed. Men, women, boys, and girls are urged to sign up for this work. A wage rate of 60c per hour on week days and 80c per hour on Sundays is being paid the workers.

Transportation will be furnished from the Belmond City Park and other central points. The company asks that people expecting to do detasseling wait until they are notified by card or telephone to report for work by the company. Also, if they can't report on the date assigned, they are to notify the company so that other detasselers can be called.

Those people who have not yet signed for detasseling may do so at the Thompson Hybrid Corn Company office or at the Belmond Independent, local agricultural labor office.

Scout Troop Collects 2 Tons of Scrap Paper

The Belmond Scout Troop 16 collected around two tons of scrap paper in the drive conducted last Friday. When the paper was sold, it netted them a total of $19.12.

The troop under the direction of Scoutmaster Clark McNeal canvassed the entire town of Belmond. They were allowed the use of the city truck in hauling the paper away.

Meservey Boy Dies in Action

Lt. Rooks' Parents Were Notified Monday

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Rooks of Meservey received word from the war department last Monday that their son, Lt. Ardell Rooks, had been killed somewhere in India. It is believed he was flying one of the new B-29 superbombers of the Army Air Forces when killed in action.

Lt. Rooks, who is a graduate of Meservey High School, entered the service, June 8, 1942. He received his 2nd lieutenant's commission at the AAF advanced flying school at Douglas, Ariz. He received his primary training at Santa Ana, Calif., and his basic training at Merced and Moore, Calif.

Before he entered the air corps, he was employed by the Standard Oil Co. at Hampton. In November, 1943, he was married to Evelyn Hatch of Nemaha, who has been employed in California until just recently. Besides his wife and parents, he is survived by his sister Marilyn.

Four Accidents Involve Autos Last Week

Two Fail To Heed Stop Signs, Fined

Several automobile accidents occured in Belmond during the past week damaging the automobiles to considerable extent. None of the occupants received injury.

The car driven by Mrs. Hal Nourse and an auto driven by a service man from Grundy Center collided on Main Street Saturday morning.

The cars driven by Mrs. Tuck Parker and Oscar Thompson came together at the corner of the Congregational Church on Friday evening.

The crossing at Main Street and highway 69 was the scene of an accident Sunday morning when the car driven by Mrs. Don Craig of Mason City, collided with the car driven by Glen Foltz of Rock Rapids, Iowa. Mrs. Craig was fined for running through the stop sign on the highway. Other occupants in the Foltz car included Dell Woodburn, Harvey Hindt and Charles Hindt, all of Rock Rapids.

Earl Hammond, farmer living near Rowan, was fined for going through a stop sign Saturday evening. As he drove his tractor onto highway 69 just north of Solberg, he was struck by a truck owned by the Thomas Coughey Company of Fort Dodge, and driven by Charles H. Banks of Fort Dodge. Both the truck and the tractor went into the ditch and the vehicles suffered heavy damage.

Independent Will Print Pictures of Local Babies

The Belmond Independent wants a picture of every baby girl or boy in this trade territory so it can be published in this paper. To be certain that we receive a late picture and a good one, that will portray your baby just as he is now, we have made arrangements with the Woltz Studios of Des Moines, to come to Belmond on Tuesday, July 18, and take these pictures free of charge.

The studio will be set up in the Case Hotel and will be open to take pictures from 10 a. m. until 6 p. m. On this date a representative of the above mentioned studio will be here with all the necessary studio equipment, ready for taking pictures of the youngsters. There are no strings to the offer on our part. You don't have to be a subscriber to the Independent, and it is not compulsory that you buy any picture of your baby after they are taken.

We just want the pictures taken of all the youngsters that we can get, and the more the better. Parents of the children will be given the opportunity to buy pictures if they wish.

Fathers and mothers of Belmond and surrounding communities should remember the date and place, Tuesday, July 18, at the Case Hotel.

Nine Pound Fish Caught In River

Local anglers are finding the Iowa River a satisfactory fishing spot according to reports from three of Belmond's fishing enthusiasts.

C. C. Benson caught a nine pound northern pike last week This was one of the largest fish taken from the river this season.

Only four days before that Mrs. Emma Brewer had taken a seven pound northern from the river, and two days before Claude Johnson had caught a seven pound northern.

Teeke Lieuwen, 80 Years, Dies at Home in Belmond

Funeral services were held on Tuesday afternoon at the Methodist Church for Teeke Lienwen, who died at his home in Belmond Friday, July 7. Rev. H. W. Faris officiated at the services and burial was in the Belmond Cemetery.

Mr. Lieuwen was 80 years old at the time of his death. He farmed all his life, living on a farm 8 miles south of Belmond until a year ago when he retired and moved to Belmond. He was born in Holland and came to this country at the age of 4 years.

He is survived by his wife, Helen, 3 sons and 8 daughters. They are George of Goodell, Hert of Mason City and Donald of Belmond; Mrs. Hauko Barkema, of Garner; Mrs. Ralph Baker and Mrs. Maurine Pals of Belmond; Mrs. Gene Kelly of Oxford Junction; Mrs. Clifford Evans, Clarion; Mrs. Kenneth Parker, Webster City, and Mrs. Andy Jasperson, Glendale, Calif.

A brother, Peter Lieuwen, lives at Omaha. There are 28 grandchildren and one great grandchild.

Will Celebrate 50 Years of Married Life

Will Hold Open House To Their Friends

Mr. and Mrs. S. W. Luick will celebrate their Golden Wedding anniversary by holding open house to their friends and relatives on Sunday, July 16, between the hours of two and six, and seven and ten. The Open House is being planned for them by their three daughters, Mrs. A. W. Hill of Belmond and Mrs. Morgan Tuttle and Mrs. Ralph Watts of Clarion.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Luick were born at Belmond in 1873. Mrs. Luick was Nellie Bullis before she was married to Mr. Luick on July 19, 1894 at the Methodist parsonage in Clarion.

When they were first married, they lived on the farm where Mrs. S. U. Leinbach now lives. In 1899 they moved to their present farm home just east of Belmond. Besides taking care of his farm, Mr. Luick has done mason work in this vicinity until the last few years.

They are the parents of the three daughters already mentioned and ten grand children and three great grandchildren.

ENVIABLE RECORD

Fred Thompson, buttermaker at the Belmond Cooperative Creamery Company, has again this year won top honors in the workmanship contest sponsored annually by the Iowa State Brand Creameries Inc., and in winning this award for the third consecutive year has also brought credit to the local creamery.

Mr. Thompson's score this year was 99.49 per cent, the highest record ever made in this contest and leaves little room for possible improvement in the quality of Belmond butter.

Congratulations are certainly in order to Mr. Thompson and the Belmond Cooperative Creamery for this most enviable record in top quality food production.

PERIOD OF PROSPERITY—

It is our belief that this country is in for a great period of prosperity after the war. How great that prosperity will be depends to a large degree upon how many bonds the people of the country buy now. Replacements of every kind and character are needed in every line of business and the replacement of worn out equipment alone will furnish an immense back log of orders. In addition to this few are going to stop at merely replacing what they had before the war. They have bigger and more ambitious plans for bigger and better business. This sentiment, we believe, is general throughout the nation. It is fairly seething beneath the surface for the "Go" sign that will follow the war. We have managed the war pretty well. If we keep our heads and manage the prosperity period after the war as well, we are all going to profit from it.

OUT OF THE RUT

According to the Office of War Information, three-fourths of the service men who are being discharged desire different jobs than those in which they were employed when called into the service. There are many reasons for this. Their experiences have changed them, taken them out of their old rut or groove and they now feel free to make new choices. At the rate of about 70,000 a month they are entering war industries, but most of them have their hearts set on other jobs when peace comes. It means that there is going to be considerable shifting about when peace comes.

HOW DID HE GET THERE?

Most men who reach positions of high responsibility and trust in government affairs have attained those positions because they have learned for one thing to be smooth, polished diplomats. So we are wondering how that Englishman, Lyttleton, ever got to be British Minister of Production, after learning of the thoughtless remark he made, intimating that the United States had provoked the attack by the Japs on Pearl Harbor.

THE COST OF OPA

Chester Bowles, OPA's national administrator, recently disclosed the fact that the price control program alone had saved the public 22 billion dollars in civilian goods and services so far. That amounts to a saving of $169 for every person in the country just through 1943. By the same comparison of this war's prices with the last war, OPA industrial ceiling prices have saved the taxpayers an additional 67 billion dollars in government expenditures for building our vast military effort. That adds up to the impressive total of 89 billion dollars saved up to 1944, and the amount is growing every month.

On the other hand, the cost of all OPA operations for 1943, if divided evenly, would mean that it cost every person in the country $1.25, but that $1.15 which was invested by each citizen resulted in the saving of $169 just for civilian goods and services.

WITH OTHER EDITORS—

A great many people were astonished by the proposal of the Secretary of the Interior to give the government's twenty billion dollars worth of war industries to the returning soldiers. Of course this would involve a gigantic government-controlled holding company.

Giving away industries "would be a revised edition of the Homestead Act and the land provisions of the Reclamation Law," said the Secretary, although he admitted that perhaps the first directors of the experiment would have to be appointed by the government.

It is hard to see any similarity between such a proposal and the homestead law under which a man got a piece of land of which he was absolute owner, free of government interference or directors. The homesteader became an independent citizen owning a piece of property in fee simple, which he could dispose of if he wished and for any price he wished.

All a returned service man would own in this proposed giant holding company would be a paper stock certificate. The assets of the company would be made up of war industries, most of which could not be applied to peacetime pursuits without heavy reconversion investments. It is probable the service man would even be prohibited from selling his stock, in order to assure continued government monopoly and operation of the properties.

It looks like this proposal to "give" the service man something, is a blind to keep the government in businesss, using the service man as a tool to accomplish that end.—Belle Plaine Union.

There is no point in spending much time on deciding the precise punishment to be meted out to der fuehrer. Whether he is executed or imprisoned or sent away to a lonely island will have little effect on the future of Germany. Rather than to decide whether Hitler should live or die, the allies' efforts will have a much greater effect if they are directed towards steps that will keep future Hitlers from ever raising their war-making heads.—Mankato Free Press.

Prittle... Prattle....

Dear Gang:

This business of writing a column 2 weeks ahead of its publication date is a problem in one way. I haven't been keeping a copy and since it is almost a week before I see the one I wrote the week before, I find it rather hard to remember where I left off. I'll try not to repeat some of the things I have written about.

P—P

By this time I suppose Eva is with George in San Francisco and is finding the change a relief from the daily rush of getting out the paper. I am wondering if George will lock up the shop and forget it while she is there. That's what happened the last time he was home on leave—the "Fleet City News" just wasn't published.

P—P

So many of the letters from home have contained complaints about the unusually large number of flies, bugs, mosquitoes and other pests, all brought on by the heavy rains, no doubt. I have yet to see a mosquito or a fly in this vicinity and very few bugs fly around the night lights. That's one good thing to be said for Farragut.

P—P

Our training, since going off work week, has become even more intensified — classes and more classes — physical fitness and the obstacle course every day. When Sunday comes we are ready for a day of rest.

P—P

From all reports from my sidewalk observer in Belmond, the daily crowd watching the new Tip Top building going up rivals the famous kibitzers' gallery that gained national prominence at the time the Banker's Life building in Des Moines was under construction.

P—P

This last Sunday, Co. 608 was given a liberty of 15 hours for winning second place in the last week's 6-company competition. Some of the men went into Coeur d' Alene, others to Sandpoint, and two went to Spokane. The rest of us remained in camp resting or catching up on our washing or letter writing. Most of us have a pretty good case of dishpan hands by this time.

P—P

The b w. reports an ironic thing—the daughter has a cheap charm bracelet which came with some cakes of carved soap. One of the plastic charms is a V for Victory. . . on the reverse of said charm is stamped Made in Japan.

P—P

In one more week, Co. 608 will be the senior company of the 12 in the battalion. It doesn't seem, in some ways, that we have been in training for over 6 weeks, and in other ways it seems like years. For the most part, we're pretty well standardized by now. When one sleeps we all sleep, when one eats, we all eat, what one wears, we all wear and when one breathes, we all breathe.

P—P

I understand Belmond is to have a celebration this year. A carnival and everything. That's one thing I'm planning on when I get home—to take my daughter on the Ferris Wheel.

SPECIAL BULLETIN

—TO ALLIS-CHALMERS ALL-CROP HARVESTER OWNERS— AND FARMERS WITH SEED TO HARVEST

Seed is needed VERY URGENTLY

This is a call to action — now! Livestock feed reserves are running short due to the shortage of SEED for hay and pasture.

YOUR ALL-CROP HARVESTER CAN HELP MEET THIS EMERGENCY.

We urge you to enlist your machine NOW in the "Seed Task Force". We are gladly volunteering as headquarters. Register your harvester with us.

If you have no means of harvesting seed, contact us and we will try to put you in touch with a nearby Allis-Chalmers owner.

Millions of bushels of high-priced legume and grass seed have been shattering on the ground unnoticed. An All-Crop Harvester can save this valuable seed which might otherwise be lost.

We recommend that your machine be given the 24-POINT FARM COMMANDO CHECK-UP, which includes reconditioning and adjusting for a BUMPER SEED HARVEST.

It will PAY in a BIG WAY TO SAVE SEED . . . Let's get Ready to Roll. See us or phone —

Vows Spoken

Miss Cornelia Ann Ter Louw, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. John S. Ter Louw of Steen, Minn., became the bride of Reverend Henry B. Poppen, son of Rev. and Mrs. O. G. Poppen of Belmond, on Friday evening, June 23, in the Reformed Church at Steen. The bride's father, assisted by the groom's father, performed the double ring ceremony.

Miss Etta Marie Ter Louw, sister of the bride, played the nuptial music and accompanied Miss Margaret De Groot of Winnebago, Neb., who sang "I Love You Truly", and "Hold Thou My Hand."

For her wedding, the bride chose a formal gown of white satin made with net and lace yoke. She wore a fingertip veil and carried red and white roses tied with white streamers.

Miss Anna Poppen, sister of the groom was bridesmaid. She wore a blue satin floor length dress. Miss Mildred Ter Louw, sister of the bride, was maid of honor and wore a yellow satin floor length dress. Both carried colonial bouquets of seasonal flowers.

Attending Rev. Poppen as best man and groomsman, were his brother George C. Poppen of Belmond, and Esdert Smidt of Willow Lake, S. Dak., classmate.

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was given for the couple at the home of the bride's parents.

Mrs. Poppen is a graduate of Central College, Pella, Iowa, and has been teaching the past year at Holland, Mich. The groom, who attended the Academy at German Valley, Ill., and Central College, Pella, has been attending Western Theological Seminary at Holland, Mich. He will now have the pastorate at Ackley.

CREAK

"That reminds me, George—we must have the Standard Oil Man grease the car tomorrow!"

Mom's been hearing car squeaks lately, and to her ears that means it's time for a lubrication job. It's easier to replace worn-out grease than worn-out parts—and a lot cheaper.

Any motorist—man or woman—can keep a car running right, running longer, and running farther on every gallon of gasoline. Just take it to a Standard Oil Dealer. He's trained in wartime car-saving service.

* * *

Remember, it's going to be a long time before you can replace your car. Don't neglect it.

A Tribute to Our Children

TO PUBLISH PICTURES OF LOCAL CHILDREN

Pictures of the children of this city and surrounding community are to be printed in this paper as a special tribute to our young citizens. Tomorrow the responsibility of guiding the destinies of the world will be placed upon their shoulders. All are invited and urged to participate in this featured event. Among our children are those destined to fame and fortune, so let's not omit any of them!

Every parent should cooperate to make this a colorful and inspiring exhibit. You can cut out and keep these pictures of every youngster in the community. They will always be treasured keepsakes and cherished memory records that could not be acquired in any other way.

You are all guests of ours, and all photographs will be taken free of charge.

We have made arrangements with the Woltz Studios, nationally known portrait photographers, to come and take the pictures right here in town. You do not have to order photographs, subscribe to, or be a subscriber to this newspaper, to have your pictures taken and run in this featured event. All that is necessary is that the children be brought by their parents to the photographer on the date and at the location mentioned below. Proofs of all poses will be submitted to the parents, and cuts of approved poses will be prepared, identified, written up, and printed in this paper.

The Studio will also take pictures of adults and family groups, and submit proofs without charge, but these pictures will not be published in the paper.

If photographs are wanted for yourself it will be necessary to arrange for them direct with the Studio when proofs are submitted for examination because they cannot be obtained through this paper.

Remember, all children must be accompanied by parents or guardians.

HERE IS THE TIME AND PLACE TO HAVE YOUR PICTURE TAKEN FREE OF CHARGE.

TOMORROW'S PROMISE . . .

War has brought a new appreciation of old values.

The railroads, for example. They are Indispensable. Never have they meant so much to so many people.

But we in the railroad industry are not satisfied merely to be doing a good emergency job.

This war has made us realize, more than ever, the tremendous force that is under our direction — its mighty hauling power; its flexibility; its absolute indispensability to our community life, to our country, to our allies.

When the world again turns to peaceful pursuits, America's railroads will provide a post-war transportation service finer than any you have ever experienced.

For the railroads have clearly demonstrated their ability to perform and to progress. They have transported millions of additional tons of freight with no appreciable increase in rolling stock; carried millions of fighting men with but little inconvenience to essential civilian travel.

The war is still to be won, and the ROCK ISLAND is resolved to see it through. But we envision a post-war era of rail transportation that will be as gratifying as the performance of the railroads in war-time.

PATRIOTISM

You can earn extra money this summer and help farmers meet wartime food production goals at the same time.

Every woman who works on a farm—full or part time—in the farmhouse, farmyard or fields—is a member of America's great Women's Land Army. It's something you can do—by yourself and for yourself—something you'll be proud of.

Think it over. Figure out how you can devote the maximum amount of time to this kind—YOUR kind—of war work. Then stop in at the Recruiting Center and talk it over. Resolve to help yourself and help to win the war now.

THE OLD JUDGE SAYS...

"Judge, I've had a lot of calls for that book you took out last week...'Tell the Boys Back Home'. How did you like it?"

"Fine, Sarah, fine... it's just the kind of book I like to get hold of...I enjoyed every word of it. Wish I could have been along with the author myself... actually living with the men right on the fighting fronts. He got mighty close to them and they certainly opened up their minds and their hearts to him."

"There were lots of new things in the book I hadn't seen in any other reports from front-line writers. But there was one question the men asked the author that I have seen time and time again in these stories. That was 'Are you going to put prohibition over on us soldiers again...and without getting our vote?'"

"I noticed that, too, Judge, and I think the least we can do for those fighting men who are doing so much for us is to respect their wishes on that subject."

Not an A Card in Ye Group

Wherever they went, they walked ... on guard at every step. Hardships taught our forefathers the virtue of self-reliance and the need for co-operation. Thus, in the humble cradle of privation, the spirit of our Democracy was born.

Our enemies foolishly ignored the enduring influence of our Nation's heritage when they jeered that we were too soft to fight. Little did they dream that, almost overnight, free men could perfect the finest and best-equipped fighting forces the world has ever seen.

So, today when good citizens see an A card on a windshield, they recognize it as a symbol of what people can accomplish who have learned from experience to work together to attain a common objective.

That same spirit will win this war—and in peacetime that same unity of effort will keep America strong and prosperous for our men and women now on the fighting front.

In addition to supplying the armed forces with glider and bomber fuselage frames, wing parts, gun turret parts and foodstuffs, Anheuser-Busch produces materials which go into the manufacture of: Rubber • Aluminum • Munitions • Medicines • B Complex Vitamins • Hospital Diets • Baby Foods • Bread and other Bakery products • Vitamin-fortified cattle feeds • Batteries • Paper • Soap and textiles—to name a few.

Most folks are more tired than usual when they finish each wartime day. A bottle of golden, foaming Budweiser is a welcome companion in a moment of relaxation—and it makes simple, wartime meals taste better.

CREAM
BUTTER

That is the workmanship score on Belmond Butter produced during the past twelve months by the

BELMOND COOPERATIVE CREAMERY

Out of a possible 100 points, Belmond scored 99.49, the highest score ever received in the contest sponsored annually by the Iowa State Brand Creameries, Inc., in which more than 90 creameries in northern Iowa and southern Minnesota compete. This is the third consecutive year the local creamery has been awarded top honors in this efficiency contest. The scores of the local creamery in 1942, 1943 and 1944 are the three highest made in the 17 years Iowa State Brand Creameries has operated.

A. L. RONNEBERG, Manager of the Iowa State Brand Creameries has this to say about the award to the local creamery.

"Every creamery which has a buttermaker with a rating of 98.50% or higher should certainly feel well complimented in their choice of a buttermaker. It is through the efforts of these men in so ably handling your cream that we are able to sell your butter to the highest advantage. This all means more dollars in your pocket."

FRED L. THOMPSON
Buttermaker

"For the third consecutive year, Fred L. Thompson, buttermaker at the Belmond Cooperative Creamery of Belmond, has distinguished himself as a master buttermaker.

"The winning of such an award in the buttermaking profession is highly significant of careful, accurate workmanship. Fine workmanship does not just happen but is accomplished by hard work and attention to details of manufacture. Out of a possible 100 points, Mr. Thompson had an average yearly score of 99.49."

R. C. WEAVER, Butter grader for Iowa State Brand Creameries and Member of Faculty of Iowa State College, Dairy Dept.

THIS SCORE IS BASED ON THE SKILL OF THE BUTTERMAKER AND HIS ASSISTANTS IN CONTROLLING

1. THE MOISTURE CONTENT OF THE BUTTER WITHIN THE NARROW LIMITS AROUND 16.2 PER CENT STANDARD.
2. THE SALT CONTENT AT 2.5 PER CENT STANDARD.
3. THE ACCURACY OF WEIGHTS OF THE TUBS OF BUTTER.

OBITUARY

Osbon Young

Osbon, son of Evan and Elizabeth Young, was born in Fulton, Co., Ill., March 20, 1855.

When a lad his family moved from Illinois to Iowa in a covered wagon. They settled with Evan Young's father northeast of Iowa Falls. Osbon spent the remainder of his youth in that vicinity.

He was united in marriage to Ethelena Brogan on Oct. 1, 1879, at Hampton, Iowa. To this union six children were born, a son, Oscar, having died in infancy. After five years of farming near Iowa Falls, they moved to a farm in Wisner Township in Franklin Co., about seven miles northeast of Alexander. That part of the country was then raw, open prairie with only one house between the Young farm and Alexander.

The family lived in the same section until 1914 when they moved to the new home that they had built in Belmond. Mr. Young has resided in Belmond since that time. Much of the time since he moved to Belmond Mr. Young worked at the carpenter trade. Even shortly before his death, though 89 years of age, he was still at the job.

Mr. Young has been a member of the Methodist Church for many years. He was a member of the Masons and Eastern Star for over 42 years. He has been a member of the Belmond Chapter since 1928, having before been a member at Thornton.

Mr. Young was interested in the good of the community. His kind and friendly disposition made for him many lasting friends.

Mrs. Young preceded her husband in death two years ago, on October 22.

Since Decoration Day Mr. Young has been in failing health. Last month he wrote in a letter that he felt he was getting to be an old man.

On Tuesday, June 27, he became bedfast. On Saturday eve, July 1, 1944, at 6:30 p. m. he passed quietly into eternal rest.

He leaves to mourn his departure: one son, Dr. Howard O. Young of Spokane, Wash.; four daughters, Mrs. Zella Russell of Belmond, Mrs. Belle Brower of Harmattan, Alberta, Canada, Mrs. Millie Friesleben of Stanhope, and Mrs. Garnet Tracy of Des Moines; one brother, Lewis Young of Hastings, Neb.; and three sisters, Mrs. Mary Brogan of Whittemore, Mrs. Martha Webster, Mankato, Minn., and Mrs. Emma Stevens, Belmond. Also 16 grand children, 20 great grand children, and other relatives and a host of friends.

Detasselers At Work In Thompson Fields

Peak Will Be Reached Next Week

Detasseling crews for the Thompson Hybrid Corn Company have been in operation for the past week. More workers will be added each day until the peak of the season is reached some time next week.

Detasseling started in the J. R. Christie field. Workers are now located in the fields of A. C. Hinman, Earl Swenson, Ed Thompson, George Thompson, Harm Braner, Wessel Braner, James Finn, Percy Swenson and A. C. Lieuwen.

Belmond help is being used as far as possible, but it will be necessary to bring in help from the surrounding towns of Garner, Alexander, Dows and Rowan before the season is finished.

Several school boards have been cooperating with the company in allowing them to use the school buses for transporting the detasselers to and from the fields. Both Belmond buses are in use as well as two buses from Thornton, one from Meservey, and one from Hanlontown.

About half of the detasseling fields are located around Belmond. Other fields at Webster City and Clear Lake are also being detasseled at this time. There will probably be about 400 detasselers in the Thompson fields at the peak of the season.

The Thompson Co. is also carrying on its corn breeding program at Belmond. "Chuck" Wilmarth, graduate of the University of Illinois, is in charge of this work. Gene Wilmarth, Chuck's brother, who is in charge of some of the breeding plots for the University of Illinois, is helping here at Belmond this week until the Illinois plots are ready.

Hold Services For Mrs. Dirtje Bruns Thursday

Funeral services will be held this afternoon at the Immanuel Reformed Church east of Belmond, for Mrs. Dirtje Bruns, who died Tuesday, July 18. Rev. O. G. Poppen and Rev. E. Kampmann will be in charge of the services and burial will be in the Immanuel Reformed Cemetery.

Mrs. Bruns was born in Germany in 1857. She came to the United States in 1894 and has lived just east of Belmond since that time with the exception of about eight years when she made her home in Meservey. She was 87 years old at the time of her death.

She is survived by two children, Mrs. Alvin Halfpop of Belmond, and Chaplain Bruno Bruns of Nor[illegible], Virginia, and seven grandchildren.

Mrs. Arlo Stoltenberg and family spent the week end at the Henry Stoltenberg home at Hayfield.

Prepare Fruits For Freezing

Make Space In Lockers For Vegetables

Refrigerated locker space should be free now for the oncoming supplies of fruits and vegetables to be frozen if other products have been used when they were in prime condition.

Miss Elizabeth Deihl, county extension Home economist, emphasizes the fact that frozen foods retain prime conditions of vitamin content, color and flavor for a limited length of time.

Frozen foods stay in prime condition, if wrapped and stored at zero degrees F. for periods ranging from 3 months for sausage and ground meat to a year for vegetables and fruits. Frozen fresh pork, veal and fish will stay in prime condition for 6 months; beef and lamb, 8 months, and poultry and eggs, 8 months.

Freezing saves time and preserves the fresh-food flavor better than any other method of preservation. A zero-degree storage temperature helps to retain flavor and color, allows less exchange of odors between products and more completely freezes sugar and sirup packs on fruits. When storage temperatures are above zero degrees F. frozen foods lose their prime condition in shorter time.

Miss Fannie Gannon, extension home management specialist at Iowa State College, suggests that if locker owners plan the year-round use of their lockers, foods will be used while they are in prime condition. That will mean plenty of room for meat at butchering season, poultry when it is at the desired stage, and vegetables and fruits when they are available fresh.

With a shortage of frozen food lockers, each user has a responsibility to use all the space. What is more, full lockers cost no more than those that are only partially filled, Miss Gannon points out.

Open Golf Tournament At Iowa Falls Sunday

A one-day open golf tournament will be held at the Highland Golf Club at Iowa Falls, Iowa, on Sunday, July 23. Prizes of war bonds and stamps will be awarded the winners. There will be twenty-seven holes medal play for tournament championship, and fourteen holes medal play for veterans and shortwinders.

Qualifying rounds must be started before 10:30. Anyone interested in participating, may inquire of M. E. Ellefson, tournament manager, Iowa Falls, Iowa.

Annual County Nursing Banquet Held Thursday

Finish Two Years Work In Wright County

The annual Nursing Service Banquet was held at Clarion Thursday, July 13 to celebrate the completion of the second year that the Wright County Nursing Service has been in operation. The purpose of this service is to work with the doctors, with the Public Health Nurse, and to assist and to help maintain a high standard of health in Wright County.

Rev. C. L. Duxbury of Belmond gave the invocation. Mrs. W. G. Knox of Dows presided as toastmistress. Chairman, Mrs. Lynn Thompson, introduced the following state officers who were present: Dr. F. J. Austin, Medical Director of Health District No. 5, Fort Dodge; Miss Elizabeth Wyes, Advisory Nurse, and Mrs. Eva Hague, Assistant Director of Public Health Nursing. Mrs. Barbara Mosely of Goldfield sang two numbers.

Related county service officials reviewed Public Health Nursing from their standpoint. Those speakers were C. W. Sankey, county superintendent of schools, Miss [illegible]abeth Deihl, county home econ[illegible] Mrs. Carl Bottoms, Clarion [illegible] home nursing chairman, [illegible] County Supervisor H. C. Pink-

Homer Stutters presented several marimba numbers before the address by the guest speaker, Lt. June Reed, who is now stationed at Schick General Hospital at Clinton. Her address was on "My Experience as an Army Nurse Over Seas."

Miss Wilma Soehren, Wright County Public Health Nurse, gave a talk relative to her work in the county and the cooperation she is receiving in the promotion of her work.

During the business meeting, Mrs. Art Draheim gave a report on the meetings and their objectives for the past year. Jay Vendelboe as chairman of the nominating committee reported and presented the names of Mrs. Lynn Thompson as chairman; Mrs. W. G. Knox as vice chairman; and Mrs. Art Draheim as secretary and treasurer. The following were elected as council members for a three year period: Dr. Paul Sims, optometry; Mrs. Walter McPeak, Renwick, to represent the Northwest district of the county; and Mrs. Harold Johnson of Belmond as representative for the Northeast District. These people are unanimously elected to the respective offices. A motion was carried that the Council recommend to the Board of Supervisors that Miss Soehren be rehired for another year.

Urges Citizens To Save Paper

Intensify Waste Paper Campaign

Governor Bourke B. Hickenlooper has issued a proclamation designating the months of July, August and September as a period for an intensive waste paper salvage campaign.

The production of war materials and the supplying of our armed forces make an increasingly large demand on the supplies of paper, and unless waste paper collections increase sharply during the balance of 1944, many paper mills will have to close down. The war effort will be endangered and paper allocated for civilian uses will be curtailed even more sharply.

Governor Hickenlooper asks that all citizens of the state put forth special effort and give cooperation to the fullest extent to the local salvage committees for waste paper collection. He also asks that this effort not be confined to this period alone, but that it continues for the duration of the war.

"Four Jills In A Jeep" Shows At Lyric Theatre

In October, 1942, four young ladies set out from Hollywood on one of the greatest adventures of their lives, entertaining at military camps overseas. They were Kay Francis, Carole Landis, Martha Raye and Mitzi Mayfair.

They were flown to England, where they staged their show the length of the little island. Enroute they entertained troops in Bermuda and Ireland. While they were in England, the invasion of North Africa became an accomplished fact and they promptly added the foxhole circuit to their trip.

Emergency Farm Labor Volunteers Are Listed

A total of 691 people have volunteered, up to Monday, July 17th, to do emergency farm work of detasseling, grain shocking and other emergency work, according to the Wright County Farm Labor Office.

The bulk of these people are boys and girls and women who are willing to help out during the rush season of farm work.

Registration for volunteer work so far from the various towns in the county are as follows: Belmond, 111; Clarion, 231; Eagle Grove, 201; Galt, 5; Goldfield, 58; Rowan, 7; Woolstock, 4, and from other neighboring towns, 31.

Names were still being listed at the Belmond Independent Office, local farm recruiting office, this week.

Former Belmond Girl Studies Physis-Therapy

X Meredith Nordschow, who is a former Belmond girl and is a sister of Mrs. Paul Jenison of Belmond, was recently sent by the Methodist Hospital in Des Moines to Northwestern University at Chicago for an advanced nine months course in physis-therapy.

Meredith is a technician graduate of the Sister Kenny Institute at the University of Minnesota in connection with the polio treatment.

Following the completion of the course, she will return to Des Moines and will be located at the new Methodist Hospital for crippled children.

With The Boys In Service

RECEIVES AIR MEDAL

The Belmond Independent recently received a letter from Mrs. Inez Shroeder stating that her son, Lt. R. J. Hake, had received the Air Medal. The article quoted from the Los Angeles Examiner follows: Second Lt. R. J. Hake, formerly of Belmond, Iowa, now a first Pilot on a B-24 Liberator bomber of the 15th Army airforce operating over Europe, has been awarded the Air Medal for outstanding exploits on bombing missions. In June he was awarded two Oak Leaf Clusters to the Air Medal and advanced to First Lieut. He has completed 36 missions without a scratch to any of his crew members or himself.

His mother also sent part of a letter written to her by him. It reads as follows:

Somewhere in Italy.

Dearest Mom:

Am sitting under a tree with a board across my lap for a table. Nice in the shade but very hot in the sun. Waiting for the other crew to bring my ship in. Then will check it to be ready for my mission tomorrow. We go on a mission every other day if everything is O. K. and the weather permits. Our camp isn't at all bad. The morale much better than I expected. Have good eats. One Sunday we had all the fried chicken we could eat. The country is very beautiful. The red poppies cover the fields just like the dandelions used to back home. One day I didn't have to work, a couple other guys and I took motorcycles and a lunch and went on a cross country trip. Explored an old Monestary that was built in the early 17th century. In very good shape considering its age. Have had some very good trips. So far, luck has been with us. Have been on 36 missions and so far not a one of us have come back in any different shape than we left. If my luck holds out may be spending Thanksgiving with you. Keep your fingers crossed.

So far haven't seen anyone from home but I keep looking.

Keep writing real often. Letters sure help a guy a lot and I'll drop you a line at least, real often.

Don't worry about me. I'm O. K. Just take good care of yourself.

Your loving son,
Roy.

Memorial Services Held For Meservey Boy

Killed In Plane Crash In China

X Memorial services for First Lieutenant Ardell E. Rooks were held Sunday afternoon at the Evangelical church in Meservey with Rev. S. H. Roser, officiating, assisted by Rev. E. Kampmann. Lydia Fischer, soloist, sang "Sometime We'll Understand," and "In The Garden."

Ardell Eugene Rooks was born August 6, 1930 at Goodell, Iowa, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward H. Rooks. Two years later the family moved to Meservey, where Ardell grew to manhood. He attended the Meservey Consolidated School and graduated from the Meservey School with the class of 1937. After grauating he did farm work, and later was employed by an uncle, Louis Foss of Hampton, for the Standard Oil Company.

Lieutenant Rooks was inducted into the army April 1, 1942. He was stationed in turn at Santa Ana, Visalia and Lemorse, Calif., at which places he received his preflight, primary and basic training, respectively. He took his advanced training at Douglas, Ariz., where he received his wings and bars on July 26, 1943. From there he was sent to Hobbs, New Mexico, then to Victoria, Kansas. Ardell went overseas in April, 1944. For some time he was in North Africa and later stationed in India. On June 15 he piloted a B-29 over Japan during the raid of that date.

Lt. Ardell Rooks was united in marriage with Miss Eveleyn Hatch of Nemaha, Iowa, in the First Presbyterian Church, Kansas City, Mo., November 26, 1943.

Surviving are his wife, Evelyn, his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward H. Rooks, his sister, Marilyn, and his grandmother, Mrs. Augusta Guth. A brother Orville August, preceded him in death. (M)

WOMEN ARE DOING IMPORTANT JOBS

If there is any question in your minds about the important part American women—at least some of them—are playing in this war, we have only to remind you that many of them are doing vital jobs practically on the front lines. Recent pictures and news reels released from the European war front show Red Cross workers and Army nurses on the job caring for wounded men directly behind the fighting lines in France. And there wasn't anything glamorous looking about these pictures either—the women looked tired and dirty even though they kept smiles of cheer and encouragement on their faces.

POLITICAL CAMPAIGNS AND WAR ISSUES—

The important thing in the coming political campaigns will be the attitude of the two major parties on world affairs. The choice will be made between future participation by this nation in world affairs or isolationism. If a position of isolationism is taken it will simply mean that the country will adopt a hands off policy similar to that which followed the last war and under which Hitler built the big war machine that we later had to prepare for and face. If the choice of world participation would mean that our own interests would be neglected or jeopardized obviously no one in the country would favor it. Even though we choose to retain an active interest in world affairs we can still at the same time see to it that at home we are kept strong and well prepared. In fact the stronger we are and the better prepared we are at home the more influence and respect we will enjoy in world councils. The big job of the future is preventing another war like this one, and we should not shrink from assuming any responsibility that might contribute to such prevention. It is better to spend ten dollars in peace time for preparedness that might prevent a war, than one dollar to prosecute a war after it has come. A program of isolation would be a backward step. We have too much evidence of its failure to be guilty of a repetition of it.

NATIONAL FARM SAFETY WEEK IS JULY 23-29—

The man-days of labor lost through farm accidents in 1943 alone could have produced the nation's entire wheat crop for one year.

The number of farm people killed by accidents in America's first two years of war was greater than the number of American fighting men killed on all battlefronts in the same period.

Those facts were cited by the National Safety Council in urging nationwide observance of National Farm Safety Week July 23-29.

Purpose of the week is to focus national attention on the need for year-round prevention of accidents that waste farm manpower and production vital to victory.

The Council and all agencies concerned with agriculture and farm life have joined in sponsoring the farm safety week, which has been proclaimed officially by President Roosevelt.

"Loss of life and limb by accident among our farming population has already reached an appalling figure," said the President, "and the risks have lately been increased by longer hours of work and consequent fatigue.

"It is essential to our war effort that this waste of vital farm power be minimized in every possible way.

"I, therefore, request all persons and organizations concerned with agriculture and farm life to unite in an effort, during this National Farm Safety Week, to stimulate among farmers a full realization of the need for constant attention to the old and familiar precautions against the hazards of their calling, and also to awaken in them a sense of responsibility for the proper instruction in rules of safety of the many young and inexperienced persons now being employed on farms in all parts of the country."

WITH OTHER EDITORS—

Whoever writes a history of this present war some years hence should not overlook the miracle of production that has been accomplished by industry and agriculture in this country in converting from a peace-time to a war-time basis.

Such a right-about-face in a dictator-ruled country would be merely a routine matter, but when it is accomplished in stride by a democracy it is a miracle, the like of which this country nor the world has never before witnessed.

Such an accomplishment by free Americans without the lash of a dictator marks American business men and farmers as patriotic men and women and reveals the American way of life as the most flexible and the most satisfactory form of government in the world.

Of course we hear complaints from some people because they are expected to do certain things that the government deems necessary to carry on the war, but in the main Americans have accepted the conditions under which we are temporarily living as necessary and have followed through gladly.

We in this country, where most of us live close to the soil, know very little first-hand about the magnitude of the job which industrial centers have witnessed, but we have seen equally marvelous results accomplished on our broad acres and in our feed lots.

Fayette county farmers can hold their heads up just as far and stick their chins out just as far as the captains of industry in the large manufacturing centers.—Fayette County Union.

Do you recall that during World War No. 1 it was predicted that our oil reserves would be exhausted in 14 years? But, as a matter of fact, we have more reserves now than we had then. Shortage of oil is an old story. Back in 1874 it "was discovered by the Pennsylvania state geologist that we are runnning out of oil," and in 1880 the same official reported "less than four years of oil reserves." Maybe John D. Rockefeller had something to do with getting such reports circulated.—Webster City Freeman.

All commentatorss agree that the war can be ended by this fall or early winter, as far as Germany is concerned. This view is so universal that the basis in fact must be solid.—Kossuth County Advance.

There will be an immense amount of construction work to be done in Europe after the war. Americans will probably be in it up to their ears. With so many million homes, stores and factories destroyed, so many million miles of roads ruined, it should be a paradise for contractors. Architects, construction workers, carpenters, masons and so on, will be required on an unprecedented scale.

Very likely thousands of Americans, with ancestral roots in western and southern Europe, carried back by this military invasion, will want to stay there when the war is over and help rebuild the "old country."

The resultant mingling and ideas may be interesting.—Oelwein Register.

Prittle... Prattle...

Dear Gang:

How is it going by now with Eva gone? I have been thinking about you a good many times and wondering about this and that. I expect that by the time this is published, I shall be walking into the office for the first time in nine weeks. That seems like a long time!

P—P

When you read this, the Battle of Farragut will have been won. We thought this would have been accomplished a week ago, but the schedule has been revised and companies up to 738 were held a week longer. We may say that the casualities have been light.

P—P

Some of the men were sent home for flat feet, migraine headaches and other reasons that are censored. It would seem that the induction stations could save the government a lot of money if they would be more thorough in their physical examination it looks as if they were just passing the buck.

P—P

As we go into our last week, Co. 608 is the senior company in the battalion of 12 companies and we find ourselves increasingly busy. We have to be on the ball and ready for anything that might come up. It is the week for final classes and drill, taking examinations, turning in of ordnance gear, washing our hammocks, seabags and ditty bags, restenciling our clothes and seeing to it that everything is clean and shipshape. For all of us, the class in which we learned the best route on which to go home and then order our tickets, was the most interesting in the whole course as it definitely marked the beginning of the end of "Boots."

P—P

I have been anticipating turning a hand in the back shop a day or two while I'm home, so don't be surprised if I walk in all ready for work. I hope to give Wallace a vacation of a few hours, at least.

P—P

Our barracks have been situated so that we have seen every graduation company from Camp Bennion leave since the morning of our arrival. We can easily remember how we wondered if that day would ever come for us. Sure enough, it did. At least, it's almost here!

P—P

I must tell you about our recruit petty officer getting mixed up with twins the other day. He had detailed a man in the company for special duty and a short time later found his twin brother sitting on a bunk. Not knowing about the twin, he proceeded to light into the fellow in typical top-sergeant style for not carrying out the duty to which he had been assigned. When the fellow finally got a word in edgewise and made it clear he wasn't the man, our R. C. P. O. had a very red face.

P—P

Incidentally, Doug Walrod, who is in the company in the same barracks as I am, will graduate the day after we do and will be home about the 21st. The morning his company leaves will be one morning that Co. 613 will not wake up Co. 608, which situation has been quite an issue between the companies.

P—P

This certainly strikes me as a punk column. I can't seem to get my mind in gear— perhaps I'm too busy thinking about Tuesday morning at 0927 when I'll be boarding the Great Northern for St. Paul and Home. Until then, that's 30.

OBITUARY

TEEKE LIEUWEN

Teeke Tjard, son of Tjard and Nellie Lieuwen, was born at Tercheling . Province, . Nordholland, Netherland on June 26, 1864. In 1868, at the age of 4 years, he came with his parents to America. After the long journey and many experiences in a strange land, the family settled near Ackley. Mr. Lieuwen spent his youth around Ackley and Dumont.

On August 29, 1895 he was united in marriage to Helen Frey at Dumont. To this union 11 children were born, one daughter having preceded her father in death.

In the year 1904 the family moved to a farm in Hancock county, 4 miles west of Meservey where they resided for more than forty years. They retired from farming and moved to Belmond in the spring of 1943.

During most of his life time Mr Lieuwen enjoyed good health. Over two years ago his health began to fail. Since moving to Belmond he has been confined to his home. The last two weeks he suffered various complications which caused his death. He bade farewell to this earth to take upon him the cloak of eternity on Friday afternoon, July 7, 1944 at the age of 80 years and 11 days.

Mr. Lieuwen was a man who was devoted to his home and family. His greatest happiness was derived from the companionship of his children and grand children. He was cheerufl, kind and considerate. During his sickness he was ever hopeful that the next day would be a better one and he would be able to get around. He was very patient. Though he had much discomfort with his illness he did not complain.

He leaves to mourn his departure, his wife; three sons, George and Donald of Belmond and Bert of Mason City; seven daughters, Mrs Hauke Barkema, Klemme, Mrs. Ralph Baker and Mrs. Joe Pals of Belmond, Mrs. Gene Kelly of Oxford Junction, Mrs. Andy Jasperson, Glendale, Calif., Mrs. Clifton Evans of Clarion, Mrs. Kenneth Parker of Webster City; one brother, Peter Lieuwen of Dumont; 27 grandchildren, one great grandchild and many other relatives and a host of friends.

Funeral services were held at the Methodist church in Belmond, officiating minister, Rev. H. W. Faris. Interment was in Belmond cemetery.

READING & WRITING

BY Edwin Seaver AND Robin McKown

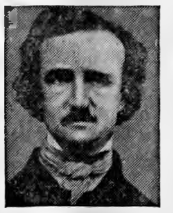
The picture on the left-hand corner of this column is usually that of a contemporary writer. This week we are giving the space over to one of our favorite authors of all time. Edgar Allan Poe is a good example—though by no means unique—of an author who couldn't earn a living for himself during his own lifetime and has been earning one for publishers ever since.



EDGAR ALLEN POE

He had a desperate time making ends meet, wrote stories, poems, articles, book reviews, even on one occasion a newspaper hoax story about a trans-Atlantic balloon flight—anything to keep the pot boiling. After his death, just 95 years ago, his reputation grew enormously and he became recognized as one of the world's great writers. Imagine his amazement, were he living today, to find his stories distributed as a book-dividend by the Book-of-the-Month Club in a nice little edition of about 300,000 copies. This particular edition of "Tales of Edgar Allan Poe" is especially notable for its introduction by Hervey Allen and its 39 beautiful wood engravings by Fritz Eichenberg.

Adventurous readers, who like to keep in touch with what our younger authors are writing, will want to look into a book titled "Cross-Section," and edited by the first-named writer of this column. "Cross-Section" contains six novelettes, 17 short stories, two full-length plays, a critical essay, and 26 poems—none of which has ever been published before—contributed by some 40 authors. Some of these authors are well-known, Richard Wright, for instance, whose novelette "The Man Who Lived Underground" is his first work of fiction since his famous novel, "Native Son," published some years ago. Ira Wolfert, Pulitzer Prize winning correspondent, and author of one of the best novels last year, "Tucker's People," also has a fascinating novelette, "My Wife The Witch." One of the plays, "The Man Who Had All The Luck," by Arthur Miller, will reach Broadway next September. Many of the contributors to "Cross-Section," however, have never been published before, and it is interesting to note that several have already been offered contracts for novels by leading publishers.

How foreign diplomats gauge world events: Once back in 1940, Ambassador Joseph C. Grew relates in "Ten Years in Japan," he was attending a French Embassy gathering, when Baron Fain, the Embassy Counselor, approached him to ask how his golf was going. "Why is it, my dear Baron," said Grew, "that whenever a colleague or a Japanese opens a talk with me, instead of commenting on the weather he almost always asks about my golf?" Fain replied, "Why, Mr. Ambassador, your golf is the thermometer which measures the temperature in the Diplomatic Corps. If a week goes by without your playing golf, the fact is cabled to every chancellery the world over, for the situation is then indeed critical!"

Good service, fair dealing and plain friendliness—these are the things farmers value in doing business with Wehrheim's

FARMERS as a whole, we've found, have mighty sound reasons for anything they do. Farming is risky enough without trusting to luck needlessly. Hundreds who sell cattle, hogs, sheep and horses through Wehrheim's at Webster City year after year can give good reasons why they do.

LOOK AT IT from your own standpoint. As hundreds of satisfied farmers can tell you, that you can be sure of fair, reliable grading and right prices. Val Wehrheim has a reputation for those things—built up during 25 years of service to the farmers.

WE PROVIDE a ready market for your livestock 12 months of the year. That's because people who buy depend on WEHRHEIM. They buy time and again. You deal with men who know the business from your side. You'll like the friendly, helpful service you get.

OF COURSE, there are other good reasons, too, why hundreds of farmers—many right in your locality—like selling through Wehrheim's. There is the convenience of selling close to home—the pleasure in dealing with men who have grown up in the business.

IN ADDITION, you'll be glad to know that a large percentage of all stock sold through Wehrheim's finally goes to UNCLE SAM, to our boys in uniform. Next time you sell cattle, hogs, sheep or horses—try Wehrheim Sale Barn at Webster City.

ASK FOR THE DOLLARS AND CENTS proof of what others are doing to make their selling operations more economical. We'd like the opportunity to prove to you, too . . .

"It pays to sell through Wehrheim's"

TO OUR BUYERS—Our sales have volume enough to provide buyers with any amount of stock of different classes. Always glad to have you buyers attend our auctions.

FOR YOUR CONVENIENCE — We are open Saturday nights for your service or proceeds will be mailed if desired.

FUNDAMENTAL BAPTIST CHURCH

J. Lester Williams, pastor

Some people like to think that there are many ways to Heaven. So we have the many popular false cults which promise Heaven to men and send them to Hell. But we have Christ's infallible Word "I am the way, the truth, and the life: no man cometh unto the Father, but by me." John 14:6; "Neither is there salvation in any other: for there is none other name under heaven given among men, whereby we must be saved." Acts 4:12.

Mid-week service of Bible study and prayer each Thursday at the church at 8:15 p. m.

Sunday school at 10 a. m. We were much encouraged by the good attendance at Sunday school last Sunday. Keep the good work up.

Preaching services at 11 a. m. and 8 p. m. Young People's meeting at 7:15 p. m. All members and friends of the congregation are cordially invited and urged to come worship at these services.

COUNCIL PROCEEDINGS

Belmond, Iowa, July 18, 1944

Special session of City Council in City Hall, members all present, Mayor Kennedy presiding The Mayor declared this meeting is called for the purpose of holding hearing on Budget Estimate for the year 1944 and to transact any other business that might properly come before it.

Be it remembered that on this the 18th day of July, 1944, the Council of Belmond, Wright County, Iowa, met in session for the purpose of a hearing upon the Budget Estimate as filed with this board. All members were present. Thereupon the board investigated and found that the notice of the time and the place of hearing had, according to law and as directed by the board, been published on the 6th day of July, 1944, in the Belmond Independent, a newspaper published at Belmond of said County. No taxpayers appeared at this hearing to oppose the Estimate and no complaints were filed thereon. Thereafter the board took up the Estimate for final consideration and, after being fully advised, the board determined that said Estimate should be in words and figures as stated therein. The vote upon final adoption of the Budget Estimate was as follows:

Ayes: Hanson, Meints, Hardwick, Mennenga, Kinseth. Nays: none.

Thereupon the Mayor declared the Budget Estimate duly adopted and the Clerk was directed to certify the same to the County Auditor.

No further business coming before them, on motion and second Council adjourned.

CARRIE L. COURTNEY,
Clerk.

HELPING WIN A WAR

Food is going to help win this war—that's why we're producing more pigs this spring than we ever have and are going to get a decent price for them this fall!

Here's something to keep in mind—a sow needs a lot of minerals to suckle a litter, and pigs need a lot of minerals to build big frames. Dr. Hess Hog Special contains essential minerals—minerals that are often deficient in grain—add Hog Special to your ration.

Give Hog Special to the sows—give it to the pigs just as soon as they start nibbling grain. We believe you'll find Hog Special will help you make still more out of those hogs.

Under Rationed Driving
Lubricate Every Month By The Calendar--? YES
By The Speedometer--? NO
Here's Why!

Lubricants are affected by time as well as miles Rain and slush wash away chassis lubricants. Dust, sand, grit, settle into lubricants whether car is in use or in the garage. Lubricants dry out, harden, oxidize.. Washing the car also removes precious lubricants.

Under restricted driving, time not MILES should be your lubrication guide. Lubricate chassis every month not every 1000 miles.

On motion adjourned to meet July 6, 1944.

T. J. HENRY, Chairman,
F. ROSS HENRY, County Auditor.

Clarion, Iowa, July 6, 1944

The Board of Supervisors of Wright County met in adjourned session at the courthouse in Clarion with the following members present:

T. J. Henry, Chairman; A. W. Smith, Wm. Fisher, Chas. Helden, H. C. Pinkham, with the County Auditor in attendance.

Moved by Smith, seconded by Fisher, that beginning September 1, 1944, a cash allowance of $35.00 per month be granted to William Lewns Parsons for a period not to exceed eleven months, or until the termination of his training at Elgin Watchmaker's College, Elgin, Illinois.

This action is taken in conjunction with the Vocational Rehabilitation Division, and is to supplement funds made available by the Rehabilitation Division. Motion carried.

Quarterly reports of R. V. Goslin, Clerk of the District Court; Roy E. Wilson, Sheriff; F. Ross Henry, County Auditor; Grace L. Fletcher, County Recorder; were presented to the Supervisors and upon motion by Pinkham, second by Smith, were approved and ordered filed.

Moved by Fisher, seconded by Helden, that a mortgage deed, recorded in Book 96, at page 18, be released of record, same having been paid in full. Motion carried.

Moved by Helden, seconded by Fisher, that the State Comptroller be requested for permission to transfer $19,000 from the Poor Fund to the Secondary Road Maintenance Fund, and that upon receipt of approval from the Comptroller, the Auditor be authorized to make the said transfer. This transfer is the final payment on the $50,000 which was transferred from the Secondary Road Maintenance fund in 1933. Motion carried.

Semi-annual report of the County Treasurer was presented to the Supervisors and ordered placed on file.

Moved by Pinkham, seconded by Fisher, that the following budget estimate be proposed for 1946 and that 1:30 o'clock p. m., on August 8, 1944, be the time at which taxpayers will be heard for or against said proposed budget:

Clarion, Iowa, July 5, 1944

The Board of Supervisors of Wright County met in adjourned session at the courthouse in Clarion with the following members present:

T. J. Henry, Chairman; A. W. Smith, Wm. Fisher, Chas. Heiden, H. C. Pinkham, with the County Auditor in attendance.

Moved by Smith, seconded by Fisher, that beginning September 1, 1944, a cash allowance of $35.00 per month be granted to William Lewns Parsons for a period not to exceed eleven months, or until the termination of his training at Elgin Watchmaker's College, Elgin, Illinois.

This action is taken in conjunction with the Vocational Rehabilitation Division, and is to supplement funds made available by the Rehabilitation Division. Motion carried.

Quarterly reports of R. V. Goslin, Clerk of the District Court; Roy E. Wilson, Sheriff; F. Ross Henry, County Auditor; Grace L. Fletcher, County Recorder; were presented to the Supervisors and upon motion by Pinkham, second by Smith, were approved and ordered filed.

Moved by Fisher, seconded by Heiden, that a mortgage deed, recorded in Book 96, at page 18, be released of record, same having been paid in full. Motion carried.

Moved by Heiden, seconded by Fisher, that the State Comptroller be requested for permission to transfer $19,000 from the Poor Fund to the Secondary Road Maintenance Fund, and that upon receipt of approval from the Comptroller, the Auditor be authorized to make the said transfer. This transfer is the final payment on the $50,000 which was transferred from the Secondary Road Maintenance fund in 1933. Motion carried.

Semi-annual report of the County Treasurer was presented to the Supervisors and ordered placed on file.

Moved by Pinkham, seconded by Fisher, that the following budget estimate be proposed for 1945 and that 1:30 o'clock p. m., on August 8, 1944, be the time at which taxpayers will be heard for or against said proposed budget:

THE OLD JUDGE SAYS...

"I don't blame the fellows overseas for getting all het up over it, Judge. For the likes of me I can't see what's all the hurry about holdin' these local prohibition elections while they're away."

"I agree with you, Steve. Time after time... in their letters, in articles, in polls taken to get the views of our fighting men... they have indicated in unmistakable terms that they don't want any action taken on prohibition, either local or national, until they get back."

"Too bad there isn't a law or somethin' to be sure their wishes are carried out, Judge."

"There is in one state I know of, Steve. Just recently it passed a law prohibiting the calling of any prohibition election until a year after the peace is declared."

"That really makes sense to me, Judge."

Home Made Mashes

Many poultry raisers find it convenient and profitable to make their own poultry mashes with their home grown grains and poultry concentrates when the chicks have grown out of the starter period.

Big Gain 32% Poultry Concentrate is made according to the tested and approved recommendations of the country's leading poultry laboratoriess and practical poultry specialists, to combine with your home grains into the most efficient and profitable poultry mashes. It solves the difficult problem of combining high quality proteins, the intricate problem of providing the proper abundance of the various vitamins and the delicate problem of providing the right amount of the right minerals.

It has become a regular with many who have found it efficient, dependable, profitable. They will accept no substitute.

Ask your dealer for a Big Gain catalogue, with formulas for home mixing.

Take 10,000 Fish Out of Backwater

Over 10,000 fish were saved from backwater on the Louis Oberhauser farm and returned to Morse Lake last Thursday by a group of volunteers who scooped them from the slough with buckets.

During high water Morse Lake had overflowed onto land that last year had been a corn field. As the water receded, the fish remained in the lower places. The group of volunteers scooped the fish into a tank that was placed on a truck, so they could be hauled to the lake. Most of the rescued fish were bullheads and included all sizes.

The rescuers were Kemmett Stewart and sons, Daryl, Ronald and Phil, Stanley Shupe, LeRoy Shupe, Geo. Telford, L. Oberhauser and son Louis, Harry Eihl and Mr. Butler and Mr. Dagget who are from Clarion.

Demonstration Teams Receive Help On Work

Miss Gladys Adams, of the state 4-H Club staff, gave help to ten demonstration teams representing nine clubs, Friday, July 21st.

Youth Inspect Club Projects; Annual Tour

Belmond Boosters Elect New Officers

The Belmond Boosters met at the Roy McClure farm at 10:00 o'clock Thursday, July 20th and began the annual club tour. Robert, Donavan and Joyce McClure showed the group 7 club calves, 3 being Angus and the others Herefords. The next stop was at L. B. Oberhauser's where Jean and Louis showed the club three Shorthorn heifers.

Stewart's was the next stop where the Stewart boys showed the market lambs. From there the group went to Jack Campbell's, where they saw his Hereford club calf, and then continued on to the Tyrrell farm to see Dwight's market pigs.

The club gathered in the city park for a picnic lunch. During the business meeting the following officers were elected: president, Doris Christie; vice-president, Jean Baker; secretary, Nadine Hanson; treasurer, Jean Oberhauser; reporter Kenny Lerdal.

After lunch the tour continued to see Nadine Hanson's dairy heifer and then to Jack and Jean Baker's club projects, which are two Angus and two Herefords. The next place was Percy Swenson's where they saw Gerald and Donald's purebred pig litters. The tour progressed to Hinman's where George showed his market pig litter, and continued on to Doris Christie's to see her two Shorthorn calves.

From there the club went to Bill McLaughlin's to see his dairy heifers, and the last stop was at Lloyd Lerdal's where they saw Janet's two Angus calves and Kenny's three Hereford calves, one dairy heifer and two market lambs.

Mr. A. R. Bowman, the county extension director, was present and gave comments and suggestions to the members for their projects. There were fifteen members, the club leader, Preston Tyrrell, and the assistant leader. Lloyd Lerdal present on this tour.

Johnson In Belmond

Home From N. Atlantic

Shoots Rabbits in England

After spending the past twenty-one months at naval bases in the North Atlantic, Clifford Johnson, second petty officer, has returned to Belmond to spend most of his thirty day leave with his father, Ben Johnson and other relatives and friends.

Johnson arrived in Boston July 13 from a naval base in England where he had spent the past nine months. He was notified of his return to the United States three hours before time to leave. During his stay in England, he had visited many historic spots in England, Scotland and Wales. Nearly every place he visited had been hit by German bombs. Among the places he saw on his tours, were Buckingham Palace, London Tower, London Bridge, St. Paul's Cathedral, Westminister Abbey, the Big Ben Clock and Hyde Park.

He was in London during the March air raids. He said that there were many taxis in the city, but they were all the size of a Baby Austin. Bicycles were very plentiful. Nearly everyone there wears a uniform of some kind. The people impressed him as being well dressed for having been in the war the past five years. Everything is rationed there, however, with the exception of antiques and jewelry.

The entire British Isles impressed him as being far behind the [illegible]. Most of the people still [illegible] fireplaces, and the homes [illegible] with fireplaces built in [illegible]. The hotels and res[illegible] more modern, but none of the hotels were heated. If a patron wanted his room heated, he rented an electric heater.

When he first landed on the British Isles, he was being fed on RAF rations, which he said were very inferior. In order to have decent food, he and several of his company drove into the country in a jeep to shoot rabbits. They took their mascot dog "Skipper" along with them on these trips. There were a good many rabbits, so they managed to keep from starving. When the U. S. rations came, the food was much improved.

The countryside in the islands was a beautiful sight to "Cliff." Many different flowers grew wild there. The fences were made of stone and hedges, and were covered with flowers, and every lawn was decorated with them.

Some of his trips took him to Glasgow, Birmingham, and Bristol. He liked the Scotch and Welsh people better than the English.

The first year of his overseas duty was spent on Newfoundland, which he said was "the worst place on the face of the earth." The living quarters were excellent, but the climate and scenery were very bad.

Before he left England, he watched the troop and supplies leaving for the invasion. During that period, everyone was required to carry their gas masks with them at all times.

Johnson will report to Gainesborough, Georgia, at the end of his leave for his new orders.

Organize New Local Service Women's Unit

First Officers Elected At Meeting

The Belmond Unit of the United Service Women of America met at the City Hall Tuesday evening for election of officers. The following officers were elected: president, Mrs. George Brady, vice-president, Mrs. Harley Thompson; secretary, Mrs. James C. Waddington; treasurer, Mrs. Lois Murray; historian, Mrs. Ethel Ross; chaplain, Mrs. Henry O. Johnson; sgt.-at-arms, Mrs. Fred McBride; parliamentarian, Miss Cecilia Holtzhauer.

This is a new organization in Belmond, but is affiliated with the state organization which has been in service since Pearl Harbor. It is open to all women of this city and rural routes of Belmond having father, sons, husband, brothers, sisters or daughters in the armed forces of the United States. All eligible women are invited to attend the next meeting, the time and place of which will be announced at a later date.

Army-Navy Pictures Displayed In Windows

A display of service men's pictures can be seen in the windows of the C. C. McGuire store and Hokel's Cafe. The Navy Mothers Club is sponsoring the display in McGuire's window which includes men in the navy and marines. There are around 150 pictures in that window.

Pictures of men in the army are being displayed in the window of Hokel's Cafe. Anyone who has a picture he would like placed in the window may do so. The display will remain in the windows for several days.

County War Chest Group Meets Friday

Will Plan For Campaign This Fall

A meeting of the Executive Committee of the Wright County War Chest will be held at the Court House in Clarion, Friday evening, July 28 at 8 o'clock. A representative of the Iowa War Chest, Inc. will be present to help with any explanation that is needed.

The executive committee is made up of representatives from all the towns in the county, and representatives from the rural districts. Belmond representatives are Thomas Hood, Ed Kennedy, Mrs George C. Hansen and W. R. Ramsay.

The district meeting was held at Algona the first of July at which time the accomplishments of the National War Fund were discussed. Plans were also explained for the campaign this fall.

Wright County completed a successful campaign last year, going over its quota, and the committee is hoping for as much response again this year. The campaign will start some time early this fall.

Funds received by the Wright County War Chest will go toward the USO, War Prisoners' Aid, the United Seaman's Service, and to the relief of civilians in our United Nations, civilians, of Russia, Britain, Poland, Greece, and other similar appeals.

RECEIVES LETTER FROM SON

Mr. and Mrs. Julius Johnson received a letter from their son, Pfc. Leslie Johnson which reads as follows:

Dear Mom and Dad:

Well, here I am on Saipan. I imagine you had guessed that already. I'm okay, except a little tired and kind of dirty. I suppose you read accounts of the battle in exaggeration. This was really a hot spot, and I had all the close chills that I care for from here. I don't know just what will happen, but I really want a furlough now.

We've had a few letters since we've been here, and there should be more in soon. Yesterday I shaved for the first time since June 20. We just haven't had time for things like that.

Harvey Barkema is here now and I'm going to try and locate him. Harmon Klemme and I had a few days together back in the Islands too. We flew 200 miles from one Island to another and back again. We rode in the tail turret of a bomber. Well I have to quit now.

All my love,
Les

Error—Ration Office Not Open Any Evening

An error in the Independent last week stated that the Ration Office was open two evenings a month The Ration Office is never open in the evenings.

Instead, the article should have stated that there is a meeting of the price panel of the OPA on the second and fourth Wednesday evenings of each month. Anyone wishing to file a complaint of an overcharge of ceiling prices may call at the Ration Office between the hours of 7:30 and 9:30 p. m. on those evenings.

Construction of Homes Still Can Be Possible

A limited amount of residential construction is still possible, aside from that in defense areas, Holger Holm, state director of Federal Housing Administration, said recently.

"This might be said to be emergency construction," Mr. Holm said, "since it is available only for those who can show a hardship or emergency. The War Production Board and the National Housing Agency have jointly issued a memorandum of agreement in which it is set forth that 'Housing may be provided to relieve present or impending personal hardship to a specific individual or his family. Personal hardship means only hardship arising from increase in dependents or consolidation of the family, or considerations of health, physical disability or safety.'"

Applications for authority to perform construction or for priorities assistance are made to Federal Housing Administration, Omaha, Nebraska, Mr. Holm said.

County Rural Young People Plan Picnic

Program, Games Feature Entertainment

All young rural married folks of Wright county are invited to attend a picnic program and pot luck dinner at the Clarion Recreation Park, south of the swimming pool on Sunday, July 30th at 12:30 noon.

The general invitation to all rural young married folks of the county and their families is issued by the committee of Rural Young Married Folks in charge of the picnic.

Families are instructed to bring two covered dishes, one-fourth cup of sugar, sandwiches and table service. Hot and cold drinks will be furnished by the committee.

A recreational and social program has been arranged with kittenball, horse shoe, relay races and group games for the whole family. Supervised swimming will be available for the children at the Clarion Municipal Pool.

The committee of Rural Young Married Folks in charge of the picnic is: Mr. and Mrs. R. G Stryker; Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Robie; Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Drury Mr and Mrs. Don Brisbin; Mr and Mrs. Kendall Jacobson; Mr and Mrs. Frank Anderson; Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Lindsey and Mrs. Martin Crovisier.

Dr. R. T. Coe Buys Seed Business From Father

Dr. R. T. Coe, formerly of Belmond, has purchased the Seed House and Seed cleaning plant from his father, Ed Coe, at Ames. Iowa.

Dr. Coe was a resident of Belmond for several years, during part of which time he was mayor of Belmond. Two years ago he sold his veterinary practice to Dr. H. J. Classick and moved to Ames where he has been associated with his father in the seed business.

Service Men Receive Gas For Furloughs

Allowed One Gallon For Each Day

A new policy on granting gasoline rations to members of the armed services on leave or furlough has been announced by the Office of Price Administration.

A member of the armed service on leave or furlough for a period of three days or more will now be entitled to one gallon of gasoline for each day of his leave or furlough up to a maximum of 30 gallons. The new rule replaces one granting a flat five gallons to every member of the armed services on leave, furlough or pass, regardless of the length of the leave.

It has become evident that the old policy, which resulted in giving much more gasoline to a member of the armed forces who got short leaves than to one who received one long one, was unfair to the man serving out of the country and returning after a long absence. To eliminate this unfairness, the new rule tailoring the amount of the ration to the length of the leave or furlough was worked out by OPA in conjunction with representatives of the Army and the Navy.

Furlough rations will now range between a minimum of three gallons for a three-day leave or furlough to a maximum of 30 gallons for 30 days. At the suggestion of the Army and Navy, no ration will be granted for passes to Army or Navy personnel for leaves of less than three days.

"Up In Mabel's Room" Will Be Shown at Lyric

"Up In Mabel's Room," one of the latest comedy hits, is coming to the Lyric Theatre Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, July 30 and 31 and August 1.

The trouble all starts over the fact that in his weaker moments in the company of Gail Patrick, as Mabel, a charming widow, Dennis O'Keefe, the somewhat mousy husband of 30 days standing of Marjorie Reynolds, gives Miss Patrick a dainty slip upon which he has had embroidered an affectionate greeting, including a facsimile of his signature. It is all very innocent, but his wife becomes suspicious when he makes desperate efforts to recover the unmentionable.

The situation is complicated by the fact that Miss Patrick is engaged to Lee Bowman who is O'Keefe's business partner. O'Keefe engages Mischa Auer to get the slip by fair means or foul at a week end house party. Almost everything happens after that, including a final assembly of three men under Mabel's bed at the same time.

Plan Canning Clinic In Belmond August 5

The second series of canning clinics in Wright county will be held the week of August 1st to 5th. Women are invited to come in and ask questions concerning canning problems, have pressure cooker guages tested and receive the new canning bulletins.

Approximately two-thirds of the guages tested at the first clinics were found to be inaccurate. This not only makes a difference in the processing but is an element of danger to the home canner.

Miss Elizabeth Deihl, county extension home economist, will conduct the clinic in Belmond at the ABC Store on Saturday, August 5th, from four to six, and from seven to nine.

Representatives Survey Housing Situation Here

Dale Tullis, representative of the Federal Housing Administration from Des Moines, and Carl Forslund, representative of the National Housing Agency from Kansas City were in Belmond last week to confer with the Chamber of Commerce and to conduct a survey of the housing situation in Belmond.

Homes will be needed by employees of the Soybean Mill, but before any building can be done, priorities must be granted by the board. No further action has been taken at the present time.

AN OLD WOMAN SPEAKS HER MIND—

The following article which came to our attention may be pretty good proof that "Life Begins at 40" and that the matter of age can't always be reckoned in years!

"I'm tired of people eternally asking me how I feel—and looking so don't sit in that draft!' 'Mother, aren't you a little hoarse?' 'Mother, you simply mustn't step outside the house today—remember that last cold!' Well there are worse things than catching pneumonia—one is being an ossified mummy in a chimney corner.

"I'm tired of people eternally acking me ho wI feel—and looking so concerned—half the time not waiting for an answer—or seeming disappointed when I tell them I never felt better.

"I'm tired of people who haven't seen me for a couple of years being so surprised I'm not riding in a wheel chair—and of being so shocked because I've heard of Gertrude Stein—and of oh-ing and ah-ing because I've had a permanent and a ride in an airplane—and of saying how perfectly wonderful it is the way I gad about all by myself.

"I'm tired of preachers who hold old folks' days and ask everybody over 50 to stand, of clubs who are always holding founder's days and giving birthday dinners for people who want to forget their birthdays, of statistics hounds who are always saying: 'Well, just how many years young are you, Grandma?'

"I'm tired of gymnasts who leap up the stairs behind me and then stop impatiently at my back. What they don't seem to realize is that it's not that I couldn't hurry if I wanted to—it's only that I've lived long enough to know there's nothing in the world worth hurrying for.

I'm tired of half-baked sophisticates always thinking I'll be shocked. 'Don't let Grandma see you smoking!' 'Now, Hortense, you know that isn't a book suitable for Grandma to read.' Heaven knows, maybe they'll learn some day it takes more than a cigaret and a cuss word to put one in the class of those who have lived.

"I'm tired of patronizing young men and silly middle-aged ones saying I'm their best girl. One thing sure—if I wanted a beau I'd get one with the mental maturity of at least 80 years.

"I'm tired of people who shout at me as if I were a deaf mute or a foreigner, who grab menus out of my hand and read aloud to me, to explain what the movies are all about.

'You see Grandma, it's this way—the man and the girl are not exactly married but—'

"I'm tired of people always asking me about my 'time'. 'I guess they never took a bath in your time, Grandma.' 'I guess you never heard of a cocktail in your time'. I'm living in the present. I don't care how they bathed or drank in the past. I want to forget it.

"I'm tired of bald, paunchy, flabby fellows of 60 calling me 'mother'. And I'm tired of jolly, vacant-faced fellows of 45 calling me 'Auntie'. And I'm good and tired of chinless young squirts calling me 'Grandma'. Reaching three score and ten years doesn't make me a blood relation of every moron at large.

"I'm tired of people rushing about to get me a chair and help me step over a toothpick and then loafing around while I cook their dinners and darn their socks.

"I'm tired of people giving me lavender sachets and lace handkerchiefs and books about the Holy Land, I'd like a little perfume and candy—yes, and some silk night gowns—the same as other folks.

"I'm tired of people asking me if I ever met Paul Revere personally, if I attended Washington's funeral and if I remember Andrew Jackson's campaign for the presidency.

"I'm good and tired of being nagged and bossed and chaperoned and never given any personal liberty. I want to go out on the slippery streets whenever I get ready and sprain my ankles. I want to take a boat to Singapore I want to go down town and go to the movies. I want to be let alone. I want to live my own life. I wanta—I wanta go out and do as I damn please."—Author Unknown.

WITH OTHER EDITORS—

Those who have confidence in early ending of war with Germany are predicting that unemployment will become a real problem in United States before the end of the present year. It is pointed out that many men who have been in the armed service for four years will want release as quickly as possible after the German break-up and that the urge will be strong to give them first chance on all available jobs. Men returning also will have first call on the jobs they left when entering the service. This will mean that many who have temporarily filled their places will have to seek jobs elsewhere.

There will be strong pressure from the folks back home to return men to civilian life as quickly as possible, but the unemployment problem will loom so large that it is considered certain the government will adopt a plan of spreading mustering out operations over a long period of months. This will facilitate plans of immense industrial plants now engaged exclusively in production of war goods to reconvert to civilian production, thus helping greatly to solve the unemployment problem. — Cherokee Times.

The language of the country is due for a big shakeup when the military is again absorbed by the civilian. The last war invented many new words of English parentage. This one will invent many more. Last time the boys brought back a lot of trench French that sort of forced its way into our speech. This time they will bring words from nearly every tongue under the sun. It's going to be hard for us who haven't had a chance t o keep pace with language development to understand a lot of what we'll hear.—Fairmont Sentinel.

What would happen in this country if it were not for good plumbing? Many of our cities and even country communities would be breeding places for pestilences if the men with the pipe wrenches were all taken into military service. In war times the fact is brought home to us that sanitation is one of the most notable contributions to civilization. — Northwood Anchor.

We just cannot understand the mind or heart of a man who lays down his tools and quits working on war materials and then goes home and cheers because his evening paper tells him what a grand job our boys are doing in Normandy. So far as the striking war workers at this critical period is concerned we are afraid those three thousand gallant American lads who perished on the Normandy beachhead died in vain.—Marshalltown Times Republican.

It is not too clear how this country can commit itself to support the decisions of any world organization without waiving in practice, if not in theory, some of its independence. In fact, the hope of preserving world peace through an international policy-forming body rests almost entirely on the willingness of the people of all nations to recognize that some modification of their theoretical national right to do as they please is necessary.—Cedar Rapids Gazette.

Prittle... Prattle....

Here I am back home and knocking this off on the old typewriter here at the office just like old times.

P—P

'Twas a pretty exciting moment for some 400 sailors a week ago Tuesday morning as they stood on the platform at Sandpoint, Idaho, awaiting the train and knowing that nothing but an act of God could keep them from going home on their first leave.

P—P

And it was even a more comfortable feeling when all were finally seated after riding half-way through Montana on a train that was so crowded that many of us were sitting, standing and lying in the aisles. For once the "scuttle-but" was true since we had heard we would be lucky to get a seat. Remember the old-fashioned cars with red plush seats? There were two of those on our train from Seattle to St. Paul. More proof that the railroads are taxed to the limit in providing transportation facilities.

P—P

Here was a lucky sailor, though. As he came into the Union Depot in St. Paul, who should be waiting but the b. w. with a smile that would have lit up the place in the dark. Her presence just brought home that much closer and made the last traveling hours pass so rapidly that Belmond, in the small hours of the morning, was here before he knew it.

P—P

And the old home town at last. . just a few changes but not enough to be too noticeable. Some faces missing and others around that haven't been seen for a long time. The same coffee crowd, the same fishing enthusiasts, and everyone that is left working harder than ever.

P—P

The time at home is going to be short, much too short in which to do all the things one would like to do, most important of which is getting acquainted with the family. Those youngsters. . . how they have grown. . . had to look twice to realize they were the ones I'd left 9 weeks ago.

READING & WRITING

BY Edwin Seaver AND Robin McKown

It is often very hard for grown-ups to understand what goes on in the minds of children—our memories are short perhaps. One man who has not forgotten is Marquis W. Childs, whose new novel, "The Cabin," shows unusual insight into the mysteries of childhood.

MARQUIS W CHILDS

Mr. Childs hitherto has been best known as a newspaperman and a political writer, author of "Sweden, the Middle Way," "This Is Your War," and "I Write from Washington." "The Cabin," his second novel, definitely establishes him as an important fiction writer.

This is the story of three weeks in the life of thirteen-year-old Rob Dennett, three weeks which he spent on his grandfather's farm. His grandmother is a tyrannical, hypochondriac woman, cloaking her shrewishness when necessary beneath a saccharine sweetness. His grandfather, a pathetic creature, is still fighting, vainly, after a lifetime of failure, against his wife's domination.

The heroine of this story, a very real heroine even though she wears faded patched petticoats and has the face of an old witch, is Rob's spinster Aunt Stella, whose own life has been wrecked by her mother, but who is fanatically resolved that the same thing won't happen to the boys. By the end of the story, when she dies as inarticulately as she lived, you are made aware that it is she who has steered Rob from danger and that it is she who has opened for him the door leading to normal and vital manhood.

Maria Manning, who for over fifty years has conducted an advice to the lovelorn column under the name of Beatrice Fairfax, tells in her autobiography "Ladies Now and Then," of one of the first letters she ever received. It was from a young man with a fearful problem. His landlady was holding the fact that he had not paid his rent as a threat over his head to get him to marry her. The trouble was, the young man said, that the landlady was an old hag and he was really in love with her daughter. What should he do? Beatrice Fairfax advised him to get a job and pay his rent.

Sumner Welles' long awaited book—"The Time for Decision"—will be the Book-of-the-Month Club selection for August. The Club also announces that the next book dividend to its members will be a special edition of "Tales of Edgar Allan Poe," with an introduction by Hervey Allen and 39 wood engravings by Fritz Eichenberg.

Since time immemorial man has dreamed of escaping from this planet to walk upon the moon or Mars. This is not at all impossible according to scientific writer Willy Ley, who in his book, "Rockets," prophesies that within the next several centuries we will see rockets conquering the immensities of space.

YOU TOO can laugh your head off in one EASY LESSON!

WALDO J. NOTTASNICKER of Sourview Gardens says. "I haven't laughed in years until I saw 'UP IN MABEL'S ROOM' After one session I wake up laughing every morning Matter of fact I'm going nuts! HA! HA-HA-HA"

This is, beyond doubt, the funniest, most hilarious and delirious and uproarious comedy that ever convulsed a fun-lover!

Leatherneck Washing Machine

U. S. Marine Corps Photo

Laundry problems on Pacific outposts are not as difficult as one might expect. An example of Leatherneck ingenuity is demonstrated above by Corp. Billy G. Alexander of Amarillo, Tex. The clothes are placed in the half-barrel, with soap and water, and the plunger does the work. When an especially good job is desired, a fire is built under the barrel. The power? Oh, yes, propulsion is supplied by a hand-windmill.

SHOULD BE A LAW

A low-flying airplane over Howard County frightened a flock of turkeys on the Guy Swann farm near Riceville, and before Swann could extricate them from their huddle 216 of them had smothered.

ULTIMATE TARGET

Twenty-two out of 91 spring pigs on the Loyd Shaull farm near Van Horne died as the result of eating the debris of clay pigeons in a pasture that was used as a trap shooting ground fifteen years ago. The clay contains pitch apparently liked by the pigs because of its bitter taste.

TEN TO ONE

Of 11 babies born in Knoxville during the week of June 25, 10 were boys and one was a girl, a delivery record which the Knoxville Journal asserts is "a good ratio of boys for the girls of this coming generation."

SECRET WEAPON

Ever hear of a "buffalo fly"? W. A. Harper of Postville captured one near the Rock Island depot and reported it "packs a wallop more powerful than a thousand mosquitoes regardless of size." He says that if our armies could train a regiment of these flies to work on the enemy the project would shorten the war.

Long-time Church Treasurer

Fifty years of service as treasurer of the Eldora Methodist church ended recently for Fred J. Edgar with his resignation. Numerous times within the last half century of his service he tried to resign his church post but the board refused to relinquish him. During the period Mr. Edgar handled an estimated $150,000 funds. His place now is to be taken by D. W. Dickson.

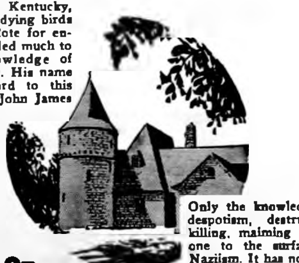
John Audubon

Early in the 19th century a storekeeper and gristmill operator at Henderson, Kentucky, took to studying birds as an antidote for ennui and added much to man's knowledge of ornithology. His name is a byword to this day. It is John James Audubon.



Only the knowledge of despotism, destruction, killing, maiming brings one to the surface of Naziism. It has no place for gentle souls; only Himmlers, Schleichers, von Papens, Heydrichs.

PTZ FOR WORMS IN PIGS

New phenothiazine worm treatment—easy to give—effective

- PTZ Powder (phenothiazine) has been found to be effective against two types of worms in swine. It removes over 90% of the nodular worms and 60% of the common large roundworms. (Oil of Chenopodium has around 70% efficiency against large roundworms and does not remove nodular worms.) And, best of all, the higher the infestation, the better PTZ works.
- PTZ Powder is not only effective but has the added advantage that it is given in the feed. It is a single-dose treatment and is relatively non-toxic.
- PTZ Powder costs only a little more than 3 cents per pig. Get PTZ Powder from

OBITUARY

MRS. BEN BRUNS

Mrs. Ben Bruns, nee Dorothy Mueller, the youngest daughter of Henry and Fannie Muellelr, was born on the 4th of August, 1857, at Tichelwarf, Eastfriesland, Germany. In this vicinity, she grew up to womanhood, enjoying the privileges of being brought up in a Christian home, and attending the instruction of the local church. In the spring of 1894, she left her native country and came to America, making her home east of Belmond with intimate friends. Here she was happily united in marriage to Ben Bruns on the 10th of August 1894. This union was blessed with three children, of which the oldest daughter preceded her parents in death.

For 28 years, Mr and Mrs Bruns were actively engaged in farming until they retired and moved to Meservey, December 4 1922. Here she lived for 8 years, during which time her husband passed away on August 4, 1926 After the death of her husband, she felt a longing in her heart to go back to the "Old Home Place," to her daughter and family, Mr and Mrs Alvin Halfpap, where she spent the remaining 13 years of her earthly pilgrimage

Mrs. Bruns was of a strong constitution and was active in whatever her hands found to do. Her children "arise and called her blessed for there is none like her amongst the children of man." During the last seven months she has been ailing. She peacefully passed away on the 18th of July, 1944, at 4:30 a. m., thus reaching the age of 86 years, 11 months, and 14 days. Old age is given as the cause of her death.

She leaves to mourn her departure, her two children, Chaplain Rev. Bruno Bruns of Norfolk, Virginia, and Mrs Alvin Fannie Halfpap of Belmond, Iowa; her seven grandchildren, Leonard, Marlene, and Marjorie Bruns of St. Thomas, Virgin Island, and Imogene, Dorothy, Alvin and Geraldine Halfpap of Belmond.

For 44 years Mrs Bruns has been a faithful member, in full communion of the Immanuel Reformed Church.

TWO ALARM FIRE

Mount Pleasant firemen were called out twice in 24 hours recently to extinguish a fire in a parked car belonging to a Wayland man. The first fire occurred on a Saturday night while the car was parked near the Mt. Pleasant Presbyterian church. Early Sunday, after the owner had made repairs, the car caught fire with firemen responding a second time.

O'BRIEN COUNTY IS IRISH

An Irish patriot and politician was honored in the naming of O'Brien county in 1851. The county created in that year was named in "remembrance" of William Smith O'Brien who suffered imprisonment and exile, after commution of a death sentence for agitation of the repeal of the legislative union between England and Ireland. O'Brien was a member of parliament and educated at Trinity College, Cambridge.

BELMOND LOCALS

Sgt. Howard Jacobmeyer left Monday night after spending a 21 day furlough with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Jacobmeyer. He reports to Fort Sam Houston, Tex., for reassignment after spending two years overseas.

The proudest title in the Army

IT CONSISTS of two simple words.

Yet every soldier who's worth his salt covets it.

This title is simply:

"Good Soldier."

It isn't just happenstance that so many women in the WAC have earned this title—the proudest in the Army.

For wherever Wacs are working, both here and overseas, there you find a job well done. And done with a spirit so gallant and fine that high Army officers everywhere say of the WAC . . .

"They're soldiers. Good soldiers!"

"Good Soldier"
Making strategy maps for combat
Checking pilots to and from war zones

THE OLD JUDGE SAYS...
"Mary and I were just saying, Judge, how lucky we are here in America that we have so many natural resources to help win the war."
"That's right, Jim. When war broke out we had oil, we had steel, we had food, lumber, aluminum...practically everything we needed. There's one thing we didn't have...rubber. The enemy had that."
"But that didn't bother us for long. Soon American brains and industry had synthetic rubber by the tons rolling out of plants. That filled a critical need ... you can't win a war without rubber."
"I was very much interested the other day in reading a statement made by a high government official on synthetic rubber. In it he said 'It is fair to regard the rubber manufactured to date as being almost solely the product of the beverage distilling industry.'"
"He also said that, in his estimation, the tremendous contribution of distillers' industrial alcohol to the synthetic rubber program had not received the recognition which it deserves."
"We certainly learned something today, didn't we Mary?"

Pour Concrete For Soy Bean Bins

Storage Capacity Of First Unit Now Going Up Is 500,000 Bushels

Continue Installation Of The Processing Equipment

July 27, 1944, marked the beginning of a new era for this territory because two important events transpired, the results of which bid fair to place Belmond in a very favorable position with respect to cash grain especially and to soybeans particularly. Firstly, pouring of concrete for the new monolithic storage tanks was started at General Mills new enterprise south of town. Secondly, properly constituted authorities approved the appointment of a Federal Licensed Grain Inspection office here. Thus, Belmond becomes a focal point, not only for the handling and storage of soybeans and grain, but it also furnishes unbiased and competent grading facilities to serve the entire north central area of Iowa.

Since last winter, when the McKenzie Hague Company of Minneapolis first started digging and driving piles in front of the old sugar beet plant, everyone has wondered what kind of structure would require such massive foundations. Over 1200 piles, 30 to 40 feet in length, were driven into the ground. Then, a solid concrete mat 36 inches thick was poured upon these piles. Progress was seriously impeded by the wet weather in the spring; likewise, manpower shortage slowed down the building of forms and other preparation. However, through the dogged perseverance of Mr J. Wolflin, construction superintendent, and his faithful foremen, this difficult war-time project has gradually developed and is now taking shape.

Due to the shortage of men immediately available to help with the actual pouring of concrete, the construction was begun by operating only one ten-hour shift per day, whereas it had been the intention of the contractor to work both day and night. Urgent appeals for more men to help were extended to the entire community through personal contacts, hand bills and otherwise. The response was most gratifying to all parties concerned. C. C. Christie, President of the Chamber of Commerce, led a campaign to inspire local business and professional men to work either full-time or on a half-a-shift basis, with the result that most of the men in Belmond will have contributed generously of their time and efforts to get the job done. Many farmers, farm hands and men from nearby towns have joined the working force. As one visitor of the new construction commented, "This is the greatest thing that ever happened to this community to bring our men together in a common cause!"

Begin Continuous Pouring

On Tuesday, enough men were available to begin continuous pouring, so that as this paper goes to press, the first 500,000 bushel storage and elevator unit is about 50 feet high. It is expected that the structure will rise at the rate of twelve feet per day.

Walter Flumerfelt, manager of Belmond Operations for General Mills stated that his company expects to be able to take in new crop soybeans by the middle of October and that the construction of two additional 500,000 bushel storage units, each consisting of nine tanks 130 feet high, would proceed as rapidly as conditions permit. The total combined storage capacity, when completed, will [illegible] be 1,500,000 bushels.

New switch tracks, which have been placed by the M. and St. L. Railroad from its main line to join the former installations by the C. G. W. Railway will be ready to handle the heavy increase of traffic when operations begin. Old [illegible] been replaced or re-[illegible] new ties and heav-[illegible] work has been un-[illegible] supervision of [illegible] M. and St. L. [illegible] from Liscomb. [illegible] "Mr. Sveck and his crew, mostly boys of 16 and 17 years, are to be commended for their fine work. The cooperation of this group of men has contributed greatly to the present progress of the plant."

Installation of processing equipment to handle soybeans has moved along in the main building formerly occupied by the sugar company. An excellent source of cold water was tapped with a new well 550 feet deep, and this will become an important factor when actual processing starts. Two of the 300 horsepower boilers have been rebuilt, with controlled draft stacks of latest design. Roller mills, hammer mills, dust collectors, extraction apparatus, conveyors and other handling equipment are being put into place for both steam and electrical connections. Mr. Flumerfelt states, "Some delay has been encountered in receiving parts of the equipment from the manufacturers, but the Allis Chalmers Mfg. Co. (principal suppliers) and the Cereal Engineering and Construction Co. (installation engineers and contractors) have done remarkably well under the trying pressure of wartime shortages."

Mr. Flumerfelt has commented that coupled with the efforts of General Mills to make this first unit of the Vegetable Oil and Protein Division an outstanding success must be a splendid spirit within the community of which it becomes a part. He has expressed his appreciation for the wonderful cooperation and attitude of everyone in this community and says that his company officials are more than ever convinced that a wise move was made in choosing Belmond as a site for extensive soybean processing and attendant operations.

Two Men Assume Duties At General Mills Soybean Plant

Two men, who will be among the permanent personnel of the General Mills Soybean Processing Plant, arrived in Belmond last week to begin their work.

Bruce P. Neil is the Extraction Plant Superintendent and will also have charge of maintenance and repair. He comes to Belmond from Villa Park, Ill., where he specialized in the processing of soybeans with the solvent extraction method for 10 years, and during which time he was plant superintendent for the Glidden Company of Chicago for several years. He has made careful studies of the uses of petroleum solvents in the extraction of oleaginous materials, including the removal of fat from meat scraps as well as vegetable oil bearing seeds. He was connected with the Skelly Oil Company for some time and subsequently conducted surveys on his own personal enterprise. Mr. Neil is married and has a son age 6. His family moved here last week and is living in the Cornelia Burrows house.

John Flynn comes to the Belmond plant as Office and Traffic Manager, having been employed in the Washburn-Crosby division of General Mills Minneapolis office for two years in the traffic department. He will be interviewing applicants for office positions preparatory to the beginning of operations around October 1. Mr. Flynn is married and has two children, a daughter 13 and a son 9. The family is living in the white house on highway 69, just across from the processing plant.

Service Women Hold Meeting Tonight

The Belmond Unit of the United Service Women of America will hold a meeting tonight. August 3 at the Legion House at 8 o'clock p. m.

Mrs. Bernard Harrigan, president of the Clarion unit, will be present to install the officers.

All eligible women are urged to attend this meeting, thus helping make the Belmond unit a success

Construction Is Gigantic

Commenced Working 2 Shifts Tuesday

A tour of the construction area surrounding the General Mills soybeans storage bins, personally conducted by J. Wolflin, superintendent in charge, reveals the gigantic extent this project will cover when completed.

The first unit of bins to be completed in time for storing the 1944 crop this fall will have a capacity of 500,000—one-third of the total storage space (1,500,000 bushels) which will be available when the entire construction is completed.

This first unit consists of the work house which will reach a height of 230 feet; six bins 130 feet high by 27 feet in diameter holding approximately 50,000 bushels each; and several smaller bins bringing the total capacity to 500,000 bushels. Concrete walls are 7 inches thick and are reinforced with steel both horizontally and vertically.

Work has been in progress on the foundation for the bins for the past two months, and pouring of concrete on the exterior walls started a week ago, with over 100 men engaged to work on two 10-hour shifts starting Tuesday night and continuing the pouring process on a 24-hour basis.

Wooden forms, around which the steel reinforcements are placed and the concrete poured, are moved upward one-half inch at a time by the use of 140 powerful packs. It takes 13 men to operate the jacks when the whistle blows at frequent intervals. It is estimated that in this manner the structure will be raised approximately five feet in the space of 12 hours' time. Workmen proceed with their jobs on the wooden platforms built on top of the circular forms which cover the entire structure and move slowly upward as the work progresses.

Sand and gravel are carried by means of a conveyor belt from huge piles in the yard to the scales in the hoisting tower where both are weighed and accurately mixed with cement and water before being dumped into the giant mixer, which holds one cubic yard. The mixed concrete is then dumped into the elevator bucket (capacity 1½ cubic yards) hoisted up the tower to the level where the work is progressing, and then dumped into concrete buggies which are wheeled to the various forms as needed. Proportions used in this construction are about one cubic yard of coarse gravel to two-thirds cubic yard of sand.

According to Mr. Wolflin's figures, when all the bins are completed for the 1,500,000 storage capacity, they will cover an area 85 feet wide by 280 feet long. 4000 piles varying in length from 32 to 40 feet, more than 113 carloads of cement, 175 carloads of sand and 250 carloads of gravel will have been used for the entire project.

County War Chest Quota Is $20,000

Drive For Funds Opens October 2

At a meeting of the Executive committee of the Iowa War Chest held at Clarion Friday night, the members voted to accept a county quota of $20,000, which is the same amount as was set for Wright county in 1943. Last year the county raised $22,464.61, exceeding the quota more than $2,000.

It was decided at this meeting to open the drive for funds in the

CPL. ROBERT BURROWS WRITES ABOUT TRAINING

In a letter written July 30, Cpl. Robert Burrows states, "Here I am in Texas. Surprising sometimes how a fellow gets around while in the service. Thought for quite some time that California was the only state I was going to see. After being transferred a number of times within Camp Haan, I was finally sent here to Camp Maxey, Texas. This camp consists mainly of Infantry and Engineer units. I am assigned to the Light Ponton Engineers. For your benefit a Ponton is short or army way to say Pontoon. . . At present we are taking basic training over again. This is my third time to take basic in 18 months. . . Training is much more interesting here because we have plenty of trees and green open fields, quite a change from sand and rattle snakes. . . We have a lake in the middle of camp which has been fixed up and is a swell place to swim."

Telephone Company Has New Manager

Thomas L. Hood's Plans Indefinite

L. C. Bruner assumed his duties as manager of the Belmond group of telephone exchanges for the Central Electric and Telephone Company on Tuesday, August 1. He comes to Belmond from Sheffield where he had managed the Central Electric and Telephone Co. exchange for the past two years. He is not new to Belmond, however, since ~~he~~ worked on line construction in this vicinity during the past five or six years. Mr. Bruner is married and has two children. He expects to move his family to Belmond some time during the month of August.

Thomas L. Hood, manager of the Belmond exchange since 1938, resigned his position the end of July and announced that his plans at the present time are indefinite.

Those who did not apply during the first period ending July 15 may make application for canning sugar beginning August 1, and they must furnish SPARE STAMP 37 with their applications.

Coupon No. 40 in book 4 (5 pounds) is valid for home canning through February 28, 1945.

NAVY RESUMES 17-YEAR ENLISTMENTS

The Navy Recruiting Sub-station in Fort Dodge has been on a very restricted basis for the last two months limiting the number of 17 year old young men they could send in for voluntary enlistment to a small per cent of the normal volume.

This restriction has been lifted temporarily to enable the station to send in three men a day for a short time.

A. B. Ostrand Appointed Chief Agent

Expect New Office Will Operate Soon After September 1

The Belmond Chamber of Commerce has again scored heavily in its program to put the "City of Friendly Service" in the foreground of north central Iowa affairs by securing for Belmond an officially approved Federal Licensed Grain Inspector.

Negotiations have been underway for sometime to establish an office here so that shipments of soybeans, corn, oats or any other grain might carry an official Federal grain inspection certificate. Certain government standards have been established for grading all grains, and all grain dealers are guided by these standards. However, controversies arise, not because dealers or shippers are intentionally arbitrary concerning grades, but because there are honest differences of opinion regarding methods of securing samples of grain for testing as well as regarding the grading factors themselves.

It is the job of the Federal Licensed Grain Inspector to secure the proper and representative samples of grain and also to grade the samples according to government standards. Many years of experience are required for a man to qualify for this work, and he must not only know how to do the job, but he must also be of rigid, sturdy character, absolutely without bias in making his decisions as to quality and all grading factors.

The Chamber of Commerce feels that Belmond is very fortunate, therefore, in the appointment of Mr. A. B. Ostrand, Federal Grain Inspector for many years in Kansas City and Des Moines, as chief official inspection agent for this territory. To sanction this new office, Mr. Fred Smith, in charge of Inspection Efficiency with headquarters in Chicago, and Mr. Howard Kurtz, Grain Supervisor from Cedar Rapids, came to Belmond and spent several hours discussing the matter with Messrs. C. C. Christie, B. C. Hewlett, Walter Flumerfelt and others. Complete arrangement was reached whereby the Licensed Inspector will perform the duties of his office under the auspices of the Chamber of Commerce. On his return to Cedar Rapids, Mr. Kurtz mailed a letter complimenting Belmond and confirming the arrangement.

A new office will be completely equipped with officially approved grain testing equipment, and Mr. Ostrand hopes to be ready to issue official grain inspection certificates shortly after September 1.

Mr. Ostrand is married and has four children. He plans to move to Belmond as soon as suitable housing can be arranged.

To Finish Detasseling 2400 Acres Hybrid Corn

Boys and Girls Under 18 Top List of Workers

Emergency Labor Still Available

The various hybrid seed corn companies producing hybrid seed in Wright County will complete their detasseling this week, with the exception of a few odd fields.

The County canvas made by the County Extension Service and the recruitment of the hybrid corn companies secured a total of 749 emergency farm workers for detasseling, harvest and weed control. Boys and girls seventeen years and under topped the list of patriotic citizens enrolling for emergency farm work with 588 out of a total of 749 in this age group, Girls outnumbered boys with 330 girls seventeen or under and 258 boys seventeen or under. One hundred-seven women 18 years of age or older were recruited for emergency work and only 34 men were found unoccupied and available for this work.

The excellent response of the girls, boys and women to the recruiting campaign and the diligent work of the many local leaders in conducting the recruitment, made it possible for Wright County to properly detassel the 2400 acres of hybrid seed corn produced.

IOWA DOES IT AGAIN!

It was announced a couple of weeks ago that Belmond and Wright County had gone over the top in the 5th War Loan Campaign by July 8, the closing date of the drive.

And just a few days ago the State War Finance Committee reported that Iowa had set a new record with total bond sales reaching $270,900,000, or 134% of the 202 billion dollar quota set.

This is an auspicious showing for our local community and the state of Iowa, and is good material proof that the "Corn State" is staunchly behind our boys on the fighting fronts.

Comparing this fine record with San Francisco and the state of California it is also proof of something else; namely, that the middle west is not less complacent about the war than our coastal areas. For instance in San Francisco, the 5th War Loan sales were so far short of the quota, even after the middle of July, that numerous agencies were urgently appealing to the people to buy more bonds while the campaign was being continued during the entire month.

IT WILL BE A GREAT DAY!—

Every time we have gone past Belmond's Honor Roll Board, we have been impressed by the long list of names of local men and women who are in the service of their country.

Even more impressive than the Honor Roll, however, was the fine collection of Army, Navy and Marine Corps pictures displayed in the windows of McGuire's Clothing Store and Hokel's Cafe last week. It will be a great day when we will no longer need these pictures to refresh our memory but can say instead, "Hello, Tom, Dick, or Harry" right back there on the streets of Belmond.

—V—

PARTY PLATFORMS SHOULD BE CLEAR—

What the country needs is a political party platform written in a language that the common man and woman can understand. The big task of those who get up party platforms seems to be not to write a platform that can be understood, so much as to write a platform that will mean everything to everybody, that will permit a warping and twisting to meet any opinion. A party platform is supposed to define the issues upon which a campaign will be waged, but when the platform is fuzzy and obscure and permits of a number of interpretations it is only natural that there shall be arguing and bickering and uncertainty in the campaign that follows. What the country needs is party platforms that say what they mean, and mean what they say.

WITH OTHER EDITORS—

An Iowa farm woman writes indignantly about a farmer's report on his net income for 1943. She says: "With all those white crosses in Italy, with the crippled, sick and mental patients, I can't stand listening to so many talking about the dollar-and-cents side of this terrible thing we call war. . . Would this man be bragging about his profits if one of the white crosses were marking all that he holds dear?"

We can understand how she feels. Yet it is not bragging; it is only a reporting of the facts to note that net farm income is now the highest in history.

But perhaps the fact that these are war-time profits should make everybody more careful in handling them.

Such profits should not be spent in such a way as to bring about inflation or land booms. They should be used to pay off debts, to accumulate war bonds, to buy life insurance, to aid churches and charities.

War-time profits—whether they come in the form of high wages, high dividends, high farm product prices—are a by-product of the suffering, the destruction and the organized brutality that is war.

Let's remember that as we decide where those extra dollars are to go.—Wallace's Farmer.

German prisoners do not seem to realize the hopelessness of the Nazi cause. This is indicated by the card found in a Northwestern passenger car after prisoners had been delivered to the Algona prison camp. On one side of the card a swastika had been drawn with this printing in legible English:

Americans: "Quit the war. You gain nothing but Blood, Sweat and Tears!"

On the reverse side was a caricature drawing labeled, "Jew."

These prisoners have traveled hundreds of miles across the United States. They have observed none of the ravages or destructions of war. They were captured in a battle they know they lost. They were shipped across the Atlantic and are now being well cared for in a modern prison camp. Still the hate engendered by Nazism prevails. Many of them believe Germany is going to win the war. Their unhappy experiences have taught them nothing. They probably would not believe Berlin was two-thirds destroyed if they saw it. Germany will be a problem, long after the war is over.—Eagle Grove Eagle.

Farmers' tables in the face of all this rationing continue to be well laden. We got a chuckle from a farm wife who, when her city sister complained she had to give up 16 points for butter, replied: "Instead of 16 points we had to put in 16 hours of work. All you have to do is to take your 16 points from a book." It might be well for city folk to remember that bounty on the farm does not come from carrying a basket to the corner grocery. Food on the farm represents a lot of back-breaking work.—Swea City Herald.

"The new deal is all right but the republicans could manage it better," seems to be the accepted dogma of liberal republicans, the few there are of them. Most of the republicans seem to think that the clocks are running backward and sigh and strive for dear old status quo ante.—Fairmont Sentinel.

A fourth term for Roosevelt, if he is elected, will give him more ruling time than all but one or two dictators in the history of the world. And under Biddle's strange rulings Roosevelt is more of a dictator than most. And thousands upon thousands of voters can now remember no president but FDR and with four more years that number will increase. It is not healthy for this country.—Kossuth County Advance.

—V—

There is no such person as "the indispensible man," never was and never will be. It is true that some men are very much more important than others, but no matter how important a man may be today he loses his importance with the passing of time and gives way to others. That has been true throughout all history and will continue to be true as long as man survives upon the earth. An exchange observes: "As to indispensability, there is no such thing. God did not create that kind of society. Indispensability would have meant that man would have to live forever, and that was not the plan of the Almighty. He created conditions under which there always stands someone who is equipped to carry on, and the world would be in a sorry mess most of the time were that not true."—Webster City Freeman.

WAVERLY'S MYSTERY

Following a recent electrical and rain storm, R. E. Doonan, Waverly city engineer, discovered a light bulb in a city street fixture that contained about a tablespoon of water. In addition to the water, the bulb had also changed color—it is now blue. The bulb had no crack or opening in it and in addition had the protection of the heavy socket above it during the storm. At last reports, the cause of the unuasual incident was unexplained.

MOVED

Thiever who took Howard Allen's car one night recently evidently hadn't been advised that Allen had moved some time ago. Allen reported the loss of the car to Emmetsburg officials when the automobile was not in the place it had been parked. The next morning, a farmer living on a farm south of Ayrshire where Allen formerly lived phoned and advised that the car was left there. No damage had been caused, but five gallons of gas had been used.

ANNUAL BALL

An invitation to the Waverly fourth annunl firemen's ball was found recently by William Tofte who gave it to Fire Chief Carl Homan. The invitation was mailed in Feb. 14, 1889, and addressed to William Beebe. Wording on the invitation was: "Yourself and ladies are cordially invited to attend the Fourth Annual Ball of Engine Co. No. 1, Waverly Opera House, Friday eve., Feb. 22, 1889, tickets $1.00, music by Northwestern Band."

MACHINES MAKE MORE JOBS

Some people get mad at machines.

A century and a half ago, power looms and spinning machines in Britain promised to do the work of three, five, perhaps ten men. Riots broke out and the new machines were smashed.

But the cheapening of weaving and spinning brought increases in demand, and before many years the workers in British textile industry had increased five-fold, at higher wages and with shorter hours.

Machines help the world, and anything that helps the world helps everybody in it. Improvements for one are improvements for all.

It takes twice as much capital to equip the average worker with machines, etc., as it did 100 years ago, but the worker is better off in all ways as a result of the machines.

DELAYED

Seventeen service men missed a train following a stopover in Creston. The train pulled out of the station as the men were seeing the sights of the city. The army privates seemed least concerned about the delay.

Have Your Car Serviced By The Calendar

(Once each month)

HERE'S WHY. . . .

Lubricants are affected by TIME as well as by MILES.

Rain and mud wash away chassis lubricants. Grease dries out and hardens.

Your car must last for the duration and you can't take chances of ruining vital parts by neglecting them. Under restricted driving, TIME not MILES should be your lubrication guide.

Lubricate your car every MONTH —not every 1,000 miles as you did under normal driving conditions.

The Farmer and War Bonds

by Mr. A. S. Goss
Master of the National Grange

WE FREQUENTLY hear farmers raise the question as to whether or not they should buy War Bonds as long as they are in debt. The answer to this question should depend in large measure upon the nature of the debt and whether or not it is current. If part of it is past due, and the borrower expects to experience difficulty in meeting past due payments, he probably should bring his debt into current position before investing in Bonds. If, however, his payments are current, there seems to be no reason why farmers should not buy as many Bonds as they are able. Most individual investors in government Bonds are carrying debt in one form or another, at rates higher than the Bonds will yield. This is as it should be if the purchaser is in an earning position which permits the accumulation of some surplus, for we all owe it to our government to do our utmost in the financing of the war, even though the transaction may result in our paying some extra interest on outstanding debts.

When a farmer owes money, he is always concerned as to whether his crops will sell at prices which will enable him to repay his debt. When prices are high it is good business and conservative finance to reduce the debt as rapidly as possible because when prices are low, it takes more crops and more efforts to make the payments.

We should not forget, however, that a government Bond will pay off an equal amount of dollars of debt, no matter whether prices are high or whether prices are low. It is, therefore, a sound and conservative practice to buy government Bonds and lay them aside to make payments on existing debts when they fall due. In fact, quite aside from the patriotic appeal, it is good business to buy Bonds rather than make pre-payments on debt, because the time may come when the ready cash is needed and the money tied up in pre-payments cannot be returned. If this money is invested in Bonds, it can be converted into cash to meet any needs which may arise.

If everyone followed the policy of buying no War Bonds until their debts were paid, few Bonds would be sold to the public. We have an obligation to help finance this war which is vastly more important than the income we may receive on the investment of money in War Bonds.

Farmers are finding it impossible to maintain their machinery and buildings in a satisfactory state of repair. They are finding that they cannot replace worn-out equipment except at excessively high cost.

It would seem to be sound and conservative business practice to lay aside money to make the repairs and replace worn-out equipment when material and machines are again available. No safer place can be found to lay aside money for such purposes than in government Bonds.

Every time we buy a Bond we are not only assisting in financing the war, but we are also doing our bit to prevent that most dreaded economic disaster called inflation. If each one of us would invest as much as we could in government Bonds, the danger of inflation would be greatly reduced.

Shadle-Holgate Say Vows At Simple Home Wedding

Miss Wilma Shadle, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Shadle of Boone, Iowa, and Raymond D. Holgate, Jr., of Hanford, Wash., son of Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Holgate of Belmond, Iowa, were united in marriage Monday evening, July 24, 1944 at 8 o'clock at the Holgate home. Only a few relatives and friends witnessed the single ring ceremony which was performed in front of an altar of lighted tapers and baskets of garden flowers, by the Rev. Harlan Faris, pastor of the Methodist Church of Belmond.

The bride was attractive in a dusty rose crepe dress with black accessories and wore a shoulder corsage of white Kilarney roses. Mrs. Glenn Baker, Jr. served as her attendant and wore a dress of blue crepe and a white rose corsage. The groom wore a grey suit and a carnation boutonniere. A|S Richard W. Holgate, who was here on furlough from Goodfellow Field, Texas, attended his brother, and wore his army uniform.

Immediately following the ceremony, the guests were served a lunch of ice cream and wedding cake. Cut flowers and lighted candles complemented the three-tier decorated cake which served as the centerpiece of the dining room table.

Mr. and Mrs. Holgate left for Boone where they are spending a short honeymoon.

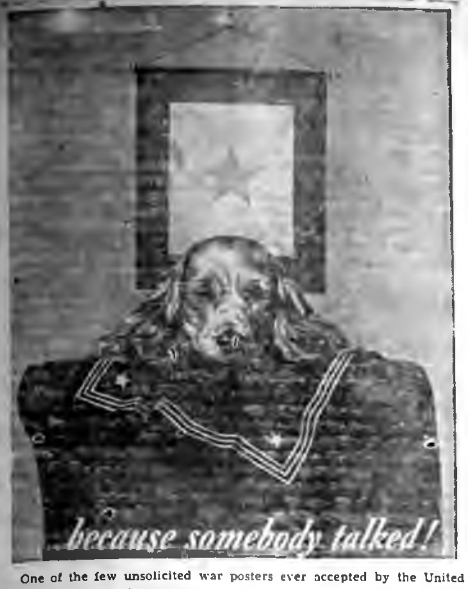
Newest War Poster



because somebody talked!

More than 700,000 have been printed and distributed by more than 100,000 Boy Scouts throughout the country.

Rejected for military service, Heyman, Assistant Art Director of House Beautiful magazine, felt he could materially contribute to the war effort with his poster design.

NEW VOICE

Patience and hard work helped in working a miracle for Jean Peterson, 15-year-old girl of Durant. When Jean was three years of age, she contracted whooping cough. Following this, her voice gradually became weaker until she could talk only in a whisper. This condition was not changed materially until six months ago when she regained use of her voice and now speaks normally. Mrs. George Harling, formerly a speech instructor in Davenport, moved to Durant when Jean was still small and became interested in the case. When Jean was 14 years of age, Mrs. Harling decided that the girl was then ready to make the attempt to regain her lost voice. Mrs. Harling obtained the parents' consent and started giving a series of voice exercises. The trial proved successful and Jean is now able to talk in a normal manner.

KANAWHA

Obituary of Dr. A. L. Judd

Like the sun gliding quietly down the western horizon, so the spirit of Dr. A. L. Judd slipped quietly out of this earthly life, on Thursday evening, after a life-time spent in seeking to heal and relieve the sicknesses of the community of Kanawha, at the age of 79 years, 8 months and 26 days.

Dr. Judd was the only son of Henry and Abbie Judd and was born in Canastota, N. Y. He had the great misfortune of losing both his parents when he was just a small child. After the death of his parents he made his home with an uncle at Pleasantdale, Neb.

As a young man, he went to Lincoln, Neb., to learn telegraphy. His first job was at Chester, Neb. After a short time he became station operator at Washington, Kan. where he met and wed Miss Fannie Elizabeth Barnes, on Nov. 1, 1886.

In 1889, he entered Keokuk Medical College and after graduating in 1902, he took up the practice of medicine in Kanawha, Iowa. Kanawha was then only starting as a town. There were no gravel roads and he went through winter's snow and mud to relieve the sick and suffering, never sparing himself. Often the only sleep he got was, as he was driven from one place to another. His refusal to spare himself was characteristic of his life. Had he eased up a few years ago, he might have stretched his life's span a few years more, but it was his nature to give all that he had without thought of himself.

Four children came to bless his home: two girls and two boys: Georgia Lettia, who died at birth and Frankie Burnadene, who died at the age of 18 months; Guy Wesley and Albert LeClare.

He was a lifelong member of the Methodist Church and served on the official board of the local church during most of his residence in Kanawha. He was also a member of the choir, almost from his first Sunday in Kanawha. He was a member of the Masonic Lodge, a member of the Order of the Eastern Star, the I. O. O. F. and the Modern Woodmen of America

He leaves to mourn his demise his wife, Mrs. A. L. Judd of Kanawha; two sons: Guy of Kanawha and Albert of Des Moines; two granddaughters, Mrs. Orville Faber of Marysville, Cal., and Betty Jo of Des Moines.

Funeral services were held at the Guy Judd home at 2 p. m. on Sunday and at 2:30 at the Kanawha Methodist Church with the Rev. J. F. Moore officiating

Pall bearers were Fred Graeber Ben Sheldahl, Albert Kudej, Floyd Friedow, James Yeakel and Fred Knudsen

Music was furnished by the Methodist choir and a vocal solo "Going Home" was sung by Ramona Munson.

Burial was made in the Kanawha Cemetery.

Obituary of Mrs. Harm Boekholt

Mrs. Harm Boekholt, nee Tena Abbas, was born on October 31, 1879, in the vicinity of Abbot Crossing, Grundy County, Iowa. While still a child she accompanied her parents who moved to a farm southwest of Kanawha. She was united in marriage to Mr. Harm Boekholt on January 16, 1905. The first years of their married life were spent on farms in the vicinity of Kanawha. About 28 years ago they moved to Kanawha where she resided until death summoned her on July 27, 1944, at the age of 64 years, 8 months and 26 days.

Mrs. Boekholt possessed a retiring disposition and found happiness in her home which for the past few years she shared with her daughter Allie and two grandchildren, Maynard and Corinne. She was a loving and devoted mother and grandmother. On March 17 1901, she mae confession of her faith in the Lord Jesus Christ in the local Christian Reformed Church where she continued her membership until the time of her death, altho illness prevented her from attending the services regularly for the past few years. Patiently bearing her affliction she committed her way unto the Lord. Her desire to again see her son Harm, who at present is in the service of his country in England, remained unfulfilled.

She leaves to mourn her departure her three children: Cora (Mrs John Helmers) of Titonka, Pvt. Harm Boekholt and Allie (Mrs. John Riddle); 8 grandchildren; one brother, Mr. George B. Abbas; one sister, Mrs. Cora Seebeck; other relatives and friends. She was preceded in death by her husband who passed away on December 10, 1936; one infant daughter and two sisters.

Funeral services were held on Saturday afternoon, July 29, at 12:30 o'clock at the home and at at 1:00 o'clock at the Kanawha Christian Reformed Church, with the Rev. D. H. Plesscher officiating. Interment was made in the Kanawha Cemetery.

Evening Guild Met Tuesday

Mrs. Buryl Thorson was hostess to the members of the Guild, on Tuesday evening. Rev. Lien had charge of devotions. Readings were given by Mrs. Harry Benson and Mrs. L. J. Heckerson. The evening was spent working on hospital supplies. At its close delicious refreshments were served by the hostess.

The next meeting of the Guild will be August 8th at the home of Mrs. Elmer Carr.

Woman's Country Club

The members of the Kanawha Woman's Country Club were entertained at the home of Mrs. Elmer Engstrom Friday afternoon.

Come—Bring Your Family—And Your Picnic Lunch

How many boys from Belmond won't come back?

NOBODY knows the exact number. Nobody. But—

The number who do come back—on their own two feet instead of in a flag-draped box—will be in exact proportion to the job we do here at home.

For every minute that we can help shorten the war will mean more lives saved. (213 Americans were killed in the final day of the last war, and 1,114 were wounded before the 11:00 o'clock Armistice took effect.)

Now one way all of us can help shorten the war is to tighten our belts and buy more War Bonds. Yes, still more. And . . .

If you think you're buying all the War Bonds you are able to, imagine—for a minute—that it's after the war . . .

. . . you're standing at the station . . . a bunch of home-town boys, still in uniform, climb off the train . . . one of them kisses his wife and grabs his kid in his arms . . .

. . . and then he turns to a young woman beside them, a girl who looks like his wife's sister, and you overhear him say . . .

"Catherine, I don't know how to tell you how sorry I am . . . it's such a shame about Joe . . . it makes me sick all over when I think how he'd be here today if the war had only ended a week sooner."

Think it over. Can't you buy a few more War Bonds to help end the war that week or month sooner? Sure, it may mean giving up something, but what's that compared to what they're giving up? And remember, always—The money you "can't spare" may spare a soldier's life!

READING & WRITING

BY Edwin Seaver AND Robin McKown

John P. Marquand, Pulitzer prize-winning novelist and well known magazine and detective story writer, has joined the editorial board of the Book-of-the-Month Club.

JOHN P. MARQUAND

The addition of Mr. Marquand to the board brings the total up to the original number of five for the first time since the death of Heywood Broun in 1939. Mr. Marquand's appointment follows closely that of Clifton Fadiman in May, replacing the late William Allen White. In addition to Mr. Marquand and Mr. Fadiman, the board includes Dorothy Canfield, Christopher Morley and Henry Seidel Canby.

Mr. Marquand has had two of his novels—"H. M. Pulham, Esq.," and, more recently, "So Little Time"—chosen by the Club. Now that he is a member of the Club's editorial board, however, no more of his books may be chosen. It has been a rule of the organization, since its inception in 1926, that no judge may have one of his own books selected for distribution.

In announcing the appointment of the new judge, Harry Scherman, president of the Book-of-the-Month Club, stated: "John Marquand's straight and unorthodox appraisal of people and life has become well known to the public through his novels. It extends to books. The present members of the Board are delighted that henceforth they will have his good sense and judgment supplementing their own views."

"Anna and the King of Siam" by Margaret Landon, tells the story of Anna Leonowens who taught the royal children of the King of Siam and acted as his personal secretary back in the 1860's. The King's limited knowledge of the English language sometimes caused curious mix-ups. Once he found an English newspaper story which referred to him as "a spare man." Enraged, he protested he was not a spare man, that the Kingdom couldn't possibly do without him. Anna vainly protested that the story merely meant he was a thin man. He wouldn't listen to her. He insisted on having an elaborate dinner for all the English in Bangkok. He would show them. At the dinner, Anna whispered a few words to the English consul, who then rose and made a toast, "To his Gracious Majesty, the King of Siam, our host. It would be a sad day for our country if her King ever became a spare man." Some of the guests looked a little bewildered at such a toast, but the King's smile was that of a pleased child.

General Mills' Sales Total $281,286,612

Fifth Consecutive Year of New Sales Records

Establishing a new sales record for the fifth consecutive year, General Mills, Inc., today reported dollar volume of $281,286,512 for the fiscal year ended May 31. Net profit, of which $3,767,581 was paid in dividends, totaled $5,556,912. At the rate of $1.97 per sales dollar, dividends of $5 on preferred stock and $4 on common stock were disbursed.

The annual report to stockholders, signed by James F. Bell, Chairman of the Board, and Harry A. Bullis, President, listed $233,787,678 as expended for goods and services to provide worn-out tool replacements and for reserves; $28,393,900 paid to employees and for benefit of employees' benefits; $13,548,022 for taxes; and $1,789,331 including a contribution of $515,000 to the Employee Retirement System, set aside for expansion, worker's benefits, new tools and new stock of goods.

Taxes were equivalent to $20.37 per share of common stock—an increase of $3.03 over last year.

Working capital amounting to $45,667,383 on May 31 represents an increase of $10,942,519 over the same date a year ago. Of this increase $9,900,000 is accounted for by the issuances of debentures. The company was authorized to issue $20,000,000 of debentures, but only one-half in the form of 10-year obligations bearing 2¼ per cent interest were issued as of January 1. There are no present plans for further issues.

While essentially a mining business, the company, through its Mechanical Division, produces torpedo directors, cruiser gunsights, and other naval ordnance. It received the Army-Navy "E" for outstanding production of Naval ordnance and subsequently was awarded a star signifying renewal of the award.

Sale of products, on the whole, was considered satisfactory. Package foods made excellent progress except where ingredient shortages and capacity limitations curtailed production, domestic flour deliveries increased, and production of animal feeds was greater than in the previous year although essential ingredients were increasingly difficult to obtain.

Extension of activities into non-food use of agricultural products bears promise of future benefit not only to the company but to the farmer too through creation of a more stable market. The report states modified wheat starch products are being sold for a variety of uses including the making of paper containers. New developments in industrial uses of vegetables oil are meeting with increasing commercial acceptance.

Discussing General Mills' outlook before a group of business and financial writers in New York, Mr. Bell asserted that while the extremely low profit in relation to sales emphasizes that the business is highly competitive, future growth will depend largely on developments in other lines.

"There are many companies doing equal or much smaller total volumes of business whose returns are much larger than ours," he declared, "but they are almost without exception in the field of what may be called imperfect or preference competition.

"Goods in pure competition, operating under the pressure of price, for the most part enjoy a stability of earnings regardless of boom or depression, and this has been clearly evidenced in the case of General Mills. Through its entire existence of sixteen years, General Mills has never failed to earn and pay its dividends at regular established rates and to add further resources to the building of the future.

"While the future growth of the company will lie very largely in the development of goods in imperfect competition—goods having special attributes or characteristics which lift them from the field of pure price competition—nevertheless, the position of the company is, I think, most fortunate in that it has this backbone of stability in the field of pure competition which can support and maintain it in its efforts to extend into other fields."

Finish Detasseling

made for detasseling, 48 placements were made for other emergency workers by the County Extension office during July. These placements were largely for oat shocking, bundle hauling, weed control and in addition 4 year around workers were placed.

Farmers needing crews for pulling cockleburs and weed control measures will be able to have their orders filled now that the detasseling is about done. Requests for help should be made to the county extension office in Clarion or to one of the local farm labor placement centers. Orders for workers should be received a day in advance of the time when they are needed.

4-H Club Fair Premium Lists Distributed

Girls' 4-H Clubs Schedule Achievement Shows

The 1944 premium list of the Eagle Grove District Junior Fair has been mailed by the County Extension Service to all livestock project 4-H Club members. An entry card was also mailed to those with livestock projects for them to enter their various classes and divisions in which they wish to show. All entry cards must be returned to the County Extension office at Clarion on or before August 8th, 1944.

Members showing at the fair are urged to read the general rules and the specific rules for the department and divisions under which they are showing so as to be familiar with all requirements. Rules for the Commercial Beef Feeding class, (a new division at the fair) should be carefully studied by all who are expecting to show in this division.

All 4-H club members who had enrollment cards in the County Extension office were mailed these booklets. In case there is any member who did not receive his 1944 premium list he should inquire immediately at the County Extension office at Clarion.

GIRLS CLUBS

Girls 4-H club members can secure the 1944 premium list from their leaders or at their next club meeting.

Previous to the Eagle Grove District Fair the local girls 4-H clubs schedule their own achievement shows. At these events the years' work is reviewed by the girls for parents and friends. This is an opportunity for outsiders to view the value of 4-H club work. Many clubs plan a program using their own local talent. The demonstration team presents their demonstration and the girls' project work (clothing) is judged to select the exhibits to be entered at the fair. Some clubs present war stamps as prizes to the individuals for the blue and red ribbon placings.

Tuesday, August 8th—Grant Go-Getters

Thursday, August 17th—Norway Jolly Joy Makers

4-H Boys To Use New Record Books This Year

New loose-leaf record books will be used in boys' 4-H club work this year. Aaron R. Bowman, county extension director, reports that the simplified books will be available at the county extension office after October 1st.

With all his records in one book, a club member will keep only one report of his activities. Inserts for specific projects will be provided. By leaving the records in the book from year to year, it automatically becomes a long-time record.

Another change will be that members will record only amounts of grain fed. Then, when a project is completed, county extension directors will furnish average feed prices for the year. A feed budget column also has been added to the record.

Four counties—Crawford, Muscatine, Black Hawk and Monroe—experimented with versions of the new book during the 1943-44 project year. Initial work on the revision was begun by G. A. Lineweaver, assistant state boys' 4-H club leader, when he was extension director in Monroe County.

4-H Girls Receive Health Examinations

One hundred twenty-two 4-H girls belonging to 11 clubs were inspected this year by Miss Wilma Soehren, R. N. Wright County Public Health Nurse. Eight girls from the eleven clubs were unable to have a health inspection. Three clubs, Iowa U-Go-I-Go, Lincoln Loyal Ladies, and Woolstock Willing Workers had 100% of their membership inspected. The remaining clubs had better than 75%.

A general improvement in the health of the girls was indicated by the fact that the lowest score this year was higher than last years low scores. Forty-three and one-third per cent of the girls inspected last year that were checked again this year had higher scores in their preliminary examinations this year than last year.

The high girls from each club in this vicinity that will enter the health championsip class at the fair are:

Corrine Aldinger of the Iowa U-Go-I-Go 4-H Club

Beverly Muhlenbruck of the Grant Go-Getters 4-H Club

Marjorie Skouge of the Norway Jolly Joy Makers 4-H Club

Failure to Purchase Use Tax Stamps Subjects Car Owners to Penalty

E. H. Birmingham, Collector of Internal Revenue, for the District of Iowa, states that from information available to him, it is apparent that there are a large number of car owners in the state of Iowa who have failed to purchase their Federal use tax stamp.

The law specifically provides that the stamp be purchased and affixed to the car not later than July 1, 1944. Mr. Birmingham desires to caution all car owners that it is his intention to have his Deputies conduct an intensive delinquency drive in the very near future. Car owners who have failed to purchase their stamp should do so without delay. The owner of any car discovered without a stamp affixed after August 1, 1944, will be required not only to purchase a stamp, but may subject himself to penalties provided by law.

The Belmond Greenhouse is being improved by the enlargement of the front office which will give sufficient space for installing a larger refrigeration unit.

Belmond Business Men Working On Night Shifts

Take Off White Collars

Soft Muscles Respond Quickly To work at G. M. I. Plant

A number of Belmond business and professional men are taking off their white collars when they go home in the evenings and going out to the General Mills Soybean Plant south of town to work in various capacities, thereby helping to solve some of the labor shortage problem.

Reverend C. L. Duxbury, pastor of the Congregational Church, is one of the men working on a 7:00 p. m. to midnight shift, and his job is operating a dozen of the 140 big jacks which slowly raise the wooden forms on the concrete storage bins at frequent intervals, one-half inch at a time. Mr. Duxbury says, "It has occurred to me that every time I go to a basketball game next winter and hear the referee blow his whistle I'll expect to hear someone holler 'half an inch.'" The Reverend insists he had no muscular trouble when he started this rather strenuous work but did have swollen and sore hands the first two days.

Albert Hanson, assistant cashier at the First State Bank, helped with the unloading of a carload of steel. Asked if the heavy work made him tired, he replied, "No, not bad. I'm surviving all right." What pleased Albert most was the refreshments brought to the men during the evening by some of the ladies, including sandwiches, cokes and ice cream.

Working every evening except Wednesday and Saturday when he has his Main Street shop open, is Tom Beavers, barber, who thinks work at the plant is not as hard as barbering. He says, "Down at the plant all you have to do is listen to one boss and then do what he tells you. When I am cutting hair, there are usually several hanging around making suggestions and comments." Tom has operated some of the jacks and also "cleaned the deck" one night.

Hoyt Klemme, head clerk at the Post Office is another who didn't mind the heavy work of helping to unload steel because he says that work in the Belmond Post Office keeps him "in condition." But Hoyt is a little sleepy, seems he just can't get enough shut-eye between the hours of 2:00 and 6:00 a. m.

One man, who hadn't considered his qualifications for working on construction, got a chance to see what it was all about one night. Roy Henderson, attorney, stopped on his way back to town from a round of golf just to see how things were going. Henderson says, "I was standing there looking up in the air with my mouth open when someone came along and told me to get a bar and come up." Roy wouldn't admit suffering any bad affects from the new type of exercise but said it was a little confusing, trying to remember which of the many jacks he was supposed to handle.

The fellow who has really been getting a work-out is Theodore Johnson, superintendent of the Belmond schools. Ted has been working every night on a 10-hour shift, operating several of the jacks. Following a full year of school administration and six weeks spent this summer in study at the University of Minnesota, Mr. Johnson felt he was a little soft for the job. He says, however, "after the first day or two my muscles stopped aching and I have gotten a lot of satisfaction helping with this big job."

C. C. Christie, livestock buyer and president of the Belmond Chamber of Commerce has also put in many hours of night work at the plant in various capacities. He says "Belmond men have shown their great interest in our new factory by offering to spend half of their nights on heavy construction work, even though they put in a full day's work in their own businesses."

Storage Bins Over 100 Feet

Concrete construction on the General Mills storage bins had reached a height of considerably more than 100 feet as this issue went to press on Wednesday evening, work to proceed without interruption 24 hours a day until the bins and work house reach a total height of 130 and 230 feet respectively.

It was possible Wednesday at the northern edge of Belmond to look south and see the bins rising above the tree tops of the city. Visitors to the plant at night said they could see the many lights of the hoisting tower blinking as far north as Goodell and as they approached nearer the site of the construction, described it as resembling a brightly lighted circus or carnival.

Overseas Christmas Mail Rules Available

In order that Christmas parcels may reach members of the armed forces overseas in time and in good condition, arrangements have been completed by the Post Office Department and the War and Navy Departments for this year's Christmas mailings.

Yuletide cards and parcels must be mailed between September 15 and October 15, the earlier the better. Christmas cards must be sent in sealed envelopes and prepaid at the first class rate. No requests from the men or women in overseas service are required in connection with the Christmas mailings. Details of the mailing regulations are available at local post offices.

"Hap" Corwin Was Killed In Action

War Department Sends Wire To Parents

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Corwin of Sheffield received a telegram last week from the War Department, telling them that their son, Cpl. Duane Corwin, had been killed in action in France.

Cpl. Corwin, known to his friends in Belmond as "Hap" was employed at the Hub Garage at the time he entered the service and was a graduate of Belmond high school. The Corwin family had been residents of Belmond before they moved to Sheffield, Mr. Corwin having also been employed at the Hub Garage.

At the time of this writing, plans had not yet been made for a memorial service.

Back to Work in Two Days After Minor Accident at GMI Plant

Kelly Atwater, releasing the hopper door on a carload of gravel at the General Mills Soybean Plant south of town last Thursday morning, slipped and fell into the pit and was covered with gravel for a few minutes. Other workmen nearby pulled him out, and although he had lost consciousness, was quickly revived. X-rays taken at the Belmond Hospital showed no serious injuries although Atwater did receive a minor scalp wound. He was back on the job again in two days.

Use for Glass of Jelly Or Lady's Bonnet

George D. Pals, who lives one mile north and five east of Belmond, brought a specimen to the Independent Office on Tuesday morning to prove his description of the glowing beauty of a Syrian crab apple tree on his farm.

On one little stem hangs 27 bright red apples, and Mr. Pals states that this one, on display at the Independent office, is just a sample of the colorful clusters of apples that are weighing down the little seven-year old tree.

Feminine members of the Independent force can't decide whether it would be better to use the apples for a luscious glass of jelly or to add a bow or two of ribbon and use them for a ladies' summer hat.

Needed For Essential Incoming Civilian War Workers

The National Housing Agency has approved a war housing program of 15 family dwelling units for essential incoming civilian war workers in the Belmond, Iowa locality, Regional Representative Joseph P. Tufts of Kansas City announced today.

This housing is to be provided by private builders with private funds and, of the total, 10 units will be new construction, the remaining 5 units to be made available through conversion of existing structures.

The 10 new units will rent from $40 to $50 while the 5 converted units will rent from $31 to $39.99. These rents do not include utilities and tenant services.

This initial war housing program for Belmond was based on a War Manpower Commission report of labor requirements which indicated that, in order to adequately staff the war activities located here, workers would have to be brought in from other areas. Occupancy of the housing, therefore, must be reserved for such incoming workers.

Applications for priorities assistance may be secured from Holger Holm, State Director, Federal Housing Administration, Omaha, Nebraska.

Announce September 4 As Opening of Schools

Belmond Has Complete Faculty This Year

Belmond Schools will open on Monday, September 4, with a complete faculty, Superintendent Theodore Johnson announced this week. Registration dates for all new students will be announced in the near future.

Discussing plans for the opening of school, Mr. Johnson said, "In spite of the scarcity of qualified teachers, the Belmond Board of Education has been fortunate enough to secure outstanding instructors for all departments. The return of 14 members of last year's staff made it necessary to secure only five replacements, all of whom come to Belmond highly recommended.

Mr. Johnson called particular attention to the fact that Belmond's extra curricular activities will all be under the direction of specialists in various fields.

Athletics of the high school will again be under the direction of an experienced coach; school plays will be directed by a major in English and speech; vocal and instrumental music will be under the charge of a major in instrumental and public school music; girls' physical education activities will be supervised by a major in the field of physical education.

The 14 members of last year's school staff who will return this fall include Theodore Johnson, superintendent; Don Faris, high school principal; John Lansing, coach; Lois Delaplane, girls' physical education; Betty Blough, commercial; Ruth Gantenbein, home economics; Alice Neff, principal of junior high; Irene Casey, junior high; Louise Devine, sixth grade; Dorothy Byrnes, fifth grade; Mrs. Viva Parker, fourth grade; Eleanor Lake, second grade; Esther Lien, first grade; Juanita Tokheim, kindergarten.

New members of the teaching staff include Alvina Ostendorf of Meservey, mathematics; Lorraine DeVries, Steamboat Rock, English; Stella Olson, Buffalo Center, social studies; Margaret Hansen, Cedar Falls, music, Irene Payden, LaPorte City, third grade.

Doubt If George Was Thinking of Matrimony Fifty Years Ago

The Independent wishes to correct a mistake that appeared in last week's issue when two groups of items in "Way Back When" got mixed up, with the 1914 items appearing under the head "50 Years Ago" and the 1894 items appearing under the caption "30 Years Ago."

The error was brought to our attention when Mrs. George Elder telephoned and informed us that there wasn't any Mrs. George Elder" 50 years ago. It has occurred to us too, that Geo. himself probably hadn't even conceived the idea of changing Erma Maxwell's name to Elder as early as 1894.

SERVICES WERE HELD FOR HERMAN TRAGER, 66

Funeral services were held on Sunday afternoon at the Methodist Church for Herman Trager, who died on Wednesday, July 26 at the age of 66 years and 13 days. Rev. H. W. Faris officiated at the service and burial was at the Belmond cemetery.

Soy Bean Plots Now Open For Observation

Several Varieties Were Planted

Soybean variety observation plots on three farms in Wright county have been properly identified and labeled according to variety and are now open for observation for farmers who are interested.

The three variety observation plots are located on different sections of the county. One is located on the Don Frakes farm in Woolstock township one mile east and one-half mile south of Woolstock. One is on the George Braun farm in Pleasant township four miles east of Belmond. The other is on the Ray Hagie farm in Lake township one-half mile west of Clarion.

All plots are located on land adjoining roads making them easily accessible for observation.

Nine different varieties of soybeans are planted on the plots located on the Frakes and Braun farms. These are planted in rod rows with three rows of each variety. The varieties in these two plots are Mandarin, Habaro, Mukden, Richland, Early Minnesota, Manchu; Wisconsin Manchu 606; Wisconsin Manchu 3 Sel; Lincoln and Earlyana.

Five different varieties of soybeans were planted in the plot located on the Ray Hagie farm. The soybeans were planted in 70 rod rows with two rows of each variety. These were duplicated three times in the plot making six rows of each variety planted. The five varieties located in this plot are Habaro, Richland, Wisconsin Manchu 606; Earlyana and Mukden.

Republican Convention Delegates Reassemble Tuesday, August 15

Delegates to the Republican county convention elected at the June Primary are called to reassemble at the Court House in Clarion at 10:00 o'clock a. m. on Tuesday, August 15, for the purpose of selecting delegates to a Republican Judicial Convention for the 11th Judicial District of Iowa, which will be held at the court house in Fort Dodge on Thursday, August 17, at 10:00 o'clock a. m.

Mrs. W. Luick of Mason City came Thursday to the E. W. Luick home to get her daughter Karen, who had spent a month here while Mrs. Luick has been visiting Bill who is in service in Florida.

United Service Women Start Membership Drive

Functions Under State Organization

Plans are being completed this week for a membership drive at which time all eligible women will be urged to join the United Service Women of America, in support of their father, sons, husband, brothers, sisters or daughters who are serving with the armed forces of our country.

The committee selected to canvass the town includes Grace Nolte, Corinne Kessler, Marian Cramer Lucille Stoltenberg, Mima Waddington, Dorothy Burka, Annabelle Trafford and Dorothy Higgins. Women who may not be home when a member of the committee calls are asked to get in touch with anyone of the above, so that their names can be included among the charter members. Charter membership list will be closed after the next thirty days.

The new organization will function under the state organization and will be asked to send in garments to the various hospitals over the United States supplying our service men and women. The first local project will be the making of woolen quilts and lap robes from old suits or coats, and handkerchiefs from the backs of men's dress shirts which are no longer wearable. Anyone having such garments is asked to telephone or notify Mrs. Pete Barendregt or Mrs. Royce Tomson.

Studying The War Map—

Study of the war map of France from day to day doesn't indicate the Allied advance going along as rapidly as it seems when we read about it in news stories or hear dramatic announcements over the radio.

However, with Normandy already in Allied hands and with gains made daily to cut off the Breton peninsula in the drive to the big Nazi U-Boat base at St. Nazaire, American, British and Canadian troops should soon be in a position to forge ahead with greater speed. With adequate European territory in the hands of the Allies for landing operations, we anticipate that the bigger drives towards Paris and the border of Germany itself will be made not only with greater speed but also with fewer obstacles than were encountered in these first phases of the invasion.

Favorite Pastime—

Favorite recreational pastime of folks in and around Belmond these days is to drive down the highway to the General Mills Soybean Processing plant and watch the progress of construction on the storage bins, which has been proceeding on a 24-hour basis for the last 10 days.

As these huge bins rise higher in the air each day, we realize more and more the large extent to which this new industrial enterprise at Belmond may grow and at the same time can visualize the corresponding growth and development of the community surrounding it.

—V—

Important Service To Agriculture—

It was announced last week that Belmond had been officially approved for a Federal Licensed Grain Inspector, largely through the efforts of the local Chamber of Commerce.

We feel that the Belmond Chamber of Commerce should be heartily commended for using its influence in this direction. A Federal Grain Inspection office located in Belmond, and under the management of a man with many years' experience in this work, will be a great asset to the town and rural community alike, performing an important service to agriculture in this whole north central Iowa area.

—V—

Reputation For "Getting The Job Done"—

Belmond and Wright county have had many difficult problems to solve this summer because of the acute labor shortage.

When General Mills was ready to start pouring concrete on a 24-hour basis for the first unit of soybean storage bins needed for this year's crop, operations were considerably relayed because of insufficient help. But many men in the community, already busy with jobs or business of their own, were ready to put in extra hours, and it was therefore possible to begin this part of the construction on the necessary basis of continous operation.

As the time drew near for detasseling Wright county's 2400 acres of hybrid seed corn, the problem of finding adequate labor was drastic. But through the combined efforts of seed corn companies, the Farm Bureau office, and various other agencies. 749 emergency workers were secured, most of them among boys and girls 17 years of age and under and women over 18 years.

When there is important work to do, Belmond and Wright county have a reputation for "Getting the Job Done."

WITH OTHER EDITORS

America's greatest "secret weapon" might be called the wonderful medical treatment the wounded and sick in the armed forces are receiving. The percentage of deaths from wounds is miraculously low when compared to the records of other wars. A wounded American today stands a far better chance to recover than he did even in the first world war, and compared to the civil war in the last century his chances are a hundred times better. Coupled with this is the transportation of wounded men to base hospitals away from the fighting zones by plane, ships and rail. This is perhaps one of the things, as the war progresses, that will bring quick defeat to our enemies. As the ring of steel draws tighter on Germany and Japan their facilities for caring for wounded men will also he affected. Truly the medical corps of our army is proving to be one of the greatest weapons of the war.

Too many grownups are prone to forget two things when considering youth: first, that the young persons of today are the adults of tomorrow, and second, that the adults of today were the younger generation of yesterday, and so far as we can learn or remember, few of them were angels either. —Greene Record

The Chronicle was not an original advocate of a state income tax, and we think the tax was made plenty high, ridicously so for that matter. But now we are not in favor of the complete repeal of that tax. Not at the present time, anyway, because at the close of the war we do not know what is going to happen. We may need all that present cash surplus in the Iowa state treasury, and we may need it badly. It will be plenty time enough to repeal this tax, if that proves to be the thing to do, when it is safe to do so.—Hampton Chronicle.

At the close of the war the United States is going to have the largest merchant marine any nation ever had. In 1939 we had 11 million plus tons, while Britain had 21 million tons. Germany had 4½ million tons, France almost three million and Japan 5½ million tons. The total of the world was 68½ million tons. Britain has lost heavily, much more than she could replace, while the United States has built more than she lost and it is estimated that when peace returns we'll have 24½ million tons. Wonder if we will have business for such a mighty merchant fleet?—Webster City Freeman.

Prittle... Prattle...

By R. H. Gowdy, S 2-c

Dear Gang:

Here we are again packed in like sardines on our way back and just out of St. Paul. Sort of dozed off Sunday while on the train to St. Paul. just wasn't in the mood to do anything but sleep--and couldn't do much of that

PP

Even now a confused and rapid train of thought is running through my mind but uppermost is the thought that at last this is it....the fun is over and we're going to work on a job that each one of some 400 sailors hope will be finished, but soon.

PP

How different this trip back will be in comparison to the first trip out to Farragut. In almost no time at all Co. 608 will be split up and scattered to the four winds. But that will have to be O.K. too.

PP

Incidently, by the looks of the most of us, it only took about ten days to at least partially tear down what the Navy built up in eight weeks. There is some thing about home-cooked meals that invites a prolonged stay around the family dinner table, and I for one overstayed my leave.

PP

From what I saw and heard while home, Belmond will be a changed community in many ways--new industries, new business firms and new homes. Best of all there will be jobs for the hometown boys, and that's what we'll want—a place to live, work and play. But let's not get sentimental, as our former R C P O would say.

PP

I want to thank all of you who helped make my first leave the pleasant and enjoyable experience it was. The hours were all so short I even begrudged the time I had to spend sleeping. It is grand to have friends--and I'd hate to live without them.

PP

Guess this is it for now--the train is swinging and swaying from side to side and my pen is zagging when it should be zigging.

Dick.

Efficient, Convenient Feeding

The advantages of cafeteria feeding are set forth by poultry experts as follows:

1. Lower cost egg production. The grains are fed whole, saving grinding expense and mixing costs.

2. Might actually result in better production because the flock is automatically fed and the chances for mixing errors or neglecting them are lessened.

Pullets should be started on this method of feeding before they come into production.

BIG GAIN 26% POULTRY CONCENTRATE is made especially for cafeteria feeding. In addition to being "right" in the proper combination of high quality proteins, it contains an abundance of the vitamins and minerals so essential to peak production.

Save Worry, Save Work, get the most in egg profits from your flock. Ask your dealer now for BIG GAIN 26% POULTRY CONCENTRATE.

LITTLE "CITY HICKS"

Tomorrow they will emerge into a world of miracles! Right now they are the children of an America busy at war. Ration stamps, War Bonds, fathers and brothers in the armed forces ... these things, for the moment, are more important than their pleasures and pastimes.

Many of these little "city hicks" have never seen a farm ... never ridden on a load of fresh-mown hay. It's not much fun to travel now. But tomorrow they'll zip down to Uncle Bill's farm ... any time ... in sleek, new, even more comfortably appointed post-war Rock Island ROCKETS!

Today's children will bask in a brighter, more beautiful America ... tomorrow ... when our nation, the war won, resumes its march of progress in the building of the peace.

Ellingston-Fjetland Take Nuptial Vows

Thursday evening at a lovely candlelight ceremony, Avis Ellingston, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. Ellingston became the bride of Lorin D. Fjetland S 2|c, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dan Fjetland of Goodell.

The wedding took place at the St. Olaf Lutheran Church with Rev. Knight of Goodell, officiating at the double ring ceremony.

Preceding the ceremony, a fifteen minute piano recital was given by Mrs. Harold Simerson Miss Helen Lien sang "Because."

To the strains of "Lohengrin's Wedding March, the bride, on the arm of her father, came down the white carpeted aisle. She chose a white slipper satin gown with lace inserts about the nodice and train and a fingertip veil. She carried a bouquet of red roses and her only jewelry was a locket, a gift of the groom.

Mrs. Keith Bailey, as matron of honor, wore a floor length dress of yellow net over satin, and carried a bouquet of white and purple asters. The four bridesmaids, namely, Mrs. Harvey Hopkey, Mrs. Allen Myklestad, Misses Earlene Van Buskirk and Margie Johnson wore floor length dresses of pastel pink. Each carried a lighted candle.

Sharon Hopkey, niece of the groom, was flower girl and carried a tiny basket of rose petals. She wore a floor length dress of white taffeta. Michael Bailey, nephew of the bride was ring-bearer. He was dressed in a little sailor suit and carried the rings in a flower.

The groom wore the blue uniform of the Navy. He was attended by his brother, Darold Fjetland, who wore a dark conventional suit. The ushers, Harvey Hopkey and Owen Van Buskirk also wore dark conventional suits. The men attendants wore boutonnieres of white asters.

The church was decorated with the season's flowers. A reception, for 30 guests was held in the church parlors following the wedding. Waitresses were Joan Ness, Eloise Fjetland, Doris Toft and Maxine Christenson. The table was set using pink and white as the color scheme. A three tier wedding cake was the center piece.

The bride graduated from Belmond High School with the class of '43. She attended Waldorf College the past year and will teach this fall. The groom graduated from Goodell High school with the class of '44. He was farming with his father until his induction this spring.

After a brief wedding trip the groom will report back to the Great Lakes Naval Training Station.

Cook-Reinhart Take Vows At Candlelight Service

Dolorys Emily Cook, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Cook of Goodell, and William F. Reinhart, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. G. Reinhart of Huxley, were united in marriage Sunday, August 6, 1944 at 8 p. m. in a candlelight service at the Cook home. Rev. A. I. Kruetzman of the Salem Evangelical Reformed Church of Alleman officiated using the double ring ceremony.

Arthur Savogue played prenuptial music and Mendelssohns Wedding March as the bridal party took their places before the altar which was banked with baskets of white and peach gladioli. The bride, who was led to the altar by her father, was lovely in a floor length white slipper satin gown fashioned with antique lace bodice andsleeves. Her finger tip veil was of silk net bound with satin and she wore satin gauntlets and carried a circular bouquet of red roses and white snap dragons with white satin streamers Her only jewelry was a string of pearls, a gift of the groom. Mrs. Carrol Satri of St. Paul, close friend of the bride, was matron of honor and wore blue sheer marquisette dress with white embroidery floral design and carried a circular bouquet of Talisman roses and white snap dragons

The bridegroom wore a light summer suit with a white boutonniere and was attended by his brother, Lt. Harold Reinhart of Roswell, New Mexico, who wore his ofifcer's dress uniform.

Jerry Lee LaFavre, cousin of the bride and Sandra Matzinger of Alleman were ring bearers, and carried the rings on white satin pillows. Both were dressed in white. Marianne and Marilyn Reinhart, twin sisters of the groom were flower girls and carried white lace baskets and scattered rose petals in the path of the bride. They wore yellow dotted swiss dresses. Clell LaFavre served as usher. The bride's mother wore pale green and the groom's mother aqua blue and both had pink rose corsages.

A three tier wedding cake beautifully decorated in peach and green centered the serving table from which a two course luneneon was served to 60 guests. Eva Evenson, Mildred Newgard and Mrs. Gerald Burk were waitresses.

The bride is a graduate of the Klemme High School, Morningside College and took advanced college training at MacPhail School of Music at Minneapolis. The groom is a graduate of the Alleman High School and is engaged in farming at Alleman. Mrs Reinhart will teach music in the school there where they will he at home after August 12th.

Observe Silver Wedding Anniversary

Sunday, August 6, marked the twenty-fifth wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Otto R. Hanson, which they observed when 76 friends and relatives came in to extend congratulations, bringing well filled baskets from which a lawn picnic was enjoyed at noon. The house was beautifully decorated with gladiolas, roses and garden flowers sent in by friends of the Hansons.

A short program was conducted during the afternoon by the Rev. Harlan Faris, pastor of the Methodist Church, after which he presented the honored couple with a purse of silver and several gifts as a token of remembrance from the group.

During the course of the afternoon, pictures were taken to help cherish the event and a lovely two-tier wedding cake decorated with white roses and silver leaves and topped with a white dove was served with coffee in the late afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Hanson were happy to report a congratulatory telephone call at 4 o'clock p. m. from their son Daryl, who is with the Navy at Treasure Island. Caif.

Out of town guests in attendance were Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Skouge, Gladys and Irene of Clarion: Mr. and Mrs. Merlin L. Hanson and daughters and Mr. and Mrs. Gus Nissen of Webster City, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Nelson and Mildred of Mason City; Mr. and Mrs. Don Wyborny and daughter of Plymouth and Mr. and Mrs. Ole Thompson of Strattord. From Buffalo Center were Mr. and Mrs. Carlyle Egesdal and daughters, Mr. and Mrs. Guy Barton, Mr. and Mrs. Hank Sleeper and Mr. and Mrs. Bill Larson and son, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Forrestal and Rodney of Chaska, Minn., Harold and Thelma Rikansrud and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Ziska and Coleen of Kanawha.

Annual Children's Day Picnic Held At City Park

St. John's Lutheran Church held its annual Children's Day picnic at the city park Sunday, August 6. The children of the Sunday School in connection with the morning services presented a program of song and recitation under the capable direction of Rev. and Mrs Senft. After the picnic dinner, which Sunday School, church members and visitors enjoyed, the children and some adults took part in various contests. The prizes were presented to first and second place winners by the pastor and his wife and also the oldest church member and the youngest married mother were presented gifts.

The climax of the afternoon was an exciting softball game which was played on the new school field. Led by pitcher Don Friesleben, Elmer Troutvetter and Harvey Ausborn, the single fellows built up an early inning lead. The married men led by Ed Schimp, evened up the score as the game ended 13-13. The leading hitters were Don Friesleben who poled out a home run, Troutvetter with a tripel and Schimp with a double.

The Farmer and War Bond Purchases

by Charles W. Holman, Secretary
The National Cooperative Milk Producers' Federation

AMERICAN farmers have a great deal more at stake in purchasing War Bonds than simply a patriotic urge to assist in financing the war so that it may be prosecuted to an early and victorious conclusion. Modern war demands governmental expenditures far in excess of those which may be met by current revenue receipts. This means Government borrowing. If a large part of this borrowing is through commercial banks additional inflationary spending power is created through the expansion of credit. On the other hand, if the borrowing is largely from individuals much of their excess funds are drained off. Hence, the pressure on prices resulting from unusually large funds bidding for limited amounts of goods and services is relieved, and thus inflation retarded.

A tremendously increased agricultural production and some increase in average prices received above those paid by farmers have raised the net income of all United States farmers from the 1935-39 average of $4.7 billion to $6.3 billion in 1941, $9.4 billion in 1942, and an estimated $12.5 billion in 1943. With available supplies of farm machinery replacements and building materials limited, Agriculture has a fund available for either debt retirement, savings readily liquidated for future purchases of machinery, buildings, etc., or for present investment in land.

A marked decrease in farm mortgages in recent years indicates that much of this fund has been properly applied to debt retirement. However, activity in land sales and a very marked increase in land values demonstrate that farmers are probably diverting a large part of this fund into land purchases. From March 1, 1943, to March 1, 1944, average land values per acre rose 15 per cent, with the larger part of the rise taking place in the last four months of the period. The increase during this four-month period was the highest on record, being 20 per cent greater than the average monthly rate of increase for the 1919-20 boom year. Average values per acre have increased more than one-third in the past 3 years. In the 1916-19 period the rise was about the same.

It appears that an overcapitalization of probably temporarily high farm commodity prices is in process just as in World War I. Large mortgage debts incurred now, at high levels of income, will prove disastrous when both total agricultural production and prices fall. Land values are based on the net return to land. With the end of the war in sight and with the prospect that farm labor and other costs will require a relatively larger return leaving the return to land less, the logical course for land values at present would appear to be downward rather than upward.

Therefore, it appears that farmers would do well to invest every available dollar, beyond that needed for debt retirement, in Government Bonds. These can be held against the day when necessary farm replacements will be available and when farm land values will have become more stable. In this way the individual farmer may assist in hastening the day of return of his son, and also have capital available to help finance him in ventures of his own choice. U. S. Treasury Department

GMI President One Of 32 Company Heads Selected

Harry A. Bullis, President of General Mills, Inc., was one of 32 company presidents selected to be feature in a book of some 250 pages entitled "The Technique of Building Personal Leadership", which was published on Monday, August 7, by the Mc-Graw Hill Book Company. The book is by Dr. Donald A. Laird, famous writer and lecturer on personal efficiency. He selected the 32 presidents from all the company presidents in the U. S. for the value of their life stories to help ambitious employees and executives, and to illustrate how to gain personal magnetism, poise, self-confidence, optimism, tactfulness, progressiveness, initiative, stick-to-it-iveness and other essential qualities for personal leadership presented in this new book.

Here is what Mr. Laird's book says about Mr. Bullis:

"Harry A. Bullis, president of General Mills, Inc. When he became president of the company he burned his bridges behind him by giving this pledge, in writing, to his 10,000 employees. I WILL (1) Build men—big men. (2) Give everyone on the pay roll an opportunity to advance if he is willing to pay the price in intelligent, hard work. (3) Emphasize the human side of the organization. (4) Recognize that modern business is a responsible public service. (5) Have a creative attitude of mind. (6) Follow the three R's of creative thinking: Realism, Research, Resolute Reasoning. (7) Have enthusiasm for change. (8) Cooperate with government regulations: do everything possible to maintain the American Way of Life. (9) Make no compromise with principle. (10) Have faith in God."

OBITUARY

HERMAN JULIUS TRAGER

Herman Julius Trager, son of August and Amelia Trager was born on July 13, 1878 at LaSalle Illinios and passed away July 26, 1944 at the age of 66 years and 13 days

His boyhood was spent in the vicinity of LaSalle and at the age of 13 years he was confirmed in the German Lutheran Church.

About 1898 he came to Iowa where he worked at various tasks, chiefly farming, and was dependable at everything he might undertake to do On March 8, 1908 he was united in marriage to Miss Myrtle Reed at the parental Reed home west of Belmond. To this union three children were born. After their marriage they began to farm for themselves west of Belmond. Except for three years spent on a farm in Mitchell county, they have farmed in this vicinity until January of this year when they moved to their home in Belmond.

During most of his life, Mr. Trager had not known what it meant to be sick until about 2 months ago when he was stricken with a heart attack and since then has rapidly failed in health. Three weeks ago he was taken to the hospital at Hampton where he heeded the call of death.

Mr. Trager was not happy unless he could be busy and enjoyed his work, being honest in all his dealing and expected others to be the same. He leaves to mourn his departure his wife, two sons, Edwin of Belmond and Arthur in the South West Pacific. One daughter, four brothers, Emil and August of Belmond and Ferdmand and Hellmut of Peru, Ill., four sisters, Mrs. John Waltzing of Belmond, Mrs. Clara Hildebrand of Calif. Mrs. August Barke of Grandville, Ill., and Neta of Chicago, Ill., one grandchild, many other relatives and friends.

Why Farmers Should Buy & Keep War Bonds

by R. R. Renne
President
Montana State College

BUILDING financial reserves, paying off debts, helping to fight dangerous inflation, and patriotism, are all good reasons why farmers should buy and hold War Bonds.

A good financial reserve is an important part of sound farm management. War Bonds are safe investments and are almost as liquid as cash. Thus, they comprise an excellent financial reserve for unexpected needs and emergencies. After the last war prices fell rapidly, as they have after every major war, and thousands of American farmers lost their farms because they could not weather the economic storm. No other factor is more essential for continued satisfactory farm operations, through good years and bad, than adequate financial reserves.

In addition to unexpected needs for emergencies, farmers need adequate reserves to finance repairs, replacements and improvements around the farm. Difficulties in obtaining needed materials and labor for these expenditures cause farm buildings and equipment to wear out faster during the war period than in peacetime. If farmers can wait until sometime after the war ends to make these repairs and improvements, their dollars should go farther than they will immediately following the war, and better quality materials will probably be available. Moreover, too rapid or forced cashing of War Bonds immediately after the war could create a serious situation and contribute to post-war inflation. Also, holding Bonds to maturity makes it possible for the farmer to increase his investment by one-fourth through accumulated interest. Still another reason for having a good reserve in the form of War Bonds is that funds will be available for the boys when they return, to assist them in getting established in peacetime pursuits.

Many farmers still have long-term mortgage debt outstanding against their property. Investment in War Bonds now makes it possible for the farmer to help finance the war and at the same time accumulate the funds which will enable him to liquidate his debt in a lump sum after the war. Systematic purchase of War Bonds furnishes a very orderly and sure way of accumulating the necessary funds for liquidation of debt that requires large lump sums for settlement.

The extremely heavy expenditures required to carry on modern total war creates high purchasing power, which combined with shortages of materials and labor, cause serious inflationary threats. Most farmers can remember the very high prices which occurred during the last war and the very low prices and depression which followed. With the present scale of operations much greater than during the first war, it is imperative that widespread inflation in general prices and in land be prevented. Using surplus funds to purchase War Bonds helps reduce inflationary pressure in commodity markets and, at the same time, helps finance the war.

Building financial reserves, paying off debts and fighting inflation, comprise adequate reasons for buying War Bonds. However, there is still another major reason why farmers should invest in War Bonds until it hurts and this is the patriotic reason. We are engaged in a very serious struggle to preserve democracy and our way of life. The sooner we can win this war the fewer lives of our sons and daughters will be lost. Our youth are making great sacrifices on the battlefronts all over the world, and it is up to each one of us on the homefront to give all we have. Large sums of money are needed for winning the war and if we will all buy War Bonds to the limit of our resources voluntarily, we can help finish the war at an early date.

A Hope for the Future

Through good times and bad—through boom and depression—through peace and conflict Belmond has maintained and improved its school system.

Belmond's school system is good because our citizenship has made it so. Our schools will continue to do their part in helping our children live in today's rugged present and in preparing them for the future ahead, whatever it may be.

Now, more than ever, our children deserve the best education—never before in the history of America has it played so important a role in their lives. Great opportunities are opening up for the educated. Skilled and educated men and women are in demand everywhere. Preliminary training in standardized elementary and secondary schools and in our high schools is the foundation our children need for later training or work. Educated minds will be the builders of a new and better post-war America.

Belmond Schools Open Monday Sept. 4 with a Complete Faculty

Registration Dates For All New Students Will Be Announced In The Near Future

In spite of the scarcity of qualified teachers, the Belmond Board of Education has been fortunate enough to secure outstanding instructors for all departments. The return of 14 members of last year's staff made it necessary to secure only five replacements, all of whom come to Belmond highly recommended.

Tuition and Text Books

There is absolutely no cost to the student from the country, or his family, for tuition. This is paid by the school district from which he or she comes, and enables the student to take advantage of a higher education without any extra financial burden.

The textbook problem is made simple and inexpensive by the rental plan adopted throughout the entire school system some years ago. All textbooks are purchased by the district and are rented out on a yearly basis for a small fee.

READING & WRITING
BY Edwin Seaver AND Robin McKoun

It will be too late to agree upon what we are fighting for after the war is over. The time for international cooperation on the post-war world is right now, says Sumner Welles, former Under Secretary of State, in his book, "The Time for Decision."

SUMNER WELLES

Book-of-the-Month Club selection for August and heralded by Washington and London officials as the most important book yet on the diplomatic picture of this war, the book calls for "immediate action in establishing an international organization which is supported by free men throughout the world." Otherwise, says Mr. Welles, we face another armed truce such as followed World War I.

"There can be no more fatal error than for the United Nations to enter the post-war transition period without having previously established some agency representing all of them," Mr. Welles states. The world organization which he proposes in "The Time for Decision" is based on a regional plan designed to cope with the two problems which helped defeat the League of Nations: namely, the need to give the four major powers, (United States, Great Britain, Russia and China) scope for military action, and to give the smaller nations full representation and protection of their interests.

Sumner Welles, born in 1892, comes of an old American family; one of his ancestors was governor of Connecticut as far back as the 1600's. He went to Groton and then Harvard. He has known both Franklin and Eleanor Roosevelt since his childhood; in fact, at the age of twelve, he was a page boy at their wedding. He became chief of the Latin American Division of the State Department at the age of 28, and was subsequently commissioner to the Dominican Republic, Assistant Secretary of State, Ambassador to Cuba, and, from 1937 until his resignation in 1943, Under Secretary of State.

Admiral George E. Dewey, hero of Manila Bay, displayed calmness in a crisis, even when he was a student at Annapolis, relate Luis Kuntner and Laurin Hall Healy in "The Admiral." One day, young Dewey was headed for Chapel to sing a solo part in the choir. A fellow classmate waylaid him and offered him "a drink of lemonade." He took a big swallow and gasped. It was filled with a strong solution of alum. He couldn't even rebuke his friend; his mouth was too dry to utter a word. The story spread, and cadets crowded into the Chapel to see the fun. When Dewey's solo came, he stood up, opened his mouth, and in a strong, clear voice sang the hymn. At the noon meal, he was silent again. The alum still robbed him of his voice. It wasn't till much later that the hazers learned Dewey had persuaded one of his choir to hide behind a hymnal and supplement Dewey's silent lips with his voice.

Conserve And Preserve Food

Questions from Canning Clinics:

Question: How can one avoid the odor of wartime rubbers contaminating foods?

Answer: To avoid odor from wartime rings, scrub in hot, soapy water; then boil 10 minutes in water and baking soda (1 qt. water and 1 tablespoon soda for each dozen rings.) Rinse well. Start with fresh soda and water for each lot.

Question: May commercial jars be used successfully for home canning?

Answer: Salad dressing, coffee, peanut butter and other commercial jars may be used for preserves, pickles and for water bath canning of fruits and tomatoes. The original screw cap will be needed to hold the metal disk in place during processing. New metal disks must be purchased, either for the standard mason size opening or for a smaller opening, which is known as size "63".

Question: Is the processing time reduced by adding lemon juice to vegetables?

Answer: Processing time in the boiling water bath may be reduced when lemon juice is added to certain non-acid vegetables. For asparagus - add 1½ tsp. lemon juice to each pint - process 2½ hours: green beans - add 1 tsp. lemon juice to each pint and process 1¼ hours: greens - add 1 tsp. lemon juice to each pint - process 2½ hours: corn - add 2 tsp. lemon juice to each pint - process 2½ hours.

Warren Stark of near Greenfield, planted a 35-acre field of corn on May 9. The corn was "laid by" on June 15

STORMY DAYS

Various storms took a liking to the Andrew Boone farm near Sheldon recently. During a hail storm Mr. Boone lost nearly 100% of his crop and 35 chickens were killed. While the hail storm was "turned on" a small twister blew an empty corn crib against a hog house. Later, a heavy wind blew away a hay stack. Two days later lightning struck the house, stunning the family. The bolt entered the chimney, and went into the basement, covering the entire house with soot.

FIRST CIRCUS

The first circus put on by Ringling brothers was in McGregor, Iowa. Around 1860, August Ringling moved to McGregor with his wife and three sons. Al and [illegible] Ringling formed a club of Young Fantastics in 1869 to perform at a Fourth of July celebration. The following year, after the performance of Dan Rice's Great Paris Pavilion Circus, the Ringling boys, now numbering seven, decided to try the same performances. The ensuing performance laid the foundation for the boys' future life work. Al became a juggler and rope walker; his brothers gradually joined him in other circus acts. In 1884, the Ringling Brothers Circus was organized.

THE OLD JUDGE SAYS...

"Good morning, Doc. Your good wife tells me you're working night and day now that so many of the younger doctors are in the army."

"That's right, Judge, and I'm glad I'm still able to do it. Had a long letter from Harry... that bright young fellow I was breakin' in to take over my practice. He said the boys in the service are getting the best medical care of any armed force in our history. They really should with all those brilliant doctors and plenty of supplies to work with."

"Speaking of supplies, Doc, not many people realize that a large part of the alcohol required to make the medical supplies that are being used right this minute to alleviate pain, combat infection and save human lives, is produced by the beverage distilling industry. For nearly two years this entire industry has been working night and day, producing nothing but alcohol for the government's program."

"Nobody knows better than I, Judge, what an important contribution to our war effort that has been."

Home Economist Gives After-Canning Tips

When the last jar of canned food has been processed, homemakers would like to "call it a day." But Miss Elizabeth Deihl, county extension home economist, asserts that it pays to leave equipment in tip-top order.

That will speed work another time and assure cleanliness in food preservation. Some metal equipment wears out sooner if it is not washed and dried immediately.

Cool jars of canned food by setting them right side up, 2 inches apart, on a cloth, folded paper or rack. They may break if placed on a cold surface. Put them away from a draft, but do not cover with a cloth. Remove screw bands from jars after they have cooled overnight.

The day after canning, carefully tilt jars to test for leaks. Do not rest the jar on its head. Test a vacuum-sealed jar by tapping the metal lid with a spoon ; a clear, ringing sound indicates a seal. If a jar leaks, use the food at once or reprocess it in another jar with a new lid.

When all jars are tested, wipe off sealed ones, and label with the contents and date. Store canned food in a dark, cool, dry place. Dampness causes some types of metal caps to rust. Light fades canned foods and increases vitamin loss. If the storage room is light, wrap each jar in dark paper or newpsaper for a simple "blackout."

If the storage room is in the basement, load the jars into two baskets or pails rather than a pan that must be carried in front of you. That divides the load, and you can see your way down the steps.

Miss Deihl explains that freezing in itself does not spoil canned food. But freezing may crack a glass jar or break a seal. In an unheated storage room, cover the jars with an old carpet or blanket, or wrap each jar in several thicknesses of newspapes.

If you have jars of canned foods left over from last year, Miss Deihl suggests putting them where they will be used before newly canned products.

Issues Warning About Truck Tire Shortages

Office of Defense Transportation District Manager, Fred C. Eslick, said today that he is fearful that truck operators in this district do not realize the seriousness of the present truck tire shortage and apparentaly they have to learn this fact the hard way.

The Office of Defense Transportation, Mr. Eslick said, had asked for an increase in the truck tire quota for the third quota from the War Production Board, but this was refused due to the increased requirements for the armed forces.

Mr. Eslick said the quota for large truck tires has been cut from 135,000 for July to only 57,000 for the month of August. This means that if a truck operator wishes to continue his operation he must, immediately, start "taking proper care of his tires" his first consideration. Otherwise, when his tires are gone he probably will find that he cannot secure replacements.

This condition will last indefinitely, Eslick said.

Listed below are the factors that you should watch carefully in order to prolong the life of your tires, Mr. Eslick says:

1. Overloading
2. Improper inflation
3. Excesssive speeds
4. Accidents
5. Mechanical irregularities.
6. Improper matching of duals
7. Cuts
8. Punctures

THE FAMILY NEWSPAPER

4-H Junior Fair At Eagle Grove Next Week

Approximately 500 Head Of Livestock Are Registered

Completed fair plans are being lined up in order to get the Eagle Grove District Junior Fair under way next Monday, Aug. 21st.

In comparing this years exhibits with last years there is a decided increase in the number of calves being exhibited but a decrease in the number of hogs.

The interesting feature of the calf show this year is the new Commercial Beef Feeding Class, which has been introduced for the first time in this county.

In addition to the calf and pig classes, entries have been received for four Belgian horses and one hitching team, sheep and poultry, which includes chickens, ducks and geese.

Swine judging begins on Monday morning, August 21 and continues on through the afternoon. Poultry is to be judged at 1:00 o'clock on Monday afternoon.

On Tuesday morning dairy calves will be judged at 8:00 o'clock, baby beeves judged and graded at 9:00, purebred beef heifers judged at 10:00, sheep at 10:00, horses and colts at 11:00.

The livestock parade will be at 4:00 o'clock Tuesday afternoon.

The sale of the livestock will be held Wednesday afternoon.

Final Program Schedule Announced For Girls' Clubs

Mrs. R. K. Uhr of Eagle Grove, county committee chairman of girls 4-H clubs, announced this week the final program schedule for the 4-H girls at the Eagle Grove District Junior Fair. The judge for the girls' club divisions will be Mrs. C. H. Thompson of Cherokee.

All clubs must have their clothing exhibits entered by Monday noon, August 21st. Judging of the clothing classes, canning and record books will be Monday afternoon.

Style show entries are to be judged at 9:00 o'clock on Tuesday morning. Health girls are to be examined at 10:00 o'clock Tuesday morning.

The formal demonstration program is to be opened by the county officers Tuesday morning at 10:30 with a roll call of clubs and community singing. Demonstrations are scheduled as follows:

Tuesday morning—
11:00-11:30—Iowa U-Go-I-Go
11:30-12:00—Belles of Boone
Tuesday afternoon session begins at 1:15
1:30-2:00 — Woolstock Willing Workers
2:00-2:30— Norway Jolly Joy Makers
3:00-3:30—Dayton Dandies
3:30-4:00—Grant Go Getters
Wednesday morning meeting called to order 10:00 o'clock
10:30-11:00—Lake Prairie Pals
11:00-11:30 — Lincoln Lassies League.

The style show, one of the big features of the year's clothing project, is scheduled for 2:30 Tuesday afternoon. Each club is entitled to have two girls represent them in this feature. Girls are to make the garments they wear.

A program has been planned for Wednesday afternoon at 1 o'clock. The meeting will again be in charge of the county officers. A report of the 4-H club convention will be given and Elizabeth Adams of Dayton Dandies will give the "Country Girls' Creed." Awards will be presented at this time. The public is invited to attend the demonstration and program.

Special features of the club booths will represent some phase of the clothing project.

DEMONSTRATION TEAMS POLISHING UP

Members of girls demonstration teams are polishing up their demonstrations and presenting them at local achievement shows and neighborhood groups. Interesting titles are being selected for the demonstrations.

Marjorie Skouge and Frances Thompson of Norway Jolly Joy Makers have chosen "Shoe Sense" as the title of their demonstration. "Longer Wear With Special Care of Hosiery" is the title selected by Joann Lindvall and Beverly Muhlenbruck of Grant Go Getters. Virginia McGrath and Louise Pick of Lake Prairie Pals will demonstrate "Pressing the 4-H Way." Lincoln Lassies League's team, Theresa Marshall and Wilma Tillman, are telling "The Tale of the Shirt." "Better Care Makes Longer Wear for Sweaters" is the tentative title for the Dayton Dandies team, Margaret and Norma Hamer.

To Issue "A" Renewal Books

Become Valid September 22nd

Renewal of "A" gasoline books which become valid September 22, will be issued from Sept. 1 through Sept. 21, according to an announcement this week by Walter D .Kline, district OPA director.

He said all renewal books probably will be in the hands of applicants at least several days before Sept. 22.

All renewals will be issued directly by mail from local board offices, Kline stated. Renewals previously were handled by volunteer workers at school registration centers.

Kline said renewal application forms will be available at local offices within a few days, and for applicants living some distance from their local board offices, supplies of forms will be available at centrally located distribution points such as gasoline stations, banks and stores, which will be announced.

Each car owner will be asked to mail to his local board a completely filled out application and his old "A" book, containing his endorsement. Kline said tire inspection records would not have to be mailed with the application.

Volunteers will be needed to assist the regular staff of local boards to speed the issuance of renewal books, Kline explained.

In addition to handling "A" books, boards will have to process the remaining canning sugar applications, as well as renewals of supplemental "B" and "C" gasoline rations, fuel oil coupons and the fourth quarter issuance of "T" coupons to ODT permit holders

Sales Managers For Thompson Meet Here

Purpose Is School Of Instruction And Field Day

Thompson Hybrid Corn Company held its annual meeting of district sales managers here Monday of this week for a school of instruction and field day.

Activities started on Sunday evening with a pot-luck picnic in the city park. During the field day on Monday visits were made to all of the Thompson seed fields and corn breeding nurseries. Chuck [illegible] Thompson plant breeder, demonstrated methods of hand

R. H. Cary, president of the Cary-Ainsworth Advertising Agency, and his assistant, Mr. Reed, were present and addressed the group on "Advertising."

Seeing World During His Army Service

S|Sgt. Leo W. Wagoner Now In France

S|Sgt. Leo Wagoner wrote to his wife in Belmond recently that he had arrived safely in France and described his experiences in the month he has been there as "pretty rough."

Wagoner's activities as an armament man with the Army Air Corps have been quite different from those of the sailor "who joined the Navy to see the world, and all he saw was the sea." Since entering the service in August, 1940, he has been to many places on the face of the globe.

He took his basic training at Chanute Field, Ill., and from there was sent to Puerto Rico where he was stationed for 18 months. He then spent a year at Trinidad. In June, 1943, Wagoner was sent back to the states for combat training which he took at various places including the states of New York, South Carolina, New Mexico and Nebraska, and in March, 1944 was sent to England before participation in the invasion of France.

Sgt. Wagoner's work as an armament man includes the cleaning of guns and servicing the planes with ammunition when they return to their bases after bombing missions.

Mrs. Wagoner, who has been making her home in Belmond since her husband went to England in the spring, has spent a great deal of time with him during his army service. She was in Puerto Rico for several months and describes their life there as quite comfortable since they lived in one of the new homes on the army base. She says, "The weather is very hot the year round in Puerto Rico. During the last few months we were there it was often difficult to get food because so many transports were being sunk at that time."

Presidential Unit Citation To Lost Ship

Raymond Quigley, M. M. On Board, Missing In Action

Mrs. Nelley Quigley received a letter from the Navy Department last week enclosing a copy of the Presidential Unit Citation which was awarded the USS Houston for outstanding performance against enemy Japanese forces in the Southwest Pacific from December 7, 1941, to February 28, 1942. Mrs. Quigley's son, Raymond Aloysious Quigley, M. M. 3|c, who is missing in action, was on board that vessel on the occasion of the citation which read as follows:

"The President of the United States takes pleasure in awarding the PRESIDENTIAL UNIT CITATION TO THE UNITED STATES SHIP HOUSTON for service as set forth in the following CITATION:

'For outstanding performance against enemy Japanese forces in the Southwest Pacific from Dec. 7, 1941, to Feb. 28, 1942. At sea almost constantly, often damaged but self-maintaining, the HOUSTON kept the sea. She maneuvered superbly and with deadly anti-aircraft fire repulsed the nine-plane Japanese Bombing squadron attacking a troop convoy under her escort. Later in company with other Allied ships, she engaged a powerful enemy force, carried the brunt of the action with her two remaining 8 inch turrets and aided in damaging and routing two enemy heavy cruisers from the line of battle. On Feb. 28, the HOUSTON went down, gallantly fighting to the last against overwhelming odds. She leaves behind her an inspiring record of valiant and distinguished service.

For the President,
Frank Knox, Secretary of the Navy.'"

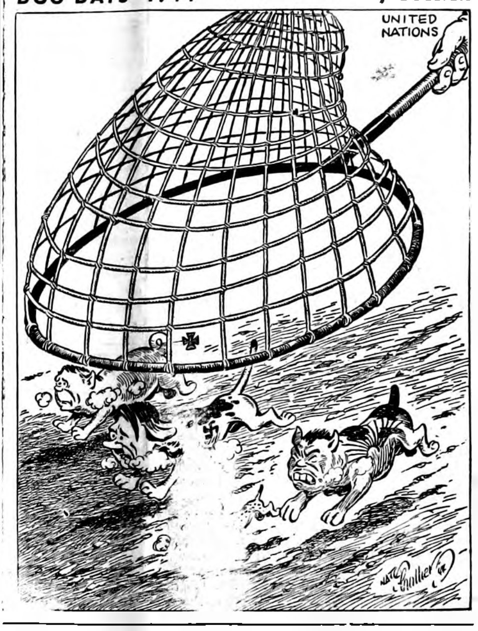
DOG DAYS—1944 . . . . By COLLIER



With The Boys In Service

CAPT. FINN AWARDED AIR MEDAL

Marine Captain Howard H. Finn, 25, of Belmond, Iowa, recently was awarded the Air Medal at the Marine Corps Air Station, Mojave, Calif., in recognition of "meritorious achievement while participating in aerial flight as a division leader of a Marine fighter squadron operating in the Solomon Islands area."

Captain Finn, who already holds the Distinguished Flying Cross, entered Marine Aviation upon graduation from Iowa State Teachers College in 1941. He received flight training at Pensacola and Miami, Fla., and was commissioned in July, 1942.

His parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Finn, reside at Belmond. Captain and Mrs. Finn are living at Mojave near the desert airfield.

LOCAL SOLDIER AWARDED COMBAT DECORATION FOR FIGHTING IN ITALY

With the Fifth Army, Italy—Private First Class Melvin L Johnson, whose home is in Belmond, Iowa, has been cited by his regiment of the 88th Infantry Division and awarded the Combat Infantryman Badge for actual participation in combat with the enemy on the Fifth Army front in Italy.

Standards for the Badge are high. The decoration, which was recently authorized by the War Department, is awarded to the infantry soldier who has proved his fighting ability in combat.

The handsome badge consists of a silver rifle set against a background of infantry blue, enclosed in a silver wreath.

WATER COOLNG SYSTEM IN CENTRAL PACIFIC

Aircraft mechanics stationed on a sunbaked 7th AAF base in the Central Pacific slaked their thirsts with water chilled via stratosphere refrigeration, according to Staff Sgt. Merle Thayer, Belmond, Ia., ground crew member of a 7th AAF fighter squadron. "There was no refrigeration when we first were stationed on the island" said Thayer. "It was useless to attempt to quench our thirsts with water hot enough to boil an egg, so we'd send up canteens full of water with the planes. After three or four hours in the stratosphere the planes returned with the water in the canteens nice and cool"

RECEIVES LETTER FROM SON'S BUDDY

Mrs. Omer B Kelly received a letter from a buddy of her son, Omer B Kelly, Jr. W. T. 2|c in which he states, "Your son is still out there but in the best of health I promised him I would write to you as I was lucky to be transferred back and have enjoyed a 25 day leave in the states." The boys have participated in raids on eleven islands, some of the most outstanding being the Marshall Islands, Truk, Marcus, Wake and New Guinea. He also states that Omer was probably at Saipan but he missed that because of being transferred.

Rural Schools Open Aug. 26 Or September 4

Teachers Secured For 75 Schools With Three Exceptions

Teachers have been secured for all but three of the seventy-five rural schools of Wright County which will open their doors on Aug. 28th or Sept. 4th. It is expected that Dayton No. 4, Norway No. 1 and Belmond No. 8 schools will secure teachers before the opening day.

Because of the shortage of teachers at least 25 per cent of those employed are married women, former teachers, who are helping out for the duration.

New readers, arithmetic and language books have been adopted this year and a science reader has been added to the supplementary reading list.

The first meeting of the year will be held in Clarion Saturday morning, September 2nd at which time Mr. McGeorge of the John C. Winston Company will explain the new arithmetics. General information will be given, especially to new teachers, and supplies distributed.

Norway Township—No. 3, Ruth Veldhouse; No. 4, Elaine Janson: No. 5, Calene Ziska; No. 6, Elaine Engh; No. 7, Mrs. Ed Campbell.

Belmond township—No. 1, Ruth Halfpap; No. 2, Mrs. Gladys Russell; No. 3, Gladys Eliason; No. 4, Mrs. Virgil Bailey; No. 5, Dorothy Soma; No. 6, Marian Green; No. 7, Mrs. Avis Fjetland.

Pleasant Township—No. 2, Hildegarde Gruis; No. 4, Rose Ormsby; No. 5, Evelyn Pals; No. 6, Marjorie Goeman; No. 7, Mrs. Janet Boelman; No. 8, Mrs. Marian Lee.

Iowa township No. 3—Earlene Van Buskirk.

Iowa No. 4—Mrs. Matilda Ainslie.

L. D. R. GIRLS SPONSOR COOKIE SALE SATURDAY

L. D. R. girls of the Trinity Lutheran Church are holding a cookie sale at the Pals' A. B. C. Grocery Store Saturday, August 19. The public is cordially invited to help make the sale a success.

UNIQUE BRACELET CAME FROM ENGLAND

Mrs. Frank Davis is the proud possessor of a unique bracelet sent to her by her son, Sgt. Raymnd Davis, from England, which is worth far more to her than its weight in silver. The bracelet is made of English three-pence silver coins, 10 of them joined together with small links. The coins are a little smaller than the American dime and worth about five cents each in U. S. money.

Sgt. Davis was sent to England in October, 1943 where he studied Diesel Engineering. He is now stationed in Ireland where he works on airplane motors.

Schedule Army Exams For 17-Year-Olds

Recruiting Officers In Eagle Grove And Clarion

Civil Air Patrol officers and an army air force examining board from army recruiting headquarters in Des Moines will be at the Clarion and Eagle Grove post offices on Tuesday and Wednesday, Aug. 22 and 23 respectively, at 10 a. m. to conduct a qualifying mental examination for young men interested in future training as members of air combat crews and|or for young men who wish to qualify for a military scholarship under the Army Specialized Training Reserve Program commonly called ASTRP.

Briefly, the following opportunities are now open to young men of 17 on an enlisted reserve status in the army:

1. Air Corps Enlisted Reserve. Applicants must be 17 but under 18 years of age on date of enlistment for future training as air combat crewmen—gunners, bombardiers, pilots and navigators. AAF training begins upon reaching age 18.

2. Air Corps Enlisted Reserve plus ASTRP. This is a new feature of the air corps program in which Air Corps reservist, if they are under 17 years and 8 months on date they enlisted, and will graduate from high school before reaching age 17 years and 9 months, may take advantage of ASTRP which provides a military scholarship in selected colleges at Government expense until the young man reaches age 18. At that age the AAF trainee is called to active duty in the air corps for training as a combat crewman.

3. Enlisted Reserve Corps. ASTRP. This program, formerly known as A-12, requires that applicants must be 17 but not over 17 years and 8 months of age on date of mental examination and also must be graduated from high school before reaching 17 years and 9 months of age. The ERC reservist likewise is given ASTRP training in college until reaching age 18, after which he wll be called to active duty in the army. An ASTRP military scholarship provides free tuition, uniforms, housing and meals, medical care, text books and transportation. Classes open every 30 days.

A youth may determine for which program he qualifies by taking the above scheduled examination. If not qualified for any of the above programs, he still may enlist in the ERC unassigned and will be called to active duty after reaching age 18. If in high school at that age, he can be deferred to complete the term.

MAYOR'S NOTICE

I wish to remind all drivers of automobiles and trucks that the speed limits in Belmond are 20 miles per hour on Main Street and 25 miles per hour on residential streets.

Drivers must have their cars under control at all times, and violators of the Belmond speed limits will be subject to fines.

Ed Kennedy, Mayor

ABSENT VOTERS LAW

For Those In The Armed Forces

Considerable has been written in our daily papers by various parties criticizing the Iowa Serviceman's Vote Law, and this article is written with the thought in mind of trying to give those interested a better understanding of the provisions of this law that it may be of maximum benefit to the servicemen and women who wish to vote.

However a person votes, whether by regular ballot, an absent voters ballot, a servicemen's ballot, or by federal ballot you are governed by certain regulations.

First—The Iowa Servicemen Voter Law gives the serviceman an opportunity to vote for as many of the candidates as he desires

Second—The Serviceman may apply anytime, NOW, at the County Auditor's Office for his ballot

Third—Beginning Wednesday, August 29, application may be made for and on behalf of a voter in the armed forces of the United States by a spouse, parent, adult brother, adult sister, or adult child of any such voter, on forms that may be obtained at the County Auditor's Office.

Fourth—For men overseas time is a large factor, and so any one making application for those in the armed forces should do so as early as possible, August 29.

This office, as always, is trying to give you the best possible service to these absent voters, and will do everything that is legally possible to expedite these ballots that they may be returned in time to be counted at the General Election Nov. 7

Whenever possible ballots travel by air mail

The cooperation of relatives is needed and requested, that as many as so desire may vote.

F. ROSS HENRY,
County Auditor.

NEW HOMES FOR BELMOND—

Citizens of Belmond in general and new people contemplating employment with the General Mills soybean processing plant will be gratified to see work begin on the 15 family dwelling units for Belmond approved last week by the National Housing Agency.

However, this preliminary step of government approval is only one of the many obstacles that must be overcome before the new project becomes a reality.

Desirable sites will have to be found for the 10 new homes and the five conversions. Private parties with idle money will have to be sold on the value of such an investment, both for themselves and for the town, which shouldn't be so hard to do. Securing materials for building and equipping the homes will not be an easy task. More difficult than anything else, however, will be the problem of finding enough skilled labor to get the work finished in the not too distant future.

—v—

NO STRIKES IN THE ARMY—

There are no strikes in the army, and there should be no strikes in industry in war time.

While there may be logical reason for promoting or holding strikes in normal times, there should be some means of preventing or quickly controlling strike measures during war. Our government has been given such widespread dictatorial control over so many of our usual free enterprises, that we can see no excuse for tolerating strikes that are damaging to civilian life and morale and a hindrance to the most successful persecution of the war.

With millions of American men forced by our selective service laws to face death on the battlefronts, strikes at home seem unpatriotic, unthinkable, and yet they continue to occur in this country with amazing regularity.

—v—

OPPORTUNITY FOR YOUTH—

A considerable number of Belmond youths out of high school but not yet old enough for service with the armed forces have been working during the summer months, some of them even longer, at attractive wartime wages at the General Mills soybeans plant.

These young men are getting valuable experience for later work while helping with an important construction job. May we hope, however, that war-time employment of boys of their age will not interrupt plans for future college training.

Incidentally, it wouldn't take many months of work at the Belmond plant for Belmond youths to save enough money to insure the future pursuit of a complete college education.

TOO FAR AWAY FROM POLITICS

During President Roosevelt's visit to Hawaii to confer with top military leaders on war strategy, he made some interesting and significant remarks:

Looking over the military installations at Pearl Harbor since the December 7, 1941 destruction the president "termed the conversion the 'most amazing change' he had ever seen."

Regarding the pursuit of the war he said. "We are going back to the Philippines. . . and MacArthur is going to be apart of the operation."

"Our goal still is unconditional surrender for all our enemies. Whatever is required we are going right through to clean up the Japanese."

The president admitted to reporters that new Japanese offensives would start soon but reminded his listeners that soon is a relative term, and that strategy is a constantly shifting thing.

In his speech accepting Democratic renomination, he said he had no time for political campaigning in the usual sense but would report to the people from time to time. In Hawaii he turned aside campaign questions by saying he was too far away from politics.

WITH OTHER EDITORS—

Apparently traffic accidents are on the increase and this despite the fact that driving speeds have been reduced, unnecessary driving curtailed, and thousands of drivers removed through war. Undoubtedly this increase results at least in part from the rundown condition of tires, motors and automobile frames. With new cars practically off the market, garages short of skilled help, and new tires and parts curtailed, constant wear and tear on automobiles from now on will show up in the highway accident records. Greater care and caution should be the aims of every responsible driver.—Decorah Public Opinion.

—v—

The federal government, believe it or not, sends out one of every 16 letters mailed in the United States. Federal departments use the mails enough to send every one of the 30 million families in this country an average of 60 letters a year. Think of of the amount of paper used and the expense of paper and the compilation of this material.—Albert Lea Tribune.

—v—

We recently read of an old gentleman who attached a note to the first bond he bought. Because it is so appealing we are quoting from the closing lines: "I buy this bond for the same reason that my grandfather planted the trees beneath whose shade I sit on summer days." He knew he would not live to see them but he also knew that they would shelter those he loved." I know that what I do now will help to save the things I hold dear for the people I hold dear," he continued. If all of us took the attitude of this old gentleman there would be no falling short in meeting the bond quota set aside for us.—Garner Leader.

"What will take its place if the state income tax is repealed?" is a question often asked. But there need be nothing take its place, as the state treasury now has a very large surplus on hand. Were the tax repealed, as it should be under present conditions, it could be restored at any time if the future the legislature deemed restoration advisable. But to ask state income tax payers to pay more on top of the excessive demands of the federal government is not fair and equitable. Those who pay no such taxes are very much opposed to giving any relief to those who do. This is an exhibition of selfishness that is surprising, to say the least. Justice in taxation should prevail, no matter who is benefitted or penalized.—Webster City Freeman.

Who gets the farm land now held by the army and navy? Speculators, big operators or actual farmers? There shouldn't really be any question on this, but reports are going around that 1,500,000 acres of crop land now held by the army and navy may be auctioned off soon to the highest bidder.

Instead, this land should be turned over to the Department of Agriculture to be sold off in family-sized units in much the same way as in the tenant purchase program. But the army and navy would rather get rid of the land fast ,regardless of who buys it.

This farm land should be held for sale to ex-service men. Farm organizations had better get busy to see that it is.—Wallaces Farmer.

Prittle... Prattle....

Dear Gang:

When we finally arrived in Sandpoint, we decided to stay at the Lutheran Service Center. It is a small old building that has been papered and repainted and furnished by the ladies of the Norwegian Lutheran Church. It is supported by contributions and the 50 cent pieces of the boys who stay here. For 50c we get a bunk, a hot shower and all the free eats we want. It is a very pleasant place with a friendly woman at the desk who tries to make us feel at home.

P—P

I am now in Barracks 6A4 in Camp Scott, OGU. This used to be a boot camp and this is the same building in which George lived when going through Boots last year. Every day except Sunday, while we are in the outgoing unit, we go somewhere on an all-day work party. Some of the boys even go into Spokane to work in a box factory making boxes for the Navy Supply Depot. Our job for today was at the Officers' Mess on the lake shore. I helped a company man sweep the veranda, square away the furniture, dust, empty ashtrays, etc.

P—P

The draft list posted last night found 30 of Co. 608 going out to sea— the younger boys. The rest of us are still wondering—

P—P

Today 50 of us from the barracks here were loaded into a bus at 0645 for Spokane. It took us about an hour and a half to get there. After arriving at the depot we were assigned to tables, given hammers and nails and started in on huge piles of cut lumber. Boxes of all sizes are made—from small ones for blood plasma to boxes as large as a piano. We had an excellent meal at noon at the cafeteria. The depot is a huge affair employing thousands of civilians, mostly women and old men. Naval and marine personnel are in charge. The warehouses cover a section of land and everything the navy needs can be found there with the exception of the ships, and they even have parts of them.

P—P

The ride over was very pleasant and I can now say that I have been in the state of Washington. We rode through a valley all the way with the mountains on each side. Farming would be impossible without irrigation. We passed mile after mile of truck gardens, containing cabbages, raspberries, tomatoes, cucumbers, potatoes, etc. and saw large orchards of cherries and apples. There were many 40 to 80 acre fields of wheat, oats and buckwheat.

P—P

Went to Spokane again today and did the same, except to build bigger boxes. We work right out in the sun on the asphalt paving between two warehouses and as it was terrifically hot today I am nursing a bad sunburn. The supply depot is a regular dating bureau for the young sailors since all the femmes live in Spokane that work here. The boys are allowed liberty every 4 days while in OGU, and if they have the money, they usually go into Spokane.

P—P

Another draft list again tonight; but nothing in it for yours truly. Shucks! I'm likely to end the war making boxes! I just got to visiting with a man across the writing table and to my surprise, we had met several times before when be was on the road for Proctor and Gamble and traveling the Belmond territory. His name is Thornberry and he said he knew Ronnie Courson when he was in Des Moines. I also learned that Gene Allen of the Clarion Reminder is out here.

P—P

It is the 9th of August today and at last I have news—I am to be sent to Quartermaster School at Camp Gilmore here at Farragut. It will be for a period of 16 weeks. It is the same school that Lee Lieuwen attended. If one graduates in the upper 10 per cent he is given a third class p. o. rating. It is a right arm rating which means that the man has studied for something that is useful only in the navy, such as Bos'n, Gunner's Mate, Fire Control, Torpedoman, QM., etc. They concern the operation of a ship only. QM involves the study of navigation, use of signal flags, blinker, the operation of the ships controls and a lot more. As I understand it the QM and the officer of the deck work with the commander of the ship in all its operations. You will gather from the above that I stand a pretty good chance of being sent out to sea after this course is completed. The only alternative would be to become an instructor at some training center. At least I won't be making boxes from now on

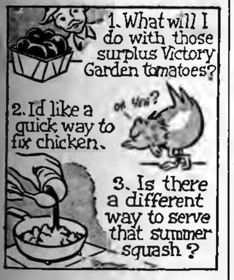
Dear Miss KITCHEN..



1. What will I do with those surplus Victory Garden tomatoes?
2. I'd like a quick way to fix chicken.
oh, you?
3. Is there a different way to serve that summer squash?

1. Chili Sauce uses quite a few tomatoes. Look in a modern cookbook for a recipe; cook sauce slowly in a large pan over a top burner, turned to simmer. Cook about two hours, then pour into hot sterilized jars and seal.

2. Broiling is quickest. Split halves, rub with oil or fat, season, place skin-side down on broiler rack; broil about 30 minutes, under the open gas flame, turning chicken once. Baste occasionally with a little fat mixed with hot water.

3. Wash and slice 10 small white squash; mince 5 green onions; place in frying pan with 2 tablespoons bacon fat, season, add a little water; cover pan and let steam over a low flame until squash is barely tender. Add 1 cup tomato soup, 2½ tablespoons brown sugar, 3 tablespoons vinegar Stir and cook until squash is glazed.

ECONOMICS PROFESSOR

OH, PROFESSOR!

I believe a great many nice things will happen to American people in the post-war world if we work hard, think, invent, and save money. But there will be no new magic in the world which will get people something for nothing.

A woman economics professor in an Eastern college has said:

"We are now producing enough to provide every family in the U. S. with an income of $5,000 a year. We have demonstrated that we can abolish poverty, provide all of our people with health and decency in housing, clothing and nutrition, afford real equality of educational opportunity, insure security against unemployment, sickness and old age. But this miracle of production has not been worked by private enterprise alone. It has been ordered, directed and financed by the State. Business has still to demonstrate that it can equal this performance."

This gal forgets there's a war and that all this "State financing" has been done on borrowed money (which it will take us fifty years to repay) and on confiscatory taxes. She talks as nutty as a fruitcake. I want what she wants, but we'll never get it by dreaming of the State as a Santa Claus with a bottomless bag full of bountiful handouts.

REMEMBER WHEN

—mother always baked the family's bread? She set the pan of dough at night to rise until morning. For half a day the smell of baking bread filled the house, whetting appetites
Oven hot bread for dinner. Remember?

County Fairs

County Fairs will soon be in full swing and many livestock exhibitors are endeavoring to put a show finish on their choicest stock.

Quality comes first with BIG GAIN MINERAL STOCK FOOD. It is an "old standby" with many prominent livestock and 4-H Club exhibitors, and has helped them win many State and County championships.

BIG GAIN MINERAL STOCK FOOD was made to build champions and market toppers and it has been doing it. Ask your dealer for a Big Gain catalouge.

Tropical heat waves will leave you as cool and calm as this Powers model if you wear this crisp two-piece gingham, right for town or country. You might make it in a red and white plaid, with trimming of red bias binding. Besides being fun to sew for yourself, it is economical and patriotic, for you will be able to save for more War Bonds and stamps. A suitable pattern may be obtained at your local store.

War Bonds as Investment for Farmers

by Warren W. Hawley, Jr., President
New York State Farm Bureau Federation

IN CHECKING figures of the Farm Credit Administration, I find that farmers are paying off mortgages faster than at any other period in the history of the Federal Land Bank.

At the same time, farmers are building up cash reserves, but the wise investment of this money is an extremely hard job for farmers to undertake. The temptation is to try and obtain as high an interest rate as possible.

Many of us see no reason why we should not get as much interest on our money now as we had to pay the bank when we were forced to borrow during the depression.

The answer is that today money is cheap—"expanded", as the bankers express it. Therefore interest rates are low except in very speculative securities. Naturally no farmer wants to risk losing his hard earned cash.

We farmers know our own business and we can invest money in it safely because we understand it. However, when we branch off into other fields, especially the highly technical field of investments, most of us encounter sad experiences.

In these days it is virtually impossible for farmers to put their surplus cash back into the farm. War-time conditions prevent us from repairing buildings, and buying new machinery, automobiles, trucks and other equipment we must eventually have if we are going to stay in business.

So the smart thing for farmers to do is to invest their surplus money in War Bonds where it is as safe as a dollar bill. These bonds increase in value the longer they are held; they can be cashed after sixty days in case of need, and they will provide a reserve for investment after the war in the business the farmers know best—the business of farming.

I confidently predict that if farmers will do this, the dawn of peace will signalize a new day for agriculture.

Precisely Controlled Gyroscope Heart of New Flight Instrument

DEVELOPMENT of a new flight instrument capable of providing the pilot with precise attitude indications throughout 360 degrees of roll and pitch is announced by the Sperry Gyroscope Company.

For the first time in the history of aviation, the pilot, by means of Sperry's Attitude Gyro, which is being exhibited by Capt. Fred Smith, Sperry's flight operations superintendent, is provided with a visual indication of the position of his aircraft with reference to the earth's surface throughout all possible attitudes through which his airplane can be maneuvered. The Sperry [illegible] types of airplanes and is particularly valuable to those aircraft whose mission requires extensive and complicated aerobatics.

In the past, it has been impractical to perform all aerobatic maneuvers without visual reference to the earth's surface. Using the new Sperry instrument, however, it is now possible to accomplish under instrument conditions all possible aerobatic maneuvers with precision and a high degree of safety.

The new instrument adds to a long line of Sperry flight instruments and, as in other gyro flight instruments, the heart of the Attitude Gyro is a precisely controlled gyroscope.

from New Guinea. He has been in service for the past three years and during that time he has been a buddy of Dale Steenblock, sharing with him the hardships of battle and small glory that has come to them. Dale is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Pete Steenblock and a brother of Donald, Mrs. Meints and Mrs. Pals.

The battalion in which these boys served has received the Presidential Citation for scaling the 9,600 foot Owen Stanley mountain range in October and November of 1942. The story of their experience has been written up for the Saturday Evening Post as "Terrible Days of Co. E." Thornton hold how the infantry men on this march, which was a prelude to the battle of Buna, walked above the clouds, ate rations dropped from planes and had their heels sucked off by swampy moss. Japanese resistance was slight along the way but not so at Buna where they met Japanese marines.

If you need lumber, ask us whether or not you can qualify for the purchase of lumber under the various government orders. There are many false rumors out as to the purchase of lumber, let us quote you the latest information available.

1st—REMEMBER—W. P. B. Order L335 affects the sale of lumber only and does not affect other items sold at our lumber yard, such as Oak Flooring, Mouldings, Doors, Windows, Screen Doors, and other building materials.

2nd—REMEMBER—If you are a farmer or farm owner, your lumber requirements for use on the farm can in most cases be filled at once without the red tape some people would try to make you believe is necessary. See us! We have the necessary forms and can advise you what can and what can not be done.

3rd—REMEMBER—When in doubt ask us and do not rely on the information that "John said Oscar told him that Mary heard over the telephone. . ."

SPLINTERS

-"Drink," said the Irish preacher, "is the greatest curse of the country. It makes yer quarrel with your neighbors. It makes yer shoot at your land-lord, and it makes yer miss him."

We just received some steel posts, if in need of any, better get them as they are going fast.

"What is home without a mother?" said the good looking young man.

"Well," replied the sweet young thing, "I am tonight."

According to a health expert daily use of the tooth brush improves a child's disposition. In the good old days a hair brush was used for this operation.

Order your storm windows now, they are not coming through too fast. Be prepared when cold weather comes.

Everything seems to change, the Lumber business is different from what it used to be. Nothing escapes change—even the lettering on the doors that started out simply as "Men" and "Women" and later became a bit high-hat as "Gentlemen" and "Ladies." Then in the night clubs they broke out with "King" and Queen," "His" and "Her" and other variations.

A new night club in the modern Spanish design extended its Spanish influence to the wording on these two doors. A worried looking businessman from the Middle West hurried to the manager and asked directions.

"Don't you know the Spanish word "Hombre?" asked the manager, indicating with a nod of his head.

"No, I don't!" snapped the worried man, "and this is no time to be giving me a Spanish lesson!"

MADE NEW ENTRANCE

To say that Claude Gifford made an imposing entrance into the Boone Dairy at Boone would be putting it mildly. Gifford intended to back his car out of a parking spot in front of the dairy; instead he put the car into second and the next minute found himself almost inside the building. Curtis Smith, an employee of the dairy, was slightly injured but Mr. Gifford was not injured, nor was the car badly damaged. The heavy glass window of the building was pushed in as were some of the foundation blocks.

Japanese Vessels Trapped Off Saipan

U. S. Marines have a grandstand view as artillerymen shell Japanese vessels in Tanapah harbor. Fleeing Japs tried to escape from Saipan in a few ships they had anchored in the harbor but they didn't quite make it. The puffed oil drums in the foreground are part of an enemy dump which suffered direct hits from American naval gunfire.

READING & WRITING

BY Edwin Seaver AND Robin McKown

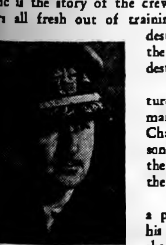
One of the most fantastic episodes of the war in the South Pacific is the story of the crew of the U. S. S. Scimitar, officers and sailors all fresh out of training school, who captured the Japanese destroyer the Hokaidoze, rechristened it the U. S. S. Hokeydokey, and used it to destroy an entire Japanese convoy.



W. C. CHAMBLISS, U.S.N.R.

The full details of this amazing adventure are told in "Boomerang" by Commander William Chambliss. Commander Chambliss was one of the only two seasoned navy men on the Scimitar. But what the others lacked in sea-going experience, they made up for in other ways.

Marston, the gunnery officer, had been a prosperous banker before the war. For his vacations he had done a bit of duck-shooting. When a Japanese plane threatened to bomb the ship, he brought it down with one shot. When the skipper, who knew how limited his gunnery practice had been, asked how he had done it, he explained, "The theory of shooting down a plane from the surface is just like shooting ducks. Only with the duck, you just get one shot."

Then there was Ensign Bull, a former commercial photographer. He was the one who suggested they camouflage the ship with palms and spray lacquer on the leaves to preserve them — the same way he had done with plant props in his work. It was through that disguise that the Scimitar was able to surprise and capture the much larger Hokaidoze.

The story of "Boomerang" should make a rousing movie and has, in fact, already been bought by Twentieth Century-Fox.

The Book-of-the-Month Club selection for October will be "The World of Washington Irving" by Van Wyck Brooks. This is the third "panel" on the great mural of American literature Mr. Brooks is creating. The first two volumes were "The Flowering of New England" and "New England: Indian Summer" which was also a book-of-the-month.

LATEST MODEL

In "Traveler from Tokyo" John Morris tells of some of the elaborate precautions the Japanese took to conceal their military strength. A few years back there was an exhibition in Tokyo, at which were displayed various types of military aircraft by different countries of the world. Most nations contributed, if not their latest models, some of fairly recent design. But prior to the exhibition the Japs held a meeting to decide, not, as might be supposed, what latest models might be safely shown, but what were the most obsolete designs that could be exhibited without arousing suspicion.

DOWN THE WELL

Herman Wessels of near Sheldon luckily managed to get the tractor he was driving over an old well which had been filled in years previously but had been softened by recent heavy rains. One wheel of the tractor was off the ground, but by clinging to the steering wheel, Wessels got the machine to firm ground. Mr. Wessels tested the depth of the mud and as far as a ten-foot stick would reach he he found soup-like mud. It was the first time Herman had any knowledge that a well had previously been there, but Mrs. Wessels who had lived on the farm as a child remembered it.

DIDN'T FREEZE

The interior of the refrigerator in a Waverly cafe is completely destroyed. One morning recently the person opening the Club cafe for business discovered that the working parts of the machine were burned to such an extent that some of the thinner pieces of steel could easily be crumpled. Electricians examining the machine have been unable to give cause for the actions of the refrigerator.

NEW PET

Ethan and Bruce Brayton of Somers have acquired a new pet. It is a baby skunk. When the small pet first came to the Braytons, the boys fed it milk with a medicine dropper.

Home Under New Conditions

Men cutting and shocking oats on the Alfred Billerbeck farm near Reinbeck, were very careful not to unduly disturb a nest full of small meadow darks. The men placed the oat bundle in such a manner that the nest was exposed to view after it had been tied into one of the oat bundles. The mother bird then went on taking care of her young in her new surroundings.

OAT SHOCKERS

Time that ordinarily would have been spent "talking things over" following a regular meeting. 19 to shock 35 acres of oats. The Corning men did the good turn for John Wolford, recently hospitalized.

EAT PLENTY OF BREAD

More came Out of that Old Lunch Pail than went In

Big sandwiches with thick slices of bread helped to build the brawn that built America's industrial might.

Wartime demands upon men and women, young and old, have brought us as a nation to a stern realization of the need for an adequate diet for all.

So today—in homes, in plant cafeterias and in restaurants large and small—America is wisely recognizing the nutritive importance of bread. Now enriched, it is the finest bread ever set before the human race . . . so good that our ancestors would have called it cake.

When you eat plenty of enriched bread, you improve your diet besides saving ration points for other good foods.

In addition to supplying the bakers of America with yeast, Anheuser-Busch manufactures glider and bomber fuselage frames, wing parts, gun turret parts and foodstuffs for the government, and produces other materials which go into the manufacture of: Rubber Aluminum • Munitions • Medicines • B Complex Vitamins • Hospital Diets • Baby Foods Bread and other Bakery products • Vitamin-fortified cattle feeds • Batteries • Paper Soap and Textiles—to name a few.

In your own family circle or on evenings when good friends surround you, simple sandwiches become delicacies when served with golden, bubbling Budweiser . . . which accents the flavors of all good foods, yet never loses the identity of its own distinctive taste.

Franklin County Fair Opens Next Tuesday With Program-Exhibits

The Franklin County Fair will be held in Hampton next week, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, August 22nd, 23rd and 24th, with a fine program of free attractions, fast running races, livestock exhibits, demonstrations and a midway filled with extra entertainments for fair visitors.

Tuesday will be entry day and the opening program will be presented before the grandstand on Tuesday night. There will be programs each afternoon and evening on Wednesday and Thursday.

Some of the best running horses in the midwest are expected for the race program on Wednesday and Thursday afternoons.

Among the high lights of the free act program, starting Tuesday night, are some of the outstanding attractions on fair circuits. Headlining the performances will be the "Victory Follies" revue with its timely patriotic numbers interwoven with gay music, sparkling dancing and mirth provoking comedy. Between the revue numbers will be an unusual aray of novelty acts and specialties, including Reo and Jardine, celebrated team of adagio and acrobatic dancers. The Dancing Darlings, a group of talented and versatile beauties, William Farrell, popular master of ceremonies; Raymond's Pets, offering two distinctly novel acts with pony, dogs, monkey and cockatoos; Joe Kelso, master comedy juggler; Lewis and May, funny clown and beautiful lady; The Great Fussner, performing on a huge hall on a high spiral rigging, offers plenty of thrills. These with numerous other features will be seen with changes in each program.

There will also be the various 4-H club shows and demonstrations, baby health contest, floral hall exhibits, industrial exhibits and all of the attractions that go to make an interesting fair.

The midway will feature the Tivoli Exposition Shows with plenty of rides, concessions and shows to amuse everyone.

Mrs. Charles Studebaker returned Monday from a visit with her husband, Pvt. Chas. Studebaker at Camp Roberts, Calif. She reports her husband to be hospitalized, as yet, because of a foot injury.

Annual Heart Tag Sale Here Next Saturday

Funds Used For Many Purposes

Permission has been granted by the mayor of Belmond to the Volunteers of America to conduct their annual Heart Tag Sale here next Saturday, August 19.

This national organization was instituted 48 years ago by Generals Maud and Ballington Booth for the purpose of helping federal prisoners, their wives and children, spiritually as well as financially. During the passing years other features were added including old people's homes, children's homes, welfare associations, homes for wayward girls, children's summer camps as well as an extenive program to help combat juvenile delinquency. Since the war the organization has also been remembering those in the Armed Services, who have few if any relatives, with gift boxes upon application by some friend.

Invitations to help with the Tag Sale have been mailed to many of the young people attending Belmond schools. Children in the fifth to eighth grades who may not have received such invitations and wish to help with the sale are asked to be present at the Case Hotel at 9:00 o'clock Saturday morning. Attractive cash awards will be given to those collecting the largest amounts for their Hearts. All others who collect at least $3.00 each will receive a pass to the Lyric Theatre, through the courtesy of the manager, George Hake.

Miss Minnie Riekens, leader of the local organization, earnestly solicits the cooperation of the community in this project. Sponsors include Mayor and Mrs. Ed Kennedy, Berle F. Bowen, Mrs. Lucia M. Courson, C. C. McGuire, Mrs. E. F. Bailey, Rev. and Mrs. H. W. Faris, Mrs. F. A. Hunt.

Mercury Reached 100 In Belmond Sunday

Belmond was one of many Iowa cities where the mercury reached or approached the 100 mark during the past week, with temperature readings here of 98 degrees on Thursday the 10th, 100 on Sunday the 13th, and 92 on Monday the 14th. Dry weather conditions were somewhat relieved on Tuesday morning, the 15th, when a 92-100 inches of rain fell in Belmond.

THE FAMILY NEWSPAPER

New Belmond Pupils Register August 28-29

For 8th Grade Gradates And Other New Students

Registration dates for new pupils in the grades and high school of the Belmond Public Schools have been announced as Monday and Tuesday, August 28 and 29, by Superintendent Theodore Johnson.

Last year's eighth grade graduates, both rural and town, are to register with Principal Donald A. Faris in the corridor of the new gymnasium building from 10:00 a. m. to 12:00 noon, or from 1:00 to 4:00 p. m. Monday or Tuesday. Students above the ninth grade who attended other high schools last year are also to register during those hours.

New students from other towns are requested to bring with them either a transcript of credits earned in the last high school attended or all report cards issued. Transcript of credits may be obtained by writing to last year's principal or superintendent.

Pupils from grades one to eight, who did not attend the Belmond schools last year are to register in the office of Superintendent Johnson. The hours of registration will be the same as for high school. Grade children are asked to bring their last report cards. The local school authorities reserve the right of grade placement and will administer standardized tests to help determine the grade in which a child shall be placed.

Preliminary registration of kindergarten children is to be made by telephone during office hours any day before school starts, but actual registration will not take place until the first week of school. The information needed in advance is the date of birth of the child and the parent's preference of morning or afternoon attendance.

A schedule of interviews between the parents and Miss Tokheim, kindergarten teacher, will be arranged by telephone for Monday and Tuesday, September 4 and 5. These interviews will be used for registration and will afford parents an opportunity to discuss with Miss Tokheim any special problems concerning their children.

School will open for the 1944-45 year Monday morning, September 4, at 9:00 o'clock. The schedule for Monday, which is Labor Day, will call for only a half day of school.

First Football Practice Is Tonight, 24th

Broncos Meet Clarion In First Game On September 15

This year's football candidates will have their initial practice at the high school field Thursday, today, August 24, a 6:30 p. m. and Coach John Lansing asks all interested players to report for a brief discussion of the schedule and type of play to be introduced.

The local football team commences work for the strenuous eight-game schedule drawn up for this season with the opening game against Clarion on Friday, Sept. 15.

Coach Lansing will have several lettermen returning, but the loss of graduate members will be difficult to replace. The lettermen lost by graduation include Jack Campbell, one of the best football players to wear a Bronco uniform, outstanding for his speed and steady line play; Bob Nelson, a remarkable pass receiver; Myron Goeman, a rugged end; Eddie Banning, a converted back; and Bob McBride, lineman.

Coach Lansing will have 11 returning Bronchos as his nucleus including Richard Michelson, Leslie Classick, Larry Dorr, Linden [illegible]roeger, Arthur and Richard Stock[illegible], Ernest Tudor, Richard Wag[illegible], Glen Meints, Irvin Rosheim, [illegible]le Walrod and Ray Waddington. [illegible] Jones and Paul Dempsey [illegible] promising members who may [illegible] starting positions.

School Bus Rates Are Same As Last Year

All rural children wishing to ride on the school buses this year are asked to telephone Superintendent Johnson's office by Tuesday, August 29. It is very necessary that this information be reported at once so that plans can be completed by September 4. Bus rates will be the same as last year.

Dies After Fall From Car

No Report On Inquest Held Tuesday

Clarion—Mrs. Lola Rubendahl Chaney, 18, died Monday night of a skull fracture suffered when she fell from an automobile in which she had been riding with her estranged husband, Floyd Chaney, San Pedro, Calif.

Sheriff Roy E. Wilson said Chaney left Clarion after learning that his wife had died and that he was arrested later at Humboldt, about 25 miles west. No report has been made as yet on the inquest which was scheduled for Tuesday.

The Sheriff said Mrs. Chaney and her husband, a former marine, had been separated but that he returned to Clarion Monday to see her.

Mrs. Chaney is survived by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. David Rubendahl of Clarion, a daughter, Roberta Jean, 3; three sisters; and two brothers, both in service.

11th Judicial Democrats Met Saturday

Purpose Was Election Of District Judge

The Democratic Convention for the Eleventh Judicial District met in Hotel Willson at Webster City, Saturday, Aguust 19, with delegates from Wright County in attendance. The purpose of the convention was to select a candidate for Judge of the district to fill the vacancy incurred by the resignation of Judge Rider. Delegates from Hamilton, Franklin, Story, Hardin and Wright counties were present.

The convention was called to order by Mr L. L. Lyle of Webster City. Mr. A. B. Halverson of Webster City was elected chairman and Miss Victoria Brown of Ames, Secretary.

Among those whose names were mentioned informally as possible candidates were John Mitchell, Edward Breen and Elmo McCormick of Fort Dodge, Frank Lund of Webster City, and Marion Hirschberg of Ames. When nominations were requested, Elmo E. McCormick of Fort Dodge was nominated and unanimously elected as Democratic Candidate for Judge of the Eleventh Judicial District.

The convention was interested in extemporaneous reports on the National Convention from those who had been delegates. Mr. S. J. Galvin of Hampton, and Mr. R. E. L. Aldrich of Belmond gave their versions of the Wallace fight. Although they differed somewhat as to the reasons back of his defeat, they agreed that he made a noble fight and came out of the convention with enhanced prestige.

Those from Wright county attending the convention were Hjalmer Hiansen, Senator Ulstadt of Holmes; R E. Lee Aldrich, Belmond: Harry Stanbery, Mrs. Genevieve Porter, Clarion: Ed Marshall, Woolstock: Mrs. L. M. Robinson, Mrs. Margaret Thorn, Mrs Margaret Cooke and L. Focht, of Eagle Grove.

With The Boys In Service

HAS BEEN AWARDED AIR MEDAL

Staff Sergeant Daryl E. Hake of Belmond, Iowa, has been awarded an Air Medal for meritorious achievement while participating in an aerial flight over Rabaul, New Britain, on October 12, 1943. This airman was a crew member in the leading plane of a B-24 flight engaged in the first mass daylight strike against this heavily defended Japanese base. Before reaching the target area, one engine in the aircraft became inoperative, but rather than disrupt the formation, the crew elected to remain in position. Despite a heavy barrage of anti-aircraft fire from warships and shore batteries, the crew made a smooth run, enabling the flight to destroy the assigned target, a large merchant vessel. After departing two more engines began to lose power, and a landing on the sea became inevitable. The bomber was brought down with such skill that all of the personnel were successfully evacuated to a small island and rescued the following day. The courage and devotion to duty of this crew member are worthy of commendation.

C. J. Papousek Is New Commander Of Legion

C. J. Papousek, commander; Harold Rierson, vice-commander; William Dempsey, adjutant; Fred Fulton, finance officer; C. C. Christie, chaplain; Duane Dorr, sergeant at arms.

Plans were discussed for the cooperation of the local Legion Post in the nation wide Legion Scrap Paper Drive being held during August with Belmond Legionnaires to make their drive on the evening of Friday, August 25, between the hours of 5:00 and 8:00 o'clock.

Honest People

Two incidents happened in Belmond Saturday night which remind us that there are honest people in the world.

When Mrs. F. Jacobmyer returned on the bus from Mason City Saturday night, her suitcase was taken by mistake and a gentleman's suitcase was left in its place. On Monday Mrs. Jacobmeyer's suitcase was returned to her and she found nothing in it had been molested. Needless to say, she was very grateful to the person who discovered the mistake and returned it.

The same night a tiny wrist watch was lost by Mrs. F. E. Purcell in front of Hokel's Cafe where the bus stops, and thanks to the Belmond police force and honest people who found the watch, the owner was made happy by its safe return.

Sales In All County Liquor Stores Increase As State Showed Drop

Liquor sales in the State of Iowa showed a decrease of 11,862 gallons sold during the month of July as compared to the same month in 1943, and a slight drop from the previous month of June. Wright county stores all showed increased sales in July over June with total sales as follows: Eagle Grove, $7,222.97; Clarion, $5,634.89; Belmond, $4,579.33; Dows, $3,741.64.

Belmond led the county stores in war stamp and bond sales during July with a total of $464.60. The Clarion store sold a total of $116 and both Eagle Grove and Dows, $75.00.

To Canvass City Friday Evening Between 5:00 and 8:00

Eimbrink Post of the American Legion will collect waste paper in Belmond on Friday, August 25, as part of the nation-wide Legionnaire waste paper drive being held during the month of August.

8,000,000 tons of waste paper are needed this year by our armed services and essential home producers. This is 2,000,000 tons more than last year! Every item shipped overseas is made or wrapped with paper. Waste paper is war paper today. The American Legion has been called by the War Production Board to help fight the nation's No. 1 war material shortage. Legionnaires in Belmond and from coast to coast are responding to this call.

All kinds of waste paper are needed including newspapers, magazines, paper cartons, boxes and waste basket paper. Newspapers and magazines are to be tied in bundles, paper cartons broken apart and tied securely in bundles, waste paper packed tightly in boxes or containers.

Business men and citizens in the residential district of Belmond are asked to cooperate by having their waste paper prepared and placed on the curb for easy collection. Members of the Eimbrink Post will be appointed before Friday by C. J Papousek, new commander to canvass the city on Friday evening between the hours of 5:00 and 8:00 o'clock. Proceeds from the drive will be used for the benefit of the community.

FOOD AND RUMMAGE SALE GREAT SUCCESS

Receipts for the food and rummage sale sponsored by the Navy Mother's Club No. 302 last Saturday, August 19, was a great success, totalling $131 and reaching far beyond expectations.

The money will be appreciated by the Service Clubs and hospitals to which it will be sent. Some of these Base Clubs are not very pleasant places for want of material but they work for the comfort of service men injured or on embarkation leaves and those having transportation difficulties. This club has been working and contributing toward these projects for 3 years.

U. C. Nolte Home After 53 Missions In Pacific

Pilots "Billy Mitchell" B-25 Bomber

Lieutenant U. C. Nolte, back in the states for a 30-day leave after having completed 53 missions as a pilot of a B-25 "Billy Mitchell" bomber with the Seventh Air Force in the Gilbert, Marshall and Carolina south Pacific Islands, arrived in Belmond on Tuesday to visit with his wife, relatives and friends.

The mission of the Seventh Air Force in preparation for and during the actual invasion of the Marshalls was to deny to the Japs the use of their air power and thereby remove the awful hazard faced by any invasion fleet that a determined attack by land-based enemy aircraft might seriously cripple major fleet units.

So successful was the 7th in performing this mission that the extensive naval forces participating in the assault and occupation of Kwajalein and Majuro—the largest ever assembled in the Pacific—were not at any time before, during or after, attacked by as much as one single hostile aircraft.

Nolte has been fighting the Japs from the air for about 10 months and he has this to say: "The Japs are good fighters, but it is the American ingenuity that is going to lick them. The longer we stay up at the front lines, the more we realize how dependent we are on the skill and wisdom of those back home who are constantly working to improve our equipment and our war strategy."

When Nolte was first sent to the south Pacific area, he states that they didn't seem to make much headway against the enemy. "Our first 20 missions were nip and tuck. One day we would bomb Jap bases, the next day they would be back over us. We were living in the midst of fighting all the time." Describing his first mission, he said "None of us boys knew what this war was all about, but when we got back to our base and jumped out of our planes, practically every one had the same thing to say, 'Why, those blankety-blank, sons of guns were shooting at us.'"

Lieutenant Nolte tells about one mission in which they were to bomb an island that had never been attacked. The squadron flew in formation just 20 feet above the water for about 100 miles. In this way, the Japs were surprised, because flying at this altitude the planes could not be detected. Jap fighters didn't have time to get in the air, but the planes had to fly through black clouds of flak and most of the Japanese infantry grabbed their rifles and climbed the cocoanut trees. "That is the greatest sport I have had, shooting Japs out of trees." U. C. informs us that all those little islands are well fortified

IT ISN'T SMART TO BE TOO OPTIMISTIC—

While it may help to keep civilian morale up to think optimistically about the end of the war, a recent news dispatch from a war correspondent in Italy gives a different slant as far as our fighting men are concerned. This writer reminds us of the following four facts.

1. Until the shooting stops, there is no peace.
2. The shooting has not stopped.
3. As long as the war continues, the smart soldier does not let his mind dwell on the possibilities of an early peace or a quick return home.
4. Knowing full well how demoralizing such thinking can be German propagandists are taking full advantage of all Allied optimistic talk.

—V—

RATION SYSTEM IS FLEXIBLE—

A recent advance from 12 to 16 ration points for a pound of butter was made for the reason that at 12 points a pound civilians were buying more butter than was allotted for civilian consumption. The increase of four ration points per pound at once slowed down civilian purchases to the desired amount. This instance furnishes a good example of the flexibility of the rationing system. By the simple expedient of changing point values, the nation-wide consumption of a scare product was quickly and easily adjusted.

SMALL POTATOES—

One of the reasons potatoes are so high this year, a local gardner says, is that most potato growers experiences have been the same as his has been. The potatoes he has dug so far are smaller than those he planted.

IOWA SERVICE MEN'S VOTE LAW—

Last week the Belmond Independent published an article prepared by F. Ross Henry, county auditor, which explained briefly the provisions and benefits of the Iowa Servicemen's Vote Law and also urged the coopera-vice men, particularly those overseas. in making application for them for ballots for the coming General Election this fall.

Judging by the requests received from servicemen for such ballots for the June primaries, both on duty in this country and overseas, it would not seem that our sailors and soldiers are too much concerned about the problems surrounding the political fronts at home. It will be interesting to see how many take advantage of the provisions of the law in connection with the general Election on November 7.

EARL HALL IN ENGLAND—

Earl Hall, managing editor of the Mason City Globe Gazette, left last week on a visit to war-time England, during which time he will send tion of relatives and friends of ser- news stories to the Globe-Gazette and prepare transcription commentaries for a network of Iowa radio stations carrying weekly radio talks by him.

This trip to England will be Mr. Hall's second visit to Europe and follows another foreign trip made by him three years ago when he was chosen by the Carnegie Endowment as one of a group of representative Americans to study politics, industry, and agriculture in South America for three months.

Mr. Hall's exceptionally wide acquaintance and his ever increasing knowledge and experiences gained in travel give him a wealth of material, which make him in great demand as a public speaker and writer. As editor of the Globe-Gazette he is constantly increasing its prestige as North Iowa's number one newspaper.

WITH OTHER EDITORS

Let us not grow excited and strut because of the expanded bank deposits in Warren county. We are not rich. We are actually poorer than we were.

Study that bank deposit story in the Record of last week and you will see that, if you have $66.37 in the bank, $41.19 of it is invested by the bank in government bonds.

So, in addition to the government bonds you have bought voluntarily, nearly two-thirds of the money you have in the bank is also in government bonds. And what does the government have with which to pay off what it has borrowed from the bank? Nothing but what we give it through taxes, plus whatever material and supplies may be carried over in storage at the end of the war.

Therefore, if we should all ask for our money at once, we would have to dig up two thirds of it in taxes to pay to the government, so it could pay the bank, so the bank could pay us. Now, figure that out and see where we stand. It is the same as if Mr. John Q. Citizen would sign a not to the bank for $2,000, deposit the proceeds in the bank, add $1,000 of his own cash and imagine himself as having $3,000 in the bank.

We are poorer because all the government has bought with the money it has borrowed has been, is being, or will be shot up in the war. That is what war does to us. Let us never get the idea that war makes prosperity. That is the silliest idea anybody ever proposed with a straight face.—Indianola Record.

I talked with a man recently who has sons on the war front in France. He spoke of the peace terms. He was frank about it. He said that he did not care what Stalin or anyone else did to the German people. He felt that a people who would tolerate leaders who would do what German's leaders have done deserved no pity and no consideration. He declared that if it was found necessary to kill the majority of the Germans it would be all right with him. He believed that Hitler had killed or disposed of all Germans of humane tendencies, or who believed in the things that the allies advocate. and that those who were left were of Hitler'ss mind. So they should be eliminated.—Wright County Monitor.

W. B. Wilson, director of the barber division of the board of health was a pleasant caller Tuesday.

Mr. Wilson is in charge of all matters pertaining to public health which may have any connection with Iowa's around 2,500 barber shops and over 5,000 barbers. He reports that compliance with state sanitary regulations is almost universal.

Barber shops are inspected regularly and the proprietors as a rule are doing their best to raise the standard of service. Since the barbers of Iowa have been doing some critical inspection of their own profession, conditions have greatly improved. The commnuity hair brush has disappeared from the shops. Face towels are no longer in service for a week — each patron gets a fresh one. Razors, shears, combs are sterilized immediately after using. Mr. Wilson and his assistants are doing a splendid job in seeing that the regulations are followed.—Eagle Grove Eagle.

—V—

About the only good thing that we can see that has come out of the war is that it has stopped a lot of jaws that had been in perpetual motion chewing gum. We haven't heard of any of the girls dying because they couldn't get their "chewin."—News-Tribune, Britt.

It has been suggested that Germany be cut into three pieces after the war. When our air force gets through they may have to put it back into three pieces. — Hannibal, Mo., Courier-Post.

TEN YEARS AGO —

Mr and Mrs. Larry Murray of Des Moines visited Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Trafford Sunday. Lowell Trafford accompanied them to Des Moines to visit there.

—1934—

Mr. and Mrs. Otto Hanson and son Daryl left last Friday to attend the National Rural Carriers Association meeting at Denver, Colo.

—1934—

Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Erickson and granddaughter, Betty Lou, and Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Kallestad from Ottawa, Ill., visited at the home of Mrs. John Kallestad and other relatives and friends here last week.

—1934—

Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Hanson, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Hanson and Martin Hanson returned Sunday from Chicago where they spent the past week attending the World's Fair. The group also visited a cousin at LaPorte, Ind.

—1934—

Dr. and Mrs. C. B. Gaffney arrived from Syracuse, N. Y., Tuesday to visit the rest of the week in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Barry.

TWENTY YEARS AGO—

A committee of two business men were around last week, soliciting for a fund to put up road signs at various points around the country. Nine big arrows. 10 feet long. are to be placed at leading corners turning to Belmond. A hundred or more smaller arrows are to be placed at various places along the roads leading into town, for several miles in all directions. Each sign will bear the word "Belmond" in big letters, and in addition the smaller signs will give the mileage to town from each particular location of the sign. Stanley Hill has the contract to make the signs. They are to be white with black letters and blue border. Something over two hundred dollars was subscribed by various business men The exact accounting for all funds is to be published later by the committee.

—1924—

Marjorie Bamford had a narrow escape Sunday, when the horse she was riding fell, throwing her heavily to the ground. She was unconscious some time and it was feared she was seriously injured, but now there seems to be no serious results although she is somewhat bruised and sore from the fall.

—1924—

Miss Carrie Baxter of Milwaukee has been visiting her sister, Mrs. A. C. Lieuwen and other relatives. Miss Baxter had just returned from a camping trip in Wisconsin, Michigan and Minnesota. She returned to Milwaukee today where she will begin her fourth year as instructor in one of the public schools.

THIRTY YEARS AGO—

Mrs. McBurney received a letter from her sister who resides in England, in which she states that conditions in that country are a great deal worse than people here can possibly realize. People living along the shore are being driven from their homes to make room for the soldiers and that the government is seizing the crops, that war time prices have hit them with a vengeance and it is not understood what is to become of the poorer class of people.

—1914—

Tom Tyrrell was at Marion, Iowa, last week and witnessed the auto races between the Mercer and Ford cars which was won by the latter. He says it was a very exciting race.

—1914—

This office has been receiving a number of papers from Canada and Boston due to the kindness of F. O Fitts. The Toronto papers are very interesting as showing the spirit manifested there regarding England and the war. If the war continues Canadian troops will be heard from.

—1914—

M. C. Barry was at Meservey last Friday looking after grain on an estate for which he is the agent. The landlord's share of the grain amounted to over five dollars an acre.

FORTY YEARS AGO—

—1904—

Mr. and Mrs. Vest of Traer, Iowa, have leased the Galer residence and will make Belmond their home. Mr. Vest will engage in the mercantile businesss.

—1904—

—1904—

C. C. McGuire made a trip into Minnesota last week to look after land interests.

—1904—

Dr. Kenefick and wife of Algona visited with Belmond relatives last Wednesday.

FIFTY YEARS AGO—

Christian Larson and wife, of West Salem, Wis., came down last week for a visit with their daughter, Mrs. Lud Johnson. They were accompanied by their daughter, Mrs. Greogegon. Mr. Larson is one of the oldest settlers of Wisconsin having lived on the same farm for 42 years, and has many friends and acquaintances in this vicinity. They also visited with Mr. C. B. Johnson who is Mrs. Larson-s brother.

1894

The advisability of sowing winter rye for fall pasture has been talked of very much of late. It does not kill by reason of hard frost and keeps on growing until the ground freezes. In view of the high price of feed a ten or twenty acre field of winter rye might be money well invested.

—1894—

Mr. P. T. Elliott and wife of Grand Meadows. Minn., were down last week to visit his sister, Mrs E. L. Bartholomew and family. Mr. and Mrs. Elliot returned home and were accompanied by Mrs. Bartholomew who will visit her parents a month or six weeks.

Dear Gang

I will write this in the form of a sort of diary so you can see what yours truly has been doing for the past week or so.

Aug. 10

Lined up this a. m. at 0900 for a last physical check up before being sent to our new camp. After chow at 1130 we were ordered to rtport back for fire school class at 1230. We spent 4 hours fighting oil fires in open tanks, in almost closed concrete buildings and in small metal buildings, using all types of foam, as well as fog nozzles of different lengths and velocities. They were raging hot fires. We were issued a helmet and coat to protect our clothes, but our faces and hands looked as black as soot. Most of the men should have conquered their fear of fire if any existed.

P—P

Aug. 11:

Well, I am finally in Quartermaster School here at Camp Gilmore. Today resembled somewhat the first day we went through the receiving unit coming in as boots. Only here we were treated more like white men. If I should come home without any ambition, you can blame it on the hours of standing in line WAITING that I've done in the Navy. This barracks will be on Mess Hall Detail until Aug. 21st, when school starts. We must wear our whites and stand in serving line 3 times a day.

This is a new camp. The barracks are nice. They are heated from a central heating plant. The shower rooms are larger and we have a large waiting room.

It doesn't look as though anyone in this group will graduate with a rate, because they are no longer giving any to those who entered school from the first of July.

P—P

Aug 12

I have had fun today since I've never been in a serving line and I was much amused at the facial expressions and remarks of many of the 500 men who passed through our line. Some thought the chow was swell and one fellow was so disgusted he walked through with an empty tray, cussing all the way. We work from 4 30 to 6 30; from 10 to 1 30 and from 3 to 6. The hours in between are our own.

It has been raining a slow drizzle all day and is quite chilly. They tell me it begins to snow here in September.

P—P

Aug. 13:

The group of men I'm in is composed for the most part of men over 30. We are beginning to get acquainted and have lots of fun Some of our actions, if observed by a civilian, would look pretty screwy. Most any time some one will start waving his arms in semaphore practice and some one else starts dit-dit-dit ting and dah-dah-dahing the Morse code.

I have a little job of sewing to do sometime this week. Each student must wear the insignia of the school to which he belongs on his jumper. The Q. M. insignia is a ship's wheel, worn on the right sleeve.

Our slap-happy bunch is still that way—a gunner's mate just broke out in a rat-a-tat-tat imitating a machine gun.

They are requiring all servicemen at Farragut to vote so I will have to send for an absent voter's ballot. That is a good thing, as I know from experience in June how easy it was to forget all about election day while out here.

The poker hounds are hard at it, a radio is blaring and several of us are trying to write letters in the Rec. room.

P—P

Aug. 15:

817 men passed my cereal bucket this a. m. and practically everyone of them wanted to know when the Navy was going to run out of bran flakes! We're so tired of it, it tastes like sawdust.

I am beginning to shudder at the thought of the strain my mind will be put to when studying begins in earnest next week! It's been a long time since I had to study!

P—P

Aug. 16:

Today I received the Ang. 10th issue of the Independent and was surprised to see the item about young Corwin's death in France. Just a few weeks ago I remembered reading a letter he'd written that was published in the Service column. Those itmes bring the war a lot closer to home.

For this week—that's 30.

Nelson-Meyer Say Vows At Beautiful Candlelight Service

Miss Mildred Nelson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nicholi Nelson of Belmond, became the bride of Alfred Meyer of Toledo, Ohio, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Meyer also of Toledo, at a candlelight wedding at the St. Olaf Church west of Belmond, Tuesday evening, August 22. The double ring ceremony was performed at eight o'clock by Rev. Severseike The church was decorated with cut flowers and candles

Preceding the ceremony nuptial music was played by Miss Esther Simonson of Rolfe, college friend of the bride, and Miss Ether Nelson of Lake Mills sang "Oh Perfect Love."

The bridal party proceeded to the altar to the strains of Lohengrin's Wedding March. Miss Ruth Nelson, sister of the bride, was the junior bridesmaid and wore a floor length dress of blue marquisette and a shoulder veil to match Bridesmaid was Miss Margaret Meyer, sister of the groom. She wore a pink lace and marquisette dress with a shoulder length veil to match. Both girls carried colonial bouquets

Maid of honor was Miss Esther Nelson, sister of the bride, who wore a yellow floor length dress and shoulder length veil to match. She carried a bouquet of pink roses. David Nelson was the ring bearer and Naomi Dawn Nelson was the flower girl. The ring bearer wore a brown and white suit and carried the rings on a pillow. The flower girl wore a yellow dress and sprinkled rose petals down the white carpeted aise

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a white marquisette and lace floor length dress with a train and a finger tip veil. Her bouquet was of red roses.

During the ceremony Esther Nelson sang "I Love Thee" and "The Lord's Prayer." The bridal party left the altar to the strains of Mendelssohn's Wedding March

The groom was attended by Reuben Nelson, brother of the bride, and the ushers were Everett Nelson of Minneapolis and Clifford Nelson of Belmond. All wore rose boutonnieres.

The bride's mother wore a luggage tan dress with white accessories and the groom's mother wore a blue dress with black accessories. They both wore corsages of gladiolus.

Following the wedding a reception was held in the church basement for eighty guests of the bride and groom. During the reception Everett Nelson gave a short talk. The color scheme was pink and blue and a three tiered cake with a bride and groom on top, served as a centerpiece.

Mr. and Mrs. Meyer left on a short wedding trip, following the ceremony. Mrs. Meyer chose as her going away costume a dress of luggage tan with white accessories

Mrs. Meyer is a graduate o Belmond High School. She attended Waldorf College at Forest City and graduated in 1940. She taught school at Terrill, Iowa, and later attended Concordia College at Moorehead, Minn. For the past year she has been working as parish secretary at Toledo, Ohio.

Mr. Meyer is employed by a glass company at Toledo.

They will leave from Belmond Friday for Toledo, Ohio, where they will make their home.

Dirks-Allen Wedding At Meservey

Miss Ruth Ann Dirks, daughter of Mrs. Kathryn Dirks became the bride of Lt. John Newton Allen, son of Mr. and Mrs. S. Allen of Coin, on Friday evening, August 11, at 8 o'clock at the Meservey Reformed church with Rev. E Kampmann, officiating, who read the double ring ceremony.

Lighted candles in candlebra surrounded by gladioli, chrysanthemums and other garden flowers and palms, decorated the church for the ceremony. Nuptial music was played my Miss Alvina Ostendorf of Meservey, organist and preceding the exchange of vows, Miss Bertha Rimer of Hollandale, Minn., a college friend of the bride sang "At Dawning" and after the ceremony "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride, who entered with her uncle, B H Gruis, was attired in a white marquisette floor length gown made with a net and lace yoke. Her veil was fingertip length and she carried red and white gladioli tied with white satin streamers.

Miss Dorothy Schroeder, of Media, Ill., college friend of the bride, was bridesmaid. She wore a floor length dress of yellow satin and carried a colonial bouquet of orchid colored asters. The ushers and candlelighters, Misses Dorothy Ostendorf and Eleanor Faaborg wore floor length dresses and corsages. Mrs. Dirks, mother of the bride, was gowned in a flowered jersey and Mrs. Allen, mother of the bridegroom, in black sheer Both had shoulder bouquets.

The bridegroom was attended by his brother-in-law, Vern Williams of Coin, as best man

A reception was held at the home of the bride's mother, following the ceremony. Candles and flowers decorated the bride's table which was centered with a 3-tier wedding cake.

Mrs. Allen is a graduate of the Meservey High School and attended Central College at Pella, where she took part in musical activities and was affiliated with the Delphi Literary Society

Lt. Allen was graduated from the Coin High School and attended college at Pella. He received his wings Aug 4 at Pampa, Texas. After a short wedding trip, he and his bride will go to Greenville, Texas, where he is stationed.

CHURCHES

BAPTIST CHURCH
"The Bible Church"
J. Lester Williams, pastor

How true it is that most of us are creatures of Habit. We attend church or fail to attend because one thing or the other is our custom. But we will not deny that in these troublous days the church, through the Gospel message, is the one haven of solace the source of spiritual nourishment which is available for every one that will ask for it. "I was glad when they said unto me, let us go unto the house of Jehovah." Psalm 122:1 (R. V.)

Sunday school sessions take up each Sunday at 10 a. m. Come spend one hour of Christian fellowship and Bible study with us. Good teachers await you and classes for all ages.

READING & WRITING

BY Edwin Seaver AND Robin McKown

Hilary St. George Saunders is probably the world's most widely published author today. However, his new book, "Pioneers! O Pioneers!" is the first to come out under his own name. Official Recorder of the British Government, his books on various phases of the war, published anonymously, "The Battle of Britain," "Bomber Command" and "Combined Operations," have sold millions of copies in England. "Combined Operations" was also a Book-of-the-Month Club selection in our own country. In addition, he has written with a collaborator and under the pseudonyms, David Pilgrim and Francis Beeding, some fifty historical and mystery novels.

HILARY ST GEORGE SAUNDERS

"Pioneers! O Pioneers!" is the result of a trip which Mr. Saunders made to the United States in 1943, at the special invitation of Elmer Davis, Head of the Office of War Information. While here, he traveled about the country for some six weeks, conferring with officials and speaking before defense factory workers and other groups. His book is a shrewd, penetrating, and sometimes humorous account of his impressions of America at war as he saw it at that time.

In Hollywood, one of his favorite persons was Walt Disney, of whom he says, "He has the simplicity of greatness and the greatness of simplicity." He was also impressed by the Hollywood Mogul who greeted him with a ten-minute oration, with gestures, on the origins of the war, on Hitler, and on what he had said to the House of Commons the last time he was in London. Writes Mr. Saunders, "It was the first time in my life that I had been addressed as a public meeting at a range of two feet. I was stunned." Then the Mogul, seeing the effect he had made, paused and with a disarming smile remarked, "That wasn't a bad act, was it, considering I only had five minutes' warning of your arrival . . . Now if I had only known this morning that you were coming . . ."

Mr Saunders was entertained by all sorts of people during his visit, and he is duly grateful for American hospitality. But what he seems to have enjoyed most was a visit he paid one summer day to a peaceful Iowa farm, run by an old farmer, his wife and his son. This farmer, who reminded him of a character from the Old Testament, told him, "A good sky, a good rain and a good earth—if everyone had these they could be content."

In the days of the Puritans, relates W. F Woodward, in "The Way Our People Lived," a statute forbade a man to kiss his wife in public. The chronicles of the time record the case of a Boston sea captain who had been away for a year on a long voyage. On his return his wife went down to the water's edge to welcome him. He took her in his arms and kissed her, with many people looking on. For that serious piece of misbehavior he was taken before a magistrate and sentenced to two hours in the pillory on his first afternoon on land.

Better Sight Means Higher Grades

REPORT CARD

WHAT ABOUT THEIR EYES? Will Bill and Jane be dull, listless nervous. . . Symptoms usually found where poor lighting prevails, or will they be bright, happy, raring to go, full of pep and anxious to study?

Just Two Things To Remember

1. GOOD LIGHT IS KIND TO CHILDREN'S EYES
Whenever young eyes are being used—whether in school, doing home work, or at play—good light helps prevent eyestrain and helps eyes develop properly. It makes lessons easier, helps students to get better grades.

2. AND GOOD LIGHT COSTS LESS THAN EVER
At today's low electric rates, good light is one of the cheapest things you buy. For instance a 100-watt bulb in an I. E. S. study lamp supplies good light for a whole evening's study for about a penny.

CATTLE — Prices have held up well for this time of the year. Fat cattle 13c to 15c; stock cattle 9c to 12c; fat bulls and cows 10 to 12; good demand for breeding bulls; an exceptionally good veal market now; cutters and canners 6c to 8c.

HOGS — Wet sows, boars and heavier hogs selling 75c to $1.00 up from a week ago; wet sows 12c to 13c; feeding hogs 13c to 14c; brood sows $50 to $60.

SHEEP—Native ewes 5c to 7c; fat lambs 13c to 14c.

HORSES — Good farm trade and killer market.

Good advice, fair dealing and plain friendliness—these are the things farmers value in doing business with Wehrheim's

FARMERS as a whole, we've found, have mighty sound reasons for anything they do. Farming is risky enough without trusting to luck needlessly. Hundreds who sell cattle, hogs, sheep and horses through Wehrheim's at Webster City year after year can give good reasons why they do.

LOOK AT IT from your own standpoint. As hundreds of satisfied farmers can tell you, that you can be sure of fair, reliable grading and right prices. Val Wehrheim has a reputation for these things—built up during 25 years of service to the farmers.

WE PROVIDE a ready market for your livestock 12 months of the year. That's because people who buy depend on WEHRHEIM. They buy time and again. You deal with men who know the business from your side. You'll like the friendly, helpful service you get.

OF COURSE, there are other good reasons, too, why hundreds of farmers—many right in your locality—like selling through Wehrheim's. There is the convenience of selling close to home—the pleasure in dealing with men who have grown up in the business.

Next time you sell cattle, hogs, sheep or horses—try Wehrheim Sale Barn at Webster City.

TO OUR BUYERS—Our sales have volume enough to provide buyers with any amount of stock of different classes. Always glad to have you buyers attend our auctions.

MR. FARMER — During the busy season you may send your livestock in to our sale and we will give it our personal attention and sell it to the same advantage as if you were here.

Please send instructions with your trucker, describing your livestock, give your name and address.

FOR YOUR CONVENIENCE — We are open Saturday nights for your service or proceeds will be mailed if desired.

TORPEDOED

Two couples in a rowboat in Clear Lake experienced the novelty of having their craft split completely in two midships by a speed boat recently. The pilot's view was cut off by a sailboat until he was directly upon the smaller boat. He rescued the couples, Mr. and Mrs E. W. Witt and Mr. and Mrs Walter Beine, all of Charles City.

EVERYBODY SAW IT

Lt. Nolte Home—

and that they throw everything at you, including cocoanuts.

"Most folks back home don't have a very clear conception of what many of the Pacific islands are like," Nolte tells us. "Some of them are hardly more than pinpoints in the ocean. In the Marshall group big bulldozers of the Navy Seabees scraped up coral while the tide was out and piled it between the small islands in order to build an adequate landing strip for the planes.

Lieut. Nolte believes in "Lady Luck" and says that he will never forget the time he lived his life over again in the space of three seconds. Flying in formation at low altitude to bomb an embankment which had been built for the protection of grounded enemy planes the pilot of the plane on U. C.'s left dropped a delayed action bomb into the embankment. But instead of exploding, the bomb rolled down the incline of the embankment bounced up into the air again and was shooting along in formation with the planes Nolte thought "This is It," with 500 pounds of explosives charged to go off in about three more seconds. the planes only about 20 feet from the ground and 8 feet apart He couldn't turn to either right or left to get out of range of the cone of explosion (1500 feet, so instead turned the nose of his plane almost straight up until he was above the squadron and then pulled out and away, and none too soon. Only four fragments from the exploded bomb struck the planes. Nolte's one rudder was torn off and one wing damaged, but the concussion was so great it dented in the side of the plane and pulled the light bulbs right out of their sockets. Only one man was injured, breaking an ankle as he was knocked down from the concussion, the rest didn't even get a scratch

Lieut. Nolte enlisted in the Army Air Corps in February, 1942. was commissioned from the advanced school of the LaJunta Colorado Air Field in April. 1943, following which he took tactical training at Fresno, California and was on submarine patrol at San Diego until he left for the Hawaiian Islands in the fall of 1943. Among the awards that have come to him are the Air Medal with the Four Oak Leaf Clusters and the Distinguished Flying Cross, which he received for displaying high professional skill and courage in blasting Japanese positions

Two couples in a rowboat in Clear Lake experienced the novelty of having their craft split completely in two midships by a speed boat recently. The [illegible] was cut off by a sailboat until he was directly upon the smaller boat. He rescued the couples, Mr and Mrs F. W. Witt and Mr. and Mrs Walter Beine, all of Charles City.

EVERYBODY SAW IT

PICKED GOOD TOWN

Workmen putting in a new Northwestern road station platform at Goldfield found a full kit of burglar implements underneath the old platform. A loaded revolver, two bottles of nitro-glycerine, fuses and caps were included in the items found.

"Most [illegible] back home [illegible] have a very clear [illegible] of what many of the Pacific islands are like," Nolte tells us. "Some of them are hardly more than pin-points in the ocean. In the Marshall group big bulldozers of the Navy Seabees scraped up coral while the tide was out and piled it between the small islands in order to make an adequate landing strip for the planes.

Lieut. Nolte believes in "Lady Luck" and says that he will never forget the time he lived his life over again in the space of three seconds. Flying in formation at low altitude to bomb an embankment which had been built for the protection of grounded enemy planes the pilot of the plane on L. C.'s left dropped a [illegible] bomb into the embankment. But instead of exploding, the bomb rolled down the incline of the embankment, bounced up into the air again and was shooting along in formation with the planes. Nolte thought "This is It," with 500 pounds of explosives [illegible] in about three more seconds the planes were flying 20 feet from the ground and 8 feet apart. He couldn't turn to either right or left to get out of range of the cone of explosion (1000 feet), so instead turned the nose of his plane almost straight up until he was above the squadron and then pulled out and away, and none too soon. Only four fragments from the exploded bomb struck the planes. Nolte's one rudder was torn off and one wing damaged, but the concussion was so great it dented in the side of the plane and pulled the light bulbs right out of their sockets. Only one man was injured, breaking an ankle as he was knocked down from the concussion; the rest didn't even get a scratch.

Lieut. Nolte enlisted in the Army Air Corps in February, 1942, was commissioned from the advanced school of the LaJunta, Colorado Air Field in April, 1943, following which he took tactical training at Fresno, California and was on submarine patrol at San Diego until he left for the Hawaiian Islands in the fall of 1943. Among the awards that have come to him are the Air Medal with the [illegible] Oak Leaf Clusters and the Distinguished Flying Cross, which he received for displaying high professional skill and courage in [illegible] the Japanese [illegible].

Investigate Sites For 10 New Belmond Homes

F. H. A. And Contractor Approve Some Lots

During the last week F. H. A. representatives Messrs. Holm and Smith of Omaha, Nebraska, consulted with the Housing Committee in Belmond and looked over prospective locations which would meet with F. H. A. approval in this city in connection with the proposed construction of ten new homes, approved recently by the National Housing Agency for employees of General Mills Inc.

The local committee appointed by C. C. Christie, Chamber of Commerce president, includes Clark McNeal, chairman; A. C. Hanson and C. C. Benson. Mr. McNeal reported this week on the investigations and progress of plans, which are as follows:

Following the visit of the F. H. A. representatives, F. B. Dickinson of the F. B. Dickinson and Company (Engineers and Contractors) of Des Moines came to Belmond to look over some of the locations inspected by the F. H. A. authorities on which certain reccomendations had been made. He gave his approval on several of the sites which would be suitable for building and left instructions with the Committee on Housing to ascertain the availability of lots and secure price quotations.

Under F. H. A. regulations, specifications of which Mr. Dickinson must follow, the cost of the real estate is necessarily limited and will, therefore, be a deciding factor as to where the new homes will be built. At the present time the committee is acting under the direction of the contractor in ascertaining the availability of lots and the willingness of owners to give options for purchase. When a sufficient number of lots have been obtained, it will then be necessary to have the final approval of Mr. Burnham, F. H. A. appraiser at Omaha.

If the contract is let to the above mentioned Mr. Dickinson, the financing, construction, rental and sale will all be handled by the contracting company.

Mr. McNeal asserted, "The Chamber of Commerce and the community are extremely anxious to get preliminary arrangements made in order that we can facilitate completion of ten homes for key men of General Mills Soybean Plant at the earliest possible date."

Mr. McNeal quoted the contractor, Mr. Dickinson as follows: "With favorable cooperation of the community in making available the desired real estate and in obtaining commitments on the part of government authorities, we could expect the homes to be completed and ready for occupancy by the middle or latter part of January." Mr. Dickinson has recently finished a housing project at Newton and is working at the present time on a group of new homes in Al[illegible].

Reports On Wright County Crop Prospects

McNeal Observes Corn, Soybeans

Clark McNeal, farm manager for the R. E. Courson agency, makes a report on farm crops this week based on his observation in various parts of Wright county.

Mr. McNeal has figured out the present prospects of the 1944 Wright county corn crop on a percentage basis as follows: 30 per cent of the corn is already well dented and will be sufficiently well out of the way of frost in another 10 days. An additional 40 per cent is no farther advanced than the roasting ear stage and will need a full 30 days for maturity in order to insure its safety from frost damage. 10 per cent of the corn crop cannot be expected to be useful for anything other than ensilage. The remaining 20 per cent is just approaching the denting stage and will need 20 days of good warm weather to fill in and ripen satisfactorily.

According to Mr. McNeal's observations much of the early plantings of soybeans is podded, with beans well formed, showing prospects for maturity well in advance of frost. Earlier varieties such as Habaro and Richland show the best prospects at present for yield and maturity. Among later varieties and later plantings, the beans are just beginning to pod and in some instances filling. McNeal states, "A great deal of good weather will be necessary to put the later soybeans out of the way of frost."

Fall plowing is getting well under way and most farmers report plowing conditions have improved greatly since precipitation the middle of last week.

Three-ring Circus In Belmond Saturday, 22nd

Al G. Kelley and Miller Bros. three-ring Circus will appear in Belmond on Saturday, Sept. 2 with the tent located on the high school athletic field at the east edge of the city. Two performances will be given starting at 2:00 o'clock in the afternoon and 8:00 in the evening.

Featured in the circus are trapeze artists, comedy acrobatics clowns, aerial acts, trained domestic and wild animals, daring horsemen and a side show presenting more freaks, curiosities and novelty acts than ever before.

Overseas Christmas Mail Rules Announced

Period Is September 15 To October 15

'Save strong string and box material and start to plan shopping.' Postmaster General Frank C. Walker advises Americans in announcing the rules for mailing of Christmas gifts for Army and Navy personnel overseas.

This year the Christmas mailing period for both Army and Navy overseas forces is the same—Sept. 15 to Oct. 15. After October 15 no gift parcel may be mailed to a soldier without the presentation of a written request from him.

The great demands upon shipping and the need for giving preference to arms, munitions, medicine and food is the prime reason for the early mailing date. Moreover gift parcels must travel great distances to reach Army and Navy personnel who are located at remote points, and frequently the transfer of large numbers to new stations necessitates forwarding of the packages and additional time is required.

Among the more important rules for Christmas mailings to the armed forces overseas are the following:

The parcel must not exceed five pounds, and must not be more than 15 inches in length or 36 inches in length and girth combined. It should be marked 'Christmas parcel' so that it may be given special attention to assure its arrival before Dec. 25. More care must be taken in wrapping and packing parcels securely and addressing them clearly and correctly.

Not more than one parcel may be mailed in any one week to the same member of the armed forces by or in behalf of the same mailer.

When combination packages are made up of such items as miscellaneous toilet articles, hard candies, soaps, et., the contents should be tightly packed so that they will not become loosened in transit and damage the contents or the cover. Hard candies, nuts, caramels (including those covered with chocolate), cookies, fruit cake, and chocolate bars individually wrapped in waxed paper, should be enclosed in inner boxes of wood, metal, or cardboard.

Need Scrap Paper

An urgent appeal comes from the War Production Board to get in all possisible Scrap Paper before the end of this week. Farmers, as well as city people who did not have their scrap paper ready for the drive last week, are asked to deliver it to local scrap dealers.

Car Owners to Receive New "A" Gas Books

Application Dead Line Is September 15

Wright County car owners will be issued new Basic "A" mileage ration books for use following the expiration of the present "A" books, September 21. Approximately 1500 car owners are effected by the new issue and it is suggested by ration board officials that applications for the new "A" book be filled out and turned into the ration office at once in order that the processing of the 1500 books may be completed by the board and the new books in the hands of car owners prior to September 21. The dead line for receipt of the application has been set for September 15 by the board.

For the convenience of applicants over the county all service stations, as well as ration offices, have been provided with application forms R-534 (Rev. R-544) where car owners may secure and fill out the blanks and then forward to the ration board office for processing

Applicants for the new book should be sure that the blank R-534 is filled out carefully and correctly in order that return for corrections will be unnecessary and the issuance of the new book will be the sooner possible. For instance, the upper part of the blank will be the application and the lower part or "stub" will be the mileage rationing record. Both parts are to be completed by the applicant, except those parts set out in the heavier black borders. Attach to the application the back cover of your present "A" ration book containing your signature and address. As soon as the board can act upon your application, if found correctly filled out, you will be mailed the new "A" book

If at present you have stamps attached to the back cover of your present book it is advisable that you use them first in order that you may send the back cover with your application. If torn out, they are void.

SOLDIER MEETS FORMER BELMOND TEACHER SINGING IN ITALY

With the Fifth Army, Italy.—Private First Class Paul Meyer of Michigan City, Ind., dropped in to see a Red Cross show while serving with the 3rd "Marne" Division on the Fifth Army front in Italy recently and found his former singing teacher entertaining.

Meyer, an infantryman, had not seen Miss Ann Goplerud since she taught him voice when he attended high school in Belmond, Iowa.

After the show, they had a short visit.

Meyer has served in Africa and Italy. Miss Goplerud, a member of the Red Cross troupe, has been entertaining the GI's in Africa, Sicily and Italy for the past 16 months, but until the recent meeting the paths of the two had not crossed.

School Bell Monday To Ring In 1944-45 Year

36 Out For Football In First Call

Coach Lansing Names Probable Positions

Coach John Lansing's first call for the coming football season was answered by a group of 36 youngsters who are anxious to win a starting position.

According to Coach Lansing, it is evident that this year's squad will pack power as well as speed. Included in the list of players reporting are Larry Dorr, last year's high scoring quarterback who will play left half this year, Linden Proeger, a rugged lad who didn't participate last year but was a regular during the 1942 season, Paul Dempsey, a stocky speedster; Hadyn Jones, the probable quarterback; Richard Mickelson, the hard-driving full-back who will be opposed by sophomore Glen Meints. The other backfield members are Irvin Roshiem, Dale Walrod and Joe Anderson.

This year's line will be headed by two stellar tackles, Les [illegible]sick, a 230 pound junior, and Art Stockseth, a regular for the past two years. Other tackles reporting are Charles Papousek, Robert Rodemeyer and Carl Val Griesy Guard positions will be taken care of by Ernest Tudor, Richard Stockseth, Clair Janson and a new boy, Merle Janson, a transfer from the Glidden high school. Richard Wagner, last year's pivot man, and a newcomer, Jake Eekhoff, a promising 180 pound freshman will take care of the center spot. End positions will be represented by several newcomers, namely: Ray Waddington, Allen Ter Hart, George Hinman, Ronny Hunter and Raymond Mehl.

Although the opening of school is not scheduled until Sept. 4, Coach Lansing requests all new freshman to report for practice Friday, September 1 at 6:30 p. m

Students Meet For Half Day September 4

The 9 o'clock bell will ring in the 1944-45 academic year of the Belmond Public Schools Monday morning, September 4.

Elementary pupils as well as the junior high and high school students will meet for a half-day session, during which certain routine matters preparatory to the beginning of the class work will be disposed of Lockers will be assigned, book rentals collected, and books issued. Rules and regulations of the school, both old and new, will also be explained during this time.

High school students will report to the auditorium, seventh and eighth grades to the junior high study hall, and elementary pupils to their respective classrooms.

Regular kindergarten classes will not begin to meet until Wednesday, as the first two days of the week are to be devoted to registration. Parents will register their children with Miss Tokheim, kindergarten teacher, and will be given an opportunity to discuss the program with her.

Advance registration for new students in high school and the elementary grades was carried on Monday and Tuesday, as well as a preliminary kindergarten registration. Any who failed to register those days may do so Monday morning. All prospective freshmen are to report to Mr. Faris, principal, tomorrow morning at 10:00 for a series of preliminary tests that are to be completed and scored before the opening of school.

A slight change in the bus routes has been necessitated in order to equalize the length of the two routes, according to Superintendent Johnson.

Route 1 will extend a mile farther east and one farther north than last year. That part of the old route lying west of Highway 69 has been dropped from Route 1 and added to Route 2.

The bus on Route 2 will start its course south on 69, turn north at the corner known as the Harry Sorenson corner, and continue straight north to get on the old route.

A letter explaining in detail these changes and showing the exact routes will be mailed to all bus patrons this afternoon.

Bus service will begin Monday with Oliver Goodwin driving Route 1 as in the past, and Rev. Charles Duxbury driving Route 2.

Parents are urged to send book rental money either by check or in cash the first day. The yearly fee in grades 1 to 3 is $1.50; in grades 4 to 8, $1.75; and in high school, $2.00. Fees for the grades include the cost of spelling workbooks, which become the property of the child, and in the primary grades reading workbooks as well.

The cost of high school workbooks will be additional to the rental fee. The rental fees now charged through the school include a 25c fee that is applied to the rental of educational movies.

Randall Klemme To Participate In Chicago Institute

"Food In International Relations," Topic For Discussion

Randall Klemme is among the 50 persons chosen from members of college faculties and governent positions to participate in discussions of the topic "Food In International Relations," which are being held at the University of Chicago, September 4 to 9, at the 20th Institute of the Norman Wait Harris Memorial Foundation In International Relations.

Among noted leaders in the field of economics expected to be present are Dr. Margaret Reed, Head of Consumer Economics, Iowa State College; Dr. T. W. Schultz, formerly head of the Department of Economics at Iowa State College and now at the University of Chicago; Dr. Carl Brandt, formerly director of the Berlin Agricultural College who left Germany just before the Nazis started suppression, now with the Stanford University Food Institute at Palo Alto, California. Men and women from all over the U. S. and South American countries have been invited to attend.

Mr. Klemme, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Klemme of Belmond, is now Associate Professor of Agricultural Economics at the Oklahoma A. and M. College, Stillwater, Oklahoma. He was graduated from Belmond high school in 1928, received his degree at Grinnell College in 1932 and has done postgraduate work at Iowa State College and University of Chicago He arrived in Belmond Saturday for a few days' visit with his parents while his wife and daughter are at Wabasha, Minnesota.

Mrs. A. F. Sibert and children of Mason City visited at the Harty Lathrop home Sunday and with other relatives.

Floyd Chaney Pleads Guilty

Taken To Fort Madison Wednesday

Floyd Chaney, 32, pleaded guilty to manslaughter following the death of his wife, Lola Rubendall Chaney, who was fatally injured in a fall from a car a week ago. He was sentenced Saturday by Judge Sherwood A. Clock at district court at Clarion not to exceed eight years in the penitentiary at Fort Madison, subject to the authority of the Board of Parole of the State of Iowa. He was taken to Fort Madison on Wednesday by Sheriff Roy E. Wislon. Defendant's appeal bond was set at $10,000.

Chaney waived formal arraignment and pleaded guilty to the manslaughter charge on county attorney's information.

Chaney was arrested shortly after Mrs. Chaney died in a hospital at Clarion. Sheriff Roy E. Wilson picked him up at Humboldt.

"BACK-TO-SCHOOL"

September 4 marks the opening of another school year in Belmond, and we are looking forward, not only to school events that are of general community interest, but also to the change in our daily routine and atmophere which seems to step up to a faster and more exhilarating tempo when the boys and girls start back to school again.

In connection with the opening of school, the Belmond Independent wishes to add its emphatic if humble approval to the advise given by eminent authorities who are saying to the young people, "go back to school." This plea is coming from such persons as Paul V. McNutt, chairman of the War Manpower Commission; John W. Studebaker U. S. Commissioner of Education; Randal Jacobs, vice admiral U. S. N., chief of navy personnel; H. H. Arnold, general U.S. Army, commanding general Army Air Forces and Katherine F. Lenroot, chief Children's Bureau, U. S. Department of Labor. Even Bing Crosby is lending his personal charm and appeal to the cause by appearing in a movie skit in which he explains to boys and girls how important it is to stay in school now and prepare for the important years ahead.

Locally, the Belmond Schools are opening this year with so much to offer: A complete faculty, well trained in their fields of teaching; specialists among members of the faculty to direct the many and varied extra-curricular activities enjoyed by Belmond students; modern facilities and equipment more than adequate to take care of the educational needs of the community.

KEEPING UP WITH THE WAR

Events are moving so fast on the war front these days, that it is difficult for the busy man in civilian life to keep up with the victorious march of the various allied armed forces.

Thinking about the gigantic strides that are being made against the enemy reminds us of the terrifically big job it has been and still is for those military specialists who have been planning the strategic moves of the various branches of our fighting forces and coordinating their efforts to such a remarkable degree of accuracy and achievement with the British and Russians and now with the conquered nations who are swinging over to fight by our side.

INFANTILE PARALYSIS

Although more cases of infantile paralysis have occurred than were originally anticipated for this period of the year, the Iowa State Department of Health states that the gain should not cause unnecessary worry or fear, at the same time suggesting safeguards and precautions.

"Parents should be on the lookout for any deviation in health in their children and they should be especially careful of any unexplained fever in areas where the disease has occurred.

"Common sense is a good guide. Stomach upset with vomiting, constipation diarrhea, severe headache, or signs of cold or fever can be the beginning symptoms of infantile paralysis and should not be dismissed too abruptly.

"Early diagnosis and early treatment are the keys to effective treatment while a 'let's-wait-an-see-what happens' attitude is a barrier to good progress."

WITH OTHER EDITORS

People in rural communities should be thankful they are settled where they are. Some of the things to come in the urban centers are ugly and menacing. Racial strife following the close of the war may be as intense as to shake the foundations of the government. The seeds are flourishing, and some of the ugly fruit appears every week somewhere in the country. And both sides are being too encouraged to "start something." —Kossuth County Advance.

Adolph Hitler and Emperor Hirohito, who went into the real estate business in Europe and East Asia respectively a few years back find it a tough and uncertain venture. They are finding it pretty hard to keep up the taxes and their holdings now, and are losing their grip pretty fast on some of it. Maybe Uncle Sam can bring about a foreclosure just about Dec. 7, 1944, as an appropriate anniversary present, for them.—St. Ansgar Enterprise.

—V—

Miss Mae West came back to Broadway from Hollywood as the author and star of a costume play about Imperial Russia. It's title was "Catherine Was Great." According to the critics, Catherine may have been, but the play wasn't. Even so, Miss West may take heart. for her place in history is secure. Inflated life jackets will surely continue to bear her name when the names of the critics who planned her are long forgotten.—Austin (Minn.) Daily Herald.

Addressing 260 members of the graduating class of the State University of Iowa Friday night Dr. Thompson Stone, visiting lecturer in the music department, according to the report in the Des Moines Register, made the following statement:

"The man with fair gifts and a reasonable stock of determination who uses his will to affirm and reaf firm his purposes, who translates his decision into action, that man has a good chance of reaching his chosen destination in life."

We've heard many entire addresses which contained less of value than that speaker put into one short sentence.—Eldora.

Someone guesses the postwar living standard will be lowered. But perhaps a downward revision would be no lower than the one to which many of us have long been accustomed. What is a high standard of living? Is it one that insures every convenience and luxury, little work, big pay, no responsibility and much leisure?? Or is it an uninterrupted flow of wholesome food, a comfortable home and plenty to do to keep one's mind and hands usefully employed? But whatever it is, no one is going to scare us into thinking we can't stand it.—Wayne Herald.

—V—

One thing that puzzles the average citizen is why a war production worker who has been receiving the highest wages ever paid in history will need unemployment compensation as soon as the war ends. What has he done with the great gobs of cash he has been receiving? Are we to maintain him in splendor the rest of his days?—Humboldt Republican.

—V—

It may have been a very fortunate thing for the united nations that Hitler was not killed in the bomb plot. If the Prussian generals had gained control of the army, they would probably have made general withdrawals on all fronts, saved many armies and been able to have fought a longer war on a shorter front. As it now stands the axis may be cut to pieces before such a consolidation can be made and in any event, they have lost much man power. It is possible of course that the bomb "plot" was a fake, taken to forestall action by the Prussian generals, and to force a complete nazi party control of the army.—Summit, Forest City.

Dear Gang —

I served "King Size" weiners on my last day in the serving line—800 lbs. of them. What a delicacy.

P—P

Met a fellow today from Clear Lake who is being sent this week to Motor Machinists' School at Ames. What a break for him.

P—P

There is usually a slip-up in the chow here every day. The cooks get an order to prepare enough food for 3,000 men and then 4,000 show up. Sombody miscounted—so what can the cook do? Today they started with fish, that ran out, and the lines waited while some pork chops were whipped up. Then they ran out of pork chops and were served weiners again.

P—P

It is a relief to be in our regular barrackss and have a foot locker in which to stow our gear instead of having to live out of a sea bag. I could use two lockers, however, the size of this one. This barracks is on the highest knoll in Camp Gilmore and from here we can see every building in the camp—as well as get a better view of those blankety-blank mountains.

P—P

One day soon 20 of us are going to make up a hiking party and go to Bayview down near the boat docks—then maybe we'll go up the side of the mountain to the lookout tower. I ought to climb at least one mountain while I'm here and the weather is still nice.

P—P

Our uniform during school hours is good old dungarees and blue denim shirts. After evening chow we wear our undress blues. The daily schedule is up at 5:00, chow at 5:45, school at 7:20, chow at 11, school at 12:10 until 4:00. Once a week we stand a 2 to 4 hour watch. The rest of the day is ours. Bunk muster at 9:10 and lights out at 9:30.

P—P

Earl Hall really gets around, doesn't he. He will have a lot of interesting things to talk about when he gets back.

P—P

The other night I had a talk with Lyle Sheller. He had had a shop at Rippey, Iowa, until last year when he was in Alaska. He now in temporary ship's Co. and works at Camp Hill. His wife and children are living in Cour d'Alene.

P—P

I just about froze this morning after I went off watch. I had all my blankets doubled over me and my pea coat over my feet and I was still cold.

P—P

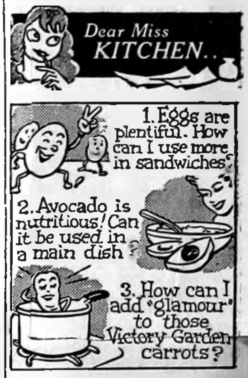
The first day of school we were filled so full of all the different things we have to learn before graduation that those of us who are out of practice in studying are pretty worried. 66 flags and pennants to learn, Semaphore and Morse code, Qm. watches and duties, seamanship, flag hoist and communications instructions, navigation, etc.

P—P

Four of us went to Spokane on Tuesday the 22nd, for our first liberty—at least, it was the first one for me. Spokane is quite a town, about the size of Des Moines. We had a hard time getting a room, but finally got the last one at the Davenport Hotel. Decided I didnt' care much for liberty—at least, it was the first back to camp.

BELMOND LOCALS

Mrs. Roy Scoles of Janesville visited from Wednesday until Saturday last week with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Davis.



Dear Miss KITCHEN..
1. Eggs are plentiful. How can I use more in sandwiches?
2. Avocado is nutritious! Can it be used in a main dish?
3. How can I add "glamour" to those Victory Garden carrots?

1. Three good fillings are:
   Chopped egg, minced green pepper and onion mixed with mayonnaise. Scrambled egg with crumbled bits of crisp bacon. Chopped egg, diced sweet pickle and mayonnaise.
2. Avocado-tuna salad is zestful.
   - 1 can tuna, drained and flaked
   - ¾ cup diced celery
   - 1½ tablespoons minced green pepper
   - 1 tablespoon minced onion
   - ½ cup chopped walnuts
   - ½ cup mayonnaise, thinned with French dressing
   - 3 avocados, peeled and cut in half lengthwise

   Mix ingredients and fill avocado halves; serve on lettuce with radish garnish.
3. Try Lyonnaise Carrots.
   - 2 small onions, minced
   - ¼ cup butter or margarine
   - ½ teaspoon salt
   - ¼ teaspoon pepper
   - 4 cups cooked carrots
   - 1 tablespoon minced parsley

   Brown onions in butter, add salt, pepper and carrots. Cover and cook slowly for 15 minutes over a low gas flame. Sprinkle with parsley.

Death From Electric Wire Is Instant

George S. Campbell, 45, residing on a farm a mile west of Kanawha, was instantly killed when he came into contact with a wire on a leaning pole of the Central States Electric Company power line, on Thursday noon.

Mr. Campbell, with the assistance of his 18 year old hired hand, Walter Asche, was hauling his last load of hay from the field, when his loader came into contact with the high line and the hay became ignited.

He got off the wagon and in unhitching the trailer accidentally contacted the current of 4000 volts which passed through his body, bringing instant death.

The high line pole was broken during a storm in the spring and a wire hanging too low was the cause of the accident.

Mr. Campbell is survived by his wife and a 10 year old son and an 11 year old daughter.

Funeral services were held at the Kanawha Methodist Church Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

Obituary of George S. Campbell

The community was deeply shocked and saddened Thursday, when it was learned that Geo. S. Campbell was instantly killed by electricity while conducting his regular farm work.

The deceased was born in Goldfield, Iowa, Aug. 16, 1899, to the parents George A. and Emma Campbell, departing this life at the age of 45 years, 8 days.

He grew to manhood in Goldfield, attended the Public School and was a member of the United Presbyterian Church. At the age of 18, he moved to Luverne. Later he located near Kanawha.

He was united in marriage to Leona M. Mozack of Britt, Aug. 27, 1931. To this union 2 children were born: Joy Rae, 11 years and George Arlen, 10 years.

George was a devoted husband, a kind and loving Daddy. He was a good neighbor, ever ready to lend a hand when needed, even as willing and ready hands were extended to him and his family, especially at the time of his sudden death. He always had a ready smile for everyone. He will be greatly missed by all who knew him.

Besides his widow and two children, he leaves to mourn, his mother (Mrs. Emma Campbell) one brother, Harry W. Campbell of Percy Brink, Burt, Iowa, and Mrs Des Moines; two sisters: Mrs. Alvin Engstrom, Renwick, Iowa; Mr. and Mrs. Ellis Mozack, Britt, Iowa, and Cyril Mozack serving in the armed forces in New Guinea.

Funeral sevices were held at the Kanawha Methodist Church at 2:30 p. m. with the Rev. J. F. Moore officiating. Burial was in the Britt Cemetery.

REMEMBER WHEN

—women's hats were held in place by two or three hatpins? Long affairs they were, some with large fancy heads, jewel studded and ornately decorated with metal work. Putting on and taking off a hat was a real feminine art that required a mite of patience along with the skill of adjusting pins. Remember?

Miss Verbena Meinders Becomes Bride of Dell Friesleben

Miss Verbena Meinders of Belmond, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Henry Meinders, became the bride of Dell Friesleben, son of Mrs. Henry Friesleben of Alexander, Thursday evening, August 24, 1944 at six o'clock p. m. The double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Wintermeyer at the Evangelical Feformed church at Alexander, which was beautifully decorated with gladioli and other cut garden flowers.

The bridal party proceeded to the altar to the strains of Lohengrin's Wedding March played by Mrs. Lester Muhlenbruck of Hampton, sister of the groom, who also played the recessional.

Preceding the exchange of vows, Mrs. William Vierkant of Alexander, sister of the bride sang, "I Love You Truly" and "The Prayer Perfect."

The bride, who was given in marriage by her brother, Alfred Meinders of Thornton, was attired in a white sheer brocaded gown with a sweetheart neckline. Her finger tip veil fell from a halo of rhinestones and she wore as her only jewelry a strand of pearls, a gift of the groom. She carried a bouquet of red roses.

Her sister, Miss Pauline Meinders of Belmond, served as bridesmaid and wore a gown of pink marquisette and carried a bouquet of pink and white carnations.

Ringbearer was Donavan Friesleben, nephew of the groom, who carried the rings on a white satin and lace pillow. He was dressed in a brown suit.

Alvira Meinders, niece of the bride and Maxine Muhlenbruck, niece of the groom were flower girls and wore floor length dresses of white and yellow polka dot taffeta.

The groom wore a blue suit and was attended by Wilbur Pletch. They both wore white carnation boutonnieres.

Ushers were William Vierkant and August Friesleben. Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of the groom's mother for sixty guests. A two course dinner was served by Mr. E. Ray Green, assisted by Miss Rockwood of Hampton. Waitresses, close friends of the bride, were Mrs Janet Boelman, Misses LuJean Krugal, Evelyn Pals and Marjorie Goeman. The home was decorated with pink and white streamers and the tables were centered with lighted candles with the exception of the bride's table which had as its center piece a lovely decorated three-tiered wedding cake topped with a miniature bride and groom.

Mrs. Friesleben is a graduate of the Meservey High School and taught in the rural schools of Meservey, Belmond and Galt. Mr. Friesleben is engaged in farming east of Alexander where they will make their home, after a short wedding trip.

Anderson-Barry Wedding Monday Morning

St. Francis Catholic Church was the scene of a pretty wedding at 7:30 o'clock Monday morning, August 28, 1944, when Miss Violet Anderson, daughter of Mrs. Minnie Anderson of Stratford, became the bride of M|Sgt. Vincent J. Barry, son of Mrs. Anna Barry of Belmond.

Rev. Father R. Ormsby performed the double ring ceremony at the Nuptial Mass.

The bride was attired in a two piece aqua blue dress with dark brown accessories. She wore an orchid corsage and carried a white prayer book and pearl rosary, a gift of the groom.

The bridesmaid, Bernadine Barry, a sister of the groom, wore a two piece brown dress trimmed in white with brown accessories and a corsage of talisman roses.

Kathryn Blake of Belmond accompanied by Maye Tracy, also of Belmond, sang Rosiwigs Ave Maria. The Wedding March by Kreckel and Recessional by Rossini were also played by Maye Tracy.

Mrs. Minnie Anderson, mother of the bride and Mrs. Anna Barry mother of the groom each wore black dresses with corsages of red roses.

Following a ceremony a breakfast was served for the bridal party at the home of Mrs. Anna Barry with Mrs. Joe Ziller, Eleanor Barry, and Mrs. Walton Hammar as hostesses.

Mrs. Barry is a graduate of the Stratford High School with the class of 1940, and since then has been employed at the Register & Tribune in Des Moines.

M|Sgt. Barry is a graduate of the Belmond High School. He entered service March 3, 1942, and was given a 70 day course in Aircraft Electrical System and since then has been in foreign service.

After his furlough he will return to his duties and Mrs. Barry will return to Des Moines and resume her duties at the Register & Tribune.

Guests from Belmond were Rev. Father Ormsby, Regina Ormsby, Mrs. Nellie Quigley, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Barry, and daughter Eleanor.

Out of town guests were Mrs. Minnie Anderson, Mrs. Charlie Anderson and daughter, Mr. and Mrs Thure Anderson and Mr. Art Fohlin, all of Stratford, Mr. and Mrs. Walton Hammar and family and Miss Lois Muehling of Waverly and Louis Hawe of Dows.

Dorothy Ostendorf Becomes Bride of James Vos

At a beautiful candlelight ceremony, Miss Dorothy Ostendorf, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Ostendorf of Meservey, became the bride of James Vos, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Vos of Morrison, Ill at the Reformed church at Meservey on Thursday evening, Aug. 24, 1944 at 8 o'clock.

In the bridal party were Mrs. Clarence Stadtlander, sister of the bride, as matron of honor; Bernard Vos, brother of the bridegroom, as best man; Malinda Gruis and Mrs. Harold Baker, cousins of the bride as usherettes; and Madonna and Donna Suntken, twin daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Suntken, as flower girls.

Nuptial music was provided by Ralph Schmidt, cousin of the bride, soloist and Alvina Ostendorf, sister of the bride, as organist.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father wore a white satin gown made with a train and pearls, given her by the bridegroom. Her veil was fingertip length and she carried red roses and white carnations.

The matron of honor wore a pink formal and carried flowers tied with a pink ribbon. The ushers were attired in peach and white formals.

The bride's mother wore a black and white dress with a matching hat and a corsage. The bridegroom's mother had a flowered dress, brown and white hat and a white corsage.

A reception in the church basement for relatives and friends followed the ceremony. Those from out of town were Mr. and Mrs. John Vos, Bernard and Jean of Morrison, Ill., Mrs. Donald Voelker and Mrs. Harvey Housman, and Terry of Gilman, the Rev. and Mrs. Duxbury, Beverly and John of Belmond and Tech. Sgt. Fred Suntken.

The bride is a graduate of the Meservey High School and attended Central College at Pella and taught the past year at Pella.

The bridegroom is a graduate of the Morrison High School, and of Central College at Pella and will enter the seminary at Holland, Mich., this fall.

After a short wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Vos will make their home in Holland, Mich.

Dairy Concentrate News

A study of dairy history shows that the amazing records of production from modern dairy cows were unheard of before the introduction into the ration of manufactured high protein feeds.

Although good pasture tends to keep up the fertility of the herd and enable the cows to store up a surplus of certain essentials to insure them to some extent against deficiencies in winter feeding of lower quality roughages, dairy scientists and practical dairy men insist that it is undoubtedly the safest and best practice to provide proteins, vitamins and minerals as a part of the ration.

An easy solution for the dairy farmer: BIG GAIN SPRING PASTURE 32% DAIRY CONCENTRATE. It is tailored to the needs of the dairy cow. For convenient formulas, ask your dealer for a BIG GAIN catalogue.

Let these guys start it !

There's a day coming when the enemy will be licked, beaten, whipped to a fare-thee-well—every last vestige of fight knocked out of him.

And there's a day coming when every mother's son of us will want to stand up and yell, to cheer ourselves hoarse over the greatest victory in history.

But let's not start the cheering yet.

In fact, let's not start it at all—over here. Let's leave it to the fellows who are doing the job—the only fellows who will know when it's done—to begin the celebrating.

Our leaders have told us over and over again that the smashing of the Axis will be a slow job, a dangerous job, a bloody job.

And they've told us what our own common sense confirms: that if we at home start throwing our hats in the air and easing up before the job's completely done, it will be slower, more dangerous, bloodier.

Right now, it's still up to us to buy War Bonds—and to keep on buying War Bonds.

Let's do that. Let's keep bearing down till we get the news of final victory from the only place such news can come: the battle-line.

If we do that, we'll have the right to join the cheering when the time comes.

Champlin be reappointed a member of the Wright County Soldiers' Relief Commission for a three year term beginning July 1, 1944. Motion carried.

Minutes read and approved.

On motion adjourned to meet August 7, 1944.

T. J. HENRY, Chairman.
F. ROSS HENRY, County Auditor.

COUNTY BOARD PROCEEDINGS

Clarion, Iowa, August 7, 1944

The Board of Supervisors of Wright County met in adjourned session at the courthouse in Clarion with the following members present:

T. J. Henry, Chairman; A. W. Smith, Chas. Helden, Wm. Fisher, H. C. Pinkham, with the County Auditor in attendance.

Wright County having received a bid with check attached for $1,550.00 for Lots 1-2-3-4-5-6-7-11-12-13- and 14, Block 9, College Addition to Clarion, it is moved by Fisher, seconded by Pinkham, that Wright County does hereby sell and convey all its right, title and interest in and to said Lots 1-2-3-4-5-6-7-11-12-13- and 14, Block 9, College Addition to Clarion, unto J. J. Eilers and the chairman of the Wright County Board of Supervisors is hereby authorized and instructed to sign quit claim deed conveying said property.

It is the mutual understanding that this sale includes all taxes that are a lien at the present time.

Upon roll call all members voted aye. Motion carried.

Moved by Helden, seconded by Fisher, that supervisors approve vouchers of Lechner Engineering Company of Ames as follows:

Project FAS—602 A-1, $1,230.72; Project FAS—576 B-1, $78.95. Motion carried.

From time to time payments are made on mortgage deeds held by Wright County for relief furnished to needy families, and

Whereas, upon final payment, parties desire to have these mortgage deeds released of record,

Therefore, it is moved by Fisher, seconded by Pinkham, that whenever payments have been made in full and the mortgagee is no longer receiving county aid, the County Auditor be given full authority to release said mortgage of record. Motion carried.

Moved by Pinkham, seconded by Fisher, that a cigarette permit be granted to Tom E. Thompson for use in his Beer Tavern located on the north 30 feet of Lot 3, Block 1, Holmes, as of July 1, 1944. Motion carried.

Whereas, Wright County is the holder of an Agreement of Trust against Lot 6 and the south 15 feet of Lot 5, Block 42, First Railway Addition to Eagle Grove, given by Priscilla Wernet to secure said county for relief advanced over a period of years, and

Whereas, L. E. Beer was appointed trustee to carry out the provisions of the agreement in the event of the death of the said Priscilla Wernet, and

Whereas, the said Priscilla Wernet is now deceased and the trustee has sold the property in accordance with the trust agreement,

Therefore, it is moved by Fisher, seconded by Helden, that in order to perfect title to the purchaser of said property, Wright County Board of Supervisors quit claim all the interest Wright County may hold in and to Lot 6 and the south 15 feet of Lot 5, Block 42, First Railway Addition to Eagle Grove, unto Walter S. Flower and the Chairman is hereby authorized and directed to sign quit claim deed of conveyance.

Upon roll call all members voted aye. Motion carried.

Minutes read and approved.

On motion adjourned to meet August 8, 1944.

T. J. HENRY, Chairman.
F. ROSS HENRY, County Auditor.

Clarion, Iowa, August 8, 1944

The Board of Supervisors met in adjourned session at the courthouse in Clarion with the following members in attendance.

T. J. Henry, Chairman; A. W. Smith, Chas. Helden, Wm. Fisher and H. C. Pinkham, with the County Auditor in attendance.

Moved by Pinkham, seconded by Helden, that the following notices be served in compliance with Section 3828.092 of the 1939 Code of Iowa:

Joe Biddle and family, Rowan; Dwight Boulden and family, Dows; Amund Gullickson and family, Clarion; Justin Lowenberg and family, Belmond; Simon Negrete and family, Belmond; Martha VanNimwegan, Eagle Grove; James Roosa and family, Clarion. Motion carried.

Be it remembered that on this, the 8th day of August, 1944, the county supervisors of Wright County, Iowa, met in session for the purpose of a hearing upon the budget estimate as filed with this board. There was present a quorum as required by law. Thereupon the board investigated and found that the notice of the time and place of hearing had, according to law and as directed by the board, been published on the 20th day of July, 1944, in the Belmond Independent, Eagle Grove Eagle, and Wright County Monitor, official newspapers, published in said county, and that the affidavit of publication thereof was on file with the County Auditor. Thereafter and on said day the estimate was taken up and considered and taxpayers heard for and against said estimate as follows: (none appeared).

Thereafter and after hearing all taxpayers desiring to be heard, the board took up the estimate for final consideration and after being fully advised the board determined that said estimate be corrected and completed so that when completed it should be in words and figures as stated herein:

THE OLD JUDGE SAYS...

"The more I read about it, Judge, the more I realize the tactics and requirements of this war are as different from the one I fought in 25 years ago as night is from day."

"Yes, and I can give you an example of how true that is, Fred. In World War I the chief uses of alcohol produced for war purposes were found in smokeless powder, medical supplies and chemical warfare materials. In this war the need for this product is far more vital because it is also used as a fuel to propel torpedoes, to make shatterproof glass for airplane windshields and instrument covers, to make lacquers used in camouflaging equipment and as a base for synthetic rubber needed for tires, gas masks, paratroop equipment and dozens of other things.

"Every time I think of it, Fred, I realize how fortunate we were in having a beverage distilling industry in existence when war broke out . . . ready and eager to convert 100% to the production of this critically needed war product. I'm mighty sure bootleggers wouldn't have been of much help."

Obituary

Peter Hans Pals was born in Veener, Ostriesland, Germany on January 21, 1869. At the age of 13 years he came with his parents to America, leaving their native country and settling in Wright County, Iowa. On December 4, 1889, Mr. Pals was united in marriage to Katherine Bos. This union was blessed with eight children. The family home was always in this community; up until 1922 when they moved to Port Arthur, Tex. They returned to this community in 1927.

Through the years Mr. Pals was engaged in various activities but one of his main concerns for a good many years was giving the best of care to his partner in life. For a long time Mrs. Pals required extra care and for all that time he gave her his unwavering attention and the best of care. She preceded him in death on Sept. 21, 1940. He was also preceded in death by a son, Hans, in August, 1943.

For quite a few years Mr. Pals himself was also ailing but you seldom heard him complain. Recently he submitted to an operation and apparentaly was recuperating nicely. Then, rather suddenly and unexpectedly, other complications developed and he weakened gradually. Early in the morning on Wednesday, August 23, he passed away, reaching the age of 75 years, seven months and two days.

By his departure he leaves his seven remaining children, Mrs. Kate Frohling of Goodell, Herman Pals of Meservey, Mrs. Henrietta Ostendorf and Joe Pals of Belmond Sgt Peter Pals in the armed services in Ireland and Hilko Pals and Mrs. Grace Tinkey of Alexander. Contoured Acres Grow More Contour cultivation is basic conservation farming, essential to increased production for war today and the preservation of America's soil for the farmers of tomorrow, says the War Food Administration.

Contouring cuts down erosion by preventing water from carrying off the soil. It increases acre-yields of crops, maintains their quality by holding the fertile topsoil in place, and increases the moisture content of the land. Combined with other practices, it adds to their effectiveness.

Contour farming means plowing, harrowing, planting, cultivating, and harvesting on the level rather than up and down the slope—around the hill rather than over it. The furrowed ridges slow down the movement of water off the field, allowing more moisture to soak into the ground, and stopping the soil from being washed down to lower levels. When contouring cuts the speed of the water run-off in half, for example, its capacity for carrying soil drops about 75 percent, according to WFA reports. In controlled tests covering a 7-year period, land cultivated up and down hill lost almost two and a half times as much soil per acre as land farmed on the contour.

Contouring has many variations such as contoured intertilled crops, contour strip-cropping, contour seeding of small grain crops, and contouring for water conservation. But WFA points out that the basic principle is the same—working across the slope instead of paralleling it. Assistance in carrying out these and other contour practices is [illegible] farmers under the conservation program administered by the Agricultural Adjustment Agency.

Type of soil and steepness of slope both influence the retaining capacity of contour furrows, says WFA. Contouring may be all that is required to control erosion on land with open, porous soil, easy slopes, or where rainfall is gentle. Under less advantageous conditions, additional practices such as terracing, cover crops, and sod waterways may be required to achieve the best results.

Conservation of moisture, soil, and plant nutrients through contouring has had a notable effect on acre-yield of crops, says WFA. In specific areas startling increases were reported, such as 23 bushels more corn an acre in Iowa, an increase of 6.2 bushels per acre of soybeans in Illinois, 44 more bushels of potatoes an acre in New York, an increase of 4 bushels of wheat per acre in the Great Plains, and 29 pounds more cotton per contoured acre in Texas.

Most of the farmers who have been using the contour method of handling their crops report that it calls for less fuel, less power, and less work than going up and down the slope. Experience has shown that on an 8-percent slope a farmer can plow 10 percent more land on the contour in a given period, and that he will use 10 percent less tractor fuel acre for acre. In Illinois it was reported that costs had been reduced as much as 95 cents an acre for man labor, 25 cents an acre for horse and machinery expense, and 72 cents an acre for total farm expenses, compared with costs on uncontoured farms.

Hate business?
Not me! I'm goinb to be in business, myself, some day!

Business and people are not enemies in America, because every American may some day be a business man.

Ambitious ditch diggers want to think of an America where their children may some day enter businesses or professions.

Some of us are fitted to work at a bench or lathe. Maybe all our lives. If so, we want a chance to save a little more than we spend, and maybe invest (and THAT is where we ALL become business men).

Over 65 million policyholders in life insurance companies have business investments whether they know it or not.

What we Americans want is a chance to scramble. Anybody who offers us a lifelong rut—even a safe one—is not speaking the language we want to hear.

SPLINTERS

Schools will open here next Monday, so we seize this opportunity to welcome our teachers, old and new, back to Belmond. We wish them all a pleasant profitable year.

Again we remind you to order those storm windows. They can still be had, but it takes some time to get them.

Her: "Gee, it's past midnight; you better get started."
Him: "O. K. Turn out the lights."

Insulate that attic with Balsam Wool. We have a good stock on hand, either the 16" or 24" wide.

R. Courson to a prospective buyer: "Would you like to see a model home?"

Prospect: "Glad to. What time does she quit work?"

How about some combination storm and screen doors. We have a good size stock on hand now. When cold weather comes they won't last long.

The benefits of living in this country are very great for all of us who are citizens. These benefits are from a great variety of reasons and have developed over a great period of time. In my humble opinion the greatest of these benefits arise from the high degree of freedom in this country.

Many sensible and important people do not bother to vote, feeling that they are too important to vote or that it is not worth their while. It seems to me that such people greatly overestimate their own importance.

Overseas Christmas Mail-

Perishable goods, such as fruits and vegetables that may spoil, are prohibited. Intoxicants, inflammable materials such as matches or lighter fluids, poisons, and anything that may damage other mail also are prohibited. Gifts enclosed in glass should be substantially packed to avoid breakage. Sharp instruments, such as razors and knives, must have their edges and points protected so that they cannot cut through the coverings and injure postal personnel or damage other packages.

'The response that our people made last year during the overseas mailing period demonstrated tnat they will cooperate in any measure designed for the welfare of our armed forces personnel,' Mr. Walker said. 'It is not easy to concentrate on Christmas gifts in the midst of warm weather here at home but our people recognized the need, and because they want the men and women who are absent from their homes to know that they are not forgotten at Christmas they took pains to assure prompt delivery of Christmas gifts.

Remove Volunteer Corn From Soybean Fields

M. J. Siemens of Goldfield, Iowa comes forward with a timely suggestion about removing the volunteer corn in the soybean fields before combining time. He points out that farmers who are combining soybeans do not like to combine the soybeans where there is volunteer corn because it is hard on the combine. It is also almost possible to separate the corn from the beans once they are mixed.

Farmers with volunteer corn in their soybean fields are asked to go through these fields with a spade or corn knife and remove the corn before it is time to combine.

THE FAMILY NEWSPAPER

Two Businesses Change Hands Here Last Week

Elliott of Newton Buys C. J. Papousek Stock September 1

Ellis J. Elliott, factory manager of the Automatic Washer company in Newton for the past four years, purchased the C. J. Papousek hardware and appliance stock here and took possession of the business on September 1. The store will be known as "Elliott Hardware and Appliances."

Mr. Elliott, a native of Newton, has been connected with the Automatic Washer Company for 21 years, first as bookkeeper and later as collection manager, service manager, and assistant factory manager before he was given the position he had held for the past four years. During the time he was factory manager, the last four years the Automatic Washer company went through the transition of converting from peace-time washer production to all-out war production.

Mr. Elliott is married and has one son, Dick, 11. He is a member of the Congregational church, is a Rotarian. Mrs. Elliott was active in local women's groups in Newton and both were members of P. T. A.

C. J. Papousek is retiring from the hardware and electrical business which he established in Belmond 21 years ago. He came here from Garner where he had operated an electrical business for several years.

"Cash and Carry Market" Replaces Jacobson's I. G. A. Store

Wendel Luttschwager has purchased the Jacobson I. G. A. Store as of August 31, and announces the grand opening of the store under the name "Cash and Carry Market" this week.

Mr. Luttschwager comes to Belmond with 15 years experience in grocery business at Iowa Falls, Alden and Clarion, having operated an independent grocery store in the latter place for three years until he sold his business to enter the armed services in 1942. He served as a civilian flight instructor with the Ferry Command of the Army Air Corp and received his discharge on July 16, 1944.

He is married and has two children, a boy 5 and an infant daughter 9 months old. His family moved to Belmond last week.

Orrin Jacobson who operated the I. G. A. Store since July, 1942 states that his plans for the future are indefinite.

Mrs. C. P. Crowley and daughter Coleen of Mason City are visiting at the home of her sister, Mrs. E. P. Tracy.

Mr. and Mrs. Philip McBurney of Cedar Rapids were week end guests at the G. F. McBurney home. They were accompanied by Mrs. Evan Parry and Susan, who visited at the C. P. Luick home.

E. F. Baileys Observe Golden Wedding Sunday

To Hold Open House In Afternoon And Evening

Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Bailey, who are observing their Golden Wedding Anniversary on Sunday, Sept. 10, were born, reared and educated in Wright county, but it wasn't until the fall of 1892, when Eva Walton was teaching the Hickory Grove school six miles northwest of Belmond, that she met her future husband.

They were married two years later and Mr. Bailey built a new home for his bride at the edge of Hickory Grove where they lived for a year and a half while Mr. Bailey was engaged in farming. It was here that their older son, Floyd was born.

Garner was their home for the next ten years where Mr. Bailey operated a dray line. It was also the birthplace of their daughter, Edna (Mrs. L. F. Schwinger of Waterloo), and Thayne, who died in 1934. From Garner they moved to Belmond where they have resided continuously for the past 38 years. Mr. Bailey worked as a [illegible] contractor, started [illegible] for 35 years. During the [illegible] five years he has been water superintendent here. He also served one term as Mayor of Belmond about 12 years ago.

The Baileys have [illegible] grandchildren and one great grand child. Their older son, Floyd, is a veteran of World War I [illegible] with the army at [illegible] Fort McClellan, Ala., and [illegible] of Fort Des Moines [illegible] Floyd Jr. will reach 18 [illegible] induction on Sept. 15, 1944.

Mary Jean Bailey who has completed one and half year's cadet nurses's training and Janis Bailey are the daughters of Thayne, while the family of the daughter, Mrs. L. P. Schwinger includes Rosemary, who will enter Northwestern University this fall as a freshman. Lowell Jr. and Delores, both high school juniors at Waterloo. Grandson Michael is the son of Keith Bailey.

Some events stand out in the Bailey's married life about which they reminisce frequently.

They spent a winter in the Ozark Mountains several years ago at which time Mrs. Bailey was quite impressed while watching some of the old ladies smoking their corn-cob pipes.

Another trip with the entire family took them across the barren wasteland of Nebraska during a two-weeks' winter vacation. The children especially enjoyed the service of the dining car at that time.

Pete Does It Again

We learned recently that Pete [illegible] has done it again, coming back from a couple of fishing trips recently with five and six pound northern pikes, which he caught somewhere in the Iowa River. It seems as if the times when Pete is unusually lucky in his catch are when he goes fishing alone, and his fisherman friends are trying to think of some way they can trail him to his favorite fishing hole, so they will have a chance to boast equally good results.

4-H Events

BOONE VALLEY

The Boone Valley Go-Getters 4-H Club met at the home of Walter Martin on August 28th with a total of 22 in attendance. The discussion for the evening was "Noxious Weeds."

The next meeting will be Sept. 15th with a weiner roast at the Renwick Park at 5 o'clock.

GRANT GROWERS

The Grant Growers 4-H Club had their 4-H Club tour starting at the Ray Stevens farm at 2:00 o'clock Wednesday afternoon, Aug. 16th. At the close of the tour a picnic supper was enjoyed, followed by roller skating at Eldridge's park.

IOWA HAWKEYES

The Iowa Hawkeyes 4-H Club met at the home of Morris and Bernard Norem on Thursday evening, August 17th. A demonstration on pulling nails was given by Bob Ketchum. A skit on courtesy was presented by the three Hill brothers. Plans for the fair decorations were made. The place of the next meeting will be at the home of Dale and Max Benson on Thursday, October 19th.

Wright County Girls Compile 4-H Records

September closes the 4-H Club year. This is the time for 4-H girls to look over the past years' accomplishments and look forward to 1945 goals.

Each 4-H girl should keep a long-time record whether she has been in club work one year or several years. Such a book is a treasured possession and is the basis for other 4-H opportunities.

This month Wright county girls are submitting their records, long time and other, for selection to represent the county for consideration for awards made annually to 4-H girls in the state.

Wright county is eligible to enter the following contests: Long-time Record, Home Beautification, 4-H Victory Achievement, 4-H Victory Garden, Master Demonstration Team and Clothing Achievement.

State award for these contests is a trip to the Club Congress in Chicago, if held.

In general, a girl must have belonged to a home economics club for 3 years and be 15 years of age. For further information contact the Extension Office.

Central Telephone Company Is New Name Of Local Exchange

An announcement released by R. A. Phillips, Vice-President and General Manager of the Central Electric and Telephone Company, states: "For some time the officers and directors of our organization have recognized that from an operating viewpoint it would be advantageous to have our telephone properties in a corporate structure separate and apart from our other utility properties.

"Effective September 1, 1944 the telephone properties of the company are therefore being transferred to the Central Telephone Company which is a newly organized subsidiary of the Central Electric and Telephone Company.

"Since the Central Electric and Telephone Company will no longer directly operate telephone properties, its name is being changed to Central Electric and Gas Company, also as of September 1, 1944.

"Aside from these corporate changes, our organization, its established policies and practices will remain unchanged."

PEP IN THIS PEPPER

A pepper plant brought into the County Extension office at Clarion by Herman Anderson, Dows, Iowa, nurseryman, did it's duty in helping the Victory Garden production. This one plant had 15 good sized marketable red peppers, 6 good sized green peppers and several smaller immature peppers.

DAVIS MECHANIC ON LIBERATOR

An Eighth AAF Composite station, Northern Ireland—

Heavy bomber maintenance is an exacting and complex task, and being a mechanic on B-24 Liberators, entails great responsibility, as well as comprehensive knowledge of aircraft. Such responsibility is being capably shouldered by Sergeant Raymond W. Davis, of Belmond, Iowa.

Mechanical failures on Davis' ships are practically non-existent, ample proof of capable and careful work on the part of the ground crew members. He has been commended on numerous occasions for the high degree of skill and efficiency he has shown in the performance of his duties.

"One of the phases of our work" Davis related, "is to accomplish a pre-flight inspection each day in which I check the engines and its manual and automatic controls so as to insure perfect working order. These check-overs are just as thorough and searching as the major 25, 50 and 100 hour inspections."

Before entering the Army Air Force in August, 1943, Davis was employed by the International Harvester Co. in Michigan. The Sergeant's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Davis, live in Belmond.

LT JACK I WOLLE DESCRIBES FRANCE

In a letter to his grandmother, Mrs. W. H. Wolle of Belmond, Lt. Jack I. Wolle somewhere in France, states that he is getting plenty to eat and plenty sleep. He goes on to say: "I have had a chance to observe a lot and am attempting to remember the more pleasant memories by writings and sketches. It makes my time mean something. France, itself must be very productive. Here grain fields are ripe, pastures green, livestock healthy, and her orchards bearing a large apple crop. Of course the country in most of this region still holds much of its splendor. Yet the villages have been virtually destroyed. The people are happy for the present American occupation. They greet us with wine and flowers. Their dress and habitat, being very poor, makes every G. I. realize how fine America is as well as the Americans. Yet we appreciate the friendliness of these people and have much sympathy for what they have been through. Few Americans could take it, I know. Thank God that it has not touched our shores — only in thought, word, and by press photographs."

Reports Seeing Deer In Field Near Belmond

Clarence Whitten reports that while taking hay in the field on the east side of highway No. 69 and south of the Alexander road two miles south of Belmond Friday he saw a full grown deer which ran into the adjoining corn field before he could get near it. Mr. Whitten says that if anyone doubts his word he can show them the tracks which are clearly discernible in the spot where the deer entered the corn field.

Livestock and Feed Meeting Is Countywide

To Discuss Outlook At Clarion Monday

What is ahead for the livestock farmer. This vital question will be discussed at a county wide meeting of farmers, landlords and other interested people at the Clarion High School Assembly on Monday evening, Sept. 11 at 8:00 o'clock.

Rex Beresford, widely known livestock authority of Iowa State College, will be on hand to discuss the national livestock outlook in the face of a reduced feed supply. Mr. Beresford will also discuss the cattle feeding situation in relation to present supply of feeder cattle and soft corn prospects.

C. H. Van Vlack, Agricultural Engineer of Iowa State College, will be present with information on the construction of temporary silos of various types to assist in the utilization of soft corn.

The situation facing livestock farmers of Wright County is an adjustment in livestock to meet the feed supply. Reduced hog numbers, soft corn prospects, and a top heavy 82 million head of cattle in Iowa and the nation, 8 million more than the previous peak of 1934, will probably cause a shift in feeding operation in Wright County.

With Wright County's earliest killing frost on Sept. 11 in 1917 and our average date for a killing frost on Oct. 3, much immature soybeans and soft corn may need to be preserved by good management to utilize the greatest feeding value, unless we have dry weather and a killing frost on a normal or later date.

Sunday guests at the home of Mrs. W. H. Wolle were Mr. and Mrs. Howard Wolle and daughters Joan and Nancy of Minnesota Lake, Minn., and Mrs. John Rule of New Salem, N. Dak. Mrs. Rule was the former Elizabeth Bond for years a teacher of piano here.

1st Game With Clarion September 15

Coach Jack Lansing announced this week the 1944 football schedule of the Belmond Broncos which includes six games with conference teams and two other non-conference [illegible] Clarion and Renwick.

Following is the schedule for the season:

September 15—Clarion, there
September 22—Britt, there
September 29, Northwood here
October 6—Garner, here
October 13—Lake Mills, there
October 20—Forest City, here
October 27—Renwick, here
Nov. 3—Buffalo Center, there

The Bronco squad is preparing for the traditional opening game against the Clarion Cowboys on Friday, Sept. 15 on the opponents' field. Daily activities are being held to a maximum with Coach Lansing explaining blocking, tackling, line fundamentals and the study of plays for the coming season.

Since the opening of school the squad has numbered 40 candidates and included among the experienced players who made their first appearance, are:

Gilman Sonna, George Sharp, Harold Nelson, Glen Rierson, Roger Finn, Daryl Beavers and Gerald Swenson.

Coach Lansing has a wealth of material to balance his first two squads, and the players for the positions are as follows: backfield, Larry Dorr, Richard Mickelson, Linden Proeger, Paul Dempsey, Hadyn Jones, Irvin Roshem, Glen Meints, Dale Walrod, George Hinman and Joe Anderson.

Guards— Merle Janssen, Ernest Tudor, Clair Hanson, Duane Thompson, centers—Richard Wagner and Jake Eekhoff.

14 New Registrants With Selective Service

452 Pupils Enrolled In Belmond Schools

Many New Names Found On Class Rolls

Four hundred fifty-two pupils enrolled in the Belmond Public Schools this week as classes met for preliminary sessions Monday morning.

Registration figures show a gain in grade enrollment, while the high school figure suffered a decrease. The first eight grades and kindergarten show a total roll of 293, while the aggregate figure for the four high school grades is 160.

Leading the grades of the elementary school is the kindergarten group of 39 beginning youngsters. The number enrolled in the other grades is as follows: First, 31; second, 31; third, 31; fourth, 33; fifth, 30; sixth, 27; seventh, 36; and eighth, 33.

Largest among the high school classes are the juniors with 47 members followed by a sophomore group of 43. The small freshman and senior classes of 32 and 27 respectively account for the low total enrollment in high school.

Due to the influx of new families into Belmond several new names are found among the class rolls. Edward Bell who came here from Elk Park, Ill.; Neva Kyser, Shreveport, La., and Judy Ann Yettle from Ames, are new members of first grade.

Ardyce Walk, a transfer from Galt, and Ronald Ahlgren, a transfer from Ironwood, Mich., are in fourth grade.

John Flynn who last year attended school in Minneapolis, is a new fifth grader, together with four transfers from nearby rural schools: May Lou Baker, Judy Baker, Ruth Kalkwarf and Julius Turner. Dick Elliott, who had his first five years of elementary school at Newton, Iowa, is a new sixth grader.

Helen Hanson, Nadine Hanson, Duane Nelson and Marjorie Nelson have transferred from nearby rural schools into junior high as has Beverly Duxbury, who was in Gilman last year.

Newcomers in Belmond enrolled in high school are: Margaret Flynn who came from Minneapolis; Jean Fermann who was in Mason City last year; Bill Huckleby a transfer from Decatur, Ill., and Bonnie Lou Jensen, who transferred from Iowa Falls.

Wright County Girls Compile 4-H Records

September closes the 4-H Club year. This is the time for 4-H girls to look over the past years' accomplishments and look forward to 1945 goals.

Each 4-H girl should keep a long-time record whether she has been in club work one year or several years. Such a book is a treasured possession and is the basis for other 4-H opportunities.

This month Wright county girls are submitting their records, long time and other, for selection to represent the county for consideration for awards made annually to 4-H girls in the state.

Wright county is eligible to enter the following contests: Long-time Record, Home Beautification, 4-H Victory Achievement, 4-H Victory Garden, Master Demonstration Team and Clothing Achievement.

State award for these contests is a trip to the Club Congress in Chicago, if held.

In general, a girl must have belonged to a home economics club for 3 years, and be 15 years of age. For further information contact the Extension Office.

Central Telephone Company Is New Name Of Local Exchange

An announcement released by R. A. Phillips, Vice-President and General Manager of the Central Electric and Telephone Company states: "For some time the officers and directors of our organization have recognized that from an operating viewpoint, it would be advantageous to have our telephone properties in a corporate structure separate and apart from our other [illegible] properties.

Effective September 1, 1944, the telephone properties of the company are therefore, being transferred to the Central Telephone Company which is a newly organized subsidiary of the Central Electric and Telephone Company.

Since the Central Electric and Telephone Company will no longer directly operate telephone properties, its name is being changed to Central Electric and Gas Company also as of September 1, 1944.

Aside from these corporate changes, our organization, its established policies and practices will remain unchanged."

PEP IN THIS PEPPER

A pepper plant brought into the County Extension office at Clarion by Herman Anderson, Dows, Iowa, nurseryman, did it's duty in helping the Victory Garden production. This one plant had 15 good sized marketable [illegible] peppers, 6 good sized green pepper and several smaller immature peppers.

DAVIS MECHANIC ON LIBERATOR

An Eighth AAF Composite Station, Northern Ireland—

Heavy bomber maintenance is an exacting and complex task, and being a mechanic on B-24 Liberators, entails great responsibility, as well as comprehensive knowledge of aircraft. Such responsibiltiy is being capably shouldered by Sergeant Raymond W. Davis of Belmond, Iowa.

Mechanical failures on Davis' ships are practically non-existant, ample proof of capable and careful work on the part of the ground crew members. He has been commended on numerous occasions for the high degree of skill and efficiency he has shown in the performance of his duties.

"One of the phases of our work" Davis related, "is to accomplish a pre-flight inspection each day in which I check the engines and its manual and automatic controls so as to insure perfect working order. These check-overs are just as thorough and searching as the major 25, 50 and 100 hour inspections."

Before entering the Army Air Force in August, 1943, Davis was employed by the International Harvester Co. in Michigan. The Sergeant's parents, Mr and Mrs Frank Davis, live in Belmond.

RECEIVES PROMOTION IN FRANCE

Mr and Mrs. John Waltzing received a letter from their son, Elmer, who is stationed in France that he was promoted from Corporal to Sergeant. He reported that he was well and the weather was fine.

SELECTED FOR ARMY AIR CORPS RESERVE

Paul E. Dempsey, 17, son of Mr and Mrs W. H. Dempsey of Belmond, has qualified for enlistment in the reserve corps of the Army Air Forces. He will not be called into active duty until he becomes 18. His brother, Cpl Robert F. Dempsey is serving with the Army Engineers overseas.

GRADUATE OF LOWRY FIELD, COLO

Announcement was received of the graduation of Pvt. William A. Summers of Belmond from the Department of Armament of Lowry Field, Denver, Colo. He is the son of Mr and Mrs. H. A. Summers of Belmond.

MEINDERS HOME ON FURLOUGH

Pfc. Daryl Meinders of North Carolina is spending a furlough visiting his aunt, Mrs. Theo Boote of Belmond.

LOSING WEIGHT AS COMBAT SOLDIER

With the Marines In Guam "There are many ways to lose weight but none more effective than 10 days on the front lines as a combat soldier," Pfc. Donald McBride, 19, of Des Moines, brother of Bob McBride of Belmond who has seen action on Guam states. "We were on the move almost continuously for 24 days and in that time lost 15 pounds." This is part of an article from a war correspondent in the Pacific area taken from the Des Moines Register.

McBride has been with the marines for more than two years and has also seen action in the Bougainville campaign.

LT. JACK I. WOLLE DESCRIBES FRANCE

In a letter to his grandmother, Mrs W. H. Wolle of Belmond, Lt. Jack I. Wolle somewhere in France, states that he is getting plenty to eat and plenty sleep. He goes on to say "I have had a chance to observe a lot and am attempting to remember the more pleasant memories by writings and sketches. It makes my time mean something. France, itself must be very productive. Here grain fields are ripe, pastures green, livestock healthy, and her orchards bearing a large apple crop. Of course the country in most of this region still holds much of its splendor. Yet the villages have been virtually destroyed. The people are happy for the present American occupation. They greet us with wine and flowers. Their dress and habitat, being very poor, makes every G. I. realize how fine America is as well as the Americans. Yet we appreciate the friendliness of these people and have much sympathy for what they have been through. Few Americans could take it, I know. Thank God that it has not touched our shores — only in thought, word, and by press photographs."

VISITS WITH FAMILY HERE

Pvt. Henry Johnson is making a 10-day visit with his family here while enroute from Camp Roberts, Calif., to Fort Meade, Maryland.

PALMER RECEIVES GUNNERY WINGS

Pfc. Ward A. Palmer, 19, son of Mrs. Ennis Palmer of Belmond, was a recent graduate of the Kingman Army Air Field flexible gunnery school at Kingman, Arizona where he was given two weeks of air firing before being presented with his gunnery wings. Pfc. Palmer left Monday night for Tampa, Florida, after seven days spent with his mother and sisters at Belmond.

Reports Seeing Deer In Field Near Belmond

Clarence Whitten reports that while raking hay in the field on the east side of highway No. 60 and south of the Alexander road two miles south of Belmond Friday, he saw a full grown deer which ran into the adjoining corn field before he could get near it. Mr. Whitten says that if anyone doubts his word he can show them the tracks which are clearly discernible in the spot where the deer entered the corn field.

Livestock and Feed Meeting Is Countywide

To Discuss Outlook At Clarion Monday

What is ahead for the livestock farmer? This vital question will be discussed at a county wide meeting of farmers, landlords and other interested people at the Clarion High School Assembly on Monday evening, Sept. 11 at 8:00 o'clock.

Rex Beresford, widely known livestock authority of Iowa State College, will be on hand to discuss the national livestock outlook in the face of a reduced feed supply. Mr. Beresford will also discuss the cattle feeding situation in relation to present supply of feeder cattle and soft corn prospects.

C. H. Van Vlack, Agricultural Engineer of Iowa State College, will be present with information on the construction of temporary silos of various types to assist in the utilization of soft corn.

The situation facing livestock farmers of Wright County is an adjustment in livestock to meet the feed supply. Reduced hog numbers, soft corn prospects, and a top heavy 82 million head of cattle in Iowa and the nation, 8 million more than the previous peak of 1934, will probably cause a shift in feeding operation in Wright County.

With Wright County's earliest killing frost on Sept. 11 in 1917 and our average date for a killing frost on Oct. 3, much immature soybeans and soft corn may need to be preserved by good management to utilize the greatest feeding value, unless we have dry weather and a killing frost on a normal or later date.

Sunday guests at the home of Mrs. W. H. Wolle were Mr. and Mrs Howard Wolle and daughters Joan and Nancy of Minnesota Lake, Minn., and Mrs. John Rule of New Salem, N. Dak. Mrs. Rule was the former Elizabeth Bond, for years a teacher of piano here.

1st Game With Clarion September 15

Coach John Lansing announced this week the 1944 football schedule of the Belmond Broncos which includes six games with conference teams and two other non-conference opponents, Clarion and Renwick.

Following is the schedule for the season:

September 15—Clarion, there
September 22—Britt, there
September 29, Northwood here
October 6—Garner, here
October 13—Lake Mills, there
October 20—Forest City, here
October 27—Renwick, here
Nov. 3—Buffalo Center, there

The Bronco squad is preparing for the traditional opening game against the Clarion Cowboys on Friday, Sept. 15 on the opponents' field. Daily activities are being held to a maximum with Coach Lansing explaining blocking, tackling, line fundamentals and the study of plays for the coming season.

Since the opening of school the squad has numbered 40 candidates and included among the experienced players who made their first appearance, are:

Gilman Soma, George Sharp, Harold Nelson, Glen Rierson, Roger Finn, Daryl Beavers and Gerald Swenson.

Coach Lansing has a wealth of material to balance his first two squads, and the players for the positions are as follows: backfield, Larry Dorr, Richard Mickelson, Linden Proeger, Paul Dempsey, Hadyn Jones, Irvin Roshiem, Glen Meints, Dale Walrod, George Hinman and Joe Anderson.

14 New Registrants With Selective Service

452 Pupils Enrolled In Belmond Schools

Many New Names Found On Class Rolls

Four hundred fifty-two pupils enrolled in the Belmond Public Schools this week as classes met for preliminary sessions Monday morning.

Registration figures show a gain in grade enrollment while the high school figure suffered a decrease. The first eight grades and kindergarten show a total roll of 293, while the aggregate figure for the four high school grades is 149.

Leading the grades of the elementary school is the kindergarten group of 39 beginning youngsters. The number enrolled in the other grades is as follows: First, 31; second, 33; third, 31; fourth, 33; fifth, 36; sixth, 27; seventh, 36; and eighth, 33.

Largest among the high school classes are the juniors with 47 members, followed by a sophomore group of 43. The small freshman and senior classes of 32 and 27 respectively, account for the lowered enrollment in high school.

Due to the influx of new families into Belmond, several new names are found among the class rolls. Edward Neil, who came from Villa Park, Ill.; Neva Kyser, Shreveport, La., and Judy Ann Yetle from Ames, are new members of first grade.

Ardyce Walk, a transfer from Galt, and Ronald Ahlgren, a transfer from Ironwood, Mich., are in fourth grade.

John Flynn, who last year attended school in Minneapolis, is a new fifth grader, together with four transfers from nearby rural schools: May Lou Baker, Judy Baker, Ruth Kallkwarf and Julian Turner. Dick Elliott, who had his first five years of elementary school at Newton, Iowa, is a new sixth grader.

Helen Hanson, Nadine Hanson, Duane Nelson and Marjorie Nelson have transferred from nearby rural schools into junior high, as has Beverly Duxbury, who was in Gilman last year.

Newcomers to Belmond enrolled in high school are Margaret Flynn who came from Minneapolis; Jean Ferguson, who was in Miami, Fla., last year; Bill Hockleby, a transfer from Decatur, Ill.; and Bonnie Lou Jensen who transferred from Iowa Falls.

CITY BEAUTIFUL!

A city or a town is beautiful not because it has a beautiful public library or a magnificent town hall or a modern office building. It is beautiful only when the individual citizen of the town or city makes an effort to make it beautiful by his personal contribution of cleanliness, good order and pride of appearance about his own premises. A city cannot be made beautiful when a few of its residents have the concept of what makes a beautiful city. It becomes beautiful only when throughout the whole city there exists that individual pride in a beautiful home. A city to be beautiful does not have to have its streets lined with pretentious homes. The size of the home has little to do with it. The smallest home may easily be as beautiful as a mansion if its owner is an artist and has in his heart the love of the beautiful. The home in which one lives, the things with which he surrounds himself, are the true expression of himself. A town is beautiful when the individual citizen has a concept of and a love for the beautiful and causes the place he calls home to reflect it.

CAN PEACE BE MADE AS EXCITING AS WAR?

George C. Hansen, Prtr 2|c, editor of the Independent before entering the service in March, 1943, recently printed in the "Fleet City News" at Camp Shoemaker, California, of which he is editor, an editorial written by Charles A. O'Neill, Lieutenant Commander, CHC, USNR, the contents of which we feel are worthy of consideration. O'Neill wrote as follows:

"Can peace be made as exciting as war? After the last war was over, a lot of people brought this question up. One man suggested that all fighters be turned out of uniform and all non-combatants be allowed to wear them. He thought that if a uniform were given to a non-fighter, non-fighting would get the glamour. It is hard to imagine what a sailor would look like if he were dressed, let's say, in a soda jerker's outfit. An admiral probably would lose half his impressiveness if he wore a brown checked lounge suit.

"Further, it was suggested that when people march to work in the morning, they be accompanied by bands and carry banners, while no fighting unit would ever be allowed to have a band or its regimental flags.

"Of course, that all sounds like nonsense. But the question remains, why can't peace be made as exciting as war? Why can't it be made more thrilling to build a dam than to destroy one? Why shouldn't the bands play when you march into a city that has been built instead of into a city that has been destroyed? Isn't it much more exciting to train your sons than to train a platoon? Don't you lick something pretty tough when you lick a business problem or handle a difficult mechanical job?

"But for some reason, war gets the glamour and peace is called dull.

"The piping times of peace we call them as if war was a trumpet blast and peace was something played on a kid's flute.

"What you're going to say about all this I don't know, but do you want to give it some serious thinking?"

WITH OTHER EDITORS—

A lot of boys in the armed forces have learned to pray. If their adventures are not disastrous it will be a good thing. Danger makes us realize the fact of a Divine Being. We may not all stand in public and pray, but there are few people who do not pray every day.—Clarion Monitor.

One thing is certain, the farmer cannot hope for much from any group that is dominated by CIO and other big labor groups. Labor wants cheap food, which means lower prices to be paid the farmer. Labor wants high wages which must be paid by a high price on manufactured items. That puts the squeeze on the farm both ways. This contest between labor and the farmer is not so publicised as the labor-capital scraps but it is the more deadly because it is concealed.—Kossuth County Advance.

Our high authorities, both military and civilian, caution the people against undue optimism. But how can the people help being optimistic when such glowing reports of German and Japanese disasters on all fronts are published in the newspapers and broadcast over the radios? Even admitting many reports of successes may be exaggerated, if it is half as good as reported there is every reason for hoping and expecting that the war will be over sooner than has been generally thought.— Webster City Freeman.

A few years ago a lot of money was spent on CCC Camps as the initial step toward training boys for the present war. At Forest City one of these camps was located. There was much talk about the swimming pool dug on the old fair grounds, gravelled and drained into the Winnebago river.

. You ought to go and take a look at that government improvement today. It is used as a place to deliver rubbish from the very beautiful city on the hill.

And what you see there is probably only a speck on the map of what will be found all over this country when the war is over.— Britt News-Tribune.

An Ohio farmer's wife wrote the OPA asking the price of turkeys, received in reply 30,000 words of printed matter. then in desperation wrote her congressman, "I still do not know the price of turkeys. It would take a Philadelphia lawyer to cipher it out. Isn't there something that can be done to make them answer a simple question simply?"—Jewell Record.

"I never knew a whistling man to find fault with his food or his bed or to complain when asked to do extra work. A whistler is always kind to children and animals. He can whistle and carry a hatful of eggs from a coop to the house without breaking one of them. He always shuts gates, puts up pasture bars and keeps the nuts tight on his plow. He never kicks a cow or drives her on the run into the barn. Sheep gather around him in the yard without fear when he feeds them.—Farm Journal.

—V—

We really don't take much stock in these arguments that the end of the war will be determined and come to pass when the "big shots" decide that it should end. As a matter of fact we stand in imminent danger of the enemy at any time coming forth with some new weapon that might be even more deadly than the robombs that are at present plagueing England. You can bet that Churchill wants to end it just as soon as he can, no matter what the political outcome. German scientists are still capable of bringing forth something new and more deadly. The idea is to bring them to their knees before that comes to pass. A quick end to the war is imperative.—Thornton Enterprise.

Prittle... Prattle....

Well, the first week of school is finished and the bell dismissing classes rang at 4:15 p. m. We had our first Saturday test and the grades will be posted Monday or Tuesday. Quartermaster seems to be the toughest for me, so I will have to devote most of my time to that. During the next two weeks we will be required to memorize nearly 50 pages in our book concerning different types of clouds and the symbols used to record them in the ship's log, the duties of the 2m watch at sea, all the entries and where they belong in the columns of the log, as well as how to read the barometer, stadimeter, pilorus, depth finder, wet and dry thermometers, etc.

P—P

I stood my watch the other night. When we are on duty we sleep in the school building before and after our turn. While waiting, we practiced blinker and semaphore

P—P

I have been giving a good deal of thought as to what type of ship I'd like best to be assigned to after finishing school. Submarine duty takes my eye. There would be 16 additional weeks of training. The pay is increased from $66 to $118 per month for a S 1|c. The food is of the best, the quartermasters have an important job and advance fast. The crew is small and there is much less military formality. In addition leaves come oftener. I would also like a destroyer or destroyer escort. However, there is no guarantee that we will be assigned to the ship of our choice.

P—P

One day I counted the number of steps from the barracks to the schoolhouse. 1465 thirty-inch steps, nearly 3700 ft. one way. We will enjoy that walk 3 times a day when cold weather comes on!

P—P

We had a fine time last Sunday enjoying some of the wilds of Idaho. Several of us walked down the mountain in the vicinity of Buttonhook Bay. The Bay is a swimming, boating and fishing area for the "schoolboys" and is about a 20 minute walk from our barracks — almost straight down. The area is densely wooded with virgin and second growth pine and the lake is beautiful and shallow at this point. It is only about 200 ft. across the narrows and the mountain rises steeply for about 1500 feet on the other side. Attached to the area is a lunch and picnic cabin and two piers extend into the lake. Picnic tables are placed at convenient spots and there are many paths angling away. Several of us brought letters to read and most of us wrote one or two.

P—P

I found the story of Ursel (in the last Independent received) very interesting. He flew a good plane, the B-25. We have been studying it, and others, in recognition classes. Several of the men have asked to read the papers, so I will pass them around when I've finished them.

P—P

Last night I dreamed that I was home and that my wife and I were buying R. R. tickets to Denver and that Ted Johnson was the agent—then they turned on the steam about 4 a. m. and the pipes began to rattle and bang. That woke me up and interrupted a perfectly good dream.

Efficient, Convenient Feeding

The advantages of cafeteria feeding are set forth by poultry experts as follows.

1. Lower cost egg production. The grains are fed whole, saving grinding expense and mixing costs.

2. Might actually result in better production because the flock is automatically fed and the chances for mixing errors or neglecting them are lessened.

Pullets should be started on this method of feeding before they come into production.

BIG GAIN 26% POULTRY CONCENTRATE is made especially for cafeteria feeding. In addition to being "right" in the proper combination of high quality proteins, it contains an abundance of the vitamins and minerals so essential to peak production.

■ An idle hen not only isn't producing eggs – she's also eating feed a laying hen should have.

Often hens are idle only because their egg capacity is not being utilized. For instance, hens on the Research Farm lay as many as 23 more eggs per bird per year when DR. HESS POULTRY PAN-A-MIN is added to the ration. And there, in a nutshell, is the reason we strongly urge that you give PAN-A-MIN a fair trial.

It's tonics and minerals that a hen gets in PAN-A-MIN. Both are often needed for top production. Just ask us about PAN-A-MIN.

READING & WRITING

BY Edwin Seaver AND Robin McKown

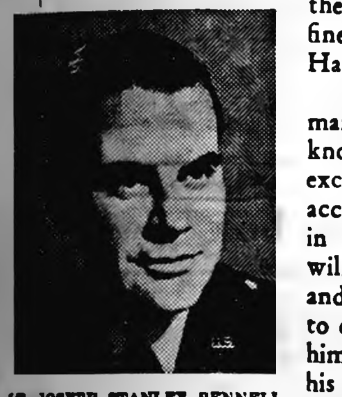
"Yes, I'm sure your grandfather must have been a fine old Southern gentleman." That remark, uttered by a bored young Vassar girl, after her suitor has been enthusiastically extolling his forbear, is the keynote of Lt. Joseph Stanley Pennell's fine first novel, "The History of Rome Hanks."



LT. JOSEPH STANLEY PENNELL

Frustrated and angered by his girl's remark, Lee Harrington realizes that he knows very little about his grandfather except that "he spoke with a Southern accent and that Aunt Cornelia said he was in Pickett's Charge." He resolves that he will become acquainted with his ancestors, and thereupon takes on the job of talking to everyone who knew them or can supply him with any information. The results of his penetration make a rich and varied story of the Civil War days.

"The History of Rome Hanks" is being compared by reviewers to the works of Thomas Wolfe, Proust, and James Joyce. However that may be, here is a young author of originality and distinction, who has written a very remarkable first novel.

John Bartlow Martin in "Call It North Country," a story of Upper Michigan, reports hearing this bit of wisdom from an elderly eccentric, who went in for long soliloquies: "I talk to myself for two good reasons: Number 1, I like to hear a sensible man talk. Number 2, I like to talk to a sensible man."

* * *

According to Life Magazine, John P. Marquand is now the most successful novelist in the United States. Says Life, "Book royalties on 'So Little Time' already exceed the movies' payment of $125,000, which means that Marquand has earned more than a quarter of a million dollars on this book alone (most of which, of course, will go to the government in income tax). Just this month Marquand was elected a judge of the Book-of-the-Month Club, which puts him near the very top of the literary whirl, at which he has poked considerable fun in his books, especially 'So Little Time.'"

THE OLD JUDGE SAYS...

"Judge, would you mind tellin' Charlie here what you told me the other night walkin' home from lodge. I can't word it just the way you did."

"Sure thing, Tim. Here's what I told him, Charlie. There's no such thing as votin' a nation, a state, a county, or even a community dry. We had proof enough of that during our 13 years of prohibition. What you really vote for is whether liquor is going to be sold legally or illegally...whether the community is going to get needed taxes for schools, hospitals, and the like, or whether this money is going to go to gangsters and bootleggers. That's the answer, boys... simple as A-B-C."

When Buffaloes Stopped the Iron Horse

...TRAVELERS WERE PATIENT

Remembering the hardships of the stagecoach and covered wagon days, travelers once looked upon the new woodburner trains as solid luxury... despite choking smoke, bumpy roadbeds; no electric lights, no berths or dining cars... despite delays of hours on end when great herds of migrating buffaloes marooned them in the middle of an endless prairie.

Today, if the train, plane or bus is late, if reservations are hard to get or we can't squeeze into the dining car, we can still take comfort in the fact that America is moving at a pace that has astounded the world.

When this war is won, the transportation facilities of our country will have hung up an incredible record for efficient movement of fighting men and freight—and civilians, too. Meanwhile, public opinion is agreed that we should not travel unless absolutely necessary and, if we must go, take inconveniences cheerfully and patiently—like good soldiers.

Physical Education For All In Belmond Schools

Inagurating Program Which Covers All 12 Grades

Physical education for all, under trained supervision is now an actuality in the Belmond Public Schools with the inauguration this fall of a program that extends through all 12 grades.

A schedule whereby the entire morning of Miss Lois Delaplane, girls' instructor, is devoted to physical education and Coach John Lansing's entire afternoon is given to this field makes the program possible.

Both instructors are majors in the field of physical education and both received their degrees at Iowa State Teachers College.

Miss Delaplane has three high school groups, all of which meet Monday and Wednesday every week. The other three mornings are given over to the grades, and during this time she devotes either one or two periods a week to first, second, third and fourth grades (boys and girls together), the fifth and sixth grade girls as a group and the seventh and eighth as another.

Mr. Lansing also meets with three high school classes and in addition supervises the physical education of the fifth and sixth grade boys in one class and the seventh and eighth in another. All of these classes are carried on in the afternoon.

The following nine points make up the objective of the physical education program in the Belmond schools:

1.—To prevent and remove handicaps through health supervision and control.

2.—To organize and direct the the fundamental physical activities of children in big muscle play and development.

3.—To develope the child socially; that is, to teach him to work and play with others, to cooperate with the group for the good of the group.

4.—To develop in the child the right habits of emotional response as well as the fundamental character traits such as obedience, loyalty, spirit of fair play, self-reliance, perseverance, courage, initiative, good sportsmanship, etc.

5.—To develop organic power or functional activity of vital organs within the body, such as heart, lungs, nerves, etc. This development stimulates growth, health, endurance and economic independence.

6.—To develop psycho-motor mechanisms resulting in strategic judgment and good posture.

7.—To develop the neuro-muscular coordinations in the body thereby aiding the child to properly meet the situations that arise in daily life with suitable movement and skill.

8.—To develop in the child a knowledge of human nature.

9.—To develop habits of physical activity, ideals of recreation and the right use of leisure time.

Types of activity included in the physical education program are as follows:

1. Games and Athletics—Team sports or games that lead up to team sports such as basketball, baseball, etc.
2. Stunts and Contests—Individual or dual activity in tumbling and stunts.
3. Rhythmical Activities. —Singing games and Folk dancing, tap dancing, ballroom dance, ets.
4. Gymnastics—Formal Danish drill and exercises.
5. Running Games and Relays —Tagging and chasing games, such as Red Light, Squat Tag, etc.
6. Recreational Games—Games for leisure time such as marbles, mumblety-peg, ping-pong, badminton, etc.

Republicans Plan Dinner for Governor and James Dolliver

The Republicans of Wright County are giving a dinner for Governor Hickenlooper and James Dolliver, candidate for Congress, on Tuesday, Sept. 19, at the Christian Church in Clarion. Following the dinner the Governor will be an honorary official at the Football Jamboree at the Clarion football field. The dinner will be held promptly at 5:45 in order to give the Governor a chance to make a short talk before going out to the football field. Tickets to the Governor's dinner may be purchased in Belmond from Claude Benson or C. C. Christie.

Collect Scrap Paper Tonight

Legion To Make Rounds Between 5:00 And 8:00 o'clock

Eimbrink Post of the American Legion, under the direction of C. J. Papousek, commander, will collect scrap paper in Belmond again on Thursday evening (tonight) between the hours of 5:00 and 8:00 o'clock. This effort is in cooperation with the War Salvage Commission which is urgently requesting scrap paper from all over the country, since it is needed for packaging and many other uses connected with the war effort.

Bundle up your newspapers, magazines, scrap paper of all kinds and have it placed on the curb in front of your home or place of business for easy collection by the Legion committee.

1980 pounds of scrap paper was collected by the local Legion Post in the drive held on August 25.

Duck Season Opens September 20

Hunters - Are You Ready

State Provisions of Game Laws

The 1944 duck season opens 30 minutes before sunrise September 20 and closes at sunset December 8, and in spite of the confused ammunition situation, game officials anticipate many hunters out opening day. Reports from the heavy duck-producing areas indicate a tremendous increase in waterfowl, and local ducks appear to be comparatively numerous.

The daily bag limit on ducks remains at 10. In addition to this, however, each daily bag may include five more mallards, widgeons, or pintails, or any combination of these three species. Black ducks, erroneousy called "black mallards" by some hunters, may not be included in the extra five ducks allowed each day. Only one wood duck may be had in the daily limit or in possession. After the first day of the season two days' limits may be held in possession, except wood ducks.

The daily bag limit on Canada or white-fronted geese is two, and in addition four blue or snow geese may be taken. After the first day four Canadas or white-fronts and eight blue or snow geese may be held in possession.

The coot or mudhen season is the same as for ducks and geese, and both bag and possession limits are set at 25. The season remains closed in Iowa on jacksnipe.

Waterfowl may not be taken with any shotgun larger than No. 10 gauge, or by the use of live decoys, bait, aircraft, motor or sail propelled craft, rifles, horses, cattle or mules. Repeating or automatic shotguns of more than three-shell capacity must be plugged to limit the combined capacity of barrel and magazine to three shells.

Every person over 16 years of age is required to have a federal migratory bird hunting stamp when hunting migratory waterfowl, in addition to his state hunting license. These stamps may be purchased at any post office at a fee of one dollar.

Copies of the duck hunter's map, showing opening and closing hours for all points in the state for each day of the open season, may be secured free from county recorders or by writing directly to the State Conservation Commission, 10th & Mulbery, Des Moines, 8, Iowa.

Off Ration List

According to an announcement from the Regional O. P. A. office this week, processed foods will be removed from the ration list on September 17 while the rationing of coal and wood heating and cooking stoves to consumers will end October 15. The announcement indicated, however, that oil and gas stoves will continue to be rationed.

WEATHER REPORT

Highest temperature last week in Belmond was 80 degrees on Saturday the 9th. Following is a report of weather conditions for the week of Sept. 5 to 11 inclusive:

Survey Made Of Trucking In County

Tire Situation - Loading Are Problems To Consider

The tire situation and underloading and overloading of some trucks are problems that endanger the continued operation of some "for hire" trucks the county transportation survey committee reported Wednesday at a meeting of the Wright County Livestock Industry Transportation committee.

Forty-five per cent of the tires of common carrier or "for hire" livestock trucks appear to have six months or less use remaining and fully half of the trucks have no spare tire at all. It is estimated that a third of the livestock trucks use less than three-fourths of available capacity and that one-seventh of them are so heavily loaded as to endanger the life of the tires. On a recent day at a local livestock market, only one out of six truck loads delivered by a trucker was a capacity load.

In contrast to wartime transportation problems mentioned by truckers, those problems reported by a survey of farmers indicate that difficulty in getting trucks is the most common problem, although a relatively small proportion of the livestock is transported by farmers. Some farmers do not believe the war has brought emergency transportation problems.

It is anticipated that the tonnage of farm products, including grain, to be transported this winter in livestock trucks, is as large as it was the last year. Since the number of "for hire" trucks has declined, and they are older, positive conservation measures are necessary to make trucks last for the duration. Just what these conservation practices should be is now being considered by the county Livestock Industry Transportation Committee which will make some recommendations soon. Wholehearted cooperation of truck users and operators is a necessity in the war emergency.

The County Survey Committee includes John F. Schipull, representing County Farm Transportation Committee, W. J. Evans, trucker, Fred Eslick, -O. D. T. Manager, Mason City, and County Extension Director, Aaron R. Bowman, Chairman, D. D. Alderdyce, Hampton, secretary of the Mason City area Advisory Committee was also in attendance. Cooperating with the county survey committee is Sam n Thompson of Iowa State College. Members of the County Livestock Industry Transportation Committee of Wednesday's meeting were W. J. Evans, Chairman, Leo Woodley, Clarion, farmer; and Ed Sorenson, trucker, and J. M. McAdams, dealer, both of Dows, appearing for Byron Meyer.

Football Season Gets Under Way Friday Night

Gridiron Club Held First Meeting Monday

Twenty-six members were present at the first meeting of the Gridiron Club held on Monday evening.

Plans were discussed for the coming gridiron season with arrangements made to have a dinner meeting every Monday evening through the football season. Coach John Lansing talked about the different boys who are out for football this year.

Dr. Alan M. Nelson was elected treasurer of the organization to fill a vacancy. Other officers include C. C. Christie, chairman, and Dr. A. M. Larson, secretary.

Broncos Meet Clarion On Opponents Field

The 1944 Football season will get under way locally when the Belmond Broncos will attempt to give the Clarion Cowboys a rough ride on the opponents field, Friday night, September 15. Up to date, Clarion holds a superior edge over the local team in games won and lost. This year, however, the Broncos have more than a fighting chance to tumble their ancient rivals and neighbors.

Although this year's game will be an early contest, limiting the practice sessions, Coach Lansing has been working diligently with his warriors. The past practice periods covered the offensive drills as well as the type of defense to be employed. During the week, the local team opposed Hampton high school in an arrangd scrimmage game.

When the teams line up for the opening kick-off Friday night at Clarion, the Broncos will have two speedy opponents, namely: Bisbey and Rodriquez, both elusive backs. On the home team, the spectators will have the opportunity of seeing the following boys in the starting line-up:

Backfield will be composed of Larry Dorr, left half; Richard Mickelson, full back; Linden Proeger, right half and Hadyn Jones, quarter back.

End positions will be filled by George Tideback and Ray Waddington. The tackle spots will be defended by Les Classick and Arthur Stockseth Linemen protecting the guard positions will be Merle Janssen at right and either Ernest Tudor or Richard Stockseth at the left. Choice for the pivot spot is a toss-up between Richard Wagner and Paul Trees.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Henn of Nornell, Mich., announce the arrival of a seven pound son born Sept. 1st. He has been named Russell Dean. Mrs. Henn was Elizabeth Welzein of Dows before her marriage.

Accept War Chest Quotas

Wright County's Drive Opens October 2

At a meeting of the Wright County War Chest Committee held at the Clarion court house Thursday evening, Sept. 7, quotas for the drive to open Oct. 2 were accepted by the town and township chairmen. Those who are planning the local drive desire to have it completed by Oct. 7.

City of Belmond	$1807.65
Pleasant township	652.10
Belmond township	718.80
Grant township	622.20
Iowa township	723.40
Norway township	709.60

The quota accepted by the committee for Wright county is $20,000. The state of Iowa is asked to raise $2,159,801 of the $115,000,000 National goal.

R. W. Courson, chairman of the drive in Belmond said this week that plans are going forward for the campaign in the city and will be announced later.

Gifts to the National War Fund through the Wright County War Chest will go proportionately to many causes—

For our Armed Forces: USO (United Service Organization including USO Camp shows-, War Prisoner's Aid, United Seamen's Service.

For our allies and refugees: Aid for the civilians of China, Russia, Greece, France, Poland, Britain, Italy, Belgium, Denmark, Norway, Czechoslovakia, Luxembourg, Yugoslavia, Netherlands, Refugee Relief Trustees; U. S. Committee for the care of European Children; Emergency Fund—a reserve for unforseen needs and developments.

County chairman E. F. Bisbey stated, "The committee feels that raising funds for the National War Fund is a vital part of the war effort, and plans are being made to continue this program as long as is necessary for the welfare of our people."

Mrs. Jeffrey Norby and daughters Florence and Phyllis visited relatives in Belmond Sunday.

Start All-out Drive To Collect Milkweed Pods

Rural School Children Will Search All Of Wright County

The Rural Schools have started an all cut drive to collect every milkweed pod growing in Wright County.

All rural teachers have been issued loosely meshed onion sacks in which to collect and dry the pods and already on numerous fences in the rural districts hang sacks of the fluffy material which may be destined to save the lives of Wright county boys now flying for Uncle Sam.

When the Japs took the East Indies we were left without any source of kapok, the only material formerly used for making life vests, aviators' suits and other war materials where very light weight and high buoyancy or "floatability" are needed. Milkweed floss is a fine substitute for kapok. It takes only 1½ pounds of milkweed floss to hold up a man in the water.

Children will be paid 20 cents for a sack of dried milkweed floss. Pods should be dried from four to six weeks.

This is a necessary task for those parts of America where milkweeds grow. Adults are urged to spot patches of the valuable weeds for children and to help in any way possible to collect them.

An ample supply of sacks is available at the office of the County Superintendent of Schools. Filled sacks may be brought to the office of the County Superintendent where payment will be made. No sacks should be brought in until they are thoroughly dry This can not possibly be accomplished until some time in October or November 1st.

I SAW A POEM—

I saw a poem yesterday—only they didn't know they were a poem. They were just a soldier and his girl—his wife, she said later when I talked to her.

I first met her eyes in the hideously garish mirror of the impersonal light of the railroad station.

She was little and blond with clear gray eyes. She had a bow of green ribbon in her yellow hair and she looked like a little girl about to cry as she carefully smoothed on her make-up.

"I'll have to hurry," she said, "or he will think I'm in here crying."

"Leaving on this train?" I asked.

"Yes, he is," she said, "this is his last furlough."

"The train is late" I stated hopefully.

"This is one time I don't mind how late it is," she said and smiled.

She turned to go, she shut her eyes tightly to push the tears far out of sight and rearranged her lips into a little smile as she went out to where he was waiting, a smart figure in a private's uniform.

They sat on a bench in the waiting room, close togther, their shoulders brushing each other, not saying anything.

She looked down at the new plain band on her third left finger. He reached over and touched it lightly and their eyes met.

In that look was all of life, its joy, ecstacy, its desperation and hope, mingled with the memory of all they had shared together.

Outside a taxi screeched to a stop, the traffic whirled through the streets, two women started a loud conversation, people moved in and out like ants on important missions, a child cried loudly because he couldn't have some of his older sister's soft drink...

In all the world there were only these two in that look, there in a busy railroad station they sat as completely isolated from everything around them as if they had been under a palm tree in a limitless desert.

He got up manlike, to break the heavy awareness of the clock on the opposite wall, which ticked the train inexorably closer and closer.

He bought a paper and pretended to read. She sat very still, away from him, watching the clock as if they saw in it all the weeks and months that had passed and were still to come.

Then she reached over, almost shyly, linked her arm in his and moved closer, feeling his nearness, and saying nothing.

He got out a pencil and together they talked in low tones, pretending to work over a crossword puzzle.

But after a moment he tossed it aside and the look was there again.

"It won't be for long," he said.

Her smile came back as if she had reached somewhere deep in her heart and pulled it out.

"Of course not," she said.

Far up the track the whistle of the train sounded. The people bustled to the gates.

"Don't come up," he told her. "I want to leave you smiling."

She put her arms on his shoulders holding the smile on her lips and in her clear gray eyes.

"I'll see you soon," was all she said.

"You bet your life you will," he said, and turning swiftly he was gone.

The last I saw of her she was walking rapidly out of the station, her hands in the pockets of her trench coat, her head up, the sunlight glinting on her yellow hair with the green silk bow.

That's the poem I saw yesterday It's a poem being written in railroad and bus stations all over America and its beauty and pathos and heart make it immortal.

Goodbye and all it means when it might be for good. But no tears, only a smile, and a look that saw and remembered—and believed.

Goodbye—and good luck, soldiers, both of you. May your poem be a lyric of joy and never an elegy.—by Mabel Tuggle in the Danville (Va.) Commercial Appeal.

WITH OTHER EDITORS—

Admirals are accustomed to weighing their words carefully. So the public will get satisfaction from the statement of Admiral Nimitz that he believes the defeat of Japan may be accomplished without an invasion, although he cannot be certain. The admiral is hopeful that the job may be done by a combination of sea blockade and sea and air bombardment.—Fort Dodge Messenger.

At the present time Thornton does not have a juvenile delinquency problem. Unsocial actions by youths have been very tame around here—and they will perhaps continue to be such for the time being. Thornton has had no trouble. Many neighboring towns are complaining, however, of the juvenile problems which confront them. And in some of these towns, according to statements, they are not getting any better. However, two or three youths from this vicinity have had to have "their ears slapped down." One was fined in a neigboring town recently for unnecessary activities, while another was defeated in a hand-to-hand fight by a small man who knew what it was all about. A few run in like these and even youth will learn to tame down.—Thornton Enterprise.

No part of our population has done more for the war effort than the farmers. Did you ever hear of a farmer going on a strike? Coal miners strike, transportation employes strike, workmen everywhere except on the farms strike. What if the farmers struck? Suppose the farmers laid off one season. What would the nation do. What would the workers in industry do? Think it over!—Humboldt Republican.

It is apaprent that the Army and Navy as well as the Democrats and Republicans are too finicky in the matter of reading matter for armed forces. Why would material which is all right for them as civilians be poisonous the moment they enter the service?

Let them have anything they want to read whether it be political propaganda or otherwise. Give them the same latitude in their choice of what they want to read as is the privilege of civilians. Their judgment is not warped the moment they put on a uniform. Nor are they any more susceptible to the influence of propaganda. Yes, send them anything they want.—Eagle Grove Eagle.

Walter Lippman has paid the following deserved compliment to Winston Churchill, great Prime Minister of Britain: "The springs of greatness in a public man lie finally, as they do in Winston Churchill, in the conviction that he must serve the truth, and not opinion, that he must do what is right whether or not he is sure to succeed. That was how in the darkest hours of 1940 Churchill made the choice between honor and calculation. When none could calculate the future of Britain, he settled the issue on the ground of honor and duty. This is the way of greatness.—Webster City Freeman.

Hitler will not have to surrender if the allies keep on going toward Berlin. And do not forget that the Reds are fast coming in from the other end, and may get there first. Perhaps the old paper hanger has decided that "if they want me let 'em come and get me."—Hampton Chronicle.

Prittle... Prattle....

Tomorrow the noisy Signalmen section in our barracks graduates and tonight they were putting all those who made a rate in the shower, clothes or no clothes. Then the rates and those who remained S 2|c decided to do the same for those who made S 1|c. By that time the S 1|c and the rates gave the works to the S 2|c, so everybody got a cold ducking. It made quite a lot of confusion for Section 11; but none of us minded too much since we will all feel just as hilarious when that day comes for us.

P—P

If John Lansing stops into the office tell him I'm wishing him best of luck with his football and basketball teams this year. I hope the Gridiron Club functions again—I believe it helps make a winning team.

P—P

A fellow who has just transferred into our section from the hospital has a radio and at last we can hear some news and music for the first time since I've been here without going to Ship's Service.

P—P

I went to my first movie the other night—that is, the first since I came to Farragut. They are given in the central auditorium. It has 3 sections and holds about 3,000 people. There is room for 1800 of the enlisted personnel on the outside sections. In the center, down front, sits ship's company, next the Waves, next the chiefs and their families. Then about in the middle of the center section there are a couple of rows for captains. then 2 for commanders, 2 for lieutenants, then several for heads of departments and the rest of the seats in back for servicemen with wives or girl friends. The enlisted men must enter from the side on which they wish to sit as they cannot cross over on the hallowed ground the officers tread.

P—P

We certainly enjoy hearing taps in our division. We have 5 buglers, all of whom have trumpets. One of them used to play with Henry Busse's orchestra. Occasionally at taps the 5 of them get together and the harmony is beautiful. You can imagine how it would sound on the clear night air high up in the mountains. Generally no one feelks like talking after the last strains die away.

P—P

I am in Spokane tonight on my leave since starting QM School. Four of us are together. After "setting up housekeeping" we matched to see who would go out to get our neckerchiefs pressed. I lost. On the way back to the hotel I overtook a pilot officer of the New Zealand Air Force. I wondered if he might not be lonely so asked him if he would like to come up and get acquainted. I was glad I had the impulse because he smiled and said he thought it was a "sound" idea. He was finishing his flying training at Calgary, Canada. He has been in the service five years, was born in England. His name is Freddie Hill. Next thing we knew we four QM's were up a couple of floors getting acquainted with his three buddies. They were all very English in accent but staunch New Zealanders. All in all it was quite interesting.

REMEMBER WHEN

—the woodbox stood behind the kitchen stove. No sneaking off to school before the box was filled. In the summer after dark when the splinters were dumped out, the box was a dandy place to hide when playing hide and seek. Remember?

Dear Miss KITCHEN..

1. Give me a few summer "Salad Bowl" combinations.
2. How can I "pep up" our breakfast oatmeal?
3. Tell me how to use that left-over meat.

1. Avocado, grapefruit and romaine, with French dressing; cabbage, carrot sticks, diced apple and shredded peppers; diced potato, celery, cucumber, green pepper, pimiento, using a cooked dressing.

2. Add chopped prunes, figs or apricots when oatmeal has thickened. Or try maple syrup with the cream or milk. Or serve with a spoonful of fruit preserve or marmalade in center of bowlful.

READING & WRITING

BY Edwin Seaver AND Robin McKown

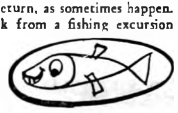
There never has been a time when love stories didn't make good reading. One of the most charming recent ones is Nevil Shute's novel, "Pastoral," which is a Book-of-the-Month Club selection for September.

NEVIL SHUTE

This is the story of Peter Marshall, a twenty-two-year-old pilot in the R.A.F. Peter has come back safely from fifty-one bombing missions, without injury to himself, his crew or his plane, a record in this war. In between missions, he amuses himself by going fishing, by getting up early in the mornings looking for badger and fox, by taking bicycle rides. Such relaxing pastimes do a great deal to relieve the increasing tension of his nights. Then he meets a girl.

She is a W.A.A.F., known as Section Officer Robertson, though Peter finds out quickly that her first name is Gervase. Her job is to sit at the controls while the planes are out, and check them off as they report "mission completed" and return to base—or do not return, as sometimes happen.



Peter first met her when he came back from a fishing excursion with a fine thirty-three-inch pike, the largest he had ever caught. He was very proud and went searching for someone to admire it with him. But all his friends were busy or disinterested, and when Gervase looked up she saw him standing like a little boy disappointed because nobody would play with him. She got up from her chair.

"I'll come and see your fish," she said, "if I may. Where did you say it was?" That may seem a strange reason to fall in love with a girl, but that is what happened.

Nevil Shute is the author of one other Book-of-the-Month Club selection, "Ordeal," published in 1939, which described what might happen in case an English coastal town was ever bombed—an eventuality that was still considered in the realm of fantasy by most of us. His other novels include "Kindling," "Landfall" and "Pied Piper," —this latter was very popular here and was also produced as a motion picture.

AIRPLANE FACTORY

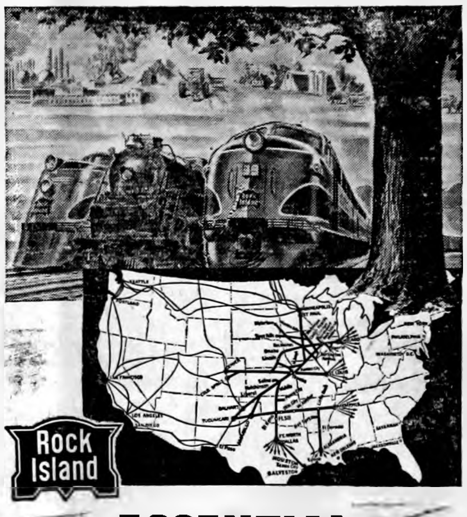
Besides being a writer, Shute is an expert aviation engineer. In 1931 he started an airplane factory which first saw the light of day in an old garage in Southsea. When he resigned in 1938, the firm was employing a thousand people. At the time of Dunkirk, he joined the Navy, after deciding that he was too old to fly on operations and considering that the time for experiments was over. The Admiralty did not agree with him, and days later he was put on to experimental work for the Royal Navy and has been there ever since. He is now a Lieutenant Commander.



ESSENTIAL

to the life and growth of America

Its vital root-system reaching deep into the earth, a great tree receives the nourishment essential to maintain life and sturdy growth.

So too does the American way of life depend upon the huge network of railroads which developed the resources of the nation, moving on through great agricultural and industrial areas, carrying the essentials of America's life and growth.

Of this network, 8,000 miles are the ROCK ISLAND LINES. Here are 8,000 miles of well-kept steel highways which draw from the resources of 14 middle-western states. ROCK ISLAND helped to bring growth and success to that vital area, at the same time serving the entire nation through interchange of traffic to all points.

Essential in the early building of our nation—vital today in moving steady streams of war supplies—ROCK ISLAND LINES will have a big job to do in the future, too.

When America's chief concern is the building of the peace, ROCK ISLAND'S responsibility will be the moving of the essentials to another period of American prosperity.

As yesterday—and today—so tomorrow ROCK ISLAND'S sole purpose is to provide the finest in transportation.

Apron Sale Proceeds Will Go To Red Cross Clubmobile Fund

The Harvey Birthday Club of Grant Township plans to sell aprons made by the members at their guest day, Tuesday, Sept. 19, at the Myron Hill home. The proceeds of the sale are to go to the clubmobile fund that Iowa rural women are collecting for the purchase and operation of a Red Cross clubmobile.

A Red Cross Clubmobile, purchased with funds contributed by Farm Bureau women from coast to coast, is now in actual operation in Italy. Iowa has contributed $3,156.25. One Clubmobile costs $3,500.00 and the operation cost per year is $21,000. These are the doughnut serving units that have been following the boys right into the line of battle.

Any organization wishing to contribute may contact Mrs. Nels Lindvall, Clarion, County Chairman, of the County Farm Bureau office before November 1st.

Program For Rural Women Is Announced

Wright County's Women's Rural committee has announced the Family Living program for the coming year will be just as flexible as the township committees make it.

Subjects selected will be presented in all of three ways: On a leader training basis: in open township meetings, to which all homemakers are invited, or in special interest groups in each township.

Subjects selected to be presented on a county wide basis are: Discussion of the School Code Revision and Family Fun and Hobbies, which includes recreation for all the family. Subjects to be presented to special interest groups are: Points in Business Women can Handle; Time Management; Slip Covers and Reupholstering. Women interested in the special interest subjects should contact their township chairman.

Wright County women selected these subjects to fit into the problems of the county.

Good Market For Anything You Have To Sell

"The folks should see me now"

"POP never would let me run the tractor for fear I'd put it on the blink. Wish he could see me handling this baby!"

Hundreds of thousands of our soldiers, who went away little more than boys, will come back mature men with fine mechanical training, glad to turn their new skills to the running of the farm.

But they're never going to be satisfied with worn-out equipment, or out-of-date machinery. They're going to want the best. And after handling our tanks and planes and guns, they're going to know what the best is!

While your son is away, are you really preparing for his return? You're buying War Bonds, yes—because it's the duty of all of us to help meet the expense of this war for our Freedom. But are you buying enough to lay the foundation for a prosperous postwar farm as well?

5 REASONS FOR INCREASING YOUR WAR BOND PURCHASES

1. The tempo of this war is hitting its highest point. Government expenditures for war are at the peak. MORE MONEY IS NEEDED . . . NOW!
2. In proportion to WHO HAS THE MOST MONEY, individuals are not buying their share of War Bonds. America must correct this situation.
3. War Bonds provide the farmer and rancher with the financial reserve he must have to survive the ordinary ups and downs of farming as a business.
4. Money will be needed urgently at a future date to replace and repair farm equipment, machinery, and buildings. War Bonds will provide it.
5. War Bonds are the safest investment in the world, return a good rate of interest, are easy and convenient to buy . . . from bank, post office, rural mail carrier or Production Credit Association.

For America's Future, for your Future, for your children's Future

"The folks should see me now"

"POP never would let me run the tractor for fear I'd put it on the blink. Wish he could see me handling this baby!"

Hundreds of thousands of our soldiers, who went away little more than boys, will come back mature men with fine mechanical training, glad to turn their new skills to the running of the farm.

But they're never going to be satisfied with worn-out equipment, or out-of-date machinery. They're going to want the best. And after handling our tanks and planes and guns, they're going to know what the best is!

While your son is away, are you really preparing for his return? You're buying War Bonds, yes—because it's the duty of all of us to help meet the expense of this war for our Freedom. But are you buying enough to lay the foundation for a prosperous postwar farm as well?

5 REASONS FOR INCREASING YOUR WAR BOND PURCHASES

1. The tempo of this war is hitting its highest point. Government expenditures for war are at the peak. MORE MONEY IS NEEDED . . . NOW!
2. In proportion to WHO HAS THE MOST MONEY, individuals are not buying their share of War Bonds. America must correct this situation.
3. War Bonds provide the farmer and rancher with the financial reserve he must have to survive the ordinary ups and downs of farming as a business.
4. Money will be needed urgently at a future date to replace and repair farm equipment, machinery, and buildings. War Bonds will provide it.
5. War Bonds are the safest investment in the world, return a good rate of interest, are easy and convenient to buy . . . from bank, post office, rural mail carrier or Production Credit Association.

For America's Future, for your Future, for your children's Future

Mom and Pop and the Car...

"The word 'charge' always affects your father that way—
I just said we'd have the Standard Oil Man charge the car battery!"

Mom's right! Batteries, under light summer loads, can appear to be strong but really be weak. It's wise right now to see that the battery has—and can hold—the proper charge for the heavier loads soon coming up.

In the car care matter, Mom exhibits real "know-how," these days. And why not? Any motorist—man or woman—can keep a car running right, running longer, and running farther on every gallon of gasoline. Just take it to a Standard Oil Dealer. He's trained in wartime car-saving service.

Remember, it's going to be a long time before you can replace your car. Don't neglect it.

Follow your Standard Oil Dealer's 3rd-War-Year Service Guide and keep your car at its best always.

11 REASONS WHY YOU SHOULD USE SILVER-SEAL

Heat Savings: Silver-Seal commonly reduces heat bills 15-40%.
Low Heat Conductivity: Silver-Seal conducts only 0.317 B. T. U. per square foot of area, per inch of thickness, per F. degree difference in temperature, per hour.
Durability: Silver-Seal lasts forever. It will not disintegrate or deteriorate in any manner.
Vermin Proofness: Silver-Seal is a sterile, inorganic mineral. It will not harbor vermin, fungus, rodents, termites or any other form of animal, vegetable or insect life.
Electrical Resistance: Silver-Seal effectively resists 14,000 volts per inch Fireproofness: Silver-Seal is absolutely fireproof. It easily resists 2400 degrees Fahrenheit.
Odorless: Silver-Seal will neither absorb nor give off odors. It will not rot or corrode.
Chemical Activity: Silver-Seal is an inert material. It is highly resistant to acids and will not react with iron, steel, wood or any other substance. It is unaffected by water.
Light Weight: Silver-Seal is a feather-weight material weighing only six pounds per cubic foot.
Ease of Installation: Silver-Seal is granular in form and pours easily into the most inaccessible places. It does not have to be blown in.
Health Hazards: Silver-Seal is harmless to handle. It will not irritate the face or hands.

Farmers Discuss Feed---Livestock Situation

Rex Beresford, State Extension Animal Husbandryman, advised farmers that if we have an early frost and soft corn, to get out the corn binder, cut fodder or fill the silo in order to save the feed and then wait three or four weeks or more to buy feeder cattle.

Speaking before over 200 Wright county farmers on the subject, "What's Ahead for the Livestock Farmer," Mr. Beresford gave a picture of the national livestock situation. The national picture shows that there has been a 20% to 25% reduction in the number of hogs expected to go to market in 1945. Sheep numbers are down to the lowest point in several years, but wool stocks are extremely high.

There is an 18% reduction in the number of poultry and cattle numbers are at an all time high.

Consumer demands for meat will depend upon the progress of the war but are expected to remain fairly high, with the chance that the reduction of pork, poultry and mutton to be made up by larger consumptions of beef.

Mr. Beresford stated that there would be an opportunity and a need for increasing the supply of beef to meet the reduced hog and poultry meat supply.

All reserve feed supplies have been used. The national picture would indicate that there would be just about enough feed produced to feed the livestock numbers that will be raised this fall and next spring. However, the transportation of these supplies from surplus to deficit areas will cause some hardships.

Mr. Beresford informed the cattle feeders that in his opinion marketing from the range country will be heavy enough to supply all demands.

High Moisture Corn

C. H. Van Vlack, Extension Agricultural Engineer, warned farmers not to crib any corn over 30% moisture content. He stated that corn with 25% to 30% moisture might be stored safely if they use the best ventilation devised but warm weather in the spring may cause some spoilage. Corn with 25% moisture was fairly safe to crib, providing some ventilation was used. Corn with 20% or less moisture was safe to crib.

Van Vlack warned farmers to devise means of removing loose husks, shelled corn and silks when storing corn. He stated that air movements were as great through a crib twelve feet wide when the silks, loose husks and shelled corn

Broncos Lose To Clarion In First Game

Defeated With a 39 to 6 Score

They forgot to put the burr under the saddle last Friday night. As a result Clarion defeated Belmon 39-6. Bisby scored for Clarion to give them a 6-0 lead at the first quarter. Two more touchdowns were produced before the half, along with one extra point to give Clarion a 19-0 score. The Bronco team showed signs of fire as they reeled off three first downs in a row in the first quarter, but bad breaks and touchdown jitters seemed to bog them down.

Twenty points were added by the Cowboys in the third and fourth quarters, which raised their score to 39. Belmond recovered a fumble on the 5 yard line and a pass to Tideback netted a score that kept them from a shut-out.

Injuries and lack of veteran reserves in the line kept Belmond from really rolling. Dorr and Mickelson were slightly hurt as were R. Stockseth and L. Proeger, but all are in shape to play bang-up ball Friday night. Dorr and Jones were the offensive and Mike and Proeger were the defensive.

PLAY BRITT FRIDAY

The Bronco aggregation goes north Friday to show Britt the fundamentals of the game of football. We don't look for another 64-0 score, but the way the team feels in regard to the Clarion game anything is bound to happen.

Britt has a light but experienced team, but we have another week of practice behind us so figure it our for yourself.

R. Wagner won the five dollars on the first tackle of the game. Thanks to the proposition of Ronnie Courson.

Courson Agency Tenants In 3rd Annual Meeting

Guests From GMI Plant Discuss Soybeans

The third annual meeting of farm tenants under supervision of the R. E. Courson Agency was held on Tuesday night, September 19 at the home of Clark McNeal.

Several questions of major importance to the group were discussed, including crop plans for the coming year, seed corn varieties, seed oats, and fertilization. A short discussion was held on the prospects of the current crop of soybeans relative to the advisability of cutting the late beans for hay as compared to the harvest of green beans for commercial use. The possibility of some soft corn was also brought up and handling of it as silage or fodder was discussed with some speculation as to the purchase of livestock for consumption of this feed and the margin of financial gain.

The group was favored by short talks and comments made by Walt Flumerfelt, who is in charge of Belmond operations of General Mills, and Bruce Neil, also connected with the General Mills plant in Belmond. They presented a bird's eye view of the processing procedure and displayed samples of products and by-products of the soybeans, giving a brief description of the characteristics of the products and their various uses. Many questions were asked relative to the physical make-up of the local plant, with specific interest as to the capacity for handling the present growing crop. Mr. Flumerfelt asserted that they would be in position to take beans at the plant commencing on or about Oct. 15. They would therefore, be able to take care of the later harvesting of beans direct at the plant, the processing of which would begin the latter part of October or early in November. Some emphasis was given to new varieties of soybeans with respect to yield and oil content, and the possibility of increasing both the oil content and yield by different methods of planting and the use of the new varieties. The whole group was favorably impressed by the information received from the two guest speakers and by the plans of General Mills for Belmond and North Central Iowa.

In closing the meeting, Mr. McNeal gave statistics of production on the farms operated by the group.

The ladies attending the meeting spent the evening socially, playing bridge, five hundred, and bingo, with prizes going to Mrs. W. C. Lyons of Clarion, Mrs. Clarence Whitten of Rowan, and Mrs. Ray Green of Belmond. At the close of the evening a lunch was served to the group by Mrs. McNeal, assisted by Mrs. R. W. Courson and Mrs. D. T. Lyнner.

Scouts Have First Meeting October 3rd

Plan Greater Activity For Season

Boy Scouts of Troop 16 will hold their first regular weekly meeting of the fall on Tuesday, October 3, at the school gymnasium at 7:30 p. m., Clark McNeal, scoutmaster, announced this week.

All previously registered members of the troop are urged to be in attendance and any other boys who have attained their 12th birthdate are cordially invited to attend.

Members of the Cub organization now in progress are invited to join the meeting on the 3rd of October. However, they cannot meet as a regular unit until such time as a group of parents can be called together to start an active organization for cubbing.

Belmond scouts are sponsored by the Eimbrink Post of the American Legion. Scoutmaster McNeal said this week, "Greater activity in scouting in Belmond is hoped for during the coming fall and winter season." R. W. Courson is assistant scout master, Bob McBride, senior patrol leader.

Stores And Schools To Close Half-day

Will Hold Services In All Churches

Eimbrink Post, No. 35, of the American Legion and the churches of the Belmond community are cooperating in a "V-day" program of thanksgiving and prayer when Germany has been defeated.

A meeting was held Tuesday evening of representatives of the local Legion post and the churches of Belmond, at which time plans were completed for the observance of "V-day" in the community. The group also discussed plans for a community celebration at the time Germany and Japan have both been defeated, future announcements to be made as these plans develop.

On "V-Day" all stores in Belmond (at the request of the Chamber of Commerce) and all schools are to close for a half day, subject to the following announcement: Fire siren blowing continuously 15 minutes and all church bells ringing. Central Telephone Co. will put out general calls on all rural lines, making the announcement.

If news is received between 12:00 o'clock midnight and noon, stores and schools will close for the afternoon and services will be held at 8:00 in the evening at all churches. (St. Olaf and Trinity Lutheran churches will have a combined service at the Trinity church in Belmond).

If news is received between 12:00 noon and midnight, all stores and schools will close the following forenoon, with services held at 9:00 in the morning at all churches.

The committee formulating the "V-day" plans included C. J. Papousek, commander, Wm. Dempsey, Fred Fulton and Carl Martin of the American Legion; Reverend O. M. Severseike of the Trinity Lutheran and St. Olaf Churches; Father Robert Ormsby, St. Francis Church; Reverend C. L. Duxbury, Congregational Church; Reverend H. P. Senft, St. John's Lutheran Church; Robert Banning representing the Baptist Church and Mrs. Dell Rankins representing the Methodist Church. Immanuel Reformed Church will also participate.

Governor Hickenlooper Expresses Opinion On "V-Day" Observance

The magnificent victories of our armed forces over the German armies encourages every one to believe that final victory in Europe may not be very far removed. However, we must al' realize that much bitter fighting will occur before that day of victory. When final surrender of the Nazis occurs, a great feeling of relief, joy, and thanksgiving will come to the whole nation.

We must remember however, that the surrender of Germany will be the end of only one phase of this great world struggle and that our armed forces in the Pacific will still be fighting a bitter and different war and that the war will still go on until all of our enemies are utterly crushed.

Even on the day of victory in Europe there will be bloodshed, sacrifice and bitter fighting in other parts of the world.

It seems to me that when the surrender in Europe does occur, we should temper our feeling of jubilation and celebration by considering the sacrifices in other theatres of operation that must necessarily continue. We should emphasize on that day our feeling of thanksgiving and solemn gratitude to Almighty God that this one phase of the war shall have ended victoriously. We should renew our pledge to ourselves and our fighting men and women that we shall maintain the full vigor of our support to the end that all other phases of the war may be ended speedily and all of our young men and young women in the armed forces

UNLIMITED RESOURCES—

This fall rural school children are being asked to help the government collect from the one-time objectionable milk weeds, their pods full of fluffy, silky floss, which is now so drastically needed to replace Kapok for the making of life vests and other clothing for our armed forces where light weight and buoyancy is a requirement

One of the things this war has proved in the United States is that there are still unexplored and unlimited resources which are ours to command if we so desire. Our country has always been so rich in raw materials and nature's blessings that except for an emergency like the present war we can go along conveniently, comfortably and happily for years without needing to investigate all of them.

PHYSICAL EDUCATION IS IMPORTANT—

With all the stress that is laid nowadays on "keeping fit," it is gratifying to learn of the extension of the Physical Education program in the local schools to cover all 12 grades.

The benefits received from participation in physical education activities and various sports by school boys and girls of all ages are inestimable, but a complete program in this field does much to round out the education of a boy or girl and in many, many ways prepares him or her better for future work and a place among his fellow men in our social, religious or civic life.

CHRISTMAS IN SEPTEMBER—

Early to think about Christmas? Not a bit, when you stop to heed official mailing dates for our men and women in the armed services! Until October 15 for the Army...until October 31 for Navy, Marines and Coast Guard.

You wouldn't for all the world want to hurt the men and women in uniform by letting them feel forgotten Christmas Day. And America's War Department wants every soldier, sailor and marine, especially those overseas, to enjoy a Merry Christmas with morale-building gifts and messages from home. So get out and do your Christmas shopping right now. Belmond merchants may not have thought much yet about Christmas decorating and merchandising, but they have many suggestions for your overseas Christmas gifts.

A few things to remember in doing your overseas Christmas shopping is that no parcel can weigh more than five pounds or be more than 15 inches in length or 36 inches in combined length and girth. Every package must be very strongly wrapped in metal, wood, solid fibre, corrugated board, etc., and securely tied.

MONEY VALUE OF A CUSTOMER—

Class of Store	Amt. Customer Is Worth
Furniture Store	$37.40
Department Store	128.21
Shoe Store	17.90
Music Store	32.70
Radio Store (for accessories)	1 21
Tobacco Store	5.88
Auto Accessory Store (not Garage)	5.53
Jewelry Store	6.72
Candy Store (excluding lunch)	8.31
Women's Wear	56.73
Men's Wear	13.85
Hardware Store	41.51
Drug Store (excluding lunch)	14.35
Grocery Store	68.17

It has been suggested that if one customer is worth as much as $37.40, $41.51 or $68.17 to a furniture, hardware or grocery store respectively, the owner or operator would be money-wise to spend several times that amount in consistent yearly advertising to bring in 10 regular customers.

WITH OTHER EDITORS—

We sometimes wonder whether there is any limit to the length politicians will go to perpetuate themselves in office. The thought comes to mind in connection with a measure now before congress to pay transition wages to defense workers until they get other work. Under the proposal the government would pay as much as $35 a week for two years, to those who may become unemployed following the shutting down of defense jobs.

No one who is interested in the welfare of the country would make such a suggestion. It just doesn't hold water. The country cannot afford to make loafers out of its industrial workers—and that would be the result in thousands of cases, if men could get $35 a week for not being employed.

It is about time that some of our leaders get over the idea that they can make a political football out of our economic system—all for the sake of keeping their offices.

Congressional leaders had better squelch this latest attempt of politicians and labor leaders to raid the American treasury or there will be a popular uprising that will shake them right out of their jobs and into the discard.—Rock Rapids Reporter.

Food makes the difference between the strength of the lumberjack and the mal-nourished weakling. Correctly used, food insures steady nerves for the airplane pilot and alertness for his crew. Food makes the difference between staying on the job and time off which decreases the pay check. Just as good fuel is necessary for smooth running automobiles, the body needs good food to help keep it warm and supply energy for physical and mental activity.—Thornton Enterprise.

It's a little difficult to make sense out of the administration bill to provide up to $200 travel expense for war workers returning to their homes. It doesn't even make political sense. Why in the world pay workers who have been getting enormous war-swollen salaries MORE MONEY for traveling to their homes? If such money is paid to war workers then why not pay $200 to a farmer for a well-earned vacation? Probably the farmer would settle for time and a half over 40 hours in a week like the war workers have been getting. Sometimes those bureaucrats are double silly.—Kossuth Co. Advance.

About twenty-five years ago one of Iowa's prominent men (he is a good man, too) stood before the annual banquet of the Iowa Press Association and argued that we are creatures of our minds and that all mankind everywhere does what it wills itself to do. He said that Iowa is a corn state because its people are corn-minded. Also we are stock-minded which makes us a stock-raising people. Of course we know that is all twaddle, and yet it was advanced seriously by a man high in state affairs. More, it was listened to seriously and by some it was believed.

Everyone knows that Iowa is what she is because of her soil and climate and natural resources. The people of Iowa raise corn because it is adapted to the soil and climate. They raise hogs because hogs and corn thrive together and corn is a natural hog food. Iowa people are corn, hog and general stock minded—the state and its resources made them so.—Wright County Monitor.

Prittle... Prattle....

Today a box of [illegible] arrived from the b. w. to help me celebrate the first anniversary we've been apart since our marriage. There was soap, cookies, fruit, fudge, crackers, cigarettes, cheeses, shaving cream, toothpaste, books, and what not. All the hungary wolves had to gather around and watch me open it—I fear there won't be much left of the eats by tonight.

P—P

We have been living in an atmosphere thick with smoke and flying ashes caused by a forest fire about 3 miles west of the main gate. All 3 of the station fire departments, as well as a truck load of Alaskcan hand extinguishers, bulldozers, men from O.G.U. and two companies of boots were out fighting it. It was quite bad for awhile. If a good wind should get behind a fire here and blow it towards the camp, the whole place would soon be a pile of ashes since the forest comes down to the camp on all sides except that bounded by the lake. The fire cut down the water supply so low that we aren't allowed to wash clothes or take showers today, but may use the water only for drinking.

P—P

Now it is the day after the fire and we land-locked sailors made up for lost time. I scrubbed clothes for an hour and a half. When I awoke this morning the air was blue with smoke and there was a strong odor of woodsmoke. The fire had broken out again and many companies were called out to subdue it. Early this morning the visibility was less than 100 yards; but the fire is out now—to stay, I hope.

P—P

Three p. m. was the time set for the captain's inspection of the QM and SM sections of about 900 men. There were 10 files of men, all in whites, lined up in front of the mess hall, the lines extending about three-fourths of a block. Lt. Comdr. Nelson, commanding officer of the service school, a lieutenant, a chief QM and 2 yoemen made up the inspecting party. The Chief, Lt. Comdr. and one yeoman would go down one side of a file of men and the lieutenant and other yoeman passed by the other side. If a man needed a haircut, the officer would indicate it by running a finger up the back of the sailor's head. If one's clothes were ill-fitting his name was taken and he was to be restricted until they were altered and so it went.

P—P

It wasn't such an ordeal as it took only 30 minutes and few were found who had anything wrong. Harold Scott of Des Moines, in our section, and a former classmate of Jim Waddington's at Colfax, is a little, short chubby fellow. His trousers were at least six inches too long. Since he couldn't turn them up he had to pull them up. At the last minute he drew in his breath and gave a tug on his trousers, drawing them almost up to his neck. Then he kept his tummy fat until the inspecting party walked past—when the drew it back to normal, the trousers nearly fell to the ground. That almost spoiled the whole thing because we were a bit nervous anyway and it was all it took to start us giggling like a bunch of Waves.

P—P

Letters mean everything to the men out here. Many of our instructors are just back from active duty and they tell us that letters from home are as important as material in winning the war to those in servic overseas.

Cheerio until next week.

The Latest
March Of Time
"Americans All"

This month's March of Time is a sincere and sympathetic story of how the various racial groups in America's great melting pot are learning to live and work together in peace and harmony. One of the most discussed issues The March of Time has ever released, "Americans All" is a film that should be seen by everyone for it presents a picture of the kind of true democracy for which our boys are fighting today.

WE'LL EGG THE DAYLIGHTS OUT OF BENITO, HITLER, AND HIROHITO

• Eggs are right around the top of the list of food-for-victory items. Are your birds carrying their share of this extra production burden?

We'd like to see you try DR. HESS POULTRY PAN-A-MIN in your ration. The reason is this—the Research Farm birds lay as many as 23 more eggs per bird per year when they get PAN-A-MIN.

And here's why—PAN-A-MIN is a tonic that stimulates the consumption of feed—also supplies essential minerals. It's our belief that both are often necessary for heavy production. We sincerely believe PAN-A-MIN will help you produce more eggs.

READING & WRITING

BY Edwin Seaver AND Robin McKown

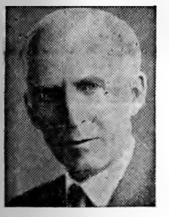
"Basic History of the United States" by Charles and Mary Beard is one history book that is certain to be a best-seller. The New Home Library has published it in a cheap edition which puts it in the price range of everybody. And the Book-of-the-Month Club is sending its members an enlarged and specially illustrated edition as a book-dividend.



CHARLES A. BEARD

"Basic History of the United States" is the most readable and certainly the most basic one-volume history of our country to date. This is the way Louis M. Hacker, also a historian, sums it up:

"The Beards have told the American story in political, social, economic, intellectual and personal terms. They have woven together a rich tapestry of living and growing through which the American spirit of faith and experimentation constantly shines. One should expect them to describe the making of the Constitution very well; but they are equally good on George Washington, our first great republican. One should expect them to be interested in reform movements; but they are equally understandable and intelligent about our great industrialists. They have many interests and remarkably few prejudices and only one blind spot. They are not prepared to see, as full as some, that we, as a people, can continue to grow secure, strong and rich only as the whole world advances toward political peace and material well-being."

MARY R. BEARD

From George Biddle's "Artist at War":

"After dark I went into a peasant's hut. There was a fire of chestnut coals burning against the wall. The hut had a clay floor and no chimney or windows. There were twenty refugees from Statigliano in the hut; five or six children, women, and old men. One old man was eighty-seven. He was in his dotage. The women told me he had lived in America and could talk English. They said to the old man: 'Talk to him in English. He is an American.' It took the old man a long while to understand. After a while he said: 'Newcastle, Pennsylvania, Boston, Chicago, Denver City.' I talked to him but he kept on repeating: 'Boston, Chicago, Newcastle, Pennsylvania.' The women said to each other: 'The old man talks good English.'"

OBITUARY

* * * * * * * *

Cpl. William Duane Corwin

Cpl. William Duane Corwin was born at Dedham, Carroll County, Iowa, April 2nd, 1923 and was killed in action in France July 12th 1944. He attended Eagle Grove high school for three years and was graduated from the Belmond high school in 1940. From that time he was employed by a garage in Belmond.

Cpl. Corwin was inducted into the Army at Camp Dodge, January 12th, 1943 and received his basic training at the Medical replacement school at Camp Barkeley Texas. After graduating from here with high honors he was sent to Camp Shenango Penn. and Camp Kilmer New Jersey for further training. He arrived overseas in England June 3rd, 1943 and left England, and his place called Happy-Valley, with the first assault troops on June 3rd, 1944—just a year to the day that he had arrived in England.

Mr. and Mrs. Corwin received their last letter on July 23rd. It had been written on the 11th of July, the day before Duane made the great sacrifice for his country. It was the last of fourteen letters received by his parents in eight days. In one of his recent letters he wrote,"We still have a mission ahead fo us, their will be some that won't make it, but the spirit is there and the mission to be completed."

Now we know that he realized his mission, was full of the spirit of bravery, and made the great sacrifice. William received the Purple heart, a presidential citation, and a good conduct award.

Besides his parents he leaves a brother Lewis, a grandmother, Mrs. Margaret Aldrich, many other relatives and friends.

Memorial service was held on Sunday September 14, at the 1st Baptist church in Sheffield. Rev. H. Faris of Belmond assisted in the service.

War takes a holiday!

You can't write it. You can't say it. You can't even believe it . . . unless you've faced its thundering terror for days on end.

Hour after hour without rest, without let-up. You see your buddies go down, but somehow you keep inching on through the blaze and the blackness . . . to the point of nightmarish exhaustion.

Back behind the lines, there's a chance to forget for a while. A chance to relax, to feel human. To take heart.

Give our boys that chance! Give generously so that U.S.O. Camp Shows can keep going on their cheer-up crusades!

A song and the smile of a pretty girl go a long way to uncoil battle-tense nerves. A laugh is home . . . new courage . . . spirit to attack afresh, to win!

To every combat zone, from the major fronts to the tiniest lonely outposts, the U.S.O. sends heart-welcomed camp show units to give our fighting men the lift they need. Your gift helps support the U.S.O. at home and overseas, as well as many vital home-service agencies.

We can't let them down now. Make your donation today, through your local community drive. And make it BIG . . . as big as your heart!

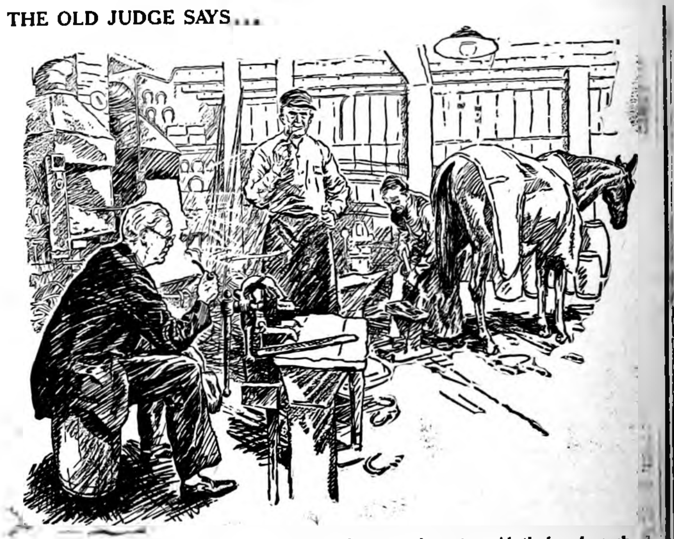
THE OLD JUDGE SAYS...



"Yes, I'm afraid there's no denyin' it, Judge ... jeeps and trucks and other kinds of motorized equipment have taken the place of the good old horse in modern warfare."

"It's true of lots of things in this war, Eben. Every day we hear of new tactics and requirements and new uses of products. For instance, take the alcohol that is used for war purposes. In World War 1, this vitally needed product was used mostly in making smokeless powder, chemical warfare materials and medical supplies. Today it must do far more... it must provide the base for such indispensable products as synthetic rubber, shatterproof glass, lacquers, plastics and many other of our requirements so essential to victory.

"As a result hundreds of millions of gallons are required every year... half of which is being produced by the beverage distilling industry. Bet you didn't know that, Eben."

"As a matter of fact, I didn't, Judge. That's a mighty important war contribution that had escaped me completely."

Thinking Americans Today...

ARE NOT TOO FREE WITH FREE SPEECH

Since our republic was founded, no privilege has been guarded more jealously than the right to talk things over—a right for which men had fought in vain for centuries. The more viewpoints discussed, the clearer our national vision and the stronger our national unity.

Today, public opinion in America asks us all to protect our privilege. It warns us against spreading rumors thoughtlessly or circulating information helpful to the enemy. It urges us to challenge the person with "inside information on the war" by asking him, "Where did you get your facts?" It reminds us that the enemy lays important plans by piecing together little scraps of offhand information. There is no such thing as unimportant gossip.

In addition to supplying the armed forces with glider and bomber fuselage frames, wing parts, gun turret parts and foodstuffs, Anheuser-Busch produces materials which go into the manufacture of: Rubber • Aluminum • Munitions • Medicines • B Complex Vitamins • Hospital Diets • Baby Foods • Bread and other Bakery products Vitamin-fortified cattle feeds • Batteries • Paper • Soap and Textiles—to name a few.

When a product maintains the character that people respect, they are quick to demand it. Generations ago, the makers of Budweiser set a standard—distinctive in taste, pure, good and distinguished for its uniform quality. That's why people everywhere have agreed that Budweiser is "something more than beer". No wonder it is the most popular beer in history.

For those whose loved ones are in the European theatre, final surrender of Germany will, indeed, be a day of relief, but for those in the Pacific and Asiatic war, we must reserve full and solemn consideration and full appreciation that they are also Americans continuing to fight for freedom and for the American system.

No one can say when this day of victory in Europe will come, but when it does come we can make sure that those who are still fighting the war in other places are not forgotten in our temporary relief and enthusiasm.

was removed as a crib two feet wide when the silks, loose husks and shelled corn were not removed.

Mr. Van Vlack advised farmers not to pick corn high in moisture too soon after damp weather. He also stated that the corn lost moisture much faster standing on the stalks in the field than when stored in the crib.

Utilizing Soft Corn

Farmers with soft corn could get the greatest feeding value by utilizing the soft corn and stalks as silage because nearly one-fourth of the food value is in the stalk. Corn fodder is not too far behind silage in value and would be second choice for utilizing the soft corn crop.

Conducted Survey

County Extension Director, Aaron R. Bowman, reported at the Monday evening meeting on the livestock situation a result of a soft corn survey made on 804 farms in Wright County. Farmers indicated that 10% of the corn crop would still be immature if a killing frost would occur at the normal frost date of October 3rd. This would amount to about 14,000 acres for Wright County. 31%, or almost one third of the corn would be caught by an early frost. 38% of the beans would be caught by an early frost but only 7¼ or around 3,300 acres would be caught by a killing frost on the average date of October 3rd.

A survey of the machinery situation that would be used in harvesting soft corn indicates there is about 250 corn binders and 96 ensilage cutters in the county. Approximately 180 of over 2100 farmers have silos.

VOL. 25 NO. 49 — BELMOND, WRIGHT COUNTY, IOWA, THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 28, 1944. — THE FAMILY NEWSPAPER

Office Of Federal Grain Inspector Opens Here

A. B. Ostrand Ready To Inspect Grain October 2

A. B. Ostrand, Federal licensed Grain Inspector, announced this week that his office in Belmond would be open and ready for operation on Monday, October 2, in the Belmond township hall building, located at the corner of Main Street and highway No. 69.

Belmond was officially approved for a Federal Grain Inspector early in the month of August through the efforts of the Belmond Chamber of Commerce. It is the job of the inspector to secure the proper and representative samples of grain and also to grade the samples according to government standards.

Mr. Ostrand will be ready and equipped to inspect samples of grain for farmers of the community after October 1. Such samples should be brought to the office in either one or two-quart capacity air-tight containers. They will be inspected for moisture content, total damage content and test weight per bushel.

Mr. Ostrand comes to Belmond after many years experience as chief inspection agent in the Kansas City and Des Moines territories.

He is married and has four chilchildren; two boys ages 11 and 16; two daughters ten and eight. His family will move to Belmond in the near future.

C. of C. Hosts At Grain Grading Meeting Tonight

Belmond Chamber of Commerce will be host to North Central Iowa grain dealers, soybean processors, AAA chairmen and County Extension Agents from surrounding counties and Iowa State College Extension men at a grain grading meeting to be held at the Odd Fellows Hall Thursday evening September 28 at 7:30 p. m.

An informative program has been planned, with talks and demonstrations by the following:

Willis B. Combs, Extension Service Marketing Specialist will show pictures and direct actual grading demonstrations.

R. C. Bentley, Iowa State College Extension Service, will discuss the importance of good farm practices.

A. B. Ostrand Federal Licensed Grain Inspector at Belmond, will demonstrate the use of grading equipment.

Walter Flumerfelt, Manager of General Mills' Belmond operations, will discuss discounts and grading factors under the CCC contract.

First State Bank Joins Federal Reserve System

New Membership Means Expanded Services

Cashier B. C. Hewlett has announced that the First State Bank of Belmond, Iowa, is now a member of the Federal Reserve System, having been admitted to membership Sept. 5, 1944. This announcement is of considerable significance for it means that this old, established financial institution is now a shareholder in and a part of the greatest banking system in the world. It also means that more extended banking services are available to the association's patrons.

In becoming an integral part of the Federal Reserve System the First State Bank of Belmond, Iowa has taken advantage of the provisions of the Federal Reserve Act, which is doubtless one of the greatest pieces of legislation ever enacted by Congress of the United States, whereby a bank possessing the necessary qualifications, such as sound asset liquidity, adequate capital, and capable management, may join the System. These factors were determined through the medium of a thorough investigation of this institution's affairs by examiners from the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago.

More than three decades ago the banking system in operation throughout the United States was antiquated, cumbersome and inadequate to meet the business requirements of the country. Competent authorities began an investigation in an effort to make an improvement. The nation's leading economists, financiers, bankers and specialists from the United States Treasury entered into an intensive study and research that covered a period of several years. The result of their combined efforts was the Federal Reserve System.

The Federal Reserve System came into being in 1914 and has operated most successfully since. Its creation brought about many changes in the banking practices which were formerly in general use throughout the United States. It speeded up economic adjustments which were then looked upon as being both desirable and necessary. It also stimulated business throughout the country.

The purposes of the Federal Reserve System can best be explained by a quotation from the Federal Reserve Act itself. It was created "To provide for the establishment of Federal Reserve Banks, to furnish an elastic currency, to afford means of rediscounting commercial paper, to establish a more effective supervision of banking in the United States, and for other purposes."

In becoming a member of the Federal Reserve System the First State Bank of Belmond, Iowa does not change its status as a state bank. It remains a bank chartered and operating under the laws of the State of Iowa. Its deposits continue to be insured by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation. It does, however, become a beneficiary of the enormously expanded banking facilities that accrue to banks that join and become a part of the System.

Thompson Starts Hybrid Seed Corn Drying Operations

Plant Is Handling Over 4000 Bushels Daily

Thompson Hybrid Corn Company of Belmond started its annual corn-drying operations on Monday of this week and at this writing the plant is in full swing, handling over four thousand bushels per day.

The first field to be harvested was that of J. R. Christie, and R. B. Thompson, owner of the plant, reports the yield and quality of the seed harvested thus far as very good. All except the extremely late planting of seed are dry enough to handle very nicely at the processing plant.

The Thompson Company has 75 employees for the drying season. This figure does not include the help required to harvest the corn. Three two-row pickers and one single row picker are being operated while three semi-trailers and three straight trucks are needed to haul the seed to the plant. The farthest seed fields are located at Webster City.

The company has added to its equipment this year a new sorting building and one new dryer unit. Mr. Thompson reports that a slight increase in volume is expected over last year and that sufficient help has been found to take care of the drying operations.

Case Hotel Under New Management

Hunts To Make Home In Webster City

Announcement was made this week that Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Routh have bought out the interest of Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Hunt in the Case Hotel and will take over its management on October 2.

The Rouths come to Belmond from Villisca. A married daughter, Mrs. William Russell, whose husband is with the army in New Guinea, will also come to Belmond with them, together with her two-year old daughter Mary Lynn.

Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Hunt, who have operated the Case Hotel since May 1, 1942 will make their home in Webster City, where Mr. Hunt has been operating a riding academy and training stable since June this year. Their address there is 630½ Second Street.

Forget-me-not Day Is Saturday

Is Sponsored By United Service Women

Governor Hickenlooper has proclaimed Saturday, September 30, as "Forget-me-not" Day in Iowa, and in this connection the United Service Women of America will sponsor the sale of forget-me-nots on that day.

There will be no set price, but any offering will be accepted. Mrs. Lois Murray is chairman of the group of workers who will call on the people of Belmond Saturday.

All proceeds go to the disabled veterans, 30 per cent to the Hospital Service Fund and 70 per cent to service work at facilities in the Des Moines, Knoxville and Clinton hospitals.

The United Service Women of Belmond urge the public to give generously to this cause.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Dibble of Iowa Falls visited at the Ed Lathrop home Sunday.

"Hoofbeats"

"Hoofbeats," the Belmond School paper, will make its first appearance of the school year in this week's issue of the Independent on page 6. It covers school news from kindergarten through high school, placing emphasis on the Bronco Football season which is now in full swing, class activities, musical groups, and various clubs.

SAINT FRANCIS ANNUAL SUPPER AND BAZAAR OCTOBER 5

St. Francis Parish of Belmond will hold its annual chicken supper and bazaar at the Odd Fellows Hall on Thursday evening, Oct. 5, serving to begin at 5:30 o'clock. The menu includes fried chicken, mashed potatoes and gravy, salad, sliced tomatoes, baked beans, cranberry sauce, pickles, rolls and jam, assorted pies and coffee. Tickets will be 60 cents for adults and 40 cents for children.

SERVICES HELD FOR MRS. LAURA DAVENPORT

Funeral services for Mrs. Laura Davenport, 76, were held Sunday in the Fulton Funeral Home with the Rev. Wm. A. Muir of Clarion officiating. She died in Clarion at the home of her daughter, Mrs. John Mack, after quite a long illness. Burial was in the Belmond Cemetery.

City Quota Is $1807.65

Block Wardens To Call On All Citizens

Belmond will conduct its War Chest Drive on Monday, Oct. 2, when the Block Wardens of the City will call at every home in their blocks to solicit contributions from the citizens of Belmond, R. W. Courson, chairman, announced this week.

A meeting of Ward Wardens and Block Wardens is being held on Thursday, September 28, (tonight) at 8 o'clock at the City Hall for instruction and completion of the plans for the drive on Monday. Chairman Courson urges the citizens of Belmond to cooperate by having their contributions ready in order that the solicitors may be able to finish the job in one day.

Wright county has accepted a quota of $20,000 as its share of the $115,000,000 goal of the National War Fund. Quotas assigned to this vicinity are as follows:

City of Belmond	$1807.65
Pleasant township	652.10
Belmond township	718.80
Grant township	622.20
Iowa township	723.40
Norway township	709.60

When you give to the National War Fund through the Wright County War Chest, you are sharing your gift among the following War appeals: United Service Organizations War Prisoners Aid United Seamen's Sevice, as well as aid to our Allies and Refugees in 14 war-torn countries. When you give once, you give for all.

C. C. Christie of Belmond and C. A. Larsen of Klemme made a business trip to Kansas City on Monday to buy cattle.

Hansen Is Navy Editor

Expands "Fleet City News" To 7,000 Weekly Circulation

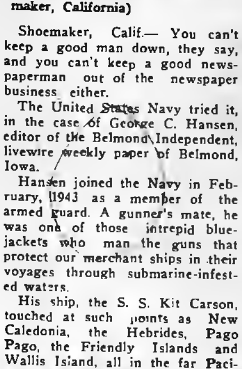
(The following was sent to the Belmond Independent by the Public Relations Office, Shoemaker, California)

Shoemaker, Calif.— You can't keep a good man down, they say, and you can't keep a good newspaperman out of the newspaper business either.

The United States Navy tried it, in the case of George C. Hansen, editor of the Belmond Independent, livewire weekly paper of Belmond, Iowa.

Hansen joined the Navy in February, 1943 as a member of the armed guard. A gunner's mate, he was one of those intrepid bluejackets who man the guns that protect our merchant ships in their voyages through submarine-infested waters.

His ship, the S. S. Kit Carson, touched at such points as New Caledonia, the Hebrides, Pago Pago, the Friendly Islands and Wallis Island, all in the far Pacific, on a five-month cruise.



GEO. C. HANSEN, PRTR 2|c
Editor, Fleet City News

* * * * * * * *

But when Hansen returned to shore duty at Shoemaker, Calif., about 30 miles inland from San Francisco and Oakland, it was just a matter of a week or two before the United States Naval Training and Distribution Center at Shoemaker was the proud owner of a brand new newspaper—George C. Hansen, Editor.

At first, the Fleet City News was a mimeographed sheet that hit a grand total of 900 copies. That was in October, 1943.

In March, 1944, Hansen, an expert printer who can take a linotype or a printing press apart, and put it back together again, changed the mimeo sheet to a regular, printed newspaper, on a bi-monthly basis.

Hansen gathered the news, edited the copy, wrote the headlines, set the type on a linotype, made up the page forms and fed by hand the cylinder press in nearby Hayward, Calif., which turns out the finished copies of the Fleet City News. Then he folded the papers and delivered them!

Still not satisfied, Hansen in August, 1944, changed the paper to regular tabloid size, and began putting out a six page newspaper every week—still doing all the jobs by himself.

Welfare and Recreation Department officers finally decided that even Hansen couldn't continue to work a 24-hour day, and added a former Minneapolis, Minn., sports and feature writer, Rolf Fjelstad, a yeoman third class, to the Fleet City News staff.

With his "staff" exactly doubled in size Hansen now is printing 7,000 copies of a weekly which compares favorably with similar Naval publications throughout the country, most of which have far more help.

Still doing the work of two or three men, Hansen also finds time to act as public relations liason man for the Fleet City football team and takes care of special print jobs, such as football programs

While Hansen, now a printer second class, is keeping fairly busy at Shoemaker, his wife continues to take care of things back on the home front by editing the Belmond Independent.

"SAFETY FIRST ALWAYS" MAKE THAT YOUR MOTTO

Some 200,000 licensed shooters will take to the fields to enjoy the sport and excitement of the chase in 1944. Because of their own or someone else's carelessness, some of these hunters will be killed, and some will be crippled. This statement is a cold-blooded fact, and everyone who hunts must use extreme care that he is not one of the actors in an outdoor tragedy. The most important principle of safe gun handling is: "Always point the firearm so that, in case of occidental discharge, there is no danger of injury to anyone."

In the interest of making and keeping shooting a safe sport, the Sporting Arms and Ammunition Manufacturers' Institute has published the Ten Commandments of Safety:

1. Treat every gun with the respect due a loaded gun. This is the cardinal rule of gun safety.
2. Carry only empty guns, taken down or encased, into your automobile, camp or home.
3. Always be sure that the barrel and action are clear of obstruction.
4. Always carry your gun so that you can control the direction of the muzzle even if you stumble.
5. Be sure of your target before you pull the trigger.
6. Never point a gun at anything you do not want to shoot.
7. Never leave your gun unattended unless you unload it first.
8. Never climb a tree or a fence with a loaded gun.
9. Never shoot at a flat hard surface or the surface of water.
10. Do not mix gunpowder and alcohol.

THE CASE OF THE COWERING CAT— AND THE U. S. NAVY

A cat is not very important in the American scheme of things. One cat more or less would hardly help or hinder our winning the war. All of which makes rather remarkable the story of a nameless Shoemaker tabby.

Miss Anonymous, as we'll call her, hangs around the General Detail office, and other other day some of the boys found her cowering with a broken leg.

A burly coxswain picked her up with gentle hands and carried her to the dispensary.

A pharmacist's mate didn't think the situation was covered by Navy regulations or procedure. But when the coxswain appealed to a medical officer who chanced by, the vast and complex machinery of the United States Navy began to turn.

X-rays revealed the leg break. The cat was taken to the operating room and given ether while skilled medical hands reduced the fracture and encased the leg in a cast.

Miss Anonymous was a pretty sick cat when she woke up, and a pretty ungrateful one, too. She tried to gnaw off the cast, and another bandage had to be put on to stop her.

Right now the cat is hobbling around the General Detail office on three legs, but when the cast is removed, in a week or two, she ought to be as good as new.

Just why several Navy men should spend their time, and skill, and use Navy equipment in the midst of total war to save the life of a cat, nobody seems quite able to explain.

One cat doesn't matter. The life of Miss Anonymous doesn't matter any more to Americans than the life of a Jewish child to the Nazis, or the head of a U. S. airman to the Japs.

But when you come down to it, I guess what's behind the story of Miss Anonymous is that Americans are fundamentally nice people.

They don't slaughter children wantonly. They don't line up innocent civilians and shoot them, or gas them, or hack them with knives and bayonets, and then stuff the bodies into a furnace

They kill, yes, when killing is the only way to save their homes and their ways of living and their very lives. And I think what the story of Miss Anonymous means is that they kill to make sure that when the killing is over, there will still be such things as happy kids, and cats, and kindness in the world.

Both political parties today are paying attention to the migrant voter, a new factor arising due to the present war. The migrant voter is that one who since 1940, has changed his home, perhaps even more than once, to go to work in war production centers. In his transfer he may have decided not to vote at all being uninterested in the political leaders in his new location. Maybe he has originally lived in a state of a high electoral vote and moved to one of a small electoral college vote. Disinterested he won't cast a ballot. It is estimated that if these migrant voters don't meet their new residence requirements, fail to exercise their privilege of voting, there could be a total of 13,000,000 votes lost and so affect the political party plans. Campaigning is now under way to get these voters out, lined up and interested. We hope they succeed.— Pocahontas Record-Democrat.

A TAX PROGRAM THAT WILL PLEASE EVREYONE

1. Abolition of income tax.
2. Abolition of all sales taxes.
3. 50% reduction in property taxes.
4. Equalization of taxes on basis of lowest now being paid.
5. Replacement of present taxes by funds raised "Elsewhere" and "Else-how."
6. Make government self-supporting but at the same time avoid any onerous fees, licenses or similar levies.
7. Maintain essential public services, add all others that seem attractive to any considerable number of people, see that no need or desire of any group or individual is unsatisfied and avoid any annoying and burdensome necessity of paying for same by having "Washington" do it all.
8. Give every citizen who reaches the age of 45 thirty dollars on Thursday, fifty dollars on Friday, and sixty dollars on Saturday to be paid from a 1 per cent tax on sales of snuff to be absorbed by the manufacturers.

I have been thinking lately that this column should have a more nautical name since it seems to deal almost entirely with navy topics, so don't be surprised if it appears under a new heading one of these days.

P—P

The Baileys certainly had quite a celebration on their Golden Wedding. It is grand for them to to be able to take that trip to Seattle. I wish it would be possible for me to see them when they go through Spokane if I happened to be on liberty that day. I would certainly like to see some faces from home.

P—P

We have been having some cold weather—about 40 degrees—with a raw, chilly wind blowing down the valley. When it begins to get cold we have to wear our peacoats, rubbers, watch (stockings) caps, jerseys and gloves. Two men from this section went to the hospital with scarlet fever. As soon as cold weather starts, the hospital fills up. If one is absent from classes for three days he is reassigned to a section that is two weeks behind his. I hope that doesn't happen to me!

P—P

I have now completed 5 weeks of study in quartermaster school and my overall average in all my weekly tests is 97.67 per cent. If I could keep that up, it would mean a lot of personal satisfaction; but it will be steadily tougher from now on and I would be very happy to be graduated with an average of 90 per cent.

P—P

Two of the men in our section designed a new badge for a quartermaster striker the other day. It was a swab and a broom crossed over a ship's wheel. It appeared to them that we were using the broom and swab more than the wheel. One of the instructors told us that a broom and swab wouldn't be the half of it aboard ship where we'd be doing at least six things at one time (a) sweeping the deck with one hand, (b) writing in the ship's log with the other, (c) one foot on the ship's wheel, (d) the other foot operating the engine order telegraph, (e) and whistling "Yankee Doodle" or something.

P—P

Today we've lived in the midst of a terrific dust storm with visibility limited to about 50 yards. There was a strong wind which stirred up the Idaho topsoil and dropped it, most noticeably, on the tables in the mess hall. The boys in the Army on desert maneuvers have nothing on us sailors at Farragut. It was like eating in a sand pile. We were betting they'd serve spinach for chow this evening so they wouldn't have to clean the sand from the spinach—when we got to the chow line, sure enough, there it was!

P—P

Scuttlebut is flying, as usual, and this time the rumor has it that Farragut is to be turned into a prison camp after the first of the year. Today orders were repeated at the end of one class to march to the next in columns of two's, so someone started marching with his hands clasped over his head like the picture of the German prisoners on a recent "Life" cover. All the rest of us fell in with the idea and marched the same way. It was all in fun and just part of the horseplay that bursts out now and then.

Board Proceedings

COUNTY BOARD PROCEEDINGS

Clarion, Iowa, September 11, 1944

The Board of Supervisors of Hancock and Wright Counties met in joint session for the purpose of taking up a petition for road vacation of one mile between Section 33, Township 94, Range 24, Hancock County; and Section 4, Township 93, Range 24, Wright County.

Members present from Hancock County: W. E. Penn Eckles, F. J. Schoun, John Chambers, and Wm. Henschen, County Engineer.

Members present from Wright County: T. J. Henry, H. C. Pinkham, Chas. Heiden, A. W. Smith, Wm. Fisher, with the County Auditor and County Engineer in attendance.

Joint board organized by the election of W. E. Penn Eckles as Chairman, and F. Ross Henry as Secretary.

Moved by Schoun, seconded by Smith, that this board favor the vacation of one mile of road between Section 33, Township 94, Range 24, and Section 4, Township 93, Range 24 and that the County Auditors proceed as prescribed in Section 4564 of the 1939 Code of Iowa. Motion carried.

On motion adjourned to meet at the call of the Auditors.

W. E. PENN ECKLES, Chairman,
F. ROSS HENRY, Secretary.

Clarion, Iowa, September 11, 1944

The Board of Supervisors of Wright County met in adjourned session at the courthouse in Clarion with the following members present:

T. J. Henry, Chairman; A. W. Smith, Chas. Heiden, Wm. Fisher, and H. C. Pinkham, with the County Auditor in attendance.

Petition, with certified check as bond, for the vacation of a highway through the Southwest Quarter of Section 4, Township 92, Range 23, was placed before the Supervisors.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Haupt appeared before the Supervisors and voiced their objections to said vacation.

Therefore, acting under Section 4561 of the 1939 Code of Iowa, the Auditor must appoint a commissioner to examine into the expediency of the proposed vacation and make a report to the County Auditor on or before September 18, 1944.

Moved by Smith, seconded by Pinkham, that the allowance of William Lewis Parsons which was set on July 5, 1944 at $35.00 per month, be raised to $50.00 per month for the balance of the original period, which is ten months. Motion carried.

According to the certificate of Fred W. Nelson, Chairman of the State Tax Commission, the values of all classes of property for the year 1944 were accepted as reported.

Be it resolved by the Board of Supervisors of Wright County, Iowa, that it is hereby ordered that the lengths of mileage of the several railroad, telephone, telegraph, transmission and pipe line companies in Wright County, Iowa, and the assessed value thereof within the several towns, townships and school districts of Wright County, Iowa, be fixed according to the following schedule, and the county auditor is hereby authorized and directed to spread the same upon the tax books of said county for the year 1944:

GOODELL

Mr. and Mrs. O. C. Evenson were honored on their Silver Wedding Anniversary Sunday. Relatives and friends prepared a covered dish dinner and served it at 4 o'clock in the U. B. Church dining room. There were about 50 present. The room was decorated in autumn colors of brown and gold crepe paper and garden flowers. A basket of 25 red roses was given Mrs. Evenson by her husband. J. J. Cook was spokesman for the crowd and expressed the esteem in which the Evensons are held in this commmunity and presented them a purse of silver. Mr. Evenson responded. Out of town folks present were Mrs. Wescott, the Mort Hogen family, Mr. and Mrs. Amos Nissen of Fertile; Mr. and Mrs. Squire Parker and Donna of Joice.

Blanche Wescott and Oswald Evenson were married Sept. 24 at the Wescott farm home in Fertile. They were the parents of three children, A. M. M. 2/c Everett Evenson who is on the west coast, Eva Marie, a senior in high school and a son Bobby, who passed away several years ago. The Evensons came to Goodell in the spring of 1932, and resided on their 40 acre farm for 10 years, which they recently sold to Arthur Lyons. Two years ago they purchased the general store from Francis Cashman, which is now the Evenson & Son General Merchandise.

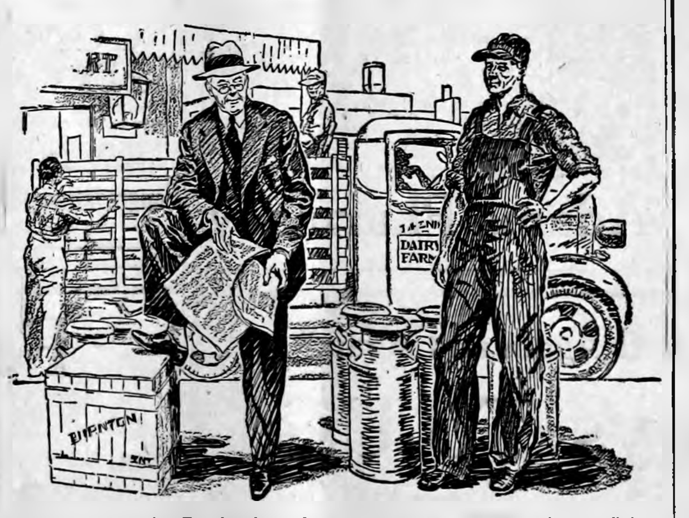
THE OLD JUDGE SAYS...



"Did you hear that Tom is going to be inducted into the Army next week, Judge?"

"Yes, Frank told me this morning down at the barber shop. Our town's got a lot of men in the service now, Jim. In fact, all towns have. I was just reading in the paper where there are more than 10,000,000 men away from their homes in the armed forces. And, from all reports, they're doing a grand job bringing victory closer every day.

"We folks at home have a mighty big obligation to those 10,000,000 fighting men. We've got to produce the food to keep them well fed. We've got to keep them supplied with the ammunition and equipment they need to finish their job. We've got to help the Government pay for all these supplies our men need by buying more and more War Bonds. We'll have another big chance to do that by helping to put the next War Loan drive over the top, Jim.

"And, in addition, we must be sure that, while they're away and can't express their opinions, we don't go voting on and deciding any things that will displease them when they come back."

Obituary

Harm A. Koenen, oldest son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Aicko Koenen, was born October 11, 1884, in Franklin County, Iowa. His place of birth was on a farm northwest of Latimer where his parents resided at that time. On Feb. 24, 1909 he was united in marriage to Miss Hehmina Dirks. To this union five children were born.

During the years of his married life he was engaged in farming at various localities. They resided for 8 years on a farm in Hancock County, Iowa, northwest of Meservey. From there he moved on a farm south of Meservey where he resided for three years. After leaving this place they settled on a farm northeast of Alexander Four years later the family moved on the Hartfelder place east of Meservey where they resided for 16 years.

The departed spent the last four years of his life on the Henry Koenen farm also east of Meservey. Mr. Koenen during the last 20 years of his life was not privileged to enjoy good health. Shortly after last Christmas he was overcome with an attack of jaundice. Since then he placed himself at various times under the care of a physician. In August last he was unexpectedly overcome with a severe heart attack. Everything humanly possible was done to secure relief for him. Although his condition gradually grew worse with other complications setting in, the departed was conscious until almost the end of life. It pleased the Lord to take him in the midnight hour on Friday evening, Sept. 22 at the age of 59 years, 11 months and 11 days. He is bereaved by his companion; one son, Herman at home; four daughters Mrs. Ben Smit (Ida), Meservey, Tillie at home, Mrs. Henry Smit (Tena), Sheffield, and Mrs. Donald Foss (Hermina) at Belmond; and 12 grand children; four brothers, John, Jae, Joe and Henry; four sisters, Mrs. Henry Dirks, Klemme, Mrs. Fred Blau Mrs. Herman Frohling, Thornton and Mrs. George Blau, Belmond; besides many other relatives and friends. There preceded him in death his parents, a brother, Aicko and two sisters, Mrs. Tony Boelman and Mrs. William Kaduce.

BAPTIST CHURCH
"The Bible Church"
J. Lester Williams, pastor

"The grass withereth, the flowers fadeth: but the word of our God shall stand for ever." Isaiah 40:8. The Prophet Isaiah spoke to a world like ours, that was overwhelmed with war and bloodshed, intrigue, lawlessness and despair. He came with a message of comfort designed to inspire God's people to new courage by the vision of a glorious destiny. And "God who at sundry times and in divers manners spake in time past unto the fathers by the prophets, hath in these last days spoken unto us by His Son. How shall we escape, if we neglect so great salvation?"

All services of the church will be at the usual hours. Mr. George Winter of Eagle Grove will be the special speaker at both preaching services. Our evangelistic service will begin on October 9th. Come bring a friend. Remember you are always welcome to worship with us.

Feed And Egg Production

It takes about ¼ ounce of highest quality protein, 22 different minerals and several vitamins to produce a 2-ounce egg. A hen laying 200 eggs a year puts 15 times as much mineral into the egg as her body contains. She cannot produce eggs unless these things are provider in her feed.

Big Gain 32% Poultry Concentrate and Big Gain Egg Mash provide these egg builders in abundance, and keep the hens healthy and vigorous. Ask the poultry feeders who use Big Gain 32% Poultry Concentrate and Big Gain Egg Mash. For maximum egg profits feed Big Gain 32% Concentrate or Big Gain Egg Mash.

ing picturesque, the weather as hot and rainy. Saipan, which is only four miles long and 8 miles long, is made up mostly of solid rock mountains, although they do produce sugar cane there. He never had a chance to see any of the natives.

Sending projectiles and powder cans up to the gun mounds was Bob's job during battles. He tells about being frightened one time when they were chasing the Japanese fleet on the way to Saipan. The order was given to man their life jackets and he says "Later on it seemed funny to us instead of frightening because nothing happened."

Another time they got a thrill (or scare) was when a Jap plane was shot down just 1500 yards above the bow of their ship after dropping a bomb that missed. For two weeks they lived on spam and dried corn beef when the ship ran low on food.

Bob was enthusiastic in his description of the "Walkie Talkie" the name used for the radio receiving and sending sets carried by Marines, by which they inform ships of the location of targets which cannot be seen from the ships, and which are accurately hit by the big guns.

Seaman Tracy was home with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Tracy, on a seven day leave last week and returned to New York Sunday for further orders.

Political Announcement

The Paramount local Political Issue this fall is "Shall we ever change Supervisors and if not, why not?

As we all know, our beloved state is divided into ninety-nine counties. A large majority of the counties have a Board of Supervisors with three members, and a few Counties have five supervisors on the Board, which is two too many Wright County is one that has five supervisors.

The Board of Supervisors plays a very important part in the functioning of our local Government. They are the legislative body of the County, they approve the bonds of the County officials, authorize loans of state school funds, establish or vacate public highways, levy taxes to raise revenue for county purposes, allow claims and bills against county, and order same paid, equalize assessments among the several townships and towns, refund taxes on property erroneously assessed, fill vacancies in county offices except members of its own body, which are replaced by appointment by the County Auditor, County Clerk and County Recorder They constitute a drainage board of the various districts of the County, make official canvass of the votes of the County at the primary and general elections and many other similar duties of equal importance that space does not permit me to mention.

Now we all know that it should not cost as much to supervise three townships as it does five or six. Did you know that the 1943 financial report of Wright County on Page 17 shows that it cost $2,104.45 to supervise our District, and that it cost $827.50 less to supervise No. 4, for about the same work, and the records show that in the last five years it cost $3,388.50 more to supervise our district than it did No. 4. The records show that for the last five years our district has cost more each year than any of the Districts in the County. The Hamilton County records show on Page 25 that District No 3, directly south of us with six townships and four towns only cost $2,210.35 to be well supervised. and the Hancock County report shows on Page 18 that Mr. Chambers only drew $2,132.?3 in 1943 to supervise five townships. The above figures are warrants drawn on the County Fund and do not include the few dollars drawn on the Drainage Fund, which don't amount to but very little. These reports are made out at the expense of the taxpayers and the public has a right to know and study all or any part of them in which they are interested. Knowing what I do and being well qualified for the job. I think it was my patriotic duty to allow my name to be placed on the ticket in the independent column for this fall's election for supervisor of the first district.

One reason my name is not on the Republican Ticket, as it should be, is that they set the filing date up to the last of March instead of May 5th, which was unknown to me, so that shut me out, so we will have to do the next best thing and run on the Independent Ticket. Study the sample ballots and you will see it's easy to vote for me in the sixth column down in the lower right hand corner and it is absolutely impossible to spoil your ballot by voting for an independent candidate regardless of whether you vote a straight ticket or a mixed ticket.

If I am elected, I will guarantee to cut off supervising expense of this district by at least $500 or $600 a year, or $1500 to $1800 a term. I certainly would not have the nerve to charge as much to supervise three townships, or nearly so, as others are getting for six townships.

The American custom is to give a man two terms in office and then change him, but we seem to be getting away from this custom. I don't think that any one man is so superior to all the rest of us that he should have a life lease on any office. Don't you think that if a man has had an office nine years, like our present supervisor, it is time for a change? Do you think we have anybody around that is absolutely indispensable, especially when you can get the job done a little better for $1,500 or $1,800 less money. If I am elected, and would get a little cooperation from the public and especially from the various truckers and rural mail carriers and the township trustees, I think we could get along nicely as far as our road problems are concerned. One of the first things I would do next spring would be to put a coat of blacktop or asphalt on the Main Street river bridge in Belmond to keep water from rotting the plank under the creosoted block and put some broader plank on to keep blocks from falling into the river. It has needed this work done for at least two years. If I don't suit you, if elected, you know there is another election coming up in just two years, when you can change again, if necessary.

In The Bronco Corral

Last week the "Green Freshies" became a real part of B. H. S. The seniors, (juniors and sophomores) had a great time Monday and Tusday. They proved that they could take it though. An assembly in the auditorium folded up initiation for ths year.

In order to pay a debt of takng the place of a senior these days of initiation underclassmen were called upon to do anything the dear seniors wished. The swooning was great when Frank Sinatra (Bob Foss) and Bing Crosby (Arnold Jenison) sang tunes that set every girls heart a flutter.

Flash ! !

Les Classick and Jake Eekhoff were having a great time on the children's "Jungle Gym" until Coach Lansing saw Les on the top rod crying and wringing his hands, tearing his hair out by the handful, and biting his fingernails. (Messy isn't it). The coach made his way to Les and carried him to safety. He told Les he better keep his feet on the ground.

We want to take this opportunity to thank Ronny Courson for speaking at our Pep meeting on September 15. The students also showed their enthusiasm as they "opened up" with some encouraging yells for the Broncos.

Questions of the week? ? ? ?

1. Where do five seniors and one sophomore go in a car without a muffler to—talk?
2. Where do all the watermelons come from?
3. Who is the freshman girl and the sophomore boy who go bicycle and horseback riding? ?
4. Why were so many asleep in school the day after Blue Barren was at the Surf?
5. Where did a certain junior fella spend the five dollars he made for making the first tackle in the Clarion game?

All you students want to see all the home football games, don't you? Well the season tickets will be on sale so buy one then!

Students Elect Class Officers

The junior class president is Les Classick, ably assisted by Jack McGuire as vice president and Loretta Rubendall, secretary-treasurer. Hadyn Jones and Neoma Johnson are Student Council members.

Meanwhile the Sophomore class being split into two groups selected two sets of officers. They are: Irwin Rosheim, Dale Walrod and Glenn Meints, president, vice president and secretary-treasurer, respectively of Miss Ostendorf's home room, and Ronnie Hunter, president; George Hinman, vice president and Bonnie Uhlenhopp, secretary and treasurer of Miss Blough's home room. The Sophomore Student Council representatives are Ed Gabrielsson and Robert Dean Rodemeyer.

The "Freshies" chose Roger Finn as their president with Mary Jones as vice president and Gilman Soma, secretary-treasurer. The Student Council will be honored by the attendance of Daryl Stewart and Joan Pals.

Britt Defeat Belmond 13-7

A light but experienced Britt eleven trimmed Belmond 13-7 in a game played on a rain soaked field Friday night in our opening game of the North Iowa confernce.

The first half saw Britt in Belmond's territory most of the time. The jamming up of signals and poor ball handling cost the Broncos much yardage. A wet ball made passing out of the question and as a result only a few passes were tried.

The second half saw Belmond kick off and Britt was forced to punt and then things turned toward the brighter side of life on a reverse to Dempsey. Belmond picked up 20 yards, but this was nullified on the next play by an intercepted pass by Johnson of Britt.

Palmer bucking the line and a pass to Johnson and another smash by Steinhart put the ball over the white line for T. D., the try for the point failed. In the fourth quarter Britt again penetrated deep in to Bronco territory and on a pass to Johnson Britt scored again and the try for point was good. Britt then led 13-0.

After the kickoff the Broncos came to life and seemed to get ordered a mix up of plays and a pass to Tideback put the ball in scoring territory and the team capitalized and on a center smash Dempsey scored for the boys from Belmond. Rosheim pushed the extra point across the white line and the final score was Britt 13, Belmond 7.

Belmond plays Northwood on the local field Friday night in the first home game of the season. This is also a North Iowa Conference game.

Seniors Initiate Freshmen

Freshman initiation took place on Sept. 18 and with the Seniors doing the initiating.

The freshmen had to do everything that the seniors wished besides their daily requirements of wearing green neckties and ribbons, carrying books in gunny sacks, wearing clothes inside out and backward. There are many other requirements too.

An assembly was held on Tuesday to punish those who would not obey the seniors and those juniors and sophomores who falsely initiated the freshmen.

Great sportsmanship was shown by the freshman class and we are proud of them.

Decorations will consist of the one color green. Those on the decoration committee are Betty A. Tracy, Ruth Zeiger, Wilma Johnson, Eunice Mehl and Eleanor Soma.

The food committee consists of Dorothy Hosick, Jean Fetrow and Kathryn Holgate.

All the students are looking forward to a swell time at their first All High School Party.

Season Tickets on Sale

The sale of season tickets has started again this year and is being taken care of by the Pep Club. There are four home football games that the tickets are are used at.

In each home room a girl has been assigned to take care of the sales of her class. The residential district was covered by other members of the Pep Club.

The price of an adult season ticket is $1.50 and high school and junior high tickets are only 65c.

Single admission at the date will be fifty cents for adults, thirty cents for high school and junior high students and fifteen cents for all grade children .It is easier to see that it is much cheaper to buy a season ticket as you will not only do yourself a favor but also the school.

Classroom News From The Grades

FIFTH GRADE

Students of the fifth grade are learning to become reporters very young. A part of their English assignment each week is to write the news of their grade. All the news stories are then voted upon and the one which wins first place is given to the newspaper staff. The name of the student appearing at the end of their news each week is the student who wrote the winning piece of journalism.

Fifth grade has a nice collection of imports. They have them from six countries. They are placed on the back table and all of them enjoy looking at them. There are some from China, Japan, Germany, Canada, Sweden and England.

These students also have an Oustide Reading chart. They are trying to read at least five books each quarter. Every time they read a book they make a written report

Lynne Tyrrell.

KINDERGARTEN

Friday morning, and again Friday afternoon, Miss Tokheim said to the kindergarten:

"A high school girl knocked on our door this morning and asked us to write an article for the newspaper."

"Why?"

"Because grown-ups want to know what we do in the kindergarten. What shall we tell them?"

Nearly everyone of the forty children had some item which he was in a rush to contribute:

'Tell them we do fingerpainting...And that we have brush paints, too...And tell them we have a story about The Three Little Pigs and the Wolf...And we have a playhouse with dolls in it...We write on the board too—with chalk. And we sit down to talk together.. And we have lunch (fruit juice and crackers)...We play the piano sometimes ourselves, and listen to the Victrola...And we cut with scissors...And write...And lie down on our rug for rest...And we have a horse we can sit on...And we bring flowers to school sometimess...And we play...We have guppies and snails and turtles... And soon we are going to the gymnasium.

So Miss Tokheim said she would put all of those things in the article—and she did.

FIRST GRADE

The first graders are busy in their playhouse. The first part of the week they had real house clean:ing, with soap and water.

Beanbags which were made on Tuesday and Wednesday by the class will be used in number games.

Next week the first grade pupils plan to take a walk around town to observe how plants get ready for winter. Perhaps next week the children will tell you what they discovered.

SECOND GRADE

Thirty-four boys and girls make up the second grade. They have a lot of fun working together and are going to have much more fun during the year.

George Hardwick's mother brought many nice potted plants for the room. They wish to thank her very much.

The science class is discovering many signs of fall. This next week they are going to talk about plants —the main parts and where the food they eat, which is a plant, is stored.

The boys and girls that spelled all their words correctly this Friday are as follows: Jo Ann Steenblock, Alice June Koppernagle, Jimmie Gealow, Frances Tyrrell, Eugene Mehl, Carolyn Classick, Patrick Smith, Nellie Negrete. Donald Waddington, Margaret Eccles, Faye Janssen, John Duxbury, Roger Lathrop, Junior Kaufman, Hurvey Tudor and Marlys Howell.

THIRD GRADE

There were thirty-one in third grade at the beginning of the year. Since then Linda Mae Hawly and Jack McGrath have joined the class, making thirty-three now.

There are some new reading books waiting for them to read, having finished one they are now reading their second book.

First Home Game Friday Night

Our first home game is Friday night. Yes that is what I said—Friday night. Did you say where? Well, the Belmond athletic field, of course. Who are they playing? Those Vikings from Northwood. Yeah that's right, those boys with the cannon ball velocity. The time is eight bells.

The people from Belmond want to be there too. Put up your knitting and your bridge game and lock your office and your stores and come out. You say you haven't got the gas? You want to go away tomorrow? Well, you still have two good feet and if you take your time you won't wear out your shoes.

But remember one thing. Be sure to come early because there will be a crowd. And music that you have never heard before. Belmond's marching band will perform at the half time under the direction of Miss Hanson, our fine music director.

Northwood comes to Belmond with revenge in sight. Not only in one sense but in two—revenge from the Broncos defeat last year and then the defeat handed them by Garner last Friday night. They have a power team this year with two huskie boys at the tackle slots. These boys weigh two hundred pounds a piece and brother that "ain't hay." Their backfield is composed of several speedy runaway backs.

Friday night Belmond will be on the road and not to Morrocco, but on the road to VICTORY. They have yet to taste the tang of victory meat and have got their ration book ready for the kill. We have the size, speed and the talent but so far we have not been able to get both of them together but once we do one had better get out of the road. Oh, I forgot to mention one thing. Be sure to bring the whole family.

Jack C. McGuire.

JUNIOR HIGH

Belmond Junior High is in full swing with seventy-one pupils enrolled. Eight of these were not in our syste mlastye ar.Teyare h in our system last year. They are Helen Hanson, Nadine Hanson, Roger Hanson and Marjorie Nelson in the seventh grade.

New faces are also seen among the faculty. Miss Casey, of Corydon, Iowa, teaches social science and science, and Miss Hanson, of Cedar Falls, has taken over the music department.

Election of officers was held on the first Friday. The eighth grade chose Roger Wagner for president and Kathryn Tracy for secretary, while the seventh grade is represented by Harold Holgate and Darlene Hansen. These four people, with Tommy Harty. as president, make up the junior high student council.

Members of the seventh grade are now full-fledged "junior highers" since their initiation by the eighth graders. For one entire day they were required to wear their clothing inside out; the boys wore brightly colored hair ribbons and the girls wore streamers announcing such information as "I'm not married", or "I'm a slick chick." The last period of the day was devoted to individual initiating. High points of the program were reached when Jon Hogenson, blindfolded, danced with Nancy Johnson, who wore a huge pair of mens knee boots, and when Harold Holgate, Wesley Uhhlenhopp, Edward Eccles and Douglas Hopple, wearing dresses, tenderly sang "Rockabye Baby" to four dolls. A good time was had by all (eighth graders).

The third assembly of the season was a patriotic meeting directed by Miss Hanson. Donna Jean Fleener, Wilma Pedersen and Jon Hogenson spoke and patriotic songs were sung. Jap souvenirs sent from New Guinea by Anthony Meyer's brother, Harm, were displayed. Among them were a mask, a helmet and Japanese coins.

EDITORIAL

"School" as defined by the Webster dictionary is "a place for instruction which consists of teachers and learners in such a place." To a student school means a place in which to go to develop their physical and moral strength as well as their mental strength. It is a place in which they learn how to solve their social and economic problems and obtain some recreation. A student learns to be a good citizen, how to act in public as well as at home and gives them a background for their vocation.

To obtain all of these there are several requirements. One of these is cooperation between the teachers and the students. It must be remembered that everyone is not perfect in every way, shape or form. If there is conceit among the group there is certain not to be cooperation. A difference of race or creed should have no reflection on cooperation.

Another requirement is to be able to accept constructive criticism. Everyone is criticized at some time or other and usually quite frequently. If a person can look at all criticism to be of the constructive type they will gain much more than if they took a resentful point of view.

Another requirement is "good sportsmanship." If it could have been possible for everyone to have inherited this trait there would be far less quarrels. This would greatly help this world to become a better world in which to live.

These are just a few of the basic elements. A person could go on forever giving other requiremnts. However, if each individual would sit down for about ten minutes at the opening of the school year and think over all of these facts and make up their minds to live up to them, there would be success throghout the school year in every way.

Band Elects Officers

George Sharp, at a meeting of the band Thursday, Sept. 7, was elected president of the band.

Those who will aid him are: Vice president, Loretta Rubendall; secretary, Peggy Greenlander; treasurer, Jean Fetrow; property manager, Marlys Parker; Mildred Helland and Patricia Chapman, librarians.

The officers were elected by nominating a few band members, having them leave the room, and the rest of the band voting for the one they wanted.

At a later meeting, Margaret Flynn was chosen as the new twirler who with Bonnie Uhlenhopp, Luann Kinseth, Lelia Faye will lead the marching band this year. Bonnie Lou Jensen was chosen as Margaret's substitute.

There are twenty-eight members in band this year.

Miss Hanson stated that the band plans to march at every home football game. Their first appearance will be next Friday, Sept. 29.

Esther Meints Elected President of Pep Club

At their first meeting of the year, held Monday, September 18, the Pep Club girls elected their new officers.

Esther Meints was elected president while vice president is Betty Green and the secretary-treasurer is Loretta Rubendall. Miss Gantenbein will sponsor the Pep Club.

It was decided that there should be one of three cheer leaders that should be the leader so Betty Gren, who willingly accepted, was chosen for this responsibility. Also in time to come the cheer leaders are going to have new uniforms but plans are not definite yet.

The Pep Club plans to be active this year at all the games as well as in assemblies and other projects that might come up.

Third grade pupils are studying about the different kinds of Indian homes. So far they have studied the homes of the Pueblo, Iroquois, Navaho, Sauk and Fox, and Crow and Blackfeet Indian tribes. Pupils are finding it very interesting in seeing how different tribes made their homes of different materials.

First State Bank
Of Belmond
Is Now A Member Of The Federal Reserve System

Admission to membership of the First State Bank of Belmond in the Federal Reserve System on September 5, 1944 is of considerable significance for it means that this old, established financial institution is now a shareholder in and a part of the greatest banking system in the world.

It also means that more extended banking services are available to the association's patrons.

In becoming a member of the Federal Reserve System, the First State Bank of Belmond does not change its status as a state bank. It remains a bank chartered and operating under the laws of the State of Iowa. Its deposits continue to be insured by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation. It does, however, become a beneficiary of the enormously expanded banking facilities that accrue to banks that join and become a part of the Federal Reserve System.

OBITUARY

Ben Smith

Ben Smith, son of George and Helen Smith, was born on Nov. 22, 1887 at Belmond, Iowa. During his youth he attended grade school in Pleasant township. When he was 13 years of age his father passed away. This caused Ben to shoulder much of the responsibilities of the farm work.

When a child he was baptised in the German Reformed church east of Belmond. Mr. Smith was united in marriage to Miss Anna Meyer on March 6, 1912 at Hampont, Iowa. To this union four children were born.

After a couple of years of farming in 1914, they moved to Belmond where they have since resided.

For over 20 years Mr. Smith has worked for the city of Belmond. For five years he served as city marshall. The remainder of the time he faithfully performed the office of street commissioner.

Throughout the majority of his life Mr. Smith has known good health. About a year ago he began to notice he tired more easily and had not the usual vigor. About six months ago he consulted a doctor. The last five months he failed very rapidly. He passed from the scenes of earthly life to take upon himself the vestage of eternity on Wednesray morning, September 13, 1944 at 5 A. M.

Mr. Smith was a good husband and father. His home meant much to him. In his quiet and pleasant way he made many friends as he sought to serve this community. Many were the little kindnesses he performed while going about his daily round of duties. His face will be missed upon the streets of our city.

He leaves to mourn his departure; his wife, three sons: George and Bernard, in the armed forces overseas, William of Belmond; one daughter, Mrs. Louise Nelson of Belmond; one brother, George Smith of Belmond; five sisters, Mrs.Lena Steenblock, Mrs. Minnie Busick, Mrs.Tena Pals, Mrs. Etta Gartz all of Belmond, and Mrs. Lana Meyer of Chicago, Illinois, seven grandchildren, many other relatives and a host of friends.

were guests at a 7 o'clock dinner Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. W. A. Parker of Belmond. The dinner was in honor of Cadet Wm. Parker who is home on a 16 day furlough from a camp in California.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Klemmie and son, Arvin, and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Krueger and M. Krueger of Hubbard were Sunday dinner guests at the Wolfred Hoelscher home.

Mrs. White of Oklahoma City, Okla. came Sunday evening for a few days visit with her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. C. Mulholland and family. She had visited Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Carr and brought greetings from them. At the conclusion of her visit in Kanawha Mrs. White will go East to visit her children there.

Large Crowd Attended Reception

Two hundred and fifty persons attende a reception honoring Rev. and Mrs. Lein at the Lutheran Church Thursday evening. Mr. T. H. Thompson, acting as program chairman, presented the following program.

Prayer by Rev. A. Shefveland of Belmond.
Address of Welcome—Mr. M. L. Thompson
Talk and scripture—Rev. O. M. Severseike, Belmond.
Welcome on behalf of Luther League—Eugene Severson
Welcome on behalf of Aid—Mrs. Chas. Brower.
Welcome on behalf of Evening Guild—Mrs. Harvey Benson
Welcome on behalf of Sunday School—Herbert Emmons.
Song "The Lord Is My Shepherd" by five young people accompanied by Mrs. S. S. Tande.

A gift of a purse of money was presented by Mr. S. S. Tande on behalf of the members of the church. A talk was given by Rev. Shefveland. Rev. Lein responded with gracious thanks.

Following congratulations to the couple, a lunch of cake, ice cream and coffee was served by the Aid members in the northwest section. Out of town visitors were: Rev. and Mrs. O. M. Severseike, Rev A. Shefevland and daughter of Belmond, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Anderson and Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Blasier of Britt and Mr. and Mrs. Tom Berhow of Eagle Grove.

The members of St. John's Lutheran Aid honored Rev. and Mrs. Lein with a shower of canned fruit Wednesday afternoon. A large number of jars of canned fruit was received and a delicious lunch was served.

Mrs. Keith Smith and 2 daughters left Tuesday for Vancouver, where they will make their home in the parental Smith home.

Show Capacity Increase of 400 Per Cent

Belmond Hatchery Here Installs Two New Incubators

Keeping step with Belmond's march of progess and showing faith in Belmond and community is John Van Gerpen, manager of the Belmond Hatchery, who reports a 400 per cent increase in capacity with the installation of new equipment.

A new Smith incubator arrived at the Belmond Hatchery three weeks ago, and is equipped with all the latest and modern electrical controls available which regulate heat, moisture, temperature and humidity, assuring perfect incubation and hatching conditions. Another incubator is expected any day.

Belmond Hatchery operates the year around with customers at present in 43 states. "Of special interest," says Mr. Van Gerpen, "Is the fact that it takes 165 average size flocks to furnish the egg supply for the Belmond Hatchery."

The estimated total number of baby chicks to be hatched at the Belmond Hatchery in the next 12 months will exceed one and one-fourth million, including 24 varieties.

"Voting Is A Privilege"

Thompson, Farm Bureau President, Urges Heavy Rural Vote November 7

Pointing to the fact that only 62 per cent of the eligible voters actually voted in the 1940 presidential election, Gerhard Thompson, president of the Wright County Farm Bureau, has issued a statement urging a heavy turn-out at the polls on November 7.

"It is our duty, not only as rural and small-town citizens," but as Americans,' said Mr. Thompson. "Voting is a right—a privilege—for which our sons and brothers are fighting in many parts of the world today. It is our duty to them and to ourselves to vote in this national election when so many crucial issues are at stake."

Mr. Thompson's statement came in response to an appeal from the American Farm Bureau Federation which was sent by Mr. Allan B. Kline, president of the Iowa Farm Bureau Federation to presidents of all county organizations. The Farm Bureau Federation is now carrying on a nation-wide campaign, strictly non-partisan, urging rural America to vote in the November elections.

Farmers and citizens of small towns can have a powerful voice in governmental affairs through their representatives if they will get out and vote for the men of their choice, according to Mr. Thompson. He added that rural people have the power to influence national politics if [illegible] will only use it. He called attention to the fact that 77 per cent of the senators and 62 per cent of the congressmen come from [illegible] which have no cities of more than 10,000 population and hence are predominantly rural. He said, however, that if rural America stayed at home on election day and the big city [illegible] turned out full strength, rural people would have an even harder time [illegible] on making their wishes heard.

In his statement, Mr. Thompson said that although [illegible] members, like everyone else are busy at this time, they and all other rural citizens can take off the [illegible] hour or [illegible] that voting requires. "We should be [illegible]" he said, "that our boys in the armed services are giving the best years of their lives in defense of their country. They were not too busy when the call came. We cannot and we will not be too busy to vote. We should everyone of us go to the polls November 7 and thereby act as share-holders in America."

United Service Women To Wrap Overseas Gifts At Meeting October 10

United Service Women of Belmond will wrap Christmas gifts for those in the service overseas at their next meeting, Tuesday evening, October 10, at 8:00 o'clock in the Library basement.

The committee chosen to make the plans for these gifts is ordering one-pound fruit cakes to be sent as gifts from the local organization. Each member is, therefore, urged to come to the meeting Tuesday night and bring material to wrap the gifts including Christmas wrapping paper, a card cardboard, heavy paper and twine. The members are also urged to bring the complete address of those in service from their family eligible for one of these gifts.

Evangelistic Meetings At Baptist Church Are October 9th to 22nd

Reverend A. T. Rollene of Filmer, Missouri will be the speaker at the evangelistic meeting to be held at the Fundamental Baptist Church in Belmond October 9th to October 22nd. The meetings will be every evening at 8:00 o'clock except Saturday.

Mr. Rollene was born and reared in the vicinity of Dows, Iowa. He has been in the ministry for a number of years, serving as pastor, evangelist, and worker among neglected rural communities. He has been used of God in the opening of many closed churches, establishing Sunday Schools, promoting Scripture memorizing in rural schools and in helping the needy.

Lt. J. G. [illegible] and wife of Corpus Christie, Texas, spent [illegible] in Belmond.

With The Boys In Service

SGT. RAYMOND ROSS IN "WILDCAT" 81st IN SOUTH PACIFIC

Newspaper clippings were received by Mrs. Raymond Ross recently from the San Luis Obispo newspaper in California, describing some of the activities in the South Pacific of the 81st Division, of which her husband, Sgt. Raymond Ross, is a member. The clippings read in part as follows:

"The Wildcats are doing their stuff! The time—right now. The place—Angaur, a tiny island in the Palau group. A tiny island, true, but an important one. Its conquest well on the way to completion, will eliminate the threat to Jap artillery from the rear of the Marines who are hacking their way northward through Peleliu, another Palau island which is big enough to be found on some maps....

"It was suicide for the Japanese once doughboys of the Wildcat Division spotted the first tree-borne sniper. Whether they were killed from trees, pillboxes or [illegible] outs makes little difference now because they have been doomed since the first army assault waves stormed ashore ...

"The thick jungle terrain, swamps and mangroves continued to prove more hazardous in many cases than the Japanese, who were subjected all day to merciless bombing and strafing from carrier planes and ceaseless pounding by land-based artillery and eight inch cruiser guns."

WRITES HOME FROM GERMAN PRISON CAMP

Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Jenison received two letters recently from their son, Cpl. Kenneth V. Jenison, who has been a German prisoner of war since February, 1943, which were written on June 11 and 25. Cpl. Jenison states that he is O. K. and that he had received personal parcels from home containing the March and May labels. Jenison writes "... we get seven and a half marks a month now. We can at least buy [illegible] at the canteen now when they [illegible] it."

A July report from the Red Cross Prisoners of War Bulletin says about camps in Germany: "The men received German 'regulation rations.' There was a three weeks' supply of Canadian and American Red Cross food packages on hand, and the authorities had consented to a three months' reserve being accumulated."

SGT. NIELSEN ON 3-DAY PASS

Sgt. Donald Nielsen from Fort Omaha, left Wednesday after spending a three day pass at the parental Harold Nielsen home.

Belmond Broncos Won Over Northwood Friday

Team Has First Victory Of Season

The Vikings of Northwood were all set to stop the twice beaten Belmond Broncos last Friday night, but couldn't halt the fast charging Broncos forward wall. The team that everyone in Belmond was talking about before the season started came into its own and gave the local fans something to talk about.

Twice in the first few minutes of the game, the Bronco forwards stopped the Northwood boys in the shadow of the goal post. The remainder of the first half was a see-saw battle within the two forty yard lines respectively.

When the second half got under way the Broncos got down to business. On a reverse Mickelson made a first down, and Meints made another one to put Belmond deep into Northwood territory. Then the Vikings stiffened, and Belmond was forced to punt.

The fourth quarter saw Belmond in pay dirt territory with Mickelson, Dorr and Meints carrying the pigskin to the Northwood one-yard line. On the next play, Belmond, with Dorr carrying the ball, scored the six points to start the team on the road to victory.

The Vikings, tried frantically to get back into the ball game, passed the ball and tried to run it, but the now heartened Broncos, who had not tasted victory this year, were so jubilant that they would not give up and as a result smothered every attempt of the Northwood boys to pass the ball.

It would be difficult to pick out a star or two from Friday night's performance on the local field. In fact the credit goes to the Belmond Bronco Squad under the direction of Coach John Lansing.

The following grocery stores in Belmond have announced that they will be closed on Wednesday nights, starting October 11:

F. and P. Food Market, A. B. C. Grocery, C. G. Johnson, Peterson and Son, Cash and Carry, Diamond Bros., Tip Top and McBriden Bakery & Grocery.

G. M. I. Announces Two New Appointments

Announcements of two appointments to positions in the Vegetable Oil and Protein Division of General Mills, Inc. were made recently by Harry A. Bullis, president of the company. Walter E. Flumerfelt has been named Vice President of the Division and Carter M. Dewey will serve as Division Comptroller.

Mr. Flumerfelt will continue to manage the division's operations at Belmond, Iowa, as for the past year. He graduated with a B. A. degree from Iowa Cornell University in 1923. Mr. Flumerfelt has a background in soybean processing which dates back to 1929. He has been associated with several soybean processing companies and active in the affairs of the National Soybean Processors Association.

Mr. Dewey graduated from the University of Illinois in 1929 with a B. A. degree. After receiving his Masters Degree from the Harvard Graduate School of Business Administration in 1932, he came to General Mills and has served successively in the past 12 years as accountant, travelling auditor, assistant statistician and more recently as special cost analyst. His head quarters will be at the executive offices in Minneapolis.

EXTENSION STAFF TO ATTEND ANNUAL MEETING

Wright County's extension director, Aaron R. Bowman, and County extension home economist, Elizabeth Deihl, will spend next week, Oct. 9 to 14, in Ames attending the annual conference of the Iowa Agricultural Extension Service. Theme of the conference, which will be held at Iowa State College, is "Seeing the Job Through."

Curious Carrot

Frank Ostendorf, a farmer living south of Belmond, brought into the Independent office last week, a carrot weighing 10½ ounces. The odd about this carrot is that is has five different roots, making the carrot resemble a human hand. The carrot is on display at the Independent office.

Extraordinary Heroism Recognized With D.S.C.

Norris P. Nelson Was One of Two Holding Off Entire Nazi Battalion

With the Fifth Army, Italy—Lieut.-General Mark W. Clark, Fifth Army commander, has presented the Distinguished Service Cross, the nation's second highest battle award, to Cpl. Norris P. Nelson of Belmond, as well as to Sgt. Harold Latty of Jefferson, Georgia.

The awards were made in recognition of the extraordinary heroism of the two men in holding off with two machine guns an entire battalion of fiercely attacking Germans on the Anzio beachead.

Nelson, now home on furlough at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Nickolie A. Nelson, Belmond, and Latty are members of the 34th "Red Bull" Infantry Division.

Latty volunteered to salvage his company's machine guns in the face of the oncoming enemy and murderous artilley barrage. Advancing under heavy fire, he found Nelson manning one machine gun in a sandbagged position. Latty jumped into the dugout and began firing another gun.

When the Krauts discovered that these two guns were delivering most of the fire holding up their attack, the great volume of enemy small arms and mortar fire was shifted to this one position.

The fire was so close the tripod on one gun was damaged by a hit and enemy mortar shell. Latty and Nelson continued pumping lead, cutting down the waves of Jerry infantry as fast as they attempted to advance.

The heroism of Latty and Nelson enabled their outfit to reorganize under withering fire and to hold its original position. They manned the guns for almost an hour. Examination showed that the barrels were so badly burned from the high and sustained rate of fire they needed replacement.

Nelson, a farmer, went overseas two and one-half years ago and has been a member of the 34th since May, 1941.

NATIONAL NEWSPAPER WEEK OCTOBER 1-8

This is National Newspaper Week, a time when we of the Belmond Independent dedicate ourselves anew to service, fully conscious of the burden of responsibility that we bear in searching out, interpreting and delivering to you, our subscribers, news of this community.

It is the constant endeavor of the Independent to serve the community sincerely, consistently and as impartially as it is humanly possible, to foster and encourage progress and aggressive service upon the part of all citizens, as well as oppose those things which are unwholesome and detrimental.

At the present time, the Independent, along with all other citizens, is exerting a great deal of its energies to assist in the war effort as opportunities arise. So far as the Independent is concerned, it considers it a duty to serve such agencies in the community which are directly reponsible for the conduct of the various war efforts such as war bond campaigns for funds, scrap collections, Red Cross drives, etc., and at the same time tries to continue, on a normal basis, its support of local business, church, civic and fraternal activities and enterprises.

Therefore, during this National Newspaper Week, the Independent rededicates its services to the citizens of this community and seeks their cooperation in the furtherance of the best interests of our community.

WITH OTHER EDITORS

The bride tottered up the aisle on the arm of her father, who was wheeled in his arm chair by three of his great-grandchildren. She was arrayed in white and carried a large bouquet of white rosebuds; her hair though gray, was bobbed, and she smiled and nodded to acquaintances. The groom was able to walk, aided by two handsome mahogany crutches. His head was bald, and his false teeth chattered a little nervously. And so they were married—the couple who waited until they could afford to get married.
—Britt News Tribune

Iowa has many laws which are observed strictly in some communities and flagrantly disregarded in others Laws are either popular or they are broken and it should be well understood in advance that no international pact can be welded into even as strong an organization as our state or national government. A world organization will work as long as its government is popular with all the members. But there is the same unlikelihood of a league inforcing unpopular decisions as there was when the first league was in operation and as there is of enforcing unpopular laws in our state and nation. It seems inevitable that a prodigious balance of power must be held by a few peace-seeking nations.—Estherville News.

The Works Project Administration ended officially July 1, 1944. It was originally created as the WPA to furnish employment to otherwise jobless individuals in July 1935, and supplemented the PWA which followed the CWA. In its eight years of existence the WPA spent $10,136,743,293 of federal funds and had $8,500,000 persons on its payroll. Other governmental divisions contributed $2,837,713,394 to bring the total WPA outlay to almost $13,000,000,000. In 1939 it had grown into a massive structure with many ramifications and repercussions and although the country was in a period of prosperity it had its peak enrollment of 3,014,010 persons on its payroll. The great number of those who were on the rolls made it imopssible to abolish the organization though it was engaged in a three-way fight with the Youth Administration and the CCC to keep up its rolls. The present war made it possible to terminate the institution.—Summit, Forest City.

Sometimes a plain newspaper man thinks what Washington needs is an everyday editor, who could pick up a fat pencil and turn fancy, involved, legalistic and expensive language into clear and simple words anyone could understand.—Davenport Democrat.

Prittle... Prattle....

This morning the stratus clouds were so low that they created quite a sight as they poured down the mountains in a swift down-current of air. It looked just like a waterfall and above we could see the blue sky as this happened on the peak northeast of us.

I appreciated a map clipped from the "Register" and sent me recently. None of the papers here have maps like the "Register" and the maps put up around the barracks are usually 3 od 4 weeks old.

Every once in awhile we see a doe and two fauns who come right up to the dock in the front of the mess hall. They seem to be quite tame.

I was counting up and I realized I have been in the Navy a little over 5 months and out of that 5 months I have been with my family only 10 days. That seems something of a record to me, but it can't begin to compare with that of many a service man.

P-P

The tests last week were a little rougher than usual and I'd be glad to settle for a 90 on each. I feel as though I'd reached the saturation point as far as being able to absorb any more of this stuff is concerned; but as usual, I'll be wrong.

P-P

This barracks is like a barn today. The windows are wide open and the chilly breeze is blowing in every whichway. I am in the Rec. room topside listening to a symphony via radio. The ochestra is having competition however, for I can hear faintly the discrdant notes of a jam session in the rooms above the Rec. hall. I just now glanced up and saw a company in the grinder at Camp Waldron just across the street doing a physical drill with rifles. It made me shudder—drilling and marching—ugh! We are sick of it.

P-P

Her's Dewey on the radio from Oklahoma City. Arguments on politics are certainly waxing hot and furious around this QM section every evening. That goes on in one end of the bardacks. In In the other there is usually an argument on the pro's and con's of compulsory military training after the war. So you see, there is excitement every evening.

Well, Dewey has just finished his speech, so I shall do likewise—hit the sack, study a few moments and fall asleep to dream, of home, I hope.

THE OLD JUDGE SAYS...

"The war sure has made a lot of changes in this old world of ours, hasn't it, Judge?"

"Plenty of them, John. One that few people realize is that the rubber producing center of the world is now right here in the United States.

"When the Japs conquered the big natural rubber producing centers of the world they thought they had us licked. But in two short years, thanks to American industry, we are now producing synthetic rubber enough to supply all our military and essential civilian needs.

"Our rubber experts knew how to make it but the problem was to get the huge amounts of industrial alcohol needed. Almost overnight the country's beverage distillers stopped making whiskey and converted 100% to the production of this vital ingredient. A high government official said recently this was '...an almost unparalleled example of the overnight conversion of an entire industry from peace to war.'"

"Come to think of it, Judge, it was a mighty fortunate thing the beverage distilling industry was in existence, wasn't it?"

HELP YOUR NEIGHBOR... AND YOU HELP YOUR COUNTRY

They Builded Better Than They Knew

With the help of the neighbors, many a little red schoolhouse was built. That readiness to help the folks down the road and the family across the square was the strength of our early America, the foundation for our democracy. Because of it, we have a greater heritage to defend than any other people on Earth.

In these wartime days, the spirit of neighborliness so characteristic of our people is again paying dividends. Did you ever dream ten years ago that today you would pull up to the curb and offer a ride to a stranger? That you would have a bundle of salvaged paper ready when the Boy Scouts called? That you would walk home with awkward packages because your dealers have difficulty making deliveries? When you aid your neighbor, you aid your country. Isn't it surprising how many things one person can do to help win the war?

Michelson-Pyle Married Saturday

Miss Katherine Michelsen, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Michelsen, Kanawha, and Mr. Raymond Pyle, son of Mr. and Mrs. Merle Pyle, Eagle Grove, were married Saturday evening Sept 30. 1944 at 8 o'clock.

The beautiful candle light single ring ceremony was performed by Rev. Floyd Lien, pastor of the Kanawha Lutheran Church, in the home of the bride.

The attendants were Miss Donna Jean Jordanger of Eagle Grove and close friend of the bride, and Mr. George Pyle, also of Eagre Grove and brother of the bridegroom.

The bride groom wore a dark suit with a red rose boutonniere. His attendant wore a tan suit with a red rose boutonniere.

The bride's mother wore a dress of soldier blue and the groom's mother a dress of navy blue. Both had identical corsages. Each father wore a red rose boutonniere.

Preceding the ceremony. Howard Michelson, brother of the bride, and Robert Pyle, brother of the groom, lighted the candles and Miss Florence Norby sang "O Perfect Love."

The home was beautifully decorated in pink and white streamers with candles and garden flowers. The arch was made in the living room and decorated in pink and white and the vows were exchanged here, a candlelighted pedestal on each side of the arch.

Following the ceremony, a two course lunch was served to the immediate relatives, by Misses Ina Hughes and Genevieve Ruter. Mrs. Clifford Jordanger and Mrs. Andrew Heggen assisted in preparing the lunch.

The bride's table was centered with a 2-tier wedding cake with miniature bride and groom ornament and decorated in pink and white. Pink tapers in crystal holders were also table decorations. The place cards were miniature bride and groom on handles of nut cups which were pink and silver.

Guests were Mr. and Mrs. Merle Pyle and sons, George and Robert of Eagle Grove; Miss Donna Jean Jordanger, Rev. and Mrs Floyd Lien, Mr. M. N. Michelsen and the bride's parents and brother.

The bride is a graduate of Amsterdam Township rural school No 9 and of Kanawha High School. class of 1942. Previous to her marriage she was employed in Waterloo and Clarion

The bride groom is a graduate of the Eagle Grove High School. and has been engaged in farming The young couple will make their home on a farm near Clarion.

Jacobmeyer-Hutchings Declare Vows

The Belmond Methodist Church was the scene of a very pretty wedding at five o'clock on Sunday afternoon, Oct. 1st, when Miss Gladys Clare Jacobmeyer, daughter of Mr and Mrs. F. H. Jacobmeyer of Belmond, and Rev. J. S. Hutchings, pastor of the Methodist church at Lohrville, Iowa, took their places before the flower decked altar and repeated the vows of the double-ring ceremony read by the Rev. L. D. Havighurst, Supt. of the Ft. Dodge District of the Methodist church, in the presence of members of the immediate family and a few friends.

The bride wore a royal blue traveling suit, with white accessories, and her corsage was white gardenias. Her only jewelry was a gift from the groom. The groom wore a dark suit.

Those attending the ceremony the parents. Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Jacobmeyer, two sisters, Mrs. Lloyd Knoll and sons of Mason City, Mrs. Joy Brothers of Des Moines and son Gary of Belmond, Rev. and Mrs. L. D. Havighurst of Ft. Dodge, and Mrs. F E. Purcell of Belmond.

Following the ceremony, the bridal party returned to the Jacobmeyer residence, where a two-course luncheon was served by Mrs. Knoll, assitsed by Mrs Purcell. The table was decorated with pink flowers and the large angel food cake, decorated and topped with the first names of the bride and groom. During the luncheon, friends of Lohrville telephoned congratulations to the bride and groom.

Gladys was a graduate of Belmond High School, Iowa State Teachers College, and of St. Lukes Hospital nurses training.

The bridal couple left Sunday evening on a short wedding trip, visiting at the home of the bride's sister in Mason City, after which they will be at home in Lohrville.

In The Bronco Corral

"Your High School days are the best days in your life." This phrase always serves as a good plug for a griper. This saying was very true on September 26 for everybody who went to the All High School Party given by the seniors. The Freshmen proved that they enjoyed dancing as well as all the rest. Since this party was such a hit how about having some more? After all we can't let the old saying down, CAN WE?????

Off The Record

In 6th period Junior English class Miss Devries was trying to refresh all the alert minds and asked what Poe did before he wrote. Robert Hugh Foss came back with "I suppose he printed." Oh, well! We live and learn.

Questions of the Week

-. Who was the sophomore girl who monopolized a certain tall, dark, junior boy?

2. It looks like the coach has taught the Junior boys some fancy footwork. Who knows maybe one will be a second Arthur Murray???

3. Why have the boys been so determined in showing off their feet with such loud socks?

Mrs. Farmer In Charge Of Hot Lunch Program

The hot lunches are in full swing under the supervision of Mrs. Mattie Farmer. Helping Mrs Farmer are Ms Bier, Mrs. Traege, Mrs Peet and four high school girls.

Each day the meal consists of a vegetable, meat, sandwiches, milk and some form of dessert. The women are serving approximately 200 per day.

The pupils eat in shifts. The grades begin at 11:35 and the junior high and high school around 12:05.

The price is the same as last year, 10c a meal or 50c a week.

Belmond vs. Garner Friday Evening, Oct. 6

Classroom News From The Grades

THIRD GRADE NEWS

Ardis Meyers brought a Japanese helmet, gas mask and an empty shell for us to see. She brought a hand grenade and some bullets, too. We were all very much interested in seeing the things. The different ones told of the members of their families who are in service.

We have a health chart in our room. If we have done all the things we are supposed to for good health, our elephants can hold their heads high. But if some one forgets to do something, his elephant has to hold his head down. We are having a hard time to get all the heads up at once.

Gladys Jacobmeyer visited school Thursday afternoon.

FOURTH GRADE NEWS

The fourth grade are studying about "Farming in America" in Social Studies. Display pictures of modern machinery, varieties of corn, soybean plants and millet were brought by Richard Gorman.

Kenneth Eccles celebrated his ninth birthday Friday having his mother bring birthday cake, doughnuts and suckers for the fourth grade.

Those who got perfect in spelling this week were James Bayliss, James Faris, Gay Galloway, Maxine Gartz, Gene Grillo, Jan Kelly, Gertrude McLaughlin, Deloris Nelson, Richard Parker, Avis Pierce, Allen Shahan, Eleanor Springer, Wayne Withers, Kenneth White and James Zeigler.

FIFTH GRADE NEWS

Thelma and Shirley Meyers brought a Japanese helmet and a gas masks. It is very interesting to look at them.

Some of the pupils have a perfect spelling record this week. Those are Betty Clare Henderson, Lynne Tyrrell, Jeanette McGuire, Adelaide Jenison and Betty Lou Dempsey.

Frances Palmer.

New Students In High School

Bill Huckleby of Decatur, Ill., and Jean Furguson of Miami, Florida, are the junior class contributors toward the increased enrollment of B. H. S. Bill's favorite subject is Algebra and he is an ardent football fan. He occupies his spare moments with his hobby of model airplanes. When Jean was asked as to what her favorite subject was she replied after much thought. Her favorite activity and hobby she said is "Keeping up the morale of the alumni."

The Sophomore class is increased by the presence of Bonnie Lou Jenson, a transfer from Iowa Falls. her favorite subject is history and she just adores band. Her hobby is "Men what makes em that way?"

Broncos Hope for Second Victory

With victory no. one under their belt and victory no. two just 18 miles north of us, the boys from our "Boom Town" have written a letter to the boys from Garner asking them to make an appearance on the local football field this Friday night. The object of this little get-together is to show them how to spell and play the game of Football. Our teacher J. J. Lansing has a whole squad of valedictorians from the smallest freshman to the biggest senior. (Of course this is in referenee to the game of football) and as you may have heard through some reliable source that the cardinal and black from Garner flunked last Friday's exam with Buffalo Center 20, Garner 6. So-oo we don't want to spoil Garner's record, do we? We have a great score to settle with our "friends"—something about last year's score of "them 38, us 7". Do you see what I mean?

Since there are no points on BIRDS Belmond has a great deal of meat or should I say fowl to fill up on before we must spend some points again. I don't have to tell you about our boys this week, you all saw them last week. And if you didn't you heard about it I know because the whole town was talking it. So I can count on you to be there I am sure. Since Dr Parsons got back from Minnesota he will be there and there ought to be some more new and shining faces in the crowd. Laying all jokes aside folks we really do have a fine team and the fellows proved it to you last Friday night, so come out and give them your support. I know you will never regret it.

Lt. (j. g.) Prasch Speaks to Student Body

The high school and junior high students were honored, Monday morning, by a talk given by Lt. (j. g.) John Prasch, a former coach of Belmond. He related many interesting incidents as being an instructor in navigation in the Navy.

Seen & Heard On and Off the Grid

This is little off the sport side folks, but have you ever sat in the big study hall in B. H. S. and looked at the class pictures on the wall. If you haven't just take a look some time and see how many boys there are that are doing their bit for "Uncle Sam."

The physical fitness program that is so important to the men and youth of today is something to think about. Look at those pictures again. In the class of "38" you see Rich Banning who was "given and taken" with the yanks in Africa in the A. A. F.?

You all remember our pony backs of "43" Egers and Brady by name. They will become officers in the air force and the Navy soon. They had many tough physicals to pass. Athletics gave them guts and courage and also uncovered mentality that they never knew they possessed.

Out of the class of "42" there is Wimpy Whipple, Bud Loats, who has passed his phyical and mentals for O. F. S., Gene Riggs and a host of others only to mention a few.

Lt. Ursel Nolte and Capt. Howard Finn of the A. A. F. and the Marine Air Corps, respectively are leading stars in the service from Belmond High School. They have played a game, faster and tougher than any known to man. Japs are their opposition. Little, yes, but boy are they rugged! If you don't believe me ask any fellow who has come back from the bloody battles of the Pacific if it is not the strongest opposition they have ever taken the field against.

These boys mentioned are just a few of the many of B. H. S. boys in the Khaki and blue but you can ask any of them if it wasn't those hard knocks in football and all athletics and Physical Training that built them up so they could take the knocks of the game they are now such a vital part. So fellows when we come out for P. T. and sports let's put our heart and soul in it because as you can see it is for our benefit.

Jack C. McGuire

EDITORIAL

Have you ever thought of "determination" as winning a football game, presenting a perfect marching exhibition, or gaining a youth center for Belmond. It has won a football game and presented a perfect marching exhibition and it is going to establish a youth center for Belmond. The absolute truth is that if you are determined enough you will get what you want sooner or later. It takes the determination of every person involved to do this though.

In a football game it takes the determination of every individual player and person backing the team to win the game. Every player must share in the responsibility as well as the glory and every person backing the team must see to it that they are present at the game and cheer for their team, which does not mean temporarily but at all times.

To present a perfect marching exhibition means that every person in that band must take the responsibility upon himself to see that he is there for every practice, knows his music well, knows all the different signals and how to march correctly. Nobody else can take over the responsibility to see that they do right. As for determination, if some are determined to do right and others are not then it is impossible to present a perfect marching exhibition.

To establish a youth center for Belmond it would take a strong determination of all the youths of this community to win out. They would have to point out to their parents and all the citizens of this community how it would greatly benefit the youths of Belmond. The youths would have to show all the the people of this community that they are so interested in it that the cost of the project could not be compared in any way to the value of what the youths of Belmond would gain from it.This victory is gained by one big factor known as "determination."

The youth of Belmond have shown by their determination that they can win a football game and that they can present a perfect marching exhibition but this is just the beginning. They must continue on in these two fields and develop into many other fields. They "can" and "must" become determined enough to establish a youth center in Belmond and they will.

Home After 34 Months Overseas With Air Force

S|Sgt. Max Leary Was Member Of Service Squadron On New Guinea

S|Sgt. Max H. Leary is home on a 21-day furlough, the first that he has had in 34 months of overseas duty which began on November 28, 1941, before the U. S. declared war following "Pearl Harbor" on December 7 of that same year.

The first nine months, he spent in Northern Queensland, Australia, and from there went with one of the Service Squadrons of the Army Air Force to New Guinea, where he was stationed for 25 months. Service squadrons follow the land fighting forces, taking over enemy air dromes as they are captured, and getting them ready for the use of American planes. Sgt. Leary is a propellor specialist, and for the past two years has been department head in the propellor shop of his squadron.

Leary describes what he saw of New Guinea as hot, steamy jungle and indicates that he got pretty close to the Japs. During the first three or four months spent on New Guinea, the men sought the safety of their fox holes at night. During the day they had good protection from American planes which kept on the lookout for the enemy. He says of the American planes that [illegible] conjunction with the land [illegible] "They keep hunting the Japs all the time, and when they run out of bombs, they drop anything else on them that might be of damage, from shovels to kitchen sinks."

Sgt. Leary had chances to secure Jap "souvenirs" but brought home only three pieces of Japanese currency, one a 10 yen note and two 50 sen pieces.

Among the things he did bring home was his mess kit which is of heavy aluminum and is well worn and nicked from use. It is engraved with the names of 14 of the many different locations where he had been stationed on New Guinea.

Sgt. Leary wears service bars indicating three different campaigns in which he has served, besides a Presidential citation for the battle in the Bismarck Sea. Another bar represents service before U. S. entry into the war. He also wears five gold service stripes on his sleeve, each of which represents six months overseas' duty, and one "hitch" indicating three years' service with the U. S. Army.

After his furlough, which he is spending with his family in Belmond, Sgt. Leary will report at Miami, Florida, for reassignment.

A. W. Schmidt's Job Is Safety Inspection

Stationed At Air Field In Florida

"The Clipper," newspaper of the Homestead Army Air Field at Homestead, Florida, carried an article in a recent issue concerning Cpl. A. W. Schmidt, who has been stationed there since April as Ground Safety Inspector. His job, which is described in the following article, has also included a series of lectures in connection with ground safety:

"Shortening the war 167 manpower days that would have ordinarily been wasted in the base hospital by accident victims over the past four months, may eventually put Cpl. A. W. Schmidt, HAAF Ground Safety Inspector out of business by getting the war over with, but he doesn't think there will be any kick.

"As Ground Safety Inspector, Cpl. Schmidt sticks his nose into everything looking for trouble and when he finds it, things start to happen. He might be condemning crew chief stands one minute, or insisting that goggles be supplied men using emery wheels, the next, but wherever he is, he is generally making life tough for someone, so that it may be safe for someone else....

"Chief among the Corporal's duties, is to investigate accidents, and so by an association of ideas, his appearance on any scene gives rise to misgivings that something untoward is going to happen. Uncovering the reason why certain accidents happen, is his most effective method of preventing repetition.

"Cpl. Schmidt is very strong for common sense as the best safety measure in the world, and sells it to the boys whenever he gets a chance; some even accuse him of talking safety in his sleep, but Schmidt doesn't care as long as he puts his point over."

In Ward One, four reports remain to come in, in Ward Two there are five that have not been completed. Ward Three has completed its part in the drive with all reports turned in by Wednesday.

Townships Have "Family Living" Plans Underway

Meetings Are Planned For Winter

Miss Elizabeth Deihl, County Extension Home Economist, announced this week the plans of ten townships for meetings this winter in relation to the "Family Living Program", the other townships are still making final plans.

The lessons this year will be entirely on the open meeting basis. This means that all town and rural women are invited to attend the meeting when Miss Deihl presents the lesson. Women attending the meeting will not be required to carry the information to other groups.

Each township selected subjects that would be of interest to women of that township. However, there are no boundary lines and any woman is invited to any meeting.

Iowa Township—

"Family Fun and Hobbis"—Mrs. John Hill, Tusday, Oct. 17, half day meeting with covered dish dinner at 12:00.

"School Code Revision"— November.

"Points in Business Women can Handle"—Wednesday, Dec. 6th, Half day meeting with covered dish dinner.

2nd Victory For Broncos Friday Night

Defeated Garner Team 18 to 0

Roaring up from the ranks of the so-called dark horse, the inspired Broncos defeated a gallant Garner team 18 to 0 Friday night on the local field. This was the second straight game in which the Broncos' goal was uncrossed and Belmond's second North Iowa victory to one defeat.

Led by Dorr, Michelson and Meints, the Broncos scored early in the first quarter and twice more in the second half. An early first quarter drive with our three bucking backs toting the leather, Dorr finally crossed the Cardinal goal for six points but failed to convert.

Our hard charging forward wall stopped all Garner opposition, and only once Garner threatened to score. Stille of Garner, after being trapped behind the line of scrimmage, broke loose for 55 yards before being hauled down by Michelson on the three-yard line as the quarter ended.

In the second half Belmond kicked off to Garner, and having stalled their power machine, the Cardinals were forced to punt. Michelson and Meints, cracking the ends and lines, the Broncos again moved into paydirt territory. Dorr again on a quick thrust rang the bell for another six points, but the try for an extra point failed. Another score by Dorr resulted from a poor kick by Stille of the Garner team which gave Belmond the ball on the 16 yard line. On a reverse Michelson carried the ball to the 7, Meints to the 3-yard line with Dorr crossing the goal line Dempsey, on a beautiful reverse, went 61 yards for Belmond to score another touchdown which was nullified by a 15-yard penalty as the game ended.

Approve Livestock Truck Conservation Methods

Other Objectives: Save Manpower And Gasoline

Recommendations of the Wright County Livestock Industry Transportation Committee formulated on Sept. 27 for conserving tires and trucks and moving livestock to processing plants in an orderly manner have been approved by the Area Advisory Committee and Office of Defense Transportation. Other objectives are the saving of manpower and gasoline.

Provisions of the plan are now being published and farmers, truckers and others are asked on a voluntary basis to carry out the sound conservation practices proposed. Local surveys reveal a serious situation in which all must work together to prevent a breakdown of transportation. Two important difficulties are wartime tire scarcities and underloading and overloading of trucks. Farmers and truckers are interdependent. Neither can solve existing problems alone.

Specific aims of the truck conservation program are (1) to pick up the largest possible amounts of livestock per mile of travel from truck headquarters to last loading point with least possible wear on tires and trucks, (2) to move to nearest satisfactory market by shortest practicable route in trucks carrying capacity loads but avoiding injurious overloads, (3) to use livestock trucks when feasible in transporting feed, supplies, or other suitable cargo on return trips from markets and (4) to furnish livestock transportation to all users on an equitable basis.

To help realize the aims noted, all Wright County farmers and all truckers and handlers of livestock should adopt the following practices in hauling livestock to market:

1. Livestock shipments should be listed with a single factor (or dispatching office) 10 days or a reasonable time in advance of proposed shipments.
2. Truckers should assemble or haul loads in approximate order of their listing (rather than on a haphazard basis whenever shipments are offered) arranging stops so that the largest amount of livestock may be picked up per mile.
3. Farmers should cooperate with truckers in obtaining capacity loads and avoiding overloading.
4. Farmers should have stock ready to load when trucker arrives and provide suitable place to load with chute, if possible.
5. Truckers should make every possible effort to arrive at the farm on time.
6. Truckers should exchange listings when pickup distance can thereby be reduced and inform farmers of such proposed exchange.
7. Truckers should not be asked to pick up livestock on impassable roads.
8. Livestock should be hauled to nearest satisfactory market by shortest practicable route.
9. Back hauls and cross hauls should be avoided.
10. Where feasible truckers should obtain return loads by leasing trucks to other carriers or contacting traffic clearing office.
11. Truckers should not be requested to drive extra miles or wait at the market for [illegible] to ride to market with them.
12. One day per week should be used by centralization points for pick up of odds and ends of livestock where there is less than a pick-up load.
13. Farmers should discuss the truck conservation program with their neighbors and suggest and practice additional methods of conserving tires and trucks.

The county Industry Transportation Committee does not suggest the elimination from hauling of any essential trucker. It points out the necessity of a broad program of publicity and education to inform farmers, truckers and others WHY and HOW trucks should be conserved in wartime. In this County Extension Director Aaron R. Bowman has been invited to assist. Farmers and truckers should clip and preserve this report for further reference.

Members of the County Livestock Industry Transportation Committee include, W. J. Evans, trucker, and Leo Woodley, farmer, both of Clarion, and J. B. McAdams, handler, of Dows. Cooperating with this group was J. F. Schipull, representing the county Farm Transportation Committee and County Extension Director, Aaron R. Bowman

Still Time to Wrap And Mail U. S. W. Christmas Packages

The United Service Women of Belmond met in the Library basement Tuesday evening and wrapped Christmas gifts (fruit cakes) for service men and women overseas. 49 packages were wrapped and made ready for mailing. Marvis Hake, chairman of this committee, said today, "If there are some members of the local organization who did not attend the meeting Tuesday night or failed to hand in the name of the service man or woman overseas eligible for one of these gifts, they may still take care of this matter if they will get into touch with me before the end of the week."

NEWSPAPER CORRESPONDENTS—

Probably few readers of the Belmond Independent realize how many people it takes to gather the news each week, even for one small weekly newspaper, or how many problems are often times involved in securing the news for publication.

In the city of Belmond, the Independent has three correspondents or reporters working on local and society news each week including Mrs. W. R. Ramsay, Mrs. R. H. Gowdy and Miss Annalee Brunes.

Five other correspondents gather and write up news in the community served by the Belmond Independent including Mrs. Willie Pals at Alexander, Mrs. Genevieve Suntken at Meservey, Mrs. Amos Hanson at Goodell, Mrs. D. L. Wilkie at Kanawha and Miss Arliene Goslin at Clarion.

In connection with the gathering and writing of news, a clipping was handed to Mrs. Ramsay recently by one of her good news givers which, in its noetic form, mentions some of the problems involved in the job of a newspaper correspondent.

Do I know any NEWS? Well, now let me see . . .
Oh, yes—our VACATION! But good gracious me,
Don't dare put THAT in the paper my dear;
There're some things the Ration Board just shouldn't HEAR!
Have I had any dinners? Given a lunch?
Why, yes—but oh my there's that odd Mrs. Scrunch!
If she should get a word that she was left out
She'd go in a really TERRIBLE pout.
Oh, say, by the way—now don't breathe a word—
But in March I'm expecting the long-legged bird!
Why, of COURSE the girls will give me a shower;
But heavens don't PRINT it! My husband would GLOWER.
And isn't it awful about Mazie Snorst?
You haven't HEARD? Why, she's geting divorced-
In the PAPER? Oh no, I wouldn't do THAT.
I promised I'd keep it under my hat.
Well, 'bye now, dear, and a word of advice.
I hope you won't think I'm not very nice
But—your paper—Now don't say I'm choosey,
But honestly, dear, it just isn't NEWSY!—Vivian Batman in the "Thinking Things Over" column in the Niles (Calif.) Township Register.

Prittle... Prattle....

Our weather has taken a decided change for the better in the last few days. It is like Indian summer—warm, yet a bit fresh and the sun is so bright. It seems strange not to see the leaves turning brown, but the fact is there are no deciduous trees here, only those with needles.

P—P

Now and then we see an eagle flying down from one of the peaks. They are not the American bald eagles but a brown eagle in somewhat the same category as a chicken hawk. One came quite near the barracks the other day. It had a wing span of about 6½ feet. It was a dirty brown in color with a wicked-looking beak. Six deer came up to the mess hall the other night. The grass always looks greener on the other side of the fence. You can see that this is almost like a zoo which is more truth than poetry considering the antics of some of us inmates.

P—P

An order came out recently that we were to wear our pancake blue dress hats after Oct. 1 and how we hate them! However, the order was cancelled the next day, so we needn't worry for a while. One of the things the higher-ups do best around here is change their minds.

One of the men in section 12SM, across the center passageway, had an experience with the brig lately. He was to stand the dogwatch from 2400 to 0400. He went on duty and later on the division p. o. discovered he wasnt' at his post. Upon investigation he was found stretched out on his bunk under a blanket asleep. He was taken before captain's mast and given 2 days solitary on bread and water, also a boot haircut.

P—P

As usual I got by bi-weekly haircut this Sunday a. m. There were 7 barbers on duty. When I arrived there were 36 men ahead of me. In 40 minutes it was my turn. I waited for the Sheller boy—he is on duty every third Sunday and two nights a week. We had a good visit and I got the best haircut I've had since I've been in the Navy.

P—P

Later in the day several of us fellows decided to walk through Farragut Park adjacent to the reception center. It is a wooded area about the size of two blocks including nice lawns and flower beds, a playground for the children, a small zoo, picnic tables, a rock garden, benches, etc. Service men are allowed to bring their wives and families there and in warm weather the place is jammed. After looking around we walked on into the center which was quite crowded. It is a large room about the size of Belmond's gym, filled with maple upholstered furniture—chair sand davenports, plenty of coffee tables—and a lunch counter at one end.

THE OLD JUDGE SAYS...

"It sounds almost like a miracle, Judge... how did we ever do it?"

"American industry did it, Sally. When the Japs conquered the chief natural rubber producing centers of the world they thought they had dealt a death blow to our war effort. But, in less than two years, we are producing enough synthetic rubber in this country to supply all our military and essential civilian requirements.

"Our rubber experts knew how to make it but the most practical process at the time required huge amounts of industrial alcohol... far beyond the already overtaxed capacity of our industrial alcohol plants. So, overnight, our country's beverage distillers stopped making whiskey and produced hundreds of millions of gallons of the vitally needed alcohol.

"As a matter of fact, Sally, a high government official said recently '... synthetic rubber is from 6 to 9 months ahead of where it could have been if alcohol had not been available for butadiene production.'"

"We were really fortunate, weren't we Judge, to have a beverage distilling industry in existence... able to help perform this great wartime miracle!"

Christie-Shepard Wedding Was Event of September 30

Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Christie returned to Belmond last Thursday from Washington, D. C., after attending the wedding of their daughter, Jeanne, whose marriage to Lt. John R. Shepard, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Shepard of Mason City, was performed in Wilmington, N. C., following morning exercises at Camp LeJeune, N. Car., in which Lt. Shepard was commissioned in the U. S. Marine corps, Sept. 30.

The double ring ceremony was read by the Rev. John Tevlin in St. Mary's church in the presence of the immediate families. White gladioli and tall white tapers decorated the altar where the couple exchanged vows.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a moss green gabardine suit complemented by brown accessories and a corsage of brown orchids for the occasion.

Miss Veuna Townsan of Washington, D. C., the bride's only attendant, wore a brown gabardine suit with brown accessories and a corsage of ophelia roses. Lt. Carl H. Shearer of Burlington, Vt., was Lt. Shepard's best man.

Mrs. Christie, mother of the bride, wore a black crepe afternoon dress, and Mrs. Shepard, mother of the bridegroom, wore an afternoon dress of black crepe and velvet. Both had corsages of gardenias and tube roses.

Following the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Christie entertained the wedding party and members of the immediate families at a wedding dinner held at the Governor Dudley Mansion in Wilmington.

Temporarily, Lt. and Mrs. Shepard are at home at 405 South Third street, Wilmington. Mrs. Shepard is a graduate of the University of Iowa where she was a member of Delta Gamma sorority. Lt. Shepard is a graduate of the Mason City high school and attended the University of Iowa before entering the marine corps. He is a member of Phi Pappa Psi fraternity.

Brown Johnson Wedding

Miss Dorothy Brown, niece of Mr. and Mrs. Loren Zeiger, of Kanawha, and Mr. Duane Johnson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin C. Johnson were married Saturday, Oct. 7, 1944 at the Little Brown Church at Nashua, Iowa. The double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. F. L. Hanscom at 2 o'clock.

The couple were attended by Miss Johanna Eliason and Mr. John Larson.

Mendelssohn's Wedding March was played as the Processional by Mrs. Hanscom. The Recessional was the traditional "The Little Brown Church In the Vale". The bride and groom tolled their [illegible] wedding bell.

The bride wore a street length dress of sugar beige with brown accessories and a corsage of gold and brown pom poms.

The bridesmaid wore a street length black dress with blue accessories and a corsage of white pom poms.

The bride groom wore the conventional blue suit with a talisman rose boutonniere and the best man wore a brown suit with a talisman rose boutonniere.

The bride's aunt wore a soldier blue suit with talisman rose corsage and the groom's mother wore a tailored black suit with talisman rose corsage. The uncle and father wore identical white carnation boutonnieres.

Following the ceremony the bridal party went to Mason City, where a three course dinner was served at 6 o'clock at the Hotel Hanford.

The bride is a graduate of the Kanawha High School with the class of '44. The groom graduated with the Kanawha class of '39 and for the past six years has assisted his father in farming.

Following a short honeymoon, at Waterloo, the young couple will make their home with his parents.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Laura Bamford Davenport

Laura S. Bamford, daughter of Lucy and Joseph Bamford, pioneer residents of Wright County, Iowa, was born April 20, 1868, on a farm north of Belmond, Iowa, with Terrance A. Davenport. One child, Nancy, now Mrs. John Mack of Clarion, came from this union.

In 1888 she united in membership with the Harvey Congregational Church, a country community church, and later transferred he membership to the Belmond Congregational Church.

From 1888 until 1913, she lived on a farm. In 1913 she and her husband moved to Belmond where she lived until the death of her husband in 1943. In 1943 she moved to Clarion, where she lived until her death, September 21, 1944.

She was active in community, church and social affairs. She was a member of the Golden Rod Rebecca Lodge of Belmond.

Mrs. Davenport leaves to mourn their loss: a brother, Oren Bamford of Kanawha; a sister, Mrs Harry J Brooks, Belmond; her daughter, Mrs. John Mack, Clarion; six grandchildren: George Mack, Clarion; Ruth, now Mrs. George Cavanaugh of Omaha; S-Sgt. Harold Mack, now stationed in England; Albert J. Mack A M. M. 2c, stationed in Florida: Marion, now Mrs. Earl Thompson of Clarion; and Ruby Mack, Clarion.

Henry Hartwig

Henry Hartwig son of Mr. and Mrs. August Hartwig (deceased) was born in Morgan Township, Franklin county near Dows. Iowa on October 16. 1872. When a boy of 13 years he came with his parents to Wisner Township in Franklin County. He was united in marriage to Bertha Pittelkow in the year 1895, in the home of his parents in Wisner township. To this union was born one daughter, Bertha. There preceded him in death his first wife and also his daughter Bertha, who passed away on Oot-5, 1922. Mr. Hartwig was again united in mariage with Millie Pittelkow, a sister of his first wife in the year 1900. They were engaged in farming on a farm in Franklin County until 1939. In the fall of that same year they discontinued farming and moved into their new home in the town of Meservey where the departed spent the remainder of his life in retirement. Mr. Hartwig was highly esteemed by those who knew him. He was a man of fine character and pleasant disposition and made himself many friends. Ht was not privileged to spend the last few years of his life in a state of good health, and was bedfast for almost two years. Several times he entered the hospital at Hampton and later sought relief in a hospital at Rochester, Minn. Receiving in every way the best of care, it was in the last days of his life that his condition became more critical.

It pleased the Lord to call him out of this world on Saturday, Sept. 30, 1944 at 1:15 a. m. at the age of 71 years 11 months and 14 days. Mr. Hartwig was a member of the Farm Bureau; held various ofices, and also was a member of the Franklin county fair board until his health began to fail when he was no longer able to associate himself with that ofice.

He is bereaved by his sorrowing companion; seven brothers; William, George, Louie, August, Otto, Ed, all of Thornton and Jessie of Hampton, two sisters; Mrs. William Buck and Mrs. Albert Buck both of Thornton, Iowa besides many other relatives and friends.

There precered him in death also one brother Albert and one sister Mrs. Toney Alten.

What about Corn Pickers?

Every day, by mail, by telegraph, by telephones, we are receiving urgent appeals from farmers for Mc Cormick-Deering corn pickers to harvest this year's crop. With farm labor shortages even more acute than in 1943, the demand for pickers has skyrocketed. It is many times greater than ever before, greater than our capacity, or the capacity of the whole industry, to produce.

We have done everything we can to help in this situation.

(1) We have completed production of our 1944 corn picker program, and have done it weeks earlier than ever before.

(2) We have actually built 50% more corn pickers than in any other year of the Company's history.

(3) We have allocated these machines to the corn growing regions, with government approval, in the fairest way we knew.

Corn pickers are still under rationing, and every corn picker we built has been allotted to a farmer with a rationing certificate for it. They were all sold before they ever left the factory. There is no surplus, no reserve of machines. There simply are not enough corn pickers to go around in this year of unprecedented demand.

Under the circumstances, what can be done,

We can only make one suggestion and that is for our farmer friends to follow the old helpful-neighbor tradition of American farming, a tradition that comes down from the days of barn-raising and log-rolling. If farmers will share their machines and share their labor, much can be done to harvest this vital war-time crop of corn.

Seventy-Three In Drama Club

Miss DeVries Directs The Club

The first meeting of the proposed Drama Club met with Miss DeVries as fcaulty sponsor. Seventy-three students expressed a desire to help make this a banner year in speech activities.

In order to operate most effectively the membership will probably be divided into separate groups. The activities of the club will vary according to the abilities and desires of the members, the demand for materials to be presented by the club and the time each member is willing to give towards making our efforts a success. One act plays, dramatic readings and some public speaking have been expressed as the main interests.

With a large membership it is evident that each individual will not be able to have leading roles in activities but stage work, custuming, publicity and assistant directing will also be used as some of the activities.

A definite time for the meetings has not been set, pending a time when groups can meet without conflict.

Members at present writing include:

Seniors: Eleanor Soma, Eunice Mehl, Judy Olsen, Kathryn Holgate, Betty Tracy and Dorothy Hosick.

Jnuiors: Betty Green, Bob Foss, George Tideback, Loretta Rubendahl, Neoma Johnson, Muriel Soma, Jean Fergeson, Pat Chapman, Duane Anderson, Shirley Coulson, Wanda Jenison, Luann Kinseth, Henrietta Bleeker, Lavene Steen? block, Peggy Greenlander, Marlys Parker, Janet Lerdahl, Larry Dorr and Roland Pals.

Seniors Very Proud Of Graduation Rings

The seniors were very proud of showing their hands on Wednesday, October 4. Why? Who wouldn't—they just got their new class rings and they really are something to look at. Some Seniors had visions of their rings the night before. Wednesday that vision came true.

A single B stands out in the center of the ring. On one side of the ring is 19 and on the other side 45. "High School" is written directly below the B. The ring is of a beautiful rose gold as a background for the letter B and the rest is a combination of white and yellow gold.

Learns Cooking Fundamentals

The freshman class in home economics has been studying the breakfast unit. This unit was completed by serving two complete three course breakfasts. Each class was divided and group "A" planned and served the menu one day while group "B" practiced etiquette The following day this arrangement was reversed.

Now the freshmen are having floor plan study before the luncheon unit.

The advanced class of home economics has been studying the quick bread unit. Muffins, cinnamon rolls and popovers were made with this study. Substitution recipes were followed by the yeast breads. Soups are now being studied with the white sauce.

These classes have been conducted under the leadership of Miss Gantenbein.

Classroom News From The Grades

KINDERGARTEN

The kindergarten boys and girls made apple sauce for their lunch one day last week. They washed and peeled their own apples. They then cooked them on a hot plate and measured and added the sugar. Other helpers set the tables with napkins and dishes.

Another day, they were guests at a Flower Show in the second grade room, and later they wrote a letter of thanks to show their appreciation.

FIRST GRADE

Last week, the first grade visited Mrs. Gruis, Betty Carel's grandmother. While they were there, the children saw a little pig and a kitten. Then Mrs. Gruis showed the children her garden. The children saw how different plants, such as the hollyhock, arrange their seeds. When the children left, Mrs. Gruis gave them a big bouquet of flowers. She also gave them some foliage plants to put In water to root.

This week, the children are planning a frieze. It is all about houses, so if you see someone looking at your house, it's because he's trying to get some ideas for his drawing.

SECOND GRADE

The second grade boys and girls held a flower show Monday afternoon. They invited the kindergarten, first and third grade boys and girls. The kinds of flowers that were shown were dahlias, asters, zinnias, roses and petunias. Dwight Beavers brought a very interesting seed from a moonflower plant for the show. They wish to again express their thanks to their mothers and friends for giving them the lovely bouquets.

THIRD GRADE

The third grade was invited to the flower show given by the second grade. They enjoyed seeing all the pretty flowers and hearing about them

They are learning how to write friendly letters. So far they have learned the parts of the latter and where they should go. They wrote a letter as a class and now are going to each write their own letters.

FOURTH GRADE

Reports on outside reading and original reports have beene interesting for fourth graders since their language period the past week has been "Planning, Writing and Giving Reports." After reports are given informal discussion follows in which criticisms are offered and suggestions for improving the reports.

Those having perfects scores in spelling for this week are: Ronald Ahlgren, Connie Benson, Francis Chapman James Faris, Maxine Gartz, Richard Goeman, Gene Grillo, Donald Hoppel, Janice Hunter, Ian Kelly, Phyllis Kriens, Gertrude McLaughlin, Deloris Nelson, Richard Parker, Avis Pierce, Mavis Pierce, Allan Shahan, Eleanor Springer, Wayne Withers, Kenneth White and James Zeigler

The fifth grade started their first science unit about thermometers.

In geography, they have started studying the Middle Atlantic states. They drew maps of the states also.

Adelaide Jenison has read the most books so far. She has read six books.

There are seventeen eating hot lunch this week.

The fifth graders had a silent reading test in reading Thursday morning.

Odean Severseike.

SIXTH GRADE

The sixth grade became interested in politics after reading about candidates, Roosevelt and Dewey, in their Weekly Reader. The bulletin board was divided in half and filled with clippings, pictures and posters showing their favorite to best avantage. Two of the signs are "Roosevelt and a good government" and "Dewey and lasting Peace."

The person receiving 100% in spelling are Helen Gabrielson, Paul Griesy, Aileen Kalkwarf, Marion Meints, Jack Riggs, Leila Springer, Myron Trager and Verdell Wagner.

JUNIOR HIGH

Any unusual noise on second floor may be due to the practice of the new cheer leaders elected last week. The vote was so close that five were chosen instead of the usual four. They are Janet Beavers, Nancy Johnson, Janyce Larson, Kathryn Tracy and Tommy Harty.

Friday's assembly was a special event. The well-known scientist and experimenter, Thomas H. Vandergrift (alias Tommy Harty) demonstrated his latest invention, a thermometer that measures school spirit It proved beyond a doubt that the enthusiasm of the seventh and eighth, led by the cheer leaders, is backing the team 100%. The fourth, fifth and sixth grades occasion also showed good school who were invited for this special spirit.

The weather man cannot outdo the Junior High School students. Each grade had planned a picnic in the grove but the rain prevented their going there so the picnics were held in the recreation room at school.

Plenty of sandwiches, pork and beans, potato chips, pickles and ice cream was consumed.

Jungle Gym is a name given to a climbing tower installed this fall on the school grounds. It consists of a framework of iron pipes, both vertical and horizontal, forming a tower eight feet square and ten feet high at its highest point.

One of the chief values of the apparatus is its ability to accommodate a large number of pupils at the same time. As many as thirty-five to forty small children can climb on the structure at one time.

The structure has a great deal of physical education value for children, climbing being one of the principal large muscle skills to be developed among young children.

The structure is unusually safe for a playground apparatus and statistics show almost an entire absense of injuries reported on climbing towers all over the country.

Belmond Travels To Lake Mills Friday Night

Two Teams of about Same Weight

If you have never seen a bronco and a bull dog tangle you really haven't seen a fight. It has been a long time since you have been able to tell the guy across the street that we beat Lake Mills last night. I really don't know how long it has been but I think it will be different this year. Yea man! I really do, as some people would say I can feel it in my bones.

This is one year In which both teams will have about the same thing in heft, both having about the same amount of beef on the line and in the back field.

Don't get me wrong folks, this isn't going to be a picnic or just picking cherries because when you make a date with lady bulldog you are in for quite an evening and I don't mean perhaps.

There won't be any Bergdals on the Lake Mills team this year but you can bet your bottom dollar that they haven't stopped growing them big and tough up there.

I just thought I would remind you people that the way to get to Lake Mills is to follow 69 all the way there. I assure you, you will not regret it.

I really don't know how many people there were at the game last Friday night but I everyone there has to give credit where credit is due. The credit goes to the fighting Broncos eleven who can really play football.

Another attraction was the truly splendid exhibition put on by the Belmond Marching Band under the watchful eyes of Miss Hanson. Mr. Johnson remarked "Did you ever see such an outstanding performance by a bunch of kids." If you haven't seen them please jot that down on your list for "what to do next." That's right, you got it now, that's perfect, go right to the telephone and call Mrs. Smith and tell her you want John and her to go out and see the Belmond Broncos and the Belmond Marching Band performnext time there is a little get-together out at ye old athletic field.

Items From On And Off The Grid

This week is truly off the Grid. The topic is nick-names. I know there are a lot of people in the town as well as on the faculty that don't know who we are talking about when we call one another by their nick-names.

To star out with we have "Fayette," that handle belongs to Rob't. Dean Rodemeyer. Next is "Speed" Now that is Calvin Johnson. (These names can be very deceiving, can't they?)

Also there is Jay "Smoky" Negrete, Richard "Mike" Mickelson, Harold 'Chris" Uhlenhopp, Paul "Murphy" McNulty, Don "Bert" Hewlett, Leslie "Roundhouse" Classick, Hayden "Johnnie" Jones, Duane "Rocket" Rierson, Carl Cuddles' Griesy, Bob "Hugo" Foss, Ray "Wa-Wa" Waddington, Dale "Pink" Walrod, Raymond "Muscles" Mehl, Duane "Skarr' Anderson, Irvin "Rosh' Roshiem, Glenn "Moo-Moo' Meints. This only mentions a few of the fellows from B. H. S. who have "handles" like these. I really think that if each person could visit high school just one day, he would be able to link the nick name to person who wears it.

It is quite funny the way a person will pick up his nickname. You will hear some one sound off in class and some wise guy will give him a nick name for what he has just done Or take the time that all the boys went to Clear Lake for a week. There is where the nick-names grew on a person and I don't mean perhaps. From now on if you hear a person called by his nick-name and you remember it from this article you may know who they are talking about.

Jack McGuire.

EDITORIAL

Many people do not realize that they show how weak or strong their character is by the way they act. Many think it is smart to be loud, swear all the time, and become smart with their elders, but if they were really intelligent as they think they are, they would know that all they are doing is showing their ignorance. To have a strong character does not mean that you have to be a sissy which a great deal of people think.

A lot of adolescents think it really brilliant if they can be like characters a few years older than themselves. It would be wonderful if they followed the example of a person with a strong and good character but it never fails but what some of the weaker characters catch these young people in their grip and makes fools of them. Sure it is a great deal of fun—so the young people think at first—but soon they find themselves developing some terrific habits which are definitely destructive. They never stop to consider the fact that all they are doing is showing their weak character by letting ignorant and cheap people a few years older than themselves push them around and make fools of them.

Adolescents with a strong character can, however, attend the same social establishments where the weaker characters have met their downfall and have more fun than the weaker characters by far, and still conduct themselves In the proper manner In the type of fun they have they will not disgrace their name or be made fools of as the weaker characters are in the manner which they conduct themselves.

Just remember that if you don't want to be considered as a person with a weak character or a fool, show that you are intelligent by using your head and saving your name.

Army Program Explained

Program For 17 Year Old Boys

Four programs for 17 year old high school boys has been announced by the U. S. Army and were explained at a meeting of superintendents attended by Supt. Johnson at Algona last week.

These programs are enlistment in the Army Air Corp Reserve with college, the Army Air Corp without college, the Army Specialized Training Program with college and the Army Specialized Training Program without college.

Any 17 year old boy may enlist in either of the non-college programs any time before his 18th birthday. He must pass a physical examination but is not required to take a mental test for either of these plans. If accepted he will be permitted to finish high school even if he reaches his 18th birthday during the year.

For either of the programs involving college the enlistee must pass a mental examination as well as a physical. Only boys who will graduate before they are 17 years, 9 months old, are eligible for the college programs.

A meeting of the Senior boys with Principal Faris and Superintendent Johnson will be called in the near future for further explanation of this program.

PLANNED PROGRESS
1943
Rock Island

Each progressive step of the ROCK ISLAND LINES is part and parcel of the Program of Planned Progress inaugurated in 1937. Under this Program is a solid foundation of fine railroading tradition reaching back 92 years . . . to 1852 when the ROCK ISLAND LINES were established.

Only upon such a foundation could such a Program be built.

With fine modern equipment and 8000 miles of well-maintained right-of-way stretching through 14 middle western states, the war found this railroad system ready. It was equal to the kind of wartime job which is justifying America's patronage and admiration.

In 1944 . . . still keeping ahead of its war job . . . ROCK ISLAND introduced a fleet of powerful, fast Diesel freight locomotives and a fleet of the latest type steam freight locomotives. Preliminary installations of radio communication between dispatcher, engineers and freight conductors were made. Centralized train control — the miracle of modern railroading — was proved and further developed.

ROCK ISLAND is continuing to move onward and upward . . . still planning. With the coming of peace, you will find ROCK ISLAND ready for that glorious era, too.

As yesterday — and today — so tomorrow ROCK ISLAND'S sole purpose is to provide the finest in transportation

Broncos Will Oppose Forest City Friday

Lake Mills Won 7 to 0 Victory Last Week

Conference-leading Forest City Indians will furnish the opposition for a determined Bronco team on the local athletic field Friday night, October 20.

Although the visitors are favored to win on the basis of record, an upset is altogether probable and the Belmond players are determined to make the upset an actuality.

Coming out of the fiery encounter with Lake Mills last Friday without an injury, which gave the opponents a 7 to 0 victory, the local squad is in top physical condition. Practice this week will be largely devoted to passing drills and pass defense.

The Broncos showed a fine running attack against Lake Mills, piling up over a dozen first downs and plenty of yardage for scoring. However, they lacked a passing attack to supplement their running, and thus permitted Lake Mills to bolster their lines at crucial points of the game.

Forest City features a tricky pass offense that has clicked for seven touchdowns in the last three games. A back, Bartleon, and an end, Erdahl, alternate on the pitching and catching ends of the passing attack, much to the confusion of their opponents.

In conference competition to date, the Indians have scored 83 points against three opponents: Garner, Britt and Buffalo Center. Belmond's powerful line with Classick at center, Hanson and Rich Stockseth at guards, Art Stockseth and Tudor at tackles and Tidaback and Waddell at ends should stop the running attack of their opponents if they continue their aggressive style of the last three games.

It will be up to the backfield of Dorr, Proeger, Mickelson, Dempsey, Meints, Jones and Roshiem to cover the passes the Forest City players throw.

A special added feature for the entertainment of the fans will be a game, beginning at 7:00 p. m. between the Belmond junior high and the freshmen.

A large crowd of Forest City backers is expected Friday night, which, together with the splendid local support, is expected to set the attendance record of the 1944 season.

Officials will be Whitney of Garner, Hill of Meservey and McEwen of Kanawha.

Selective Service Reports New Inductees And New Registrants

Wright County Selective Service reports the list of new registrants for the month of September to include Lewis Davis Wampler and Everett Bernard Trausch of Clarion; Leland Dale Caquelin, Woolstock; Marshall Neilen Hake, Belmond; Robert Gene Brigger, Galt.

Those inducted into the armed services during late August and September are as follows:

Navy: Leroy Helmke, Eagle Grove; Robert Johnson, Clarion.

Army: Merlin Finn, Belmond; Joseph J. Barrett, Eugene L. Gaulke, Clarion, Wilmer L. Scheppler, Galt.

Californian Injured In Local Crash

Accident Occurred 2:00 A. M. Sunday

Sunday morning at 2:00 a. m. a Chevrolet Coupe owned by Bert Erickson of Kanawha, and driven by Morris Johnson of Belmond, collided with a 1938 V8 Ford Coupe owned and operated by Russell Amos, 28, of San Francisco, Calif.

Amos suffered cuts about the head and was taken to the Belmond Hospital for treatment. Erickson allegedly made a settlement of $500 for damages.

Johnson was fined $300 and costs Monday in District Court and was given 10 days in which to pay the fine. Erickson, riding in the car, was charged with intoxication in Justice of Peace Richards court and was fined $10 and costs.

Clarion Man Killed In Tractor Mishap

Paul Henry Was Active In Community And Civic Affairs

Paul Henry, 36, manager of the Clarion S. & M. Finance Co., was crushed to death late Monday afternoon, Oct. 9 at a gravel pit on the James Deimerly farm, southeast of Clarion, when a caterpillar tractor which he was driving tipped over an embankment and pinned him. His wife, seated in a car nearby, witnessed the accident.

Mr. Henry, who has been associated with the S & M Finance company for over 10 years, had gone to the Diemerly gravel pit three miles southeast of Clarion to get a caterpillar tractor he had rented for use on the farm he owned jointly with J. J. Eilers, north of Clarion. The exact cause of the accident cannot be definitely stated but it is believed that in driving the caterpillar into the pit it got too near the edge and toppled over the embankment into the pit pinning Mr. Henry beneath it, killing him instantly.

Mr. Henry was very active in community affairs and served as secretary of the Commercial Club in 1942 and resigned in the spring of 1943. He was also chairman of the Wright County War Finance committee and had worked on the last three war loan drives.

Besides Mrs. Henry, he is survived by two daughters, Joan, 15, and Patricia, nearly two; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Henry, a sister, Mrs. Clarence Mikelson of Clarion and a sister, Mrs. Dewey Kooy, who is with her husband, Chaplain Kooy at Camp Haan, California.

Funeral services were conducted Wednesday, Oct. 11 at the Church of Christ. Elden Chitwood officiated. Burial was in the new west addition of the Clarion Evergreen Cemetery.

Mr. and Mrs. Clair Dorr are the parents of a baby boy born Oct. 9.

Mayor's Proclamation

Friday, October 27 is "Navy Day"

Whereas, the United States Navy is fighting for freedom against the aggressors on the seven seas, and

Whereas, the United States Navy, resolutely acting jointly with its famed coordinated arms, the United States Marine Corps, the United States Naval Air Force, and the United States States Coast Guard, is battling heroically and with intrepidity on the seas, in the air, and on the land, to conclude the extension of the aggressors, and

Whereas, by national tradition, the debt the people of the United States owe their Navy for protection of their home- and is annually signified through the setting aside of one day to acclaim that branch of the armed forces.

Therefore, I, Ed Kennedy, Mayor of the City of Belmond, do hereby proclaim Friday, October twenty-seventh, ninteen hundred and forty-four, as "Navy-Day" and call upon all citizens of Belmond to take part in observance of this day through the many channels open to them and to join in a salute to the United States Navy and its coordinated sea power.

Whereof, I have set my hand this 5th day of October, nineteen hundred and forty-four.

ED KENNNEDY,
Mayor, City of Belmond.

4-H Leaders To Meet At Webster City

Will Discuss Wartime Needs of Youth

Wright County 4-H leaders of boys' and girls' clubs will meet October 20th at 10:00 a. m. at Webster City for a joint training school. Leaders and county extension staff members from Wright and three other counties also will attend.

Men and women leaders, in a joint session, will discuss the wartime needs of youth and ways 4-H club work may help to meet these needs. They will suggest the duties and rewards of adult leadership particularly in relation to building a postwar world.

The leaders will discuss activities to be sponsored jointly by Wright County's boys' and girls' 4-H club organizations. These will include community services, such as discussions, salvage drives, project exhibits, community programs and planned recreation. County banquets and parties will be featured in a recreational program.

In a separate meeting with women leaders, Mrs. Edith Barker, state 4-H girls' club leader, or Miss Esther Taskerud, assistant State 4-H girls' club leader) from Iowa State College, will discuss a full program for local and county 4-H clubs. The 4-H goal is to develop girls with poise and ability. A home economics project and equally important supplementary activities will be emphasized in the seasons of the year when they are most needed.

Boys' leaders, under the direction of (Edward Gabel, state 4-H boys' leader or G. A. Lineweaver, assistant state 4-H boys leader) from Iowa State College, will offer suggestions for conducting good local club meetings. The 1944-45 record book will be explained and specific local and county program activities will be presented in an open discussion.

Music is to be given special emphasis in this year's 4-H club program. Aaron R. Bowman, county extension director, suggests that local clubs purchase a new song book, which includes songs to be learned by 4-H club boys, girls and by adults this year.

Chamber of Commerce Met Tuesday Evening

Report Belmond Housing Project To Start In Near Future

Belmond Chamber of Commerce met on Tuesday evening at the City Hall for the discussion of several matters of business.

To conform with the by-laws of the National Chamber of Commerce, two more directors were elected, including Ed Kennedy and R. W. Courson. Other directors elected previously include B. C. Hewlett, George Hake and Dr. A. M. Larson.

The problems of scrap paper drives and the conserving of paper in Belmond were discussed. The group voted to cooperate with local merchants in urging shoppers to bring shopping bags to town with them, in order that the use of paper sacks and wrapping paper may be eliminated as much as possible by local merchants.

President C. C. Christie explained the work of the Federal Grain Inspector, A. B. Ostrand, who came to Belmond under the sponsorship of the Chamber of Commerce. He also told about the duties of Ray Klemme, who had recently been appointed Chamber of Commerce Traffic Manager and Chief Weighmaster.

Clark McNeal gave a report on the housing project for Belmond which had been approved several weeks ago by the Federal Housing Agency. Ten lots in the northeast part of town have been approved both by the F. H. A. and the contractor, F. B. Dickinson, of Des Moines, with construction to begin in the near future. According to the rules of the Federal Housing Committee, these homes are to be constructed for war essential workers.

ATTEND MEETING AT FORT DODGE

Special Edition!

Plans are underway in the office of the Belmond Independent for the publishing of a special edition to coincide with the formal opening of the General Mills Inc. soybean processing plant at Belmond around the middle of November.

It is the earnest desire of the publishers of the Independent to make this special edition a fine tribute to the new industrial plant located in Belmond on the part of the town and community. We are, therefore, inviting either individuals or business organizations in Belmond as well as other towns in this vicinity, to have a part and a place in the special issue, space for which should be reserved immediately.

National War Fund Drive Still Incomplete

There are still a few Block Wardens to be heard from on the National War Fund drive in Belmond. R. W. Courson, chairman of the drive, requests that all workers who have not turned in their lists should do so at the earliest possible date. He also states that anyone who was not solicited or was out of town when the worker called and wishes to make a contribution may do so by leaving his money at the office of the R. E. Courson Agency.

100 Miles on Horseback

Cover Distance in Three Days

Visitors at the H .F. Petersen home last week came a distance of 100 miles, and it took them nearly three days to get here.

Mrs. V. J. Ferguson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Petersen, and Mrs. John Jacobsen, left Marshalltown Monday morning, October 9, on horseback, and arrived in Belmond the following Wednesday afternoon at 2:30, having made overnight stops at Eldora and Hampton. Neither one would admit being tired, and substantiated their statements to that effect by going to Clear Lake to dance that same evening with their husbands, who also arrived by car from Marshalltown Wednesday afternoon together with the Ferguson's daughter, Sandra.

Avoiding paved highways on the trip, the ladies missed going through some of the towns on the usual route and consequently also missed satifying outdoor appetites at regular meal time, all of which they made up for after arriving at the parental Petersen home where a big feast had been prepared especially for the occasion

Both Mrs. Ferguson and Mrs Jacobsen are experienced horse women and said they would just as soon keep on riding for the rest of the week. However, they didn't decline the invitation of their husbands to ride back to Marshalltown in the car the next day, while the horses also had an easy trip in a trailer pulled along behind.

Anything From a Set of Spark Plugs To a "Major Operation"

Farmers Implement Co. is keeping customer service at the top of the list these days. And it will stay there when new machines are available again in quantity. We know it pays to give customer service "top billing" because of the dividends that come back in shop volume and customer good will.

More important, customer service helps keep tractors and farm equipment producing Food, Food and more Food....for Victory. Farmers Implement Co. is supplying expert service in a variety of ways. They're keeping their stocks of GENUINE PARTS complete and up-to-date. They are turning out all kinds of jobs and doing them well in spite of man power shortages...everything from a set of pistons to a "major operation." Our service shop is farm equipment maintenance headquarters for the battle of food.
